Attendance Down

All-Star Series May Be Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — In the wake of the disappointing 38,362 attendance at the second all-star baseball game at Yankee Stadium, major league players are expected to vote next week whether to cut back to one game in 1961.

The players asked for a second game last year and it was scheduled for Los Angeles about a month after the first game at Pittsburgh. This year games were played at Kansas City Monday and New York Wednesday.

Commissioner Ford Frick said he would be guided by the players' wishes, adding "They are the group that benefits the most and also the group that has to do the hard work."

The TV fee of $250,000 for each game and the game receipts go into a central fund. The player pension fund gets 60 per cent, the owners get 40 per cent.

Harvey Kuenn of Cleveland, American League player representative, said he was going to contact Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, National League representative, and Frank Scott, representative of the Major League Baseball Players Assn., and ask for a vote right away.

"The pension fund is a good cause," Kuenn said, "but I think we can do without the second game and help ourselves more. We'll pay off the pension with only one game, even if it takes a year or so more.

If only one game is played next year, it will be played in San Francisco at a date to be determined. The players could decide to retain the two games but revert to the 1959 plan of playing the second a month after the first.

Cobourg Downs Trenton 6-2 For Fifth Loss

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Cobourg Merchants sent Trenton Halloran's crashing down to their third straight defeat in a B. and D. fixture in Trenton last night, downing the slipping VW's 6-2.

The Merchants got starring performances from Gary Goyer and Jim "Sleepy" Dawe, the latter returning to the lineup after more than a month's absence.

Goyer drove in three runs, hammered a two-run homer and two singles and was robbed of another hit. Dawe pitched seven-hit ball, while striking out ten and walking five.

Trenton held a brief 2-1 lead until the fourth when Cobourg scored twice on a walk, Goyer's single, a wild pitch and McGahan's base hit. Hits by Goyer, McGahan and Harrison figured in another run in the sixth while Kingston doubled and Goyer homered in the ninth.

O'Brien's single, Kingston's double and Goyer's fly scored one back in the first. Goyer was robbed of a hit, the ball being trapped by Mitts in left field. Base umpire McGaughey ruled that it was caught.

Trenton tied it 1-1 on a walk, a single by Drake and an error. Halloran's went ahead 2-1 on a walk and infield hits by Mitts and Wickson in the third.

Ron "Chief" Wannamaker took the loss, tagged for 13 hits over the route. He struck out one and walked three.

Backing Goyer in the hit department were "Chuck" Kingston with a brace of doubles, Claude Carr and Rex McGahan with two singles apiece. Leo O'Brien, Dawe, Mike Harrison and Bill Weber added singles.

Roger Drake, with three infield singles in five trips, topped the losers. Howie Cole, in a pinch-hit role, Ralph Defosse, Harry Wickson and Billy Mitts had one single each.

No War Between Grid Leagues, Says Official

NEW YORK (AP)—There is no war between the National and American Football Leagues, says NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, but there isn't much harmony either.

Speaking at an open house marking the return of the NFL headquarters to New York after a 14-year stay in Philadelphia, Rozelle said Thursday:

"It takes two to make a war and technically there still is only one league. We of the National League will welcome the competition from the new American League but we are too busy preparing for another season of the best there is in football to concern ourselves with what they are doing."

Rozelle said he and Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, held a three-hour conference in St. Louis some time ago at which "I thought we had reached an agreement to respect the contracts and options involving players."

"The AFL hasn't shown that respect, as promised, and we will have to defend ourselves," he said.

Rozelle said the AFL, which plays its first schedule this fall, had come a long way in one summer and congratulated it on its league-package TV deal. All eight clubs will share alike in this revenue. In the NFL each club makes its own TV deal.

Pro Agreement Ratified

Kitchener Seniors Want To Operate

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener Memorial Auditorium Commission Thursday ratified an agreement with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League under which Rangers will operate an Eastern Professional League club here.

Final approval was expected at an EPHL meeting in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., today.

The commission also announced it is willing to consider a bid by a group hoping to operate Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Series this year. The Dutchmen announced last week they were suspending operations temporarily because of financial difficulties.

However, some players said Thursday they would like to run the team. Spearheading the move is Jack McMaster, former Kitchener left winger forced to quit hockey after being injured in a game at Sudbury two years ago.

The commission said it is willing to help keep Senior A hockey in Kitchener but that the EPHL team has been given preferred playing dates.

20 PLAYERS IN GROUP

A letter from McMaster to the commission said 20 players with senior experience, most of whom who had played for Dutchmen, are ready to play for a revived Senior A team.

McMaster said the players hope to get equipment from the Dutchmen executive and that a new executive will be announced following a players' meeting in the next few days.

Michael Walters, a commis- to make up its mind between a definite offer from the Rangers and "this last-minute vague proposal." He said the letter appeared to be "an eleventh-hour proposal to prevent a professional hockey team from playing here."

It was decided to rent the building to the professionals for $800 nightly for 36 league games, up to a maximum of $165,000 gross. After that the gates will be split on the basis of 10 per cent to the club, $175 to the auditorium and a 75-25 division of the remainder.

Minor Baseball

The Indians scored all their runs in two innings last night as they registered a 9-7 victory over the Braves in Bantam baseball action.

Farrell hurled three-hit ball and struck out eight on the Indian hilltop.

Lancaster gave up eight hits while whiffing six for the Braves.

Gray led the winners' attack with a triple and single while McCabe doubled and singled. Other hits went to Pursey, Bunnett, Harder and Farrell.

American Leads Ocean Race

The New York Times said reports were received by a ham radio operator on five of the 16 yachts believed remaining in the race. The reports were from Jacob Isbrandtsen's 48-foot yawl Windrose, one of the competitors.

Escapade, the scratch boat, was said to be some 790 miles from the finish line at noon Wednesday. Behind her in order were Pierre S. du Pont 3rd's Barlovento II, Hans Howaldt's Germania, Thomas J. Watson, Jr.'s Palawan and Windrose. Barlovento II and the Germania were said to be some 1,050 miles from the finish, Palawan 1,170 and Windrose about 1,200.

Fabulous Boston Tar Baby Only Man He Ever Feared Says Dempsey in Life Story

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—What Jack Dempsey says about Sam Langford must be causing the magnificent Negro to emit his happy "Ho Ho" in the corner of heaven reserved for dauntless old gladiators with cauliflower ears, flat noses and flatter purses.

Ol' Sam, says Dempsey, was the only man he ever feared—and that's indeed a unique compliment from the former world heavyweight champ whose own ring ferocity is famed.

Remember that Langford stood only five feet 6½ inches and it took years for him to reach a fighting weight of 165 pounds, when he was eager to tackle men of any size.

William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey's words about Sam are chronicled in his new book, entitled simply Dempsey, the story of his life as told to New York reporters Bob Considine and Bill Slocum. Dempsey does some debunking:

". . . I was small as heavy weights go and usually fought giants, so they called me 'Jack the giant killer.' They said I feared no man.

"The hell I feared no man There was one man — he was even smaller than I—I wouldn't fight because I knew he would flatten me. I was afraid of Sam Langford."

NO BITTERNESS

While this could be grounds for bitterness for Langford, the chances are that if he were alive he would chuckle from his enormous chest because his humor—and his characteristic Ho Ho—were as robust as his stunning punch. Blind and aged, he once told a reporter in his squalid dwelling place:

"Don't nobody need to feel sorry for ol' Sam. I had me plenty of good times. I been all over the world. I fought maybe three, four hundred fights and every one was a pleasure. If I just had me a little change in my pocket, I'd get along fine."

Possibly Sam Langford wasn't the greatest fighter who ever lived but many experts have placed the Boston Tar Baby, born in Weymouth, N.S., in a class by himself. He died Jan. 12, 1956, in a Cambridge, Mass., nursing home at the age of 72 after being elected to boxing's Hall of Fame.

Dempsey wasn't the only champion to dodge Langford and in those days, and with the color line still sharply drawn, they could get away with it. There was no public demand that he be given a shot at the title. It could have been any title from welterweight up because while 165 was Sam's top fighting weight he often went in at much less.

LIGHTNING FAST

Frequently giving away 40 or 50 pounds to towering opponents, Langford had massive shoulders and exceedingly long arms, carrying his weight all on top. His footwork was superb—as one writer put it, "his reflexes were just a little faster than instantaneous."

Versions differ on why Sam left Nova Scotia but there's no doubt he was welcomed there with great gusto on visits after achieving fame. At 17, then a lightweight, he beat Joe Gans, one of the most famous boxers of the day.

At 20, weighing 148, he fought Jack Johnson, who weighed 194 and was then at the peak of his form, soon to become heavyweight champ. In the sixth, Johnson toppled Sam but in the ninth round positions were reversed and at the end of 15 rounds Johnson was happy to leave the ring with a close decision.

PUBLIC CHALLENGES

From then on nothing would induce Johnson, also a Negro, to fight the Nova Scotian, although the story goes that Sam often badgered him in restaurants and other public places, challenging him to a new duel.

Because nearly everybody ran, Sam was forced to take on the same opponents time and again. He battled Harry Wills no less than 23 times. Sam McVey was a rival 14 times.

Many of his contests were in small arenas around the world and once in awhile you still come across some old-timer who will say, "I saw Sam Langford fight."

Dempsey was on the way up when he sidestepped Langford but the Tar Baby's name keeps cropping up in his book and it almost seems as though Jack measured opponents against Langford.

Telling about his figuring before taking on—and defeating—Fred Fulton, No. 1 challenger for the crown then held by Jess Willard, Dempsey says: "He had fought them all, and had beaten Langford."

Later, Dempsey gives thanks for the rewards boxing brought him, adding: "I keep thinking of the good ones who wound up with nothing, except maybe clippings. Like Langford . . ."

Dempsey speaks bitterly of a broadway gambler named John the Barber, his one-time manager who also handled Langford's affairs and tried to arrange matches between the two.

BLIND, STARVING

Actually Laney found Langford in New York's Harlem and wrote a story that brought donations pouring in, enabling his newspaper to establish a trust fund and send the blind old battler to the nursing home where he lived out his years.

Sam, they say, was more than half blind even before he stopped fighting. He confirmed this after a bout in Mexico in 1918 when he was 34. He beat Battling Savage but said later:

"I dunno where I hit him. All I know is that he jabbed me twice. And then I was champeen of Mexico."

The records show that Langford fought nearly 650 times—not 300 or 400 as he himself recalled—and he retained a sort of grim humor through it all.

He once touched gloves with an opponent and the man then commented it wasn't the final round.

"Oh yes it is," said Sam, promptly knocking the fighter bowlegged.

"I sure fooled them. I fought seven years before they found out I couldn't see."

The International baseball league returns to Jersey City tonight for the first time in 10 years when the newly-acquired Jersey City entry meets Columbus at Roosevelt Stadium.

Ten years ago the Jersey City Giants moved to Springfield, Mass., and with the exception of 1957 when the erstwhile Brooklyn Dodgers played a few games here, the town has been without a team.

But the political situation in Cuba forced the IL last week to move the Havana franchise to Jersey City where it will remain for at least the remainder of the season.

Jersey City, which beat Miami 7-3 Thursday night before heading north, will send Howie Nunn (5-1) against the Jets' Al Jackson (5-8).

BUFFALO EDGED TORONTO

In the only other IL games, Buffalo edged league-leading Toronto 2-1 and Montreal defeated Rochester 4-2.

Borrego Alvarez' three-run homer and Jim Pendleton's solo shot hung the Miami loss on Wes Stock. Dick Brown hit a two-run homer and later added a bases empty shot for the Marlins, while Octavio Rojas hit a three-run blast off Miami reliever John Anderson.

Fred Hopke scored the first Buffalo run on Joe Lonnett's single that hit the third base bag and bounded into left field, then drove in the second run with a single. Bob Smith (6-0) was the winner and Steve Ridzik lost his fifth against nine victories.

Rookie Ron Perranoski allowed Rochester only four hits and struck out nine for Montreal to get his fifth win in 11 decisions. A walk, hit batsman, two errors and Ron Graber's double accounted for three Montreal runs in the sixth off loser Dick Ricketts (6-9). Gene Oliver socked a two-run homer for the Red Wings.

Italy Takes Davis Cup Lead

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Italy's experienced tennis pair, Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, shot into a 2-0 lead over Britain Thursday and put Italy on the brink of the European zone final of the Davis Cup.

Pietrangeli defeated Bobby Wilson, 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5. Sirola bested Mike Davies, 9-7, 7-5, 1-6, 2-6, 6-4.

The Italian stars need to win only their doubles match against Wilson and Davies today or one of the last two singles matches to qualify for the European zone final for the fifth time in six years.

Select 10-Member Olympics Swim Team

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Eastern men and western women dominate the 10-member swimming and diving team to represent Canada at the Olympic Games starting in Rome next month.

Five men and five women were selected today following the three-day open Canadian swimming and diving championships at suburban Fort Garry pool.

The team: Swimmers Cameron Grout, Richard Pound, Steve Rabinovitch, all of Montreal, Bob Wheaton of Victoria, Sara Barber of Brantford and Marg Iwasaki, Judy McHale and Mary Stewart, all of Vancouver, and Canadian diving champions Ernie Meissner of Kitchener and Irene MacDonald of Kelowna, B.C. Alternates are swimmers Tom Verth of Toronto and Katy Campbell of Vancouver. Coach is John Faulkner of the University of Western Ontario, London.

A spokesman from the seven-man selection committee indicated the team members must keep in top shape between now and the games or the alternates will be used. He said the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association will review the athletes for condition three weeks before sailing time for Italy.

There were few surprises in the selections. Grout, 18, was expected to be the No. 1 choice as he emerged the individual star of the meet with four victories. He established native records in finals of the 200-metre freestyle, 400-metre individual medley and 200-metre butterfly. Grout also set a record in his heat in the 100-metre butterfly and went on to win the final.

Seventeen records were broken at the championships, five Thursday night.

Grout knocked more than 14 seconds off his own mark in the 200-metre butterfly as he got home in 2:20.2.

Miss Barber finished almost a length of the 25-metre pool ahead of Lynn Scott of Toronto to take the women's 200-metre backstroke in 2:42.6, but she was about two seconds off her own Canadian record. Earlier she captured the 400-metre individual medley, 200-metre freestyle and 100-metre backstroke.

Other record-smashers on the final night were Wheaton, Bob Pratt of Toronto, Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., and the Quebec section team in the 400-metre men's freestyle relay.

Toronto's Bob Fisher pushed Wheaton in the men's 200-metre backstroke final. Both cracked the old mark of 2:30.7, with Wheaton in front in 2:26.6. Fisher's time was 2:27.7.

Pratt pared 14 seconds off the record for the boys' 11 and 12 years 100-metre breaststroke as he was timed in 1:24.2.

Gilchrist swam the 100-metre backstroke for boys 13 and 14 years in 1:15.9, one-tenth second better than the old Canadian mark.

New English Summer Festival Inspired by Kitchener Man

By JUDITH AYER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sandy Black, 25, a native of Kitchener, Ont., has organized a summer arts festival in Ludlow, Shropshire, in England, that plays in a unique setting—the ruins of an ancient castle. Last year he helped in the production of Masque of Comus, which first played at the Ludlow castle in 1634. This year the major attraction was Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream. Mr. Black started his theatrical career in Canada, went to London, England, at 19 for a two-year course in dramatic art and returned again last year on a Canada Council scholarship, taking the Ludlow job on his arrival. —(CP Photo).

His efforts have inspired the people of Ludlow, Shropshire, to organize a permanent summer festival of the arts. They hope to make their town an arts centre for the West of England and Wales.

Black helped with the production of Milton's Masque of Comus, staged last year to help raise funds for restoring the parish church. He stayed on in Ludlow to see what the possibilities were of continuing the idea of summer production even though the church by then had all the money it needed.

In June this year the Ludlow Festival Society was formed. Drama,, visual arts, music and Morris dancing were offered during the 10-day festival beginnng July 6.

Focal point of the festivities is the 900-year-old Ludlow Castle, within whose walls the Masque of Comus was first played in 1634.

"I thought it was a shame not to make use of such an impressive natural local setting," said Black.

The castle is in ruins with little more than the walls remaining. Its owner, Lord Powis, gave permission for what remains to be used for the festival. The major attraction, staged in the Inner Bailey, was an open-air production of A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Black was stage director of the production and played a major part in management of the festival generally.

Black started his theatrical career in Canada with an amateur group. He came to London at 19 for a two-year course in dramatic art and was subsequently awarded a Canadian government overseas scholarship to study direction under Michel Saint-Denis in Strasbourg.

While on the Continent he acquired experience in lighting and stage management.

He returned to Canada in 1958 and for a time was guest director for the Little Theatre in Woodstock, Ont. Not satisfied with the opportunities at home, he returned to England last year on a Canada Council scholarship and took on the Ludlow job.

"Ludlow is very close to my heart," he said. But he adds that he would like to return to Canada "when I can make a positive, definite contribution to Canadian theatre and when I can command the respect and finances necessary to do so."

Open Davis Cup Round Today

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Canada and the United States meet in the first two singles matches of their North American Davis Cup tie today with both team captains confident their country can win.

"I'll say we'll win it 4-1," said U.S. captain Davis Freed on the eve of the best-of-five series on the clay court of the Civil Employees Tennis Club.

Lorne Main, now-playing Canadian captain, said Canada had an excellent chance. "I'll be satisfied with a 3-2 win," he said.

The matches were to get under way at 2 p.m.

Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, 33, Dallas, Tex., southpaw, opposes Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., who at 28 is Canada's top player, in the first match. Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Don Fontana of Toronto meet in the second.

OTHER MATCHES

A doubles match is scheduled Saturday and two other singles matches Sunday.

The Americans, who have reached the Davis Cup challenge round every year since 1938, are considered strong favorites. They have never lost a cup tie to Canada.

Freed said the U.S. "got the break" in Thursday's draw and figures his team will take today's two opening matches. "We'll wait and see what happens after that, but I think the Canadians will win one," he said.

Main said Canada's chances will depend on the first match between Bedard and Bartzen, two veterans who excel on clay courts.

EXPLAINS REASONING

"Our best bet lies with Bob in the first match," he said. "If he wins the pressure will be on MacKay in the second."

Fontana beat U.S. team member Earl Buchholz 6-4 in an exhibition set Thursday. Buchholz, considered a top prospect at 19, was passed up for the opening singles because Freed said an old ankle injury was "still tender and not completely well."

Buchholz, however, may team with Charles McKinley, 19, in Saturday's doubles. Freed was also considering sending Bartzen and MacKay in the doubles. Canada's likely starters are Bedard and Fontana.

If the round is undecided by Sunday, the draw for the last two singles will be in the inverse order of today's.

Little of Movie Camaraderie On TV Lot, Says Robt. Taylor

By ROBERT TAYLOR
Written for The Associated Press

Don't get me wrong—I make no claims to beipg an expert at anything. Least of all do I claim to know all there is to know about acting, motion pictures, or television.

However, after 25 years of motion pictures—and one year of television—and since I've been "invited," I don't feel that I'm sticking my neck out too far in delivering a few personally collected opinions—or maybe they are only observations. Anyway, here they are, for what they're worth.

In TV, I've learned, there's little of the camaraderie that springs up on a movie set. With the leisurely tempo of making a motion picture, you get to know everyone in the cast and crew over a period of several weeks.

In TV, you arrive on the stage around 8 a.m.; you're shooting your first scene a few minutes later. There's not a dawdler in sight, and you're lucky if anyone takes time out to introduce you or anyone else to anybody. In one of my recent "detectives" shows I worked through three important scenes with one young fellow before I suddenly realized I didn't know who he was.

I finally got around to introducing myself and discovered I'd made a couple of pictures for his father, a former producer at MGM, when this young man was only a lad. There wasn't any time to get nostalgic, though. Come to think of it, that's okay, too.

That's the way it goes in TV. You have three days of shooting for a half-hour show. That isn't easy. The "schedule" is "king"—the all-important concern of all those on the set. Such social amenities as introductions get kicked way down to the end of the day's long list of what must get done.

A year ago, I waded, easy-like, to TV thinking: "What," I mused, "can I lose by getting my feet wet?" After 36 shows, however, I'm in it up to my neck—not wading any more.

Television is an exciting business; I love it. I like the staccato tempo of the work and the efficiency with which it's done. I also love making motion pictures and hope to do a few more before they decide to put me out to pasture.

but Belgian officials said only the additional men sent since trouble broke out would be pulled out of the country. The rest, they said, would be pulled back to the bases retained by Belgium after the Congo was given independence.

The Congolese government of President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba meanwhile faced a renewed threat from the rich province of Katanga, whose provincial assembly Wednesday night approved secession from the central government and demanded recognition of "all free world countries" as an independent territory.

Provincial President - Premier United Nations that the UN force being sent to the Congo would not be admitted to Katanga. He cabled UN headquarters in New York that all was quiet in the province with the aid of Belgian troops and invited Bunche to visit Katanga and see for himself how peaceful things are there.

There was mounting speculation that Lumumba's government was split between a moderate group, led by Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko and favoring closer collaboration with the Belgians, and extremists led by Lumumba, demanding a full break with the former colonial ruler.

BROKE OFF RELATIONS

Bomboko tried to intercept Lumumba on his way into Leopoldville from the airport, but the premier told the bus driver not to admit Bomboko.

Lumumba sent a cable to Brussels Wednesday breaking off diplomatic relations with Belgium, but the chief of the Congo cabinet in Leopoldville later declared the break was not valid, "having failed to be properly deliberated by the government as a body."

The flight of Europeans from the Congo continued. More than 3,000 refugees arrived Wednesday in Brussels in 28 planes.

The Belgian radio said the white population of Kimpese, about 60 miles from Leopoldville, had been taken away to the jungle by mutinous troops. Belgian paratroops were preparing to move into the area to take up the search for the missing European colony.

FIRST ROUNDUP

The first general cattle roundup on the ranges of southwestern Alberta is believed to have been held in 1881.

U.S. Switching To Tough Policy Towards Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, under heavy Soviet pounding, has largely abandoned its post-summit policy of seeking business-like negotiations with Moscow and is switching to a get-tough strategy of its own.

Evidence of this change is becoming apparent. It will be fully developed at the United Nations next week when the U.S. and Russia join battle over charges and counter charges of threats to world peace.

State Secretary Herter and his aides are reported to be preparing a massive verbal assault on Premier Khrushchev's activities since the abortive summit conference at Paris two months ago.

President Eisenhower is described by officials here as fed up with Khrushchev's incessant campaign of accusations against the U.S. He apparently feels that Khrushchev's hostile policy leaves no recourse except to strike back hard.

TOUGH NEW MOVES

Two moves by the state department Thursday reflected the developing new tough line. The department announced a note to Moscow calling off indefinitely negotiations scheduled for next Monday on an air transport agreement.

This step was blamed on "recent Soviet actions and utterances" which, the department said, have poisoned the atmosphere for negotiation.

The department issued a new warning to Khrushchev to keep his hands off Latin American countries, particularly Cuba. It denounced him for claiming that the 137-year-old Monroe Doctrine of "America for Americans" is out of date and for trying to scuttle the U.S.-Cuban treaty covering the American naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

The question has arisen here whether the negotiations among the United States, Britain and Russia on a treaty barring nuclear weapons tests will be continued at Geneva.

WON'T BREAK OFF

State department officials said Washington has no intention of breaking off the nuclear test conference and they doubt that Moscow will do so. This negotiation, therefore, stands as the only important exception to the general collapse of East-West diplomacy.

Many European Papers Like Sen. Kennedy

LONDON (Reuters) — Senator John Kennedy won the backing of many European newspapers Thursday following his winning the Democratic party's presidential nomination.

In the Vatican Roman Catholic officials expressed interest in fellow-Catholic Kennedy's nomination but most hastened to point out that his selection by delegates was on political, not religious, grounds.

Typical of London newspaper headlines of the victory were "O.K. for Kennedy" and "Jack's alright."

Many newspapers here and abroad noted Kennedy's youth and the fact that the party elders had been trampled underfoot. Most agreed this was a good sign.

Moscow radio said Kennedy favors continuing "the arms race" but has condemned "the adventurist policy of Washington" and called for an American foreign policy revision.

FRANKFORD

Frankford Is Newest Member Quinte High School District

FRANKFORD — Subject to approval of the Minister of Education, Frankford is now a member of the Bay of Quinte High School District, effective January 1, 1961, it was announced Monday evening at the meeting of Frankford council.

Correspondence from A. H. Richardson, chief conservation engineer, was tabled, stating that a meeting will be called within five weeks of the municipalities along the lower Trent River to decide jurisdiction over different parts of the river.

Approved for payment were two bills in the amount of $20.50 dealing with refreshments provided by private citizens to firemen during the Rose and Dafoe fires.

In a general discussion on the problem of garbage collection, Reeve Rose suggested that one member of the council be appointed to meet with Mr. Brown with the view to improving the services. Some councillors were in disagreement, however, and thought that the agent should appear before the council on the matter. Reeve Willmott Rose stated that he had received an alarming number of complaints regarding trash not being picked up on the regular rounds and careless handling of garbage. cans and receptacles Some Frankford residents have been forced to personally deliver their trash to the dump.

Two deputations were received regarding drainage ditches and suggested improvements which could be made to the present facilities. Council agreed to study the matter and take action where possible.

At this point council received Mr. Lewis, the auditor, and a general discussion was held regarding the state of the municipality's finances. One problem discussed to some length was the payment to be made during 1961 for high school education for Frankford students.

As the town is now a member of the high school district they must pay 1961 fees to Belleville by December 15, 1961. Five days later, on December 20th, the town must pay in arrears education fees to the county. This means a double rate for the town in 1961.

A suggestion that the town budget for the fees during 1960 was deemed impractical, as any surplus built up might be spent on other necessities by a new council. It was generally decided that money would have to be raised during 1961.

UN To Speed Many Troops To Troubled Congo

African Units Move Into Leopoldville

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Dag Hammarskjold hopes t. speed 6,000 troops to the troubled Congo within the next two weeks and keep them there for nine or ten months until order is restored.

This was reported today by diplomatic sources as the UN secretary-general and administrative aides moved with speed and urgency as they did in 1956 to dispatch a hastily organized emergency force to the Middle East after the Suez crisis.

African units began moving into the Congolese capital of Leopoldville Friday aboard U.S. planes, only a day after the security council gave Hammarskjold a go-ahead to set up the force.

Diplomats reported Hammarskjold plans to send in about 4,000 troops by the end of next week and another 2,000 by the end of the month. Most are to be Africans. They gave this breakdown:

Hammarskjold acted to establish clear UN authority after the British commander of Ghana's forces, Maj.-Gen. Henry T. Alexander, took it upon himself to stop a street riot in Leopoldville, where Bunche is Hammarskjold's contact with the Congolese government.

Alexander, who was loaned to Ghana after the British gave the country independence, had travelled to Leopoldville with his troops. Ghana's UN delegation said Alexander will stay for the time being and make "preliminary studies of the military situation so as to be in a position to assist the UN forces as soon as they arrive."

The secretary-general cabled Bunche to take command of the force until the arrival of its UN military commander, Maj.-Gen. Carl Von Horn, a Swede. Von Horn is due Sunday night.

Three Canadian army officers—Lt.-Col. J. A. Berthiaume, 44, of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec; Major H. W. King, 40, of Victoria, and Major J. H. B. George, 45, of Edmonton, are to assist in administrative affairs.

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Belgian troops ignored Premier Patrice Lumumba's ultimatum to clear out of this former Belgian territory by 6 a.m. today.

As the deadline passed, no Belgian soldier had left the Congo. Troops of the United Nations emergency force, recruited from African nations to help restore order, were arriving by plane.

(The Belgian radio reported two Europeans were killed Friday night in clashes with Africans, but it gave no details on the extent of the clashes.)

The Belgian Embassy was still functioning in Leopoldville, despite Lumumba's repeated declarations that his government has broken diplomatic relations with Brussels.

The Belgian government apparently is waiting out the situation. Officials feel that once things simmer down in the Congo and their troops are replaced by UN forces, relations will improve slowly.

The Belgians insisted privately they would keep their troops in the Congo under their "friendship" treaty with the new state until the safety of the 75,000 remaining Europeans is guaranteed.

CALL FOR "WAR"

Lumumba made an angry speech to the Chamber of Deputies Friday night and swept its members up in a current of nationalism. As the premier spoke, there were shouts from members: "Declare war."

The African leader demanded that the Begian government accept his severance of diplomatic relations and pull out all its troops. He called the Belgians "snakes" and said they were trying to steal back the independence granted his country only two weeks ago.

Maj.-Gen. Henry T. Alexander, British commander of Ghana's army, worked out a makeshift truce between the Belgian and Congolese forces.

The death of a Congolese boy touched off a near riot. His body was found in a Leopoldville street, and a crowd charged that his Belgian employer had shot him when he came to collect his wages. The crowd hacked at the locked door of the Belgian's store. Belgian troops moved in.

Then Ralph J. Bunche, UN secretary here to advise the government, drove through the crowd and tried to calm it. He failed.

Alexander arrived with only 10 men to back him up. He posted Congolese police on the street and quelled the disturbance.

78 Complaints, Only 4 Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Charges have been laid in only four of 78 complaints filed since Ontario's Fair Accommodation Practices Act was passed in 1954, N.J. Nutland, administrator of the act, said Friday.

He said the policy of his branch of the labor department was "persuasion" with resort and restaurant owners against whom complaints have been registered alleging discrimination.

Charges have been considered only when there have been repeated complaints. "People who have been turned away from resorts never return again", Mr. Nutland said.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Cold air from Hudson Bay has been driven southward, to the shore of Lake Superior by an intense storm in northern Quebec.

However, much of the push in the cold air mass has subsided, and there is now little chance of any serious cooling occurring in the lower lakes over the weekend.

Sunny, warm weather will be the bill of fare across the lower lakes today.

Stratford-on-Avon Drama Critic Is Thrilled by Canadian Festival

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, Eng. (CP) — Drama critic Edmund Gardner says the Stratford Shakespearean Festival "must be one of the boldest and most startling theatrical adventures of our time."

Writing in The Herald on his return from the opening performances of the Canadian festival he said:

"The words thrilling, exciting, powerful . . . mean little these days. But when one applies them to this incredible Stratford adventure, they must be used in their ultimate sense."

In his lengthy article, written for readers in this town where the bard himself once lived, he finds little time for criticism, and when he does criticize various aspects of the Ontario theatre he invariably tempers them.

"The acting may not always be as polished as can be seen elsewhere, but somehow there is an alert freshness, an inventiveness, a new approach which is headly stimulating to one who thinks in these terms.

"There is also a professionalism which impregnates the company and staff, putting them on a level which is way above normal standards."

He was particularly captivated by Michael Langham's production of Romeo and Juliet. He called Bruno Gerussi's performance as Romeo "fascinating" but felt there was a hint of "schoolroom rum-ti-tum" in his handling of Shakespeare's verse.

The three-sided, seven - level stage had its failings and its pitfalls, but it was a theatre designed for classical performances and as such was more suitable than any other building of which he knew.

"For instance, in King John, John gnaws on a chicken leg, and then seems to throw it, not off the stage . . . but almost into the audience itself.

"At the Battle of Angiers . . . bodies roll down the stage steps, falling and groaning at gold-slippered feet, or brushing against evening trousers."

Audiences at the Stratford in England were used to magnificence in costumes, but the Canadian theatre managed to have more, he said.

PEARSON, ARGUE ASSAIL CANADA'S FOREIGN POLICY

Both Tee off on Ike For Addiction to Golf

OTTAWA (CP) — With a little imagination, you could almost see a golf bag hovering over the Commons chamber Friday — a presidential golf bag.

President Eisenhower was an unseen presence at a wide-ranging external affairs debate which produced stinging attacks on the United States leadership as well as on Canada's.

Opposition Leader Pearson teed off on Mr. Eisenhower for indulging in golf at a time when the Western world looked to Washington for "strong, consistent, steady, determined and persistent leadership."

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue also got into the act, slicing at the president while contending that Canada is without an independent foreign policy. The country's foreign policy, he maintained, has been "tucked inside President Eisenhower's golf bag."

"Our policy contains too much of puff, guff and bluff and too little of real substance," said Mr. Argue.

DISMISSES CLAIM

External Affairs Minister Green, replying later, dismissed Mr. Argue's assertion by saying: "I do not believe many people would take the hon. member too seriously when he makes that statement."

The debate was tied to House consideration of external affairs spending estimates totalling $83,764,000 for the fiscal year 1960-61. The estimates were later approved.

Mr. Pearson said that "a really effective, steady and continuous direction of policy in Washington" was needed in the light of serious deterioration in the international climate.

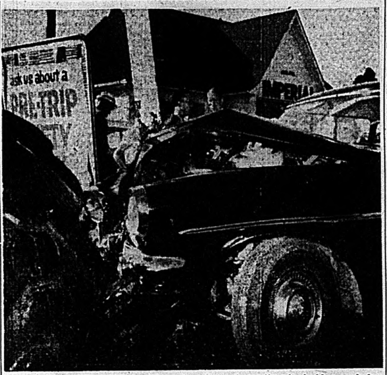
Hit Cellar If Tornado Comes Along

TORONTO (CP)—Although apparently becoming more frequent tornadoes are posing no more than the usual danger to Southern Ontario.

Keith McLeod, superintendent of the public weather services here, says Southern Ontario, Quebec and the Prairies have always been in Canada's tornado belt.

However, expanded weather communications have made the storms seem to occur more frequently, he says.

In case one does come by, Mr. McLeod suggests a fast trip to the cellar or shelter in the southwest corner of a building as tornadoes usually travel northeastward.



THREE LIVES LOST — Above is the car driven by Mrs. Blanche Bibby of Brighton, which crashed into a metal light standard at Trenton yesterday afternoon after striking Peter Messervy, age 20, of Trenton, who was instantly killed. Mrs. Bibby was dead after the accident and is reported to have been slumped over the wheel of her car before it. She may have suffered a heart seizure. Ironically, Peter Messervy was thrown over the "Pre-Trip Safety Check" sign, which can be seen in the picture. Miss Rose Strong of Brighton, one of two persons injured, died later in the evening.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's top legal organization says that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's bill of rights will cause Canadian courts a lot of work.

A brief submitted to a special Commons committee Friday by the Canadian Bar Association said the bill will introduce many uncertainties into Canadian law which will have to be settled by the courts.

Sections of the bill on fundamental rights and human freedoms will be raised as a defence in court cases once the legislation becomes law, said Donald McInnes of Halifax, association vice-president.

The bill raises uncertainties, he said, because it is not known yet to what extent it modifies existing law. A key question was whether Parliament or provincial legislatures may deal directly with human rights and fundamental freedoms "and, if either or both may, the extent to which such power may be exercised."

Such uncertainties and many other questions must be decided by the courts if the bill is enacted in its present form, he said.

"There will be great latitude for judicial lawmaking. Lawyers generally oppose granting wide discretion to those who must apply the law, even the granting of discretion to our judiciary, for which we have the highest regard."

Enactment of the bill in its present form should be accompanied by a thorough review of existing legislation to amend those laws which conflict with the bill of rights. This would restore certainty to the law and help the courts in applying the provisions of the bill.

While the bill has limits, Mr. McInnes said, many members of the bar association see merit in a measure of this type at this stage in Canada's constitutional development. It would strengthen the hand of the judiciary in preventing unwarranted encroachments upon rights and liberties.

Mr. McInnes said the association agrees that human rights and fundamental freedoms must be protected. However, members disagreed on whether this should be by a statute—as proposed by the government — or an amendment to the constitution—as proposed by the opposition in the commons.

The association felt that the federal statute put forward by the government would undoubtedly be of educational value. It might provide leadership in the development of better measures for securing rights and freedoms and would invite debate when departures from its terms were detected.

During Friday's hearing the bill was endorsed as an interim measure, pending a federal-provincial agreement to enshrine human rights in the constitution, by the Canadian Jewish Congress and the Seventh - Day Adventist Church in Canada.

A brief filed by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce also supported the bill. However, the chamber urged insertion of a clause banning the closed shop arrangement — where a worker must belong to a trade union to work in a particular job.

The chamber said the right of a person to earn a livelihood at a vocation of his own choice should be an unencumbered, unqualified freedom. This would not be a threat to the trade union movement.

Defendant in Divorce Case Says Adultery Story Faked

OTTAWA (CP)—A defendant in a parliamentary divorce case now is willing to tell a Commons committee that the whole story of his alleged adultery is a fake, Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena) said Friday.

Mr. Howard, one of the two CCF MPs conducting a filibuster in the Commons aimed at ridding Parliament of handling divorces, said in an interview that the bill in question—already passed by the Senate and all but passed by the Commons—probably will be reviewed by a committee of the lower house Wednesday.

The bill was passed by the Commons private bills committee and sent to the Commons for final approval Tuesday. But Mr. Howard said that before it could be put on the Commons order paper, Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax), chairman of the House committee, was informed of the circumstances behind it. He said Mr. McCleave immediately had the bill withheld from the agenda and sent it back to committee for further study.

In a copyrighted story in the Toronto Star and the Ottawa Citizen Friday, Mr. Eccles, a Toronto journalist, describes as "fantasy" the testimony given before the Senate divorce committee, which hears the evidence in parliamentary divorce cases.

"I have realized now that if my fake divorce goes through the Parliament of Canada I may never see my son Eric again," Eccles wrote.

"One of the tragedies of this Ottawa divorce mill is that Parliament, unlike the courts which handle divorces in other provinces, makes no order about the children," he added.

Strikers Will Hear Report

KITCHENER (CP) — Striking employees of the Kaufman Rubber Company plant here will meet this morning to hear a report on Friday's meeting of presidents of District 6, United Rubber Workers of America (CLC).

The Kaufman local was instructed Friday to seek strike fund donations from the 200,000 URW members in the United States at the District 6 meeting.

"The presidents expressed determination to see the strike through to victory and to assist in every way possible to get a contract signed with this anti-union employer," said a union spokesman of the District 6 meeting.

The Kitchener local is on strike for a contract with the company plus wage and fringe benefits.

Brighton Women, Trenton Youth Mishap Victims

Car Out of Control Crashes Parking Lot

TRENTON — Three people are dead and another in Trenton Memorial Hospital as result of an accident which occurred on Dundas Street East in Trenton at the supper-time rush hour last night.

Mrs. Blanche Bibby, 78 Young Street, Brighton, driver of the car involved in the accident, died at the wheel of her car. It is not known whether Mrs. Bibby suffered a heart seizure before striking a metal light standard, or whether she died as the result of the terrific impact.

Killed instantly when he was struck by the car driven by Mrs. Bibby, was 20-year-old Peter Messervy, 391 Front St., Trenton.

Miss Rose Strong, 53, of Brighton, died later in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Last night, Dr. J. V. Byrne, coroner for the town of Trenton said that an inquest will be called by Crown Attorney John Pringle to determine the cause of Mrs. Bibby's death.

Eye-witnesses said that the dead woman was slumped over the wheel of her car immediately prior to the accident.

Mrs. Bibby and Miss Strong were returning from a shopping trip to Belleville. Neighbors of the dead woman said she had fallen in her home two days ago. She told them that she was going to Belleville to order rugs to cover the waxed floors because of this fall.

At a point on Dundas Street East, directly in front of Greene's Service Station, the Bibby car suddenly swerved out of the line of traffic, striking 53-year-old Harry LaFrance, 11 Weeks Ave., Trenton, who is employed as town bridge attendant. Mr. LaFrance, who was returning to work on a bicycle, was thrown to the pavement and suffered a broken leg.

After striking the cyclist, the car careened across the sidewalk and onto the service station lot, striking Peter Messervy, an employee of the firm of Lange and Fetter Motor Company, next door to the Greene service station. It is presumed that Messervy was on his way home from work. He was thrown over a sign. The car struck the heavy metal light standard head on. The impact was so great that the light post appeared to be imbedded in the radiator of the car after the accident.

Friends of the dead woman say she was remarkably active for her age. For a number of years she had motored to Florida or California to spend the winter months.

Quebec Liberals Ask Financial Aid From Public to Eliminate Patronage

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage says his Liberal party will seek to have financial support from the public at large in order to break the chains of political patronage shackling Quebec politics.

Patronage is a "scratch-my-back-and-I'll scratch yours" arrangement with the government turning over contracts, purchases, jobs and favors to persons who have financially assisted a party in power or who have devoted much time to political work.

Now Mr. Lesage and his cabinet have made a series of rapid moves, which have startled not only political circles but also so many of the party's own supporters, to crush the patronage machine.

A cabinet-controlled treasury board to check all expenses of more than $15,000 has been created, Attorney General Georges Lapalme has warned liquor laws are going to be enforced to the letter and the roads department has started calling for public tenders through newspaper advertisements. No public tenders were called by the former administration.

The Liberals started making public collections for funds in Quebec after Mr. Lesage became Liberal party leader in 1958. During province-wide tours he made to reorganize the party at the grassroots level Liberal workers collected contributions.

In a brief interview Mr. Lesage said the party wants to keep its hands free and therefore will continue to seek public support.

But about patronage, he said firmly: "We are cutting it off."

KENNEDY SAYS HE WILL DEMAND TOIL, SACRIFICE

'Not Curse Darkness But Light Candle'

LOS ANGELES (CP)—John F. Kennedy has borrowed from Winston Churchill's "blood, sweat and tears" to say he will demand toil and sacrifice from Americans if he is successful in his bid for the presidency.

It was a bold, fresh and risky approach to the presidential campaign. Having declared that the Republican administration under President Eisenhower has led to national rot and moral decay, the Democratic candidate concluded the urgent need is to rebuild U.S. prestige through belt-tightening and hard work.

"We are not here to curse the darkness but to light the candle that can guide us through that darkness back to a safe and sane future." The Massachusetts senator said Friday night in his acceptance speech.

It was the end of a five-day convention that saw a truce forged between northern liberals and southern conservatives by nominating Kennedy for the presidency and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as his running mate.

And it appeared from his words and delivery it would be a tough, close and gruelling battle by these two comparatively young men. Kennedy is 43; Nixon 47.

Kennedy met in forthright fashion an issue that has haunted the Democratic party for 32 years, since Roman Catholic Alfred E. Smith went down to defeat. Kennedy is a Catholic.

"I am fully aware," Kennedy said, ". . . that the Democratic party, by nominating someone of my faith, has taken what many regard as a new and hazardous risk—new at least, since 1928."

He said his record of complete support for separation of church and state should be clear by now, and pledged:

"I am telling you now what you are entitled to know: That my decisions on every public policy will be my own—as an American, a Democrat and a free man."

ISSUES TOO CRITICAL

The times are too great, the issues too critical to stoop to the narrowness of religious debate, he said.

"Blight has descended on our regulatory agencies and a dry rot, beginning in Washington, is seeping into every corner of America, in the payola mentality, the expense-account way of life, the confusion between what is legal and what is right."

Eisenhower had rocked the nation to sleep and Nixon was not even fit to fill his shoes, Kennedy said.

Nixon might try to campaign behind the name of Abraham Lincoln, the great Republican crusader, but Nixon followed a career which seems to "show charity toward none and malice for all."

external affairs minister said, "it is far more important to keep driving down the middle of the international political fairways than it is to improve our golf scores."

Mr. Argue criticized Mr. Green for not protesting to Washington against the flight of the U.S. RB-47 shot down by Russia in the Barents Sea July 1. He termed the flight a threat to peace.

"I suggest that from the lack of policy and from the lack of a statement in regard to the explosive situation in Cuba, in regard to the United States' misdirected flights over the Barents Sea, it is demonstrated that Canada today is neither following the role of the honest broker nor taking an independent stand."

Mr. Green replied that the flight was perfectly proper under international law. "There is no doubt whatever in our minds that this plane was shot down a good many miles away from Russian territorial waters."

Mr. Pearson also expressed uneasiness over the RB-47 incident, which he said posed "a real danger." He questioned whether such planes should operate so close to the Soviet Union in times of "tension, fear and disturbances."

He suggested that Canada should satisfy itself that U.S. airfields in Canada are not used in a way that could leave Canada open to a charge of acting in an unfriendly or aggressive way towards Russia.

Mr. Green, in his second major foreign policy statement in two days, rejected CCF suggestions that Canada should pull out of the North American air defence system and should internationalize the DEW radar line.

Replying to demands from some Conservative membes that Canada join the Organizations of American States, Mr. Green said the Canadian people should be allowed time to think about the question. Personally, he thought that membership would be a step forward.

Mr. Pearson said that the collapse of the summit conference should bring about a return to conventional diplomacy in the handling of international disputes. He also hoped that greater use would be made of the United Nations in this field.

Mr. Pearson further suggested that Canada take the lead in bringing together the middle powers for a determined effort to ease world tension, promote disarmament and widen areas of cooperation.

Peterborough, Cornwall Now Not in Running

By DON HARVEY

Two airlines have changed their thinking about serving Cornwall and Peterborough on their swing through this part of Ontario to Toronto and Windsor.

Nordair Ltd. of Montreal and Quebecair of Rimouski, Que., now favor Kingston as the only stop-off point en route because that city is the most outstanding producer of traffic. In addition, Peterborough was eliminated because of inadequate airport facilities.

The Air Transport Board will hear the airlines' applications Aug. 30 at Ottawa. Nordair wants to operate Class 1 scheduled service between Montreal, Kingston and Toronto, carrying passengers, mail and/or goods. On the other hand, Quebecair wants to operate a similar service between Montreal, Kingston. Oshawa, Toronto, London and Windsor. Oshawa, London and Windsor, apparently replaced Cornwall and Peterborough in Quebecair's application.

Chairman Arthur Duncan of the East Central Ontario Airport Committee, which hopes to open RCAF Station Trenton to airline traffic, said these latest developments might assist his committee. He noted that Kingston's airfield is not yet in shape to accommodate airline traffic and that he had heard it will cost the city something like $300,000 to get it in shape. Yet RCAF Station Trenton has all— and more — of the facilities required by an airline. A meeting of the airport committee to discuss latest developments is imminent, he said. He hopes local MP Lee Grills will be available to attend the meeting.

However, there are a few things we should like to point out.

One is that never has RCAF Station Trenton been included in either airline's application, although Quebecair said it would consider amending its application if calling on this district would be worth its while.

NEED EVIDENCE

We suggest that of primary importance at the moment is for the committee to collect as much evidence as possible that airline service is, indeed, desireable in this area and that the amount of business would, in fact, make the venture worthwhile to the airline company. This will take more than personal convictions. Facts and, possibly, figures will be necessary. We hope the committee will beat a path to Ottawa long before Aug. 30.

It is generally agreed that RCAF Station Trenton is a plum as far as airports are concerned. But no matter how elaborate the facilities on an airfield may be, they are not all absolutely essential to an airline's operation. Any airplane can land if it has a runway. That could be in the middle of the bush.

To attract commercial airline service, you must prove that good business is available. Kingston's airport is in nowhere near as good shape as Station Trenton, nor does it have as many facilities. But if the business potential is greater at Kingston, then Kingston will get airline service and our own district will be left out in the cold for many years to come. It is not practical to operate feeder - type aircraft (such as DC-3s or Friendships) over very short distances, like that between Kingston and Station Trenton. In fact, that's another reason why Peterborough was eliminated. It is too close to Kingston to make a stop economical.

Whether or not Station Trenton can be opened to airline traffic is, really, a political matter. But when permission is sought, the powers that be will weigh the civil requirement against military operations in the area. The airport committee must be ready to prove its case at Ottawa.

Alert Resident Foils Break-In At Stirling

A telephone tip from a resident who spotted early morning prowlers in the Stirling business area, averted a break-in at the Mark Tripp Wholesale Ltd. early today.

The would-be intruders were scared away by the arrival of Police Chief Doug Ketcheson, who had been called on the telephone. The front door at the Tripp business establishment had been jimmied, but no entrance was made.

A truck stolen from nearby Stirling Motor Sales and owned by Robert Meecher, Stirling district cattle dealer, was later recovered on the Ridge Road where it had been abandoned. It is believed the three-ton stake truck had been stolen with the intention of carrying away merchandise from the Tripp warehouse.

After receiving the telephone tip about 3 o'clock this morning, Chief Ketcheson sped to the Mill Street area where he saw the Meecher truck parked near the hotel.

He checked the driver who told him he was an employee of Mr. Meecher. He said he was checking his racks before going out to load cattle.

It is believed that at least three men may have been involved in the attempted break-in.

"As I was about to drive off from the first tee my caddie, who was a friend of mine whom I had used for some time, said: 'Mr. Pearson please try not to slice this time; please try to keep on the fairway because there are unexploded bombs in the rough."

CONVENTION GATE-CRASHER — Mary Kramer, 23, of Elizabeth, N.J., inspects a Kennedy button worn by Les Cohen, 19, of Timmins, Ont., who managed to crash every session of the Democratic national convention at Los Angeles except the one on opening day. His method? Join up with demonstrators carrying banners and signs; "Just look as if you belong and yell louder than anyone." At one point, Cohen was wearing a "Kennedy" straw hat, a "Johnson" button, an "Adlai" badge, a "Meyner" button and a sign reading "a time for greatness." Cohen, who hitchhiked from Timmins to Los Angeles on $2.56, says he's heading for Chicago to try the same techniques at the Republican national convention. (CP from AB).

Call OAS Council On Cuban Ties With Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cuba today faced a crossfire from its western hemisphere neighbors on its increasingly close ties with the Soviet Union.

The 21-nation council of the Organization of American States scheduled an unusual Saturday session on a Peruvian call for a meeting of OAS foreign ministers to consider theats affecting hemispheric solidarity, the inter-American system and democratic principles.

Although Cuba was not specifically named in the Peruvian bid, the left wing regime of Fidel Castro loomed as the obvious target of Latin American fears of Soviet intervention in the western hemisphere.

The OAS council, after hearing the Peruvian case, was expected to postpone a final decision until Monday or Tuesday. But diplomats were prepared for a bitter exchange between Cuba and other Latin nations, as well as the United States, over the Communist threat.

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Cool, spring water flowing through Coldwater Creek provides ideal conditions for young speckled trout at the Dorion fish hatchery, 25 miles northeast of the Lakehead.

Water temperature remains between 46 and 54 degrees summer and winter, a condition under which young trout thrive.

Eggs laid in October in the cool waters hatch in January. Speckled trout at Dorion swim before others bear any resemblance to fish. At 15 months, trout at the hatchery vary between seven and 10 inches. At other Ontario hatcheries the trout are usually less than five inches at the same age.

The speckled trout are kept at other Ontario hatcheries for a year until they reach the 10-inch size required for planting in lakes and streams.

TOO BIG FOR DROP

Yearlings from the Dorion hatchery, usually planted at 15 to 16 months, are too big by then to be dropped by aircraft and are transported by truck to lakes and streams. However, since these waters are easily accessible to the public, most of the yearlings are caught within a few weeks of planting.

This year about 200,000 speckled trout fingerlings and 20,000 yearlings have been planted in the Lakehead area. They were trucked from Dorion to nearby Loon Lake in special electric tanks, then transferred to an amphibious Beaver aircraft for distribution.

Some of the yearlings moved by truck were put through the ice early in the year to allow them time for orientation and a better chance to survive the heavy fishing pressure of the first few weeks of the season.

SPRING FISHING

In Eastern Ontario, many 10-inch fish are put into waters where they cannot ordinarily survive the summer. The purpose is to provide spring trout fishing for anglers who would otherwise have to travel long distances for good fishing.

North Bay this year instituted a similar program. Eight lakes and rivers close by were stocked a few days before the season opened. At one lake, 507 of 1,000 trout planted were taken the first day. At another lake, the catch was 378 of 500.

Some of the North Bay waters stocked are suitable for trout survival, but early catches indicate few will remain after the heavy spring fishing.

An estimated 4,000 youngsters were checked and tutored in the correct manner of handling firearms at the Rifleman's Corral, a feature of the Red River Exhibition at Winnipeg. The project, sponsored by the Winnipeg Game and Fish Association, was started last year when 2,500 boys and girls were checked for proper procedure.

Resources Minister C.H. Witney of Manitoba reports a sharp increase in numbers of ruffed grouse in southwestern Manitoba and high levels in other areas. The population of the popular upland game bird appears to be about double that of last spring.

Sugar Price May Stay Same At Retail Level

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cuban price increases have sent an upward quiver through the Canadian sugar structure after more than a year of downward flutters.

Increases so far, however, have been at the wholesale level —25 to 30 cents a hundred pounds, or less than a third of a cent a pound. Accordingly, there may be no immediate effect for the housewife.

On June 16, the Cuban spot price for raw sugar—traditionally regarded as the world price —was around $2.99 a hundredweight, basis Cuba. Since then it has gone up to $3.30, compared with $2.78 a year ago, when it was the lowest for a long time.

Canada gets its sugar in two ways—about 80 per cent from raw cane sugar which it brings in from other countries and refines; and about 20 per cent from refining home-grown sugar beets.

Modern Motel Replaces Old Properties

TWEED — One of the oldest properties in Tweed, the Breen estate, on South Victoria St., is being dismantled to make way for a new modern motel to be erected by Burton Thompson.

The cabins and equipment have been disposed of at an auction sale, also a number of boats were also disposed of at the sale. The cabins are being removed from the property and the old blacksmith and other buildings are being torn down. Many of the older people of Tweed will remember the familiar blacksmith, Mr. William Breen, who was one of the busiest men in Tweed in those days.

The tourist resort was operated by Tom Breen for many years. Jack Breen also operated a welding shop in one of the old buildings and will now establish his business near his home on South Metcalfe St.

Mr. Thompson has purchased a strip of land adjacent to the Breen property from the village council and will build a modern motel adjoining Memorial Park at the lake front. Construction will start in the very near future. He built West Wind Motel, near Actinolite, on No. 7 Highway, which he sold to Mr. Ken Smith of Belleville, last August.

DEPOSITORY INSTALLED

An "Around-the-Clock" depository has been installed at the Bank of Montreal in Tweed, as an added convenience to its many customers, especially business establishments. The deposit slot is placed at the left of the main entrance and can only be opened by special key, supplied by the bank at a small fee. It can be used for making deposits in the customary manner and also for the safe keeping of cash. The latter must be tied in a locked bag and then picked up on the next business day. The service will be especially valuable on weekends and over holidays when merchants have considerable cash on hand.

Car Crash Kills Minister, Two Children

SUDBURY (CP) — A Toronto minister and two of his children died in a head-on collision Friday night while driving to Manitoulin Island for their summer vacation.

Rev. Harold J. Williamson, 27, pastor of the Willowdale Gospel Tabernacle, and his three-year-old son, Lawrence were killed when their small car collided with a one-ton panel truck. His nineteen - month - old daughter Laura died in hospital two hours after the collision on Highway 69, eight miles south of here.

Mrs. Williamson, 26, also riding in the car, was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Truck driver Wilfrid Aboussafy, 48, also of Toronto has been charged with criminal negligence in connection with the accident and appears in court today.

FROM THE SOO

He was returning to Toronto from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Aboussafy said a boxer dog, the only other occupant of the truck, apparently freed itself from where it was chained in the rear of the vehicle and leaped upon his shoulders.

He told police that was the last he remembered until waking up in the ditch. He was not hurt.

Wreckage was scattered for 300 feet along the highway.

Mr. Williamson was born in Ingersoll, Ont., and graduated from the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College in Peterborough.

NEW NATIONS — The face of Africa is changing rapidly. In 1945 there were only four independent nations.

At the beginning of 1960 there were ten and six more have already been created. By the end of the year there may be as many as 25.

Latest to become independent is The Congo, a former Belgian colony. Both the Belgian Congo and part of French Equatorial Africa chose the same name—Republic of Congo—on shedding colonial status.

News agencies have agreed to designate the former Belgian colony, of which the capital is Leopoldville, as The Congo. They will use Congo Republic for the former French colony, whose capital is Brazzaville.

Costing Public Million a Week To Operate CBC

OTTAWA (CP) — It cost the public purse about $1,000,000 a week to keep the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in business last year. Indications Friday were that this outlay will rise in the future.

The extra cost in coming years may be felt as the CBC, its present television monopoly in major centres soon to be ended by private competition, turns increasingly to the so-called "public service" programming on which CBC policy usually forbids advertising revenue.

In addition, with 93 per cent of Canada's 17,000,000 population now covered by a mixture of CBC and private TV, it probably will fall to the publicly-owned corporation to expand TV into remaining thinly - settled areas which offer no profit potential for private interests.

Both indications arose in the 1959-60 fiscal year reports, tabled in Parliament Friday, of the CBC and the Board of Broadcast Governors.

COSTS SPLIT UP

Included were $2,005,864 for its international service, the multi-language shortwave operation beamed chiefly to Europe, and $6,259,935 for meeting the capital expenses of CBC expansion. Both bills were paid by the federal treasury.

But the biggest CBC expense was in operating its domestic radio and TV operations, including the various networks. This ran to $94,039,765 in 1959-60. Before the year began the federal treasury made a $58,404,000 contribution as a parliamentary grant.

When the year ended, the corporation found that its drive for more commercial revenue exceeded expectations by $4,000,000 with the result that combined radio-TV income was up 18.3 per cent to a gross $38,162,337, with more than 90 per cent of it from television. Other revenue boosted the total to $38,563,000.

The result was that the CBC didn't have to use $6,103,722 of its federal grant. The money will be turned back into the federal treasury.

END OF REVENUE

Meanwhile, the CBC itself foresees an end to its increasing revenues as a result of competition from private TV soon to begin operation in eight major cities following the government's decision to end the old single-channel policy.

Dr. C.T. Bissell Named Chairman Canada Council

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Claude T. Bissell, 44, president of the University of Toronto, was appointed Friday as the second chairman of the Canada Council.

The first chairman of the council, established in 1957 to promote the arts, was Hon. Brooke Claxton who died of cancer June 13 at the age of 61.

Dr. Bissell will serve the unexpired portion of the term of Mr. Claxton, who was appointed chairman for five years from April 15, 1957.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker also announced appointment of two other university presidents as new members of the council. They are Dr. G. Edward Hall, 52, president of the University of Western Ontario, and Dr. J.W.T. Spinks, 52, president of the University of Saskatchewan.

Reappointed to the council were Dr. Norman A.M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, and Sir Ernest MacMillan, former conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

Chairmanship of the council is a part - time job. The day-to-day operation is the responsibility of its director, Dr. A.W. Trueman, former president of the University of New Brunswick.

Ontario Naturalists Plan Outdoors Convention Here

Ontario's Outdoors Convention commences in this city on July 30th. Naturalists, outdoorsmen, conservationists, sportsmen, geologists, amateur biologists, and bird-watchers will all be heading for the Quinte area for a long holiday-weekend of guided instruction in the natural history subjects of their choice. Sponsored jointly by the Federation of Ontario Naturalists and the Quinte Field Naturalists Club, the summer field meeting will provide an opportunity for the public to enjoy the countryside and simultaneously receive expert tuition from distinguished leaders.

This gathering is the second summer outing held by the FON: the first, in 1959, took place at Sault Ste. Marie, and sets the standard for the 1960 function. Because of its proximity to larger populated areas, it is expected that nearly three hundred people will be participating in the series of outings during the three days. The purely nominal registration fee permits participation in the three days' events.

Trips to the Sandbanks of Prince Edward County and side trips to Huff's Island to observe marsh birds will be supplemented by geological excursions to observe the rock structures at Ameliasburg and Shannonville. The outings conclude with participation in the official opening ceremonies of the Col. Vanderwater Conservation Area in the township of Hungerford.

"We extend a most cordial invitation to the public", says Hedley James, one of the organizing committee, "to see what the Bay of Quinte area has in the way of natural history delights. We are putting out the red carpet".

Acommodation is being arranged in Albert College and details can be obtained from the FON office, Edwards Gardens, Don Mills, or from local officials.

Two Enigmas

Vice President Richard Nixon is almost certain to be the choice of the Republicans.

Theoretically, both could be beaten by some third candidate. Actually, it is as certain that one or the other of them will be elected as it is that the next Prime Minister of England will not be a Communist.

In the United States personalities are more important than parties. To a very large extent, the reverse is true in Canada and in any country following the parliamentary system. Parliamentary parties have platforms and even the most astute and adroit party leader requires time, as well as talent, before he can twist and turn them into the mold of his own personal preference. The President of the United States, on the other hand, is no longer the servant of his party once he is elected but can exercise his executive powers, which include that of veto of legislation passed by Congress, in such a manner as he sees fit. True, in practice there is considerable mutual control, of the president over the party and of the party over the president, but the record of recent history is crowded with examples of president and party taking opposing views on important issues. Then, too, the parties themselves are often divided in a manner which would be impossible under our system.

It follows that the immediate future of the United States, and therefore in large measure of the whole world, depends to a great extent on the character of the next president.

What kind of a man is Kennedy? What kind of a man is Nixon?

These are not easy questions to answer. Both have right-wing backgrounds, dating back to the time of Senator Joseph McCarthy. Nixon was a member of McCarthy's committee. Kennedy, if he is tarred with the brush of McCarthyism at all, acquires the taint through the notorious McCarthyist principle of guilt by association—his father was a sometime sympathizer with McCarthy's contentions.

This, though, is to over-simplify matters. "Tricky Dicky", as Nixon was once known, has displayed surprising maturity in his role of Vice President. "Like father, like son" is an unreliable adage at any time and nowhere more often than in the realm of politics.

What prompts a man to seek a back-breaking job like that of president of the world's most powerful nation in the days of the world's most complex and dangerous problems?

It could be the desire for wealth—but not in Kennedy's case. It could be ambition—but both Nixon and Kennedy have already made names for themselves politically. It could be a desire to serve the nation and the world or, a small and subtle difference but a most significant one, a conviction that the nation and the world can only be properly served, and saved, by the individual in question. This possibility would seem more likely in Kennedy's case than Nixon's, particularly if we take the latter version, the conviction that one has a mission. Both Nixon and Kennedy appear, from this distance at any rate, to be much more difficult to understand than the candidates at the last two presidential elections, Eisenhower and Stevenson.

The coming election campaign is not likely to throw any great light on their characters, but what is going to be most interesting to trace is the development of their public images, the delineation not so much of what they are and what they stand for as what they and their parties want the public to think they are and what principles they wish the voters to consider they represent.

Time Waits For No Man

Interesting, indeed, is the Russian Premier's attitude that no deals are to be made with President Eisenhower because of the forthcoming presidential elections in the United States. Has anyone considered the futility of dealing with Mr. K because no one knows when the next Russian coup is to take place?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THAT FITTING SYMBOL

This royal policy was a wise one. It announced to the world that Christians regarded the death of Jesus Christ not as a misfortune but as the most supreme of all achievements; not as a shameful thing to be explained away, but as a glorious symbol to be revered by believing men and women throughout the ages.

Too many people look upon Christianity merely as a code of ethics. To these people, the church is a great brotherhood. Christians stick by one another and work to make the world a better place in which to live.

All this is fine, but it is not the whole of Christianity. In fact, it is not Christianity at all — it is the result of Christianity. Christianity is not something we do but something God did. What we do is the fruit of what God did. God sent His only begotten son into the world, had him set forth in a most articulate fashion the divine philosophy of life. Then He allowed this Son of God and Son of Man to show forth the pattern upon which the life of the universe operates, namely, the pattern of sacrifice. There is much about the atoning sacrifice of Christ which we do not understand. How it brings about the forgiveness of sin is a mystery. We do not understand, but we use the circumstance to our salvation.

Over the church of Jesus Christ is the cross — the only fitting symbol of our faith.

Those Who Lose Temper

Montreal Gazette

It is always hard to say whether a person who loses his temper is unlike himself or more like himself than ever. With some persons a loss of temper is unnatural, and often followed by remorse — perhaps a remorse too deep to be spoken. But with others, loss of temper comes easily. For them anger becomes almost an art, and, as with all arts, its practice gives them pleasure.

Hilaire Belloc was one of these. It almost seemed as though one of his pleasures in going to a restaurant was to make a scene. His friends would dread what they knew was about to happen. As one of his friends writes:

"Belloc, when he was with people who dreaded a row, tried very hard to be patient, but his suppressed anger made things more uncomfortable for them than a brief outburst, which got things done".

Many of those who lose their tempers easily may never feel they have been unreasonable. So far from having any inclination to offer apologies, they expect to receive them. They do not feel, or cannot admit that they might not be the injured party.

The English literary critic, Sir Edmund Gosse, quarrelled as easily as he forgave rarely. Even when he was appointed Librarian of the House of Lords, he lost his temper with those he was engaged to serve.

On one occasion he was seated writing at one of the square tables in the library, when Lord Camperdown entered and took a chair at the same table. On each of these tables a little lamp was kept burning for heating the wax used by the members of the House to seal their letters.

Lord Camperdown, disturbed by the flame or the heat of the little lamp on the table, blew with some violence to put it out. The fumes from the wick drifted across to Sir Edmund Gosse's nostrils.

"Did you do that on purpose?" Gosse demanded.

"I did", Lord Camperdown replied.

"Then I must ask you to apologize".

But Lord Camperdown, seeing cause neither for offense nor for penitence, told Gosse he would "do nothing of the kind". Gosse went off at once to complain to Sir Henry Graham, the Clerk of the Parliaments.

But the idea of the Librarian of the House of Lords complaining about the conduct of one of its members in blowing the fumes of a wick in this direction did not make a great impression upon Sir Henry. It is not surprising that when Sir Edmund's term of office was up, his tenure (contrary to his expectations) was not extended.

• • •

When loss of temper is followed by remorse for an injury unwillingly inflicted it is nearly always because a person knows he has betrayed himself. This awareness of having acted "out of character" leaves its pain, and not even the passing of many years may ease its sharpness.

When the scientists, Sir Oliver Lodge, came to write his autobiography, he admitted that even his old age had not made less his regret for the anger he had once shown his children, for no good reason.

He had been working very hard as a teacher at the University of Liverpool, and was at times irritable. He had come home after a hard day, and was trying to settle down to a thick batch of examination papers. His children had been sent to bed, with orders to be quiet.

But the children kept a plant on their window-sill and decided to pour some water on it. The water dripped down outside the room below, where their father was working on his papers.

Of what followed, Sir Oliver wrote:

"I rushed upstairs. They had just got back to bed, and said they had been watering a plant outside on their window-sill. I learned too late that it was one they had been trying to cultivate and were fond of. God forgive me, I flung it out of the window. I heard it smash on the ground below; and, after that, I heard a quiet sobbing from the beds as I shut the door of the room".

This might seem a slight incident for a great man to record in his autobiography, after so many years. But Sir Oliver Lodge felt that he ought to "confess it as a warning".

He could scarcely have believed that the warning would mean much to those who lose their tempers with zest. But he did not intend it for such; he intended it for those who, by losing their tempers, might lose something precious to themselves and never cease to regret it.

Holy Land Flower-Swathed

Arab World

Perhaps no place in the world is swathed in such a luxurious cloak of flowers as that which yearly blooms in the Holy Land. A countless variety of familiar flowers grow wild in the area, and there are said to be some 400 types of wild flowers here that are found nowhere else in the world.

It is difficult to imagine how welcome such a sight is in a land which is wholly dependent upon rain for its livelihood. Since Jordan receives very little annual rainfall and is threatened by drought every second year, gardens are a rarity and crops and livestock are often endangered by the lack of water.

As if to make up for this bleakness which keeps Jordan brown and barren for nearly nine months of the year, the flowers seem to outdo themselves to deck the country out in lavishness. The desolate hills of Jerusalem, the austere valley of the Jordan, the brown highlands of Samaria, and the dunes of Jericho seem suddenly to erupt with wild flowers that defy description in variety and loveliness.

Christian visitors to Jordan often take interest in searching out, among the country's wild flowers, the plants mentioned in the Bible. Some of these flowers are now regarded by Biblical authorities as being of a different variety than had originally been thought. For example, the "lily of the fields" which surpassed "Solomon in all his glory," is now thought to be the anemone, or windflower, which grows profusely to paint the hills of Jerusalem a dozen different hues.

The rose mentioned in Isaiah 35.1, "the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose," is now identified as the white and yellow narcissus. The delicate blue flowers of the hyacinth are believed to have inspired the many references to "lilies," in the Song of Solomon.

The "anise" of Matthew 23:23 is the dill, a tall plant with yellow flowers, the seeds of which are used as seasoning and in medicines. "Myrrh," which is frequently mentioned in the Bible, is a fragrant gum which is taken during the hottest part of the day from the Palestine rockrose.

• • •

There are many more references to flowers in the Bible which the observer will be able to validate in the living history which blooms each year in the Holy Land.

Anywhere the visitor to Jordan goes, from Jerusalem to Samaria, down the old Roman Road to Jericho, or among the terraced olive groves of Bethlehem, he will find a blanket of bright wild flowers in season and will meet scores of people gathering bouquets.

Another source of floral loveliness in Jordan is the blossoming of the fruit trees. A major crop in this Arab country is the fruit from orchards and citrus groves. Consequently the blooming of apple, grapefruit, apricot, almond, plum and orange blossoms by the acre is both a beautiful and a profitable spectacle.

The Holy Land, where the wonders of living history abound, provides a beautiful testimony to the majesty of nature and every wayfarer is given the privilege of breathing the heady fragrance of flowers such as Christ may have plucked as He trod these very fields in divine meditation.

MCCLURE

A strait between Banks Island and Melville Island in north west Canada. It was named to honor Sir Robert McClure, Arctic explorer. Some authorities credit him with the discovery of the North West Passage, but others give the credit to Sir John Franklin, who perished there in 1848. However, McClure did discover two straits on either side of Banks Island.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 16th, 1940

The Manchester Guardian sets forth that many clergy and others will rejoice when at the end of this month, the ban on confetti falls, and they will hope that it will not be only for the duration of the war. It might not be easy to discover who first imported into the country and associated with marriage the throwing of confetti, which was part of the carnival license in Italy and elsewhere, but the habit has reached great proportions in spite of numerous protests. It is not likely that any of the substitutes will remain either. It would be positively criminal to throw rice at a wedding nowadays, and presumably the artificial 'rose leaves' will disappear also.

Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Boyce and family of Deseronto are at their camp on the Bay of Quinte for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitman and Mrs. Gill of Clairmont, Alta., spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. George Bassett of Madoc.

Mrs. Archie Thompson, Trent Road, is visiting a few days at the home of her son, Mr. Gilbert Thompson in Stirling.

30 YEARS AGO

July 16th, 1930

The temperature reached 82 degrees today; it sure was hot.

The opening games of the Christ Church Parish Tennis Club will be held this evening. Mr. Everett Smith is the president of the club and he expects a record entry.

Early white bantam corn was offered for sale on the market today by Mrs. W. J. Christie of Foxboro. It is a week ahead of the usual time.

Miss Lazelle Brown, Victoria Avenue, has returned home after a motor car trip to Ottawa and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hanan and family of Chicago, Ill., are visiting at the home of the brother of the latter, Mr. John B. Grotto, Everett Street.

40 YEARS AGO

July 16th, 1920

Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Denike have returned home after spending a week at Bon Echo.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McCreary have returned home from Bon Echo where they spent a vacation.

Mayor W. B. Riggs has proclaimed July 27th to be Civic Holiday.

Miss Lottie Warham has arrived home from Edmonton, Alta., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Warham, and to attend the Old Boys' Reunion.

The Belleville Board of Education will require from the city this year the sum of $92,303. This is an increase of $25,700 over last year and is caused principally by increases in salaries.

50 YEARS AGO

July 16th, 1910

Mr. L. Pringle is home from Hespeler on a visit.

Mr. John McPhee of this city spent yesterday in Deseronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Rapley left today for Hamilton, Ont., after visiting relatives here.

Mrs. G. E. Donnelly and children of Rochester, NY., are visiting Mrs. J. Fleming, Cedar Street.

Mr. C. L. Lansing of Salem, Oregon, is visiting his brother, Mr. R. S. Lansing, South Charles Street.

Only four days more to the Old Boys' Reunion. The fatted calf must be feeling rather sad.

Old boys and girls are arriving daily to attend the Old Boy's Reunion, and they are receiving a hearty welcome.

Heartening Heart Drama

Vancouver Province

For 18 minutes a machine did the job of a young girl's heart and lungs in a Vancouver hospital. The moving story of the first use of the heart-lung pump in St. Paul's Hospital is a drama of the medical profession's eternal research.

The life of Anne Lavery of Kelowna was destined to end at 40. Surgery, made possible by the use of the heart-pump, returned her to her home with the life-expectation of a normal person. Those are the simple facts.

But behind the operation is an even more heart-warming story of the quiet confidence of doctors in their investigations. Work began on perfection of a heart-lung machine four years ago. It has never ceased.

Money was needed as well as dedication to a great cause. It is worth recording the agencies which made the feat possible: The Heart Foundation, the B. C. Polio Fund, the Koerner Foundation, St. Paul's Woman's Auxiliary, and the B. C. Medical Research Foundation.

Doctors also contributed, until the fund for this special cause reached $46,796. It is this kind of medical determination that gives the public confidence and loosens their purse-strings. This, too, is of therapeutic value to the community.

Interest Not Simple

Michigan Manufacturer

Canada, like the U.S., is considering a law designed to inform borrowers exactly what they are paying when they borrow or use their credit. The Toronto Globe and Mail's John A. Gibson made a survey which, to our mind, both governments might use more profitably than the reams of testimony they have taken. Gibson found that "simple interest is not as simple as it is cracked up to be," and he sought information from accountants, actuaries, mathematicians, retail stores and finance companies. One of his questions involved the purchase of $40 article on a Monday with the first $10 payment to begin the following Friday and subsequent $10 payments being made every two weeks on Friday. Two weeks after the last $10 payment was made, the buyer paid $4 finance charges.

The actuary calculated the interest rate in this case as 4.93 percent fortnightly, or a total of 250 percent per annum, and he said that: "Although the 250 percent per annum appears to be an extremely high rate of interest, the $4 (finance charges) might better be regarded as a 10 percent tip for services rendered." Few of the authorities agreed on what the interest actually was.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"RHEUMATIC HEART" CASES DIFFER ACCORDING TO AMOUNT OF DAMAGE

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is 37 and has a rheumatic heart condition. Would you explain what it is, and how dangerous it can be? What are some precautions to take, and would any medicine ease the labor of his heart? He takes penicillin every month to resist colds. — Mrs. A. R.".

Like many another condition, a rheumatic heart can be of almost any degree of seriousness. Just as, for instance, one may have arthritis and have no more than an occasional twinge, or, in a severe case at the other extreme, can be bedridden.

Now let's talk about a rheumatic heart. It is caused, in the first place, because the patient has had a streptococcus infection. Not all people, of course, will suffer heart damage because of a strep infection. But some do.

If the heart is affected, it is because certain parts of it become inflamed. When the inflammation subsides, a certain amount of scar tissue remains.

This is usually around the heart valves, very often the mitral valve. True, the scarring may occur elsewhere in the heart, but there are many areas where the scarring is of scant importance.

However, when it occurs in and around the valves, then the action of the valves can be impaired — either they do not open properly, or do not close properly. The heart, in consequence, has to work harder because it cannot perform as efficiently as it used to.

In some cases, the more serious ones, surgery is required to repair the damaged valve or valves. The development of such surgery is one of the remarkably fine achievements of the last 10 or 15 years, and the repair of rheumatic hearts is one of the most frequent purposes of such heart operations.

However, in cases in which the damage is not so great, it is preferable simply to avoid overburdening the heart to prevent any further damage to it.

To avoid overburdening, the patient must learn how much damage has been done to his heart and how much exertion he can take. In some cases, the patient can indulge in just about any amount of exercise he likes. In other cases he must avoid strenuous sports or labor. In more severe cases his activity must be even more limited. This has to be decided on the basis of electrocardiograms, plus observation of how the patient reacts to exercise — how much he huffs and puffs and is short of breath, and other such signs.

So you see that having a "rheumatic heart" can mean almost anything. The damage may be slight or it may be grave.

But in every case of rheumatic heart, you wish above all to prevent any additional damage from occurring. It is quite likely that most serious cases are the result of repeated attacks rather than just one.

That is why your husband takes penicillin each month (it's a long-lasting form which he takes). It isn't to "resist colds", as you assumed. Rather, it is to resist and prevent any further strep infections which might trigger another attack on the heart. Penicillin doesn't affect viruses which cause colds; it does an admirable job of fighting bacteria, and that is what strep is.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a girl of 21 and extremely long-waisted. Can anything be done to make me shorter? — C. Y."

No — and nothing could have been done except for you to select different families to be born from. But choosing the right clothes, moving your waistline, by that means, an inch or so up or down, can make all the difference between being unhappy or satisfied with your appearance.

Mrs. A. D. R.: There isn't any special exercise to prevent gall stones from forming, but moderate exercise in general is most certainly advisable.

Safe Drivers Are Nice Guys

Houston Post

An effort to determine what makes the safe and unsafe automobile operator is being made in Chicago at the Municipal Court Driver School. One of the school's tutors believes that a faulty attitude was largely responsible for fatal accidents involving nearly a million drivers.

According to the instructor, the attitude of the driver depends on his or her personality. If the driver is what he would call a "nice guy", one devoid of conflicts in his personal life, then he is likely to demonstrate this attitude when behind the wheel.

Too often the modest man develops self - esteem beyond all proportion when he gets into an automobile. The road belongs to him alone. Often well-mannered, responsible people suffer a complete personality change when they turn the ignition switch.

The Chicago driver school is well advised to understand this study. Meanwhile, if you are a gentleman or a lady when on foot, don't forget to be one when you take the driver's wheel.

TODAY'S TALK

INWARD POWER

That which is most important in our lives comes from the deepest location. We call this inward power, and it is this power which opens up vast opportunities and prods us to action. We feel this Inward Power and it wakes us up!

This is the power of giants, but it can be just as notable in the humblest of this earth, for it's a spiritual gift. It acts and reacts. It refreshes itself. It is inexhaustible, for its purpose lies deep in the human heart. It touches all mankind, and ennobles it wherever it is made manifest.

This Inward Power acts like electricity. You can't see it but its power demonstrates itself. It displays the truth and people understand it, for it is worldwide in its influence. It's a gentle power, however. Cowards pass it by because they know nothing of it. It is an instrument created by God, who keeps enlarging it to make "nations nobler, freer."

No one realizes this Inward Power as do those who demonstrate it in their daily lives. It works in noiseless ways. It is a thing of grandeur, for it touches everything beautiful in human character. It keeps travelling in its silent and potent way. Kings can lack it. The humblest can seek it out and adopt it as their own. Each of us puts his own price upon it.

Greatness feeds upon this God-given Inward Power. When created for noble usage, it gives new light to the world — a light that never goes out!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On a gravel sideroad off a new throughway in the resort country I overtook an elderly man walking with a packsack on his back and a walking stick in his hand. When I pulled up to offer him a lift, he declined cheerily and said he was enjoying the tramp. Something about the lean, brown old boy inspired me to pull over to the shoulder and get out to have a chat with him.

"I live in Mexico now," he said, "for my health. But I come up to Canada every summer to explore the various areas I used to camp and fish and hunt in thirty, forty years ago. It is perfectly astonishing how fast the Canadian wilderness is vanishing."

I mentioned that with the development of the country, almost everybody in Canada was now free to enjoy the out of doors.

"Yes," said the old man, "but if the majority don't want the wilderness, why give it to them?"

"The majority," I agreed, "don't perhaps want the wilderness as wilderness. They want the open air, the lakes, woods in which to play. They want to enjoy boating, camping, motelling, dancing, rejoicing in an environment different from city and town."

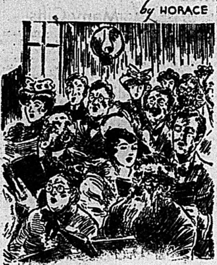
"But why," enquired the old woodsman, "give it all to them. They hate the wilderness. They are furiously busy destroying the wilderness to make an amusement park out of it. Is Canada saving any wilderness?"

I confessed I didn't know. There was talk of it.

Talk of it, like us two sitting there on the side of a brand new road. Copyright: Canada Wide

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



O WHERE ARE KINGS AND EMPIRES NOW

Oh! where are kings and empires now,
Of old that went and came?
But, Lord, Thy Church is praying yet,
A thousand years the same.

We mark her goodly battlements,
And her foundations strong;
We hear within the solemn voice
Of her unending song.

For not like kingdoms of the world
Thy holy Church, O God!
Tho' earthquake shocks are threat'ning her,
And tempests are abroad.

Unshaken as eternal hills,
Immovable she stands,
A mountain that shall fill the earth,
A house not made with hands.

Here is a hymn which sings of the constancy and permanency of the Christian Church, an unchanging bulwark in an ever-changing world. It was written about 1839 by a young American Episcopal clergyman, the Rev. Arthur Cleveland Coxe, who in later years rose to leadership in his denomination and was honored with the title of bishop of western New York.

Arthur Coxe was born in New Jersey in 1818. His father was a Presbyterian minister but the son decided, before he had finished college, to cast his lot with the Episcopalians. After being graduated from the University of New York he held a series of important and successful pastorates in eastern cities, in Baltimore, Md., in Hartford, Conn., and in New York.

When he began to publish his hymns, they were welcomed and used by Christians of all denominations. But, oddly enough, they failed to appear in the Episcopal Hymnal for Dr. Coxe, who was a member of a committee delegated to choose hymns for Episcopal use, was too modest to include any of his own creations.

A Lift for Living

Self-Love Vital to Good Life

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

What is the most interesting word in our language? What word above all others will make us sit up and take notice? A popular writer on the psychology of success gave an answer. To each person the most interesting word in the language is his own name.

This is only a vivid way of saying we are all very much interested in ourselves. We need not deny this fact or apologize for it. Jesus founded His social philosophy on the basic assumption of man's self-concern. When He took over from Leviticus the law "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," He did not change it to read, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor instead of thyself."

To love yourself in the scriptural sense means you long to keep yourself worthy of your own self-respect. It means you desire what the old Edinburgh weaver prayed for each Sunday, "O Lord, give me a high opinion of myself."

And to look at yourself in the light of God's love does heighten your opinion of your own value. Muretus, a Christian scholar of the sixteenth century, fell ill while on a journey. Some doctors were called in to treat him. They did not know him and because he looked rather unprepossessing and appeared unconscious, they said, "Let's try an experiment on this fellow for he looks of no importance." From the shadow of the bed came the patient's voice, "Call not any man cheap for whom Christ died."

NEW LIGHTS

Moreover, we are rightfully interested in ourselves, partly because we are ever surprising ourselves. Youth, we say, is a period of wonder when every bush is aflame with some new touch of heaven. Yet when sweet 16 ripens into the sixties, the wonder grows that one small head could carry all it knows, yes, carry so much more than it knows. As the shadows of evening fall on our lives, the lights outside us may grow a bit dimmer, but new lights are turned on to illumine the mysteries within. The world within the self flashes more and more hints of its beyonds.

These surprising self-discoveries come in various ways. When, for instance, a mind has reached wit's end and knows not which way to turn, a saving flash of higher wisdom comes like the leading of a kindly light encircling gloom. Or when human strength has come to "the end of its string," a new supply of power wells up from somewhere and a person walks out of a situation after a demonstration of endurance amazing to himself, saying, "I did not know it was in me."

Or it may be that the surprising thing about ourselves is discovered by getting glimpses into the inner abysses of darkness. After some deep dark temptation, we shiver at the thought of how close we came to the brink of disaster. After a crime of passion, the wrong doer looks at the wreckage left by his deed and cries, "How could I have done that?" Having done what he would not, a person feels with Saint Paul, "It is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me."

DEMONIC POWERS

Strange demonic powers sometimes seem to take possession of us. As William James once wrote, "Most of us do not live within sight of our limitations." No, there is so much more of possible good and evil in us than we realize, but now and then we are pushed out to the frontiers of our routine living where we catch hints of the heights and depths and reaches of our lives.

Our minds are not mere self-starting, self-generating motors of mental energy. They are receivers and transformers of a power that plays upon them. And when we humble ourselves to recognize that power and attune ourselves to receive it, we are surprised by the wonders we can work.

Horace Bushnell was a hard-working, conscientious and moderately successful minister in Hartford, Conn. But when he was 46, he awoke one morning crying, "I see it, I see it." "See what?" he was asked. He replied that he now saw his religion not as a mere doctrine to be believed and as a code of morals to be kept, but as a power that grips and holds and sustains. With that new sense of power Horace Bushnell became one of the most formative preachers America has produced.

Are we interested in ourselves in a self-centred way? That is a deadend road which grows ever more dismal. Or are we interested in ourselves in a God-centred way? Then we shall find ourselves ever more interesting, for God is "able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think according to the power that worketh in us."

Oslo Called 'City of Outdoors' With the Sea for Its Home

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Oslo, Norway — Gustav Vigeland was a sculptor and, like all artists, he suffered. That is to say, he didn't sell much.

But unlike all artists, his touch of genius had a commercial quirk to it. He managed to talk the city of Oslo into subsidizing his life's work, providing him with a studio, assistants and ultimately a park to display his achievements.

Well, sir, the city of Oslo just didn't know what it had let itself in for. Vigeland lived, grinding out statues like a machine and chiseling on stone and off the city, for 40 long years. Time and again his appropriation ras out and drives were mounted that raised millions more, the honorable Norwegians not being the type to welch on a deal.

When he finally died in 1943 (much to the city fathers' relief, it may be suspected), Vigeland left a legacy of bronze and granite that makes it unlikely anyone in Oslo will ever forget him. Especially the taxpayers.

Vigeland's works — more than 200 of them — are not the kind about which people ask, "What is it?" Often gross and bizarre, sometimes moving and beautiful, they are all explicit — sometimes embarrassingly so. They depict nothing less than all the attitudes of man in his lifetime, from birth through childhood, maturing, courtship and love, parenthood, aging and death.

With unvaryingly smooth and simple lines, he carved lovers, boys horsing around, men bouncing their children, old people sitting and waiting for death. Summarizing his work is a 50-foot monolith containing hundreds of twisted, tumbling figures that looks as if Vigeland were trying to say everything he'd ever said before, but this time in one word.

Whether it's all good, or even art, is a matter of taste. But it is symbolic of Oslo that Vigeland's works are displayed outdoors instead of in a museum. Oslo, a country cousin among Scandinavian capitals, is outdoors. It gives the impression of having buildings and streets only because a country must have cities.

To Norwegians, cities are a necessary evil, and in Oslo the magnificent harbor, the spreading hills and towering evergreen woods are much more the city than its famous, grotesquely city hall that natives privately call "the goat cheese."

Just to make sure the countryside doesn't get away from them, Osloers have incorporated so many square miles of it that they now claim to have the second largest area of any city in the world. The centre of it is out in the mountains eight miles from downtown and the livestock population outnumbers people about 16 to one.

Summer or winter, some 100,000 of the city's half million souls can be seen trudging out of town each Friday for a weekend of skiing, hiking, camping or scaring reindeer and trout out of their natural habitat.

Some just go to look out over the city and the twinkling lights of the ships moving up Oslo fjord from the thousands of summer homes scattered along vantage points as far as 60 miles from town. Even downtown the harbor and its traffic seems to wander all through the city, never very far from any street and running smack up against City Hall Square.

EARLY SUNRISE

There is no place for people whose kids won't go to bed until it's dark. In summer a pleasant twilight glow comes over the city about 11:30 — they have daylight saving time here, heaven only knows why — and it never gets appreciably darker than that. If you don't draw the heavy drapes in your room, the full glory of sunrise will nag you into wakefulness by 3 A.M. It's a brave tourist who will stick around for an Oslo-by-night tour.

As a result of this idiosyncrasy of living in the genuine original land of the midnight sun, where the situation is gloomily inverted in winter, Norwegians in general suffer from a kind of reverse moon-madness. All this unaccustomed daylight goes to their heads in summer, and they are given to wandering the streets at all hours of the night, their chatting, humming and whistling born of a sense of freedom they must find delicious but the sleepless visitor in his hotel room is mort likely to find misbegotten.

Most of Oslo's attractions have something to do with the sea: the Viking ship museum with its awesome display of Norse galleys a thousand years old; Roald Amundsen's polar ship "Fram," which accomplished more in the way of intrepid exploration than any ship of its day, though it now bears an aura of quaintness in the wake of recent navigational history; and a reconstruction of the Kon-Tiki raft that a few years ago sailed through one of the mightiest nautical adventures in history.

But again, they are all mementos of Norway's restless, outdoors to a city's need for museums, but savoring unmistakably of Oslo's — and Norway's — only real home, the sea.

No Place For Intolerance

By ALMA MASON

How many of us still suffer from religious intolerance, racial animosity and social bigotry? Rapid travel facilities have put us in touch quickly and more often with peoples of the earth hitherto unknown to us; consequently a goodly proportion of the former attitude of isolationism and pride of race and creed we harbored has become, at least partially, erased.

However, there are still many individuals who erect around themselves and their homes and families an impenetrabe fortress of primeval arrogance and self esteem.

How many rewarding, exhilarating experiences folk miss when they erect brick by brick a wall insulated with narrow-minded intolerance.

I will always remember an anecdote told me by a neighbor. It concerned her son and a new playmate. The little playmate had just moved into the neighborhood. He said to my neighbor's son, "Are you a Catholic, a Protestant or a Jew?" The litle fellow looked puzzled and finally answered, "Well, I guess I'm just a plain Canadian."

How wonderful it would be if we all just considered ourselves a part of God's family in His wonderful world without subjecting ourselves and others to the poisonous stupid barriers of lordly imperious pride.

Jealously walks hand in hand with intolerance. We envy someone a new fur coat; an extended vacation ;a new home; a new car. We envy someone some special talent or ability. We never envy the crosses others bear. Everyone carries a cross. Through tolerance and love and understanding we are able to detect the crosses and the burdens carried by those who exhibit outward masks of prosperity and happiness and security.

A COMPARISON

Mrs. Jones and Mrs.. Smith seem so haughty and superior. Mrs. Brown seemingly has all the worldly goods she needs and seems so aware of her good fortune. Mrs. Green has talented children. Mr. Goodes has money and leisure time to travel. Mr. Simon has social prestige and public influence.

We watch them from afar, resenting their apparent happiness and freedom from worry.

One day Mrs. Jones falls ill and we timidly slip into her kitchen to offer help. Then through kindness and tolerance we see the black, menacing cross that has persistently hovered over her.

We find as we break down social barriers that Mrs. Smith is not haughty at all, just frightened and insecure; that Mrs. Green has talented children but that inward unhappiness is her constant companion.

If given time tolerance and love will eradicate social, religious and racial barriers. It will uncover in those we envy from afar, the dark and sinister shadows of the burdens they are subjected to.

If our children are taught tolerance for old and young; for sinner and saved; for the rich man and the beggar; for those of dark skin as well as those of white, they will learn to love all of God's creatures and will feel the true meaning of brotherly love as Jesus taught it, seep into their innermost lives.

There is a legend told about Abraham and an aged wayfarer who begged his hospitality. Abraham fed and clothed the beggar. After the old man had eaten, Abraham demanded that he give thanks to God for the food. The stubborn old man refused and Abraham turned him out into the stormy night.

God appeared to Abraham and said, "Have I borne with him these many long years and nourished and clothed him, notwithstanding his rebellion against me, and couldst not thou, who art thyself a sinner, bear with him for one night?"

As God is patient and tolerant and forgiving with us, let us be also with others.

SOWING SEEDS

Sowing the seeds of tolerance in our homes and in the lives of our children will eventually transform the community in which we live. It will bring into focus and purpose and active progress the words, "Man to man the world o'er shall brothers be and wars shall be no more".

Because I took false barriers down
And cast away my cloak of pride,
I learned to share you cross and crown
And walk in patience by your side.

I buried race and haught creed
And offered you my humble hand;
Laid at your feet a lovely deed
And now I fully understand

That tolerance will turn to love;
That love bestowed and gladly given,
Will stretch to silver paths above
And rest within the Gates of Heaven.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Instead of making some independent research, may we just throw out the question as to why some old-established men's wear stores were given the name of Oak Hall. The one of this name in Belleville has disappeared, but for a long time when it was under the name of Vermilyea, people, especially from the country, would refer to it as Oak Hall.

While walking along King Street in the strange city of Saint John, N.B., trying to decide which of the men's stores we would enter to buy some presents, we decided to ask the "man on the street." In this case, of course, it was a woman on the street. In answer to our question, she said there were many good stores. "But," she Scovil's." She pointed to the said, "We are from the country and we always go to Oak Hall." When we asked where it was she said, "Oh, right here at store beside us and walked on. So here was another men's store way down in N.B. called Oak Hall. We are still wondering why.

Since it seems that summer is finally here, you might try to remain cool by reclining in an invisible chair. This is something new in 1960 and actually is a chair that you can see right through. It is like sitting in space and is said to be fine for lounging in on a hot summer's day. They tell us too that the cool airy look and the new designing is no more expensive than an older style.

Many changes are taking place in furniture construction with better design, reasonable prices, sturdy construction and lighter scaling characterizing the new products. Lighter construction and proportions enable better veneer and finer finishes. Homemakers are finding more and more polyfoam used in upholstered pieces instead of coil springs and preformed plastic frames instead of wood construction.

Another product that is becoming decorative after being strictly utilitarian all its life is the electric light bulb. The latest in bulb design introduces a new shape beauty tone bulb. It is a combination of two ideas — tinted bulbs, pink, aqua and candlelight — made in the new cylindrical shape of the eye saving bulbs.

An extension of comfort is given us in the twin side-by-side hammocks on one stand. They can be king-sized for the man of the family, or queen-sized with fringe and tassels for the lady of the house. There is nothing quite like a hammock to act a perfect tranquilizer at the end of a warm summer day —especially if it is gently swaying in the breeze. We see some difficulties ahead if the twin hammocks are not swung in unison.

For the young girl who is not quite so slim as her lucky sisters, there are now clothes for her which fit well and flatter the figure. These, of course, are specially cut and many of them feature waists that are elasticized for extra comfort. Stripes run vertically for a long look, and pull-overs are popular because they ignore the waist. These new cuts come in all types of summer clothes made to order for campfire cookouts and for movie dates as well.

We protest. After acquiring a suntan for the first time in many years, we find that the new look for summer, 1960, is the porcelain look. It is unquestionably feminine and the shade to be attained is ivory, not brown.

Shopping note from India — scooters are the thing in that country. Production of scooters has now reached the figure of 900 units per month. When the second unit goes into production the output is expected to go up to 1,500 units per month. Two more factories are under consideration. We may have to come it, too, if parking space gets any scarcer.

Bancroft Artist Displays Art Exhibit at McCarthy Theatre

It has been said that 'winter is a colorless time.' But, judging from the art exhibit now on display at the McCarthy theatre, in which winter scenes predominate, there is a subtly of color which is most pleasing, captivating and refreshing. If one takes a patch of snow, studies it in light and shade, one is struck with the many tones of color therein, and especially when the snow is 'lifted' to the drooping branches of an evergreen, it becomes a riot of subdued colors.

The creator of this exhibit, M. Strudwick has portrayed winter's charm in depth and reality. One scene, especially, gives the feeling of softly falling snow half hiding the little church among the trees. A very pretty piece of work, catching the 'feel' of the silent storm.

Others include single evergreens with snow-laden branches; denuded trees with snow-flecked trunks and limbs; farm buildings in winter; little homes huddling together surrounded by naked trees; freshly shoveled drive and roadways; all showing a vitality that life goes on even without a figure being seen.

THE OLD MAPLE

An attractive piece is the old maple with its snow-touched branches and the little evergreens round about with their icy fingers pointing to the leaden sky; and in distant dimly visible buildings. A lively bit of color is the painting with the red barn, the partly hidden home in the distance, the little building covered with snow and the golden russet and green hills in the background; another touch of winter magic.

The autumn scenes are well done; especially that of a lovely maple in its dress of scarlet, gold and green with a 'split-level' — old time style home — distant hills and foreground of shrubs. This might be called "Autumn in the Hills." It brings to mind a similar spot among the hills back of Smithfield which the writer of this article once sketched sitting on the running board of the car. An uncle lived in the little split-level depicted in the exhibited painting.

Among the summer scenes was one of a group of farm buildings, which show keen observation, with gradations of color in rich deep greens predominate and the distant, misty hills.

SHOWS VERSATILITY

That the artist is quite versatile is noted by the portrait pictures; one of a girl in pensive mood, and one of a young man with cleft chin and broad forehead. Much character is portrayed. That of the lady in the long green cloak with red dress just showing around the open "V" at the neck, the light scarf she has discarded for the moment, the heavy goloshes and the general pose has a foreign accent. Nicely done.

Other paintings are of still life, and include a yellow cornucopia spilling outgolden oranges, red delicious apples; purple grapes, and perhaps a pomegranate. And another shows lemons, eggplant, oranges and grapes and rosy-cheeked apples rolling from a green bowl. In both pictures the backgrounds provide spots of contrasting color.

There is decided talent shown, good composition and a fine color appreciation, though sometimes a tendency to 'belabor' a portion unnecessarily.

Bride-to-Be Presented With Many Gifts

WEST HUNTINGDON—Mrs. Clayton Wright and Mrs. Don Bates were co-hostesses for a miscellaneous shower for Miss Sandra Wilson, bride-to-be. Miss Lois Cooke was director of ceremonies and, following community singing, helpful readings were given by Mrs. Russell Sills, and Mrs. Frank Hammond.

Mrs. Don Bates gave the special address and Sandra was presented with a large array of handsome and useful gifts, for which she voiced her appreciation. Following this, lunch was served.

CHAIRS: BOTH STRAIGHT AND ROCKING

(Part One)

• • •

"Persons are to be loved; things are to be used."—Reuel Howe.

Do you consider the concept of a chair, as we know it, an old one, or as being fairly new?

It was a shock to us to learn that the everyday piece of furniture of our western culture, the chair, dates no farther back than Columbus' time!

On page 268 of Mr. Siegfried Giedon's "Mechanization Takes Command" appears this statement: "The Chair Makes Its Appearance, ca 1940." And there is a photo of such a chair that was a part of the original furniture used in the famed Strozzi palace in Italy.

As pieces of furniture, exquisite chairs refine our way of life. When a really lovely little walnut chair, greatly admired, was finally purchased by a lady in Montreal from its owner who had once been a prisoner-of-war, he said to her:

"I'm glad it is going to someone who loves it as you evidently do. It is good to have about one really beautiful things. And I know! Though such a crushing experience as imprisonment leaves a trace of gold in that one learns, to humbly accept reality and that man's greatest liberty is the space where his soul moves freely: his mind; yet there are bound to be scars. Because to be treated roughly, without respect, coarsens. Physical gestures do have a bearing on humanity. All place a mark on a man. The joy of returning to a white cloth on the table, to crisp fine linen sheets, to comfortable and grace giving furiture, after having to eat and sleep in crude surroundings, can never be appreciated fully enough by those who have never lost them. Yes, these things have an importance in our lives."

As heirlooms, or a treasuries of memories of other eras and times, chairs are held in great store by many people. When a director of an American school of design opened a branch in Paris, she lived with her sister, Fay, the eldest of the family married to an American dentist who had a good practice in that city. She relates:

"Fay used to spend most of her time just going to antique places, and I would tell her she should spend, at least a little of her time, seeing some of the sights of Paris.

"Well, one day, she came home with two of the oddest chairs you have ever seen. In the first place, they were very old. She had gotten them in some antique dealer's place away on the out-skirts of Paris. He told her they were valuable, because they were painted black".

"Black! But that is strange . ."

"Well, she remembered that back in the days of the Louis, you know . . . Louis XIV and Louis XV and so on, it used to be the fashion if anyone died in an extremely well-to-do household, to plunge everything into mourning".

"You mean, even the furniture?"

"Even the furniture. All of it was painted black".

"Then, these chairs were . . ."

"That's what she had to find out. If these chairs were really "mourning ones" they would be a splendid find. So she took them to an old cabinet maker who did a great deal of her refinishing for her. Well, you know how they do things in France. Time means nothing. Each time she went to see if the chairs were ready, she always came away disappointed. There they stood, still untouched. And there was always some excuse.

"One day, she found they had not only been touched but taken apart and placed in separate little piles, like two stacks of kindling wood.

"You have two treasures, that is certain' " Fay was told, " 'I had to take them apart to find out. I have found they are very, very old, and — painted' "

"You can imagine how thrilled Fay was! More than ever now, she urged the elderly cabinet maker to reconstruct them as quickly as possible. She was giving a party and wished to have them ready for it.

"When she called, expecting to find them ready for her, there they were; still piled up neatly, untouched. The man's wife said: 'Madame, my husband is in bed. Very ill. It looks as if, Madame, he isn't long for this world. There isn't much hope for his recovery.'

"My sister was greatly alarmed. If the man died, she would have great difficulty in getting back her chairs. She discovered he was not having medical care. So Fay got in touch with a doctor. The doctor said he should have a nurse for the patient. Fay got one. The doctor told her the patient should have certain medicines. Fay bought them. She did everything. To tempt his lagging appetite. she bought all kinds of delicacies.

MORE MORE

TAKE FOUR SECOND LT

"Slowly, but surely and finally, her cabinet-maker recovered, and after a great lapse of time, her chairs were reassembled.

"She has them in her drawing room. They don't look it, but they are the costliest of any other pieces in the room. To have them, at last, cost her a small fortune!"

Friends Honor Future Bride With Shower

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday evening, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer was the scene of a happy event, when Misses Patsy Spencer, Anne Reid and Sharon Fry were co-hostesses at a shower for their friend, Dorothy Martin, in honor of her approaching marriage.

The recreation room was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and bells; also a decorated chair prepared for the guest of honor.

The guests, numbering about 30, of Dorothy's relatives, and close friends, spent some time compiling a recipe book which was presented to the bride-to-be. The three young hostesses conducted several contests and games, and Anne Reid read a brief address, while Patsy Spencer trundled in a decorated wheel-barrow, loaded with gifts for the guest of honor. Dorothy replied, thanking all for their lovely gifts and thoughtfulness.

Dainty refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

MODERN MANNERS

Question: I recently attended a funeral and was amazed to see the dead man's widow all dresed up in flowing black silk, large black picture hat, and, to top it all off, a big, white, double orchid corsage. She is a woman of about fifty, and it all seemed a little overdone to me. What do you think?

Answer: That the whole picture is in bad taste. Although, today, we do not go into the severe mourning that was considered necessary years ago, there is still a certain decorum that should be observed. For the wife of the deceased to appear at his funeral looking like the "Merry Widow" is certainly not showing dignity or anything else! The corsage leaves me speechless! A corsage is worn to celebrate a special, happy occasion. This would seem to be rather an odd time to wear one, to say the least.

Question: I am all mixed up! Is it proper to send invitations for the wedding ceremony only, and not invite some people to the reception that is to follow? This seems rude to me, as some who have been invited go on to the reception and others go home! I am to be married in September and would like to know what to do.

Answer: The usual procedure is to invite acquaintances, and people that you wnat to show a courtesy to, for the church services. They appreciate the honor. Those asked to the reception are relatives, close friends and business associates. If you follow this plan, no one's feelings will be hurt.

QUESTION:

I would appreciate if you could send me your recipe for Spiced Pork Hocks as I can't seem to find mine . . . Mrs. L.M.

ANSWER:

SPICED PORK HOCKS:

Soak fresh pork hocks in cold water in cool place overnight. Drain. In large kettle cover them with water and add 6 peppercorns, 2 bay leaves, 1 sliced onion and 1 stalk celery with leaves. Cover and simmer 4 or 5 hours or until meat falls from bones. Drain and discard liquid. Pick meat from bones. For every 2 pork hocks heat together to boiling point 1 cup vinegar, 1 or 2 teaspoons salt, and just enough water to cover meat (not more than 1 cup). Add pepper as desired. Put meat in earthen crock, pour hot vinegar mixture over to cover. Store in cool place or refrigerator — remembering that this is fresh meat and will not keep more than about 5 or 7 days, even if well refrigerated.

QUESTION:

Would you by any chance have a recipe for old-fashioned homemade spruce beer? The one I used to drink years ago was white and not at all like the brown, soft drink that . . . is making. My family and I hope you possess such a recipe so that we can make some this summer. . . . Mrs. L. C.

ANSWER:

I have never made Spruce Beer of any kind, but from a formula encyclopedia I have this recipe for

WHITE SPRUCE BEER:

Five pounds loaf sugar are dissolved in 4 gallons of boiling water, then 2 fluid ounces of spruce essence are added. When almost cool add 1-2 cup of liquid yeast. Place in warm, not hot place and after 24 hours strain through a piece of flannel and bottle.

QUESTION:

I wonder if you could help me with a problem? Several times lately I've found a rubbery layer, 1-4 to 1-2" thick, and often honeycombed in appearance, at the bottom of a chiffon cake which otherwise has excellent texture. It happened yesterday when I tried your recipe for Lemon Chiffon Cake . . . It always occurs with the enclosed . . . Recently some lady commented on the use of lard as an inexpensive shortening. I have often wondered why you never mention the use of poultry fat in this respect. A large boiling fowl (which I always thought to be good and versatile buy) will yield nearly a cup of fat which is equivalent to 1 1-2 cups butter or 1 1-4 cups shortening. I particularly like the ease of measuring poultry fat and have never found it to leave any flavor in the baked goods. Have you ever come across a recipe for apple candy? . . . Leslie G.

ANSWER:

I have forwarded recipe for Apple Turkish Delight. Yes, I like poultry fat and mention it when I do use it in my cooking. It may be substituted when soft fat or shortening is required, and in tea biscuits, chocolate cakes, gingerbread and other well-flavored batters and doughs.

Stop using the chiffon cake in question. Beat the egg whites longer in my recipe. It is impossible to overheat them for chiffon cakes. Also beat the yolks mixture longer. Be sure your bottom burner in oven is working efficiently.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Sandra G. — We should have nothing further to do with our brother.

June D. — She is disloyal.

• • •

Sandra G. — I am a happily married woman, but right now terribly disturbed about my younger brother.

A few weeks ago his wife, Grace, came to me and told me that Hank is having an affair with a younger woman and wants a divorce. I was horrified. They have two adorable children and I thought they were very happy. I tried to talk my brother out of this madness, but couldn't get to first base.

Grace also talked to my sister, June, trying to get help. June talked to Hank and he succeeded in convincing her that he is doing the right thing. I am shocked at June! I feel we should have nothing to do with Hank if he persists in this horrible plan.

• • •

June D. — As Hank says, Sandra is only willing to listen to one side of a story. She is ready to put the blame on the man without taking all factors into consideration.

I have always been closer to Hank than Sandra and I feel I understand him better. He has never been happy in his marriage. He didn't want it in the first place and was more or less trapped into it. He and Grace have little in common and he has found her emotionally unresponsive.

I am pleased that Hank has managed to find some happiness. In any case, I wouldn't turn my back on my own brother, no matter what he did. Grace has been very stupid in trying to line us up on her side.

The Council: We agree that Grace hasn't been particularly wise in going for help to her sisters-in-law. If loyalty to wife and children has so little meaning for Hank, his sisters' views are unlikely to be of great concern to him. However, we don't blame Grace for reaching out for any possibility of aid in her terrible trouble.

The question here is really the attitude the sisters should take. We think Sandra is perfectly justified in feeling as she does, but she is wrong in attempting to form a family boycott against her brother. She has told him how she feels. That is sufficient. If she does not want anything further to do with him that is also understandable and fair enough, but it is not her responsibility to make an outcast of him.

On the other hand, we think June is taking too much upon herself by giving her brother sympathy and encouragement. The story he gives her is not necessarily complete or true. Even if it were, June is not in a position to act as an objective adviser. It may well be that her brother will eventually regret the course he has chosen and she will bear the brunt of his resentment for encouraging him to do the wrong thing.

In such a case, it is best for the family to stay clear of the situation. If they refuse to become involved, Grace and Hank may be forced to take their problems to those who can be more helpful, like a clergyman or a family agency.

Yankees Drop Fourth In Row To Tigers

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Guy Lombardo told me in a personal interview in Peterborough a few weeks ago that he believed the United States would take back the Harmsworth trophy in Picton in August.

Lombardo is a Canadian at heart. He was born in London, Ontario, and with his brothers made a name for himself in musical history.

At the same time, Guy is a speedboat enthusiast at heart. He has owned and driven his hydroplanes to victory in the United States Gold Cup and other speedboat classics.

He knows, as all Americans in the famous Harmsworth races know, that their proud ownership of the famous Harmsworth Trophy that rested with them for the past thirty years, lies here in Canada.

It was won from them last year by a Canadian boat, "Miss Supertest III." And won rightly.

Next month, August 19, 20 and possibly August 22, three "Yankee" speedboat invaders will attempt to wrest the Harmsworth Trophy from this Canadian upstart.

Bob Hayward, driver of the crack Canadian champion, and owners Col. J. Thompson and son Jack have other ideas.

They figure "Miss Supertest III," the first Canadian winner and defender of the Harmsworth Trophy can retain this famous trophy for this country.

Firstly, as a staunch Canadian, and secondly as a speedboat enthusiast, we go along with that.

But there is a gimmick, if you can call it that.

She has to meet the challenge of at least three American boats. That is the rule of the Harmsworth Gift of Deed.

Any nation can enter three boats. This is the last year for that.

And the Americans have entered three boats. That makes the odds three to one.

"Miss Supertest III" must be at peak point as she will be.

But the Americans have, as was noted, three boats. Two can conk out, so to speak. The third can continue. The Canadian boat can conk out but once. She, and Canada, is finished. A remaining Yankee boat can be rowed around the course and be the winner.

Personally we do not like the set-up. But there is nothing much that can be done about it since Canada has not seen fit to produce a pace horse or horses for her champion.

However, the odds are not worrying the Thompsons of London, Ont., or driver Bob Hayward. They feel confident that the champion that brought the Harmsworth Trophy to Canada will retain it for this country.

Be that as it may.

The classic is about five weeks away. There is no news from the Americans as yet. It is an ominous silence.

Ontario Amateur Golf

Youngsters Clash in Semis

By HARVEY SHEPHERD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Two deadly young men who can wreck par clashed today in the semi-final round of the Ontario amateur golf championship.

Nick Weslock of Toronto and Dave Morland of North Bay were to match strokes in the other semi-final. The winners of each round were to meet later today for the crown.

Brownlee, a slight 120 pounds, had the most impressive unofficial medal-play record in the tournament, which began Wednesday. Ontario junior champion in 1957 and 1959, he shot an unofficial total of 13 under par in four 18-hole rounds of match play Thursday and Friday. However, in match play some putts are conceded.

ELEVEN BIRDIES

In two matches totalling 29 holes Friday, Brownlee had 11 birdies and 17 pars. He was over par once. He walloped Bruce Castator of Toronto, 1958 Canadian amateur champion 6 and 4 Friday and went on to advance against highly regarded Ken Doig of London 5 and 3.

Cowan, with an unofficial three birdies and 14 pars Friday, was Canadian and Ontario junior champ in 1956, a Willingdon Cup team member in 1957 and 1958, as well as this year, and a finalist in last year's Ontario Amateur.

Cowan eliminated Tom Woodall of Toronto 5 and 3 in Friday's opening round. The first in which golfers played from championship tees, which gave the par-72 course a yardage of 6,745. In the quarter-final Cowan overpowered Colin Brown of London 7 and 6.

"I only wish I was meeting Gary in the final instead of the semi-final," he said.

BEATS MASON

Weslock, 42, beat Bob Mason of Welland 1 up and Jim Currie of London 3 and 2. Canadian amateur champion in 1957, Ontario amateur and Ontario open champion three times each and a Willingdon Cupper this year, Weslock led the 18-hole qualifying round of this year's amateur Thursday with a five-under-par 67.

Morland, 1955 Willingdon Cupper, beat Gary Black, 16, of St. Catharines Ontario juvenile champion, 3 and 1 and advanced to the semi-finals against RCAF Corporal Gus Brault of St. Thomas 2 and 1.

STAMPS TRADE BACK

REGINA (CP) — Ron Kelly, fullback and linebacker with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union for the last three years, has been traded to Saskatchewan Roughriders. Riders gave up Canadian centre Dale Parsons and an American player on their negotiation list whose name was not disclosed.

Indians Cut Bomber Lead

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The hot bats of Rocky Colavito and Brooks Robinson have hammered the American League pennant race into a tight, four-team package.

Colavito's tie-breaking homer triggered a six-run third inning for Detroit as the Tigers rapped New York 8-4 Friday night and tagged the Yankees with a four-game losing string for the first time this season.

It was Rockey's fourth home run in three games and chopped New York's lead to 1½ games over second place Cleveland. The Indians beat Washington 4-0 as Jim Perry won his 10th with a four-hitter.

Robinson became the first AL player to hit for the cycle—home run, triple, double and single—in three seasons, going 5-for-5 with three RBI as Baltimore beat Chicago 5-2.

The Boston Red Sox, winning five in a row for the first time this season, took a 2-1 decision at Kansas City.

18TH HOMER

Colavito's 18th home run came with two on and handed Art Ditmar (7-6) a third straight loss after the Yankee right-hander blew a 3-0 lead. Eddie Yost and Frank Bolling also homered for the Tigers as Don Mossi (8-6) beat the Yankees for the third time.

The southpaw ace did it with a five-hitter, giving up Mickey Mantle's 21st home run, with two on, in the first. Mossi then blanked the Yanks until Elston Howard's sacrifice in the ninth.

Robinson homered along with Jackie Brandt in a two-run third that brought the Orioles from behind. The Birds then beat Billy Pierce (7-5) with a clinching run in the sixth on Gus Triandos' double, Jim Busby's single and a passed ball. Milt Pappas (8-6) allowed five hits, one Roy Sievers' 13th home run, for his fifth victory in his last six decisions.

HITS FOR CYCLE

Reliever Turk Lown gave up a two-run triple in the ninth by Robinson, who had two singles and has upped his batting average from .214 to .296 since June 4. He's the first to hit for the cycle in the AL since July 23, 1957, when Mantle did it—also against the White Sox.

Perry (10-4), a right-hander overlooked in the all-star selections, walked just one and struck out one while wrapping up his second shutout, both over the Senators. The Indians made it nine in a row over Washington with two runs in the first two innings off Pedro Ramos (5-10).

The Red Sox beat Bud Daley (12-5), the majors' top winner, in the first inning, scoring their two on doubles by Pete Runnels and Frank Malzone and a single by Vic Wertz. Bill Monbouquette (9-7) won it with a seven-hitter, blanking the A's on five hits and striking out nine over the last eight innings.

Freddie Was Tough

All Out, None In, No Contest

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

They breed 'em tough "down under".

Fred Atkins, who was Public Wrestling Enemy Number Three here ten years ago is just as tough and "ornery" as he was then.

And they had quite a brawl with the handsome agile Italian brothers the Bravos.

It was a good show with tough Freddie bringing all his wile and craftiness into play. You can take it any way you like, the Aussie is still one of the best, good or bad, for this reporter's money.

And the Italians thought so too, for they played tag or ring around Rosa in the third fall, and Referee Joe Gollab got tired of waiting and counted the hull kit and kaboodle out.

The Atkins-Kalmikoff duo drew the first blood, figuratively, that is. The Italians drew the third blood, a neat Russian Red streamed from Ivan's private eye after one of the Italianos got through trying to push a Russian optic to the back of the Siberian head.

That is what actually started the outside-the-ring hassle. The foursome got to clobbering one another until, as was noted, the ref. got tired of waiting, besides it was late, so that was it.

Lithe and agile as they are, the boys from Naples or is it Milan found the tough Aussie quite a customer. In fact, Freddie got in his licks in the first fall and before one of the Neapolitans or is it Milanese could say au riverderchi, he had had it but good.

It was different in the second chapter when the youngsters took the honors.

In the third semester they went to work on Ivansky and had him weeping gore but plenty. The Atkins-Kalmikoff pair then went a bit berserk, and out of the ring went the whole works.

Riders Seek Ideas to Add Seats

OTTAWA [illegible] — A four-man delegation representing the Ottawa football club is visiting Hamilton and Detroit today to pick up ideas for adding 7,000 seats at Lansdowne Park, home of Ottawa Rough Riders.

President Barry O'Brien of Riders, and president Don Reid of the Central Canada Exhibition Association, owners of the stadium, head the group. O'Brien said before leaving that Ottawa can't "remain in football more than five years unless we get those seats." Capacity now is 19,500.

The exhibition association sought a $250,000 loan from the city last May to handle the project and the request still is being considered.

Meanwhile, club manager George Terlep announced Friday that holdout players Larry Hayes, import linebacker, and Merv Collins, a Canadian guard-tackle, have both signed — and been fined $200 each for missing a week's practice.

Dodgers Dump Giants

Braves Move Up; Redlegs Clip Bucs

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Ernie Broglio? He's my guy," said manager Solly Hemus of the sparked-up St. Louis Cardinals. "He's done the job as a starting pitcher or in relief."

That was a couple of days ago after the Cardinals had won nine of 13 games and moved into a fourth-place tie in the National League race. Broglio had won three of them, two in relief against Milwaukee Braves and the other in a complete game against Los Angeles Dodgers.

The six-foot-two righthander, a fast-balling 220-pounder, Friday night added the best game of his two-year career in the majors, allowing just one hit and striking out 14 men in a 6-0 victory over Chicago Cubs.

That left the Cardinals alone in fourth place, seven games behind the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates who lost 4-1 to Cincinnati Redlegs. The second-place Milwaukee Braves moved to within three games of the Pirates by beating Philadelphia Phillies 7-5. Third-place Los Angeles, a half-game ahead of St. Louis, defeated San Francisco Giants 5-3 and dropped the Giants to fifth.

JUST ONE SINGLE

Broglio (10-4) giving up only a second-inning single by Ed Bouchee and walking just two men, rolled up the top nine-inning strikeout total of the year in the National League for his fifth straight victory and first shutout of the season.

The Cardinals with Stan Musial driving in two runs and Carl Sawatski hitting a homer, made it two in a row over Don Cardwell (4-8).

The Reds, after losing eight straight games to the Pirates, beat Friend (10-6), with two first-inning runs. They got them when Vada Pinson rapped a run-scoring single, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored the clincher on Wally Post's sacrifice fly.

Joe Adcock hit a grand-slam home run in the fourth inning that got the Braves moving against Chris Short (4-6), and Ed Mathews' two-run double then won it in the fifth.

SPAHN'S 2000TH

Warren Spahn (9-6) gave up two home runs by Pancho Herrera and needed Ron Piche's help for the final out. Spahn walked one batter and struck out four, giving him 2,000 strikeouts for his 16-year career.

Duke Snider singled home two first-inning runs and Frank Howard hammered a 430-foot homer, his 14th of the year, as the Dodgers picked up their seventh victory in eight games and beat Sam Jones (11-9).

Snider's third single, a two-base error by reliever Billy O'Dell and Don Drysdale's sacrifice fly scored the clinching run in the third inning after a 24-minute delay because of fog at San Francisco.

Royals Whip Leafs Twice, Bisons Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jersey City manager Nap Reyes, branded a traitor in his native Cuba, left for Jersey City ball park today with a plain clothes detective at his side.

Reyes, who took over as field boss of the Jerseys when the International League moved the franchise out of Havana, was placed under 24-hour guard Friday after being termed "a traitor and an enemy of his own country" by the newspaper la Revolucion.

"I'm a baseball man. I go where I'm sent, and I'm not worrying," said the former major league infielder who played with the New York Giants.

Meanwhile, the Cuban-dominated Jersey lineup made an unsuccessful home debut before 7,156 fans who turned out to witness the return of International League baseball to Jersey City after a 10-year lapse. The Columbus Jets erupted for five runs in the eighth inning for an 8-3 victory.

In other games, Montreal knocked off league-leading Toronto in a doubleheader, 6-3 and 5-4. Second-place Buffalo split, winning the nightcap 5-0 after dropping the opener to Rochester 3-0. Miami slugged third-place Richmond 10-0.

The Jerseys held a 3-2 lead going into the eighth with Orlando Pena, one of the Cubans on the team, pitching in relief of starter Howie Nunn.

A double by Nino Escalero and Tom Burgess' single tied it up before Pidge Brown's single and a two-out, two-run double by Charley Rockwell brought the winning runs home. Southpaw Alvin Jackson (6-7) picked up the victory with relief help from George Spencer.

Doubles by Jack Waters, George Anderson and Jim King built a 3-0 Toronto lead in the first inning of the opener and Red Graber drove in the deciding runs for Montreal in the fourth with a two-run single.

A double by Mike Goliat and singles by Bob Catton and Jerry Snyder accounted for four runs in the eighth inning of the nightcap as the Royals overcame a 3-1 Toronto lead.

The Red Wings' Willard Schmidt (5-1) two-hit the Bisons in the opener, getting the only run he needed on Gene Oliver's first inning homer.

Art Mahaffey turned the tables by blanking Rochester on four hits in the nightcap for his 10th win with Don Landrum scoring the clincher in the night. Landrum singled and was forced around by two walks and a hit batsman. Dick Teed's grand slam then broke it open.

The cellar-dwelling Marlins got an eight-hit pitching performance by Jim Archer and banged 16 hits off Virginian hurlers for their sixth victory in eight games. Triples by Fred Valentine and Dick Brown were the key blows.

Bert's Bat Blasts

Cats Thump Deseronto 17-2

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Sparked by Bert Faulkner's "five-for-six" night at the plate, the Bobcats whipped Deseronto Athletics to the tune of 17-2 to pull two points ahead of Trenton in the B. and D. softball league pennant race.

The game was halted because of darkness at the end of the seventh but it was not soon enough for the Athletics. The 'Cats unleashed an 18-hit attack and with the help of eight Deseronto errors scored in every frame except the third.

Faulkner took over the league batting lead at .386 with four singles and a double in six trips to the plate. Every man in the Belleville lineup shared in the hit parade. Doug Hull hit a pair of triples and a double, scoring four times, Johnny Batchelor homered and doubled, Floyd Crawford tripled and doubled and Earl Cousins hit two singles. Doubles by Denny Hayden and Bob Green and singles by "Wiener" Brown and Gary Little completed the slaughter.

Bobby Green hurled three-hit ball on the Bobcat hilltop while striking out seven and giving up four free passes.

Pat Maracle stayed the route for the shorthanded Deseronto crew. He fanned nine and also walked four.

After scoring once in the first the 'Cats cut loose for seven in the second inning. An error started it all and after a hit-by-pitch, Little singled home two runs. Crawford doubled and Hull tripled home another pair. Faulkner and Batchelor added hits while wild pitches and passed balls helped.

Batchelor powered his first homer of the campaign with the sacks empty in the fourth. Six errors added to the home club's troubles in the fifth and sixth, while doubles by Faulkner and Hayden played prominent roles.

Deseronto finally got on the score sheet in the fifth. Al Maracle got a bad-bounce single, Hill was hit by a pitch and Bob Huffman singled one home. Bud Green's long fly scored the second. The loser's only other hit was a double by Randy Brant in the third inning.

Green's double and back-to-back triples by Crawford and Hull netted the winners' final pair in the seventh. Both Hull's triples were sure home runs but for the fact that the speedy shortstop was playing with a bad leg.

CBC Will Continue to Bid for Sports

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC is going to continue bidding for television rights on sports events—regardless of a suggestion to the contrary by a 1959 Commons committee.

The publicly-owned corporation's 1959-60 report, tabled in Parliament Friday, included this resolution among several adopted by the CBC board of directors during the year:

"That the CBC should continue to acquire the rights to sports events as and when necessary in the public interest."

Last year the special Commons broadcasting committee, in a critical appraisal of CBC affairs, strongly advised that the corporation get out of the costly commercial game of bidding for TV rights on major sports events such as professional football.

As the committee saw it, the CBC should limit itself to providing production facilities for telecasts and let potential game sponsors bid for the rights.

Since then the corporation has paid $437,500 for professional football TV rights for the 1960 season.

In April it concluded a $312,500 deal — the same as in 1959 — for television broadcasts of 21 Big Four league games and three playoff games.

It paid $125,000 for Western Interprovincial Football Union rights, covering 11 league games and a minimum of four and a maximum of five playoff games. Last year the CBC paid $117,000 to the WIFU for seven games.

Some of the 1959 committee members were reported displeased when the CBC took this action several months ago.

However, CBC officials have explained that the corporation is virtually forced into bidding for rights if it is to satisfy the public appetite for pro football.

The corporation has never lost money on football telecasts. Advertising time bought by sponsors always has been enough to write off the cost of rights plus expenses and make a small profit besides.

REPORT RING BROKEN

ROME (AP) — Italian police Friday reported breaking a ring of swindlers described by Rome newspapers as "Olympic games' first confidence men." Police arrested three persons and said they swindled 25 Italian hotel owners out of more than $3,000 in June. The trio posed as travel agency owners and took fees from hotel owners in small Italian towns on promises that they would rent rooms in the hotels to Olympic visitors.

Quebec's Royal Golf Family Had 16 Huots in Tournament

By W.R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The want-to-be-helpful fellow who told the golf gallery that "Huot is leading" spread more confusion than news.

There were 16 Huots in the big pro-amateur tournament at the Granby-St. Paul club 50 miles east of Montreal.

Quebec's Royal Family of Golf was out in full force—brothers, sons, nephews, uncles and cousins.

Jules, the veteran of them all and Rudolphe are the best-known Huots in Canadian big-time golf. They rank among the top Canadian pros. Yet the rest of the Huots, pro and amateur, can also do a workmanlike job at golf. They play mostly in tournaments within Quebec, and a few of them might be classed as businessmen-golfers—all avid players.

OWN TOURNAMENT

Unhappily for the Huots, none of them among the field of 200 won the pro-amateur tournament at Granby-St. Paul. But there was a separate tournament there for the Huots only.

Let's try this again. There are eight pros and eight amateurs in la famille Huot du golf.

Eight of the older Huots are brothers — four pros and four amateurs. In the younger generation there are three golfing brothers in one family and two in another, sons of golfing fathers.

SAME FIRST NAMES

If this scrambles up the relationship as to uncles, cousins, nephews and so on, just wait.

In the clan are two Maurices and two Raymonds and —so help us — a Gerard-Raymond and a plain Gerry.

Jules is the patriarch. He started as a caddy in his native Quebec City. He became an assistant pro and finally a full-fledged pro. A few years ago he moved from the Royal Quebec Club to the swanky Laval-sur-le-Lac Club in suburban Montreal. Rodolphe—Rudy—now is pro at Royal Quebec.

To get things sorted out let's start with the eight older Huot brothers. They are:

Emmanuel, Maurice, Ulric and Benoit—all amateurs and members of Royal Quebec.

Emmanuel has three golfing sons: Gerard - Raymond and Claude, both pros at present unattached, and Paul-Yvon, an amateur at Royal Quebec.

Gerry has two golfing sons: Raymond, pro at the Esterel Club, and Maurice—don't get him mixed with the other Maurice—an amateur and member of the Sherbrooke Country Club.

Finally there's the other Raymond. He's a son of Roland and is an amateur, member of the Lorette Club.

Durelle Date With Friend Didn't Click

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP)—Failure of Canadian light - heavyweight Yvon Durelle to appear for a July 4 Augusta boxing bout may have resulted from an arrangement with a "friend of a friend" that didn't click.

The Maine Boxing Commission was told by promoter Arthur Terrell at a hearing Friday that neither he nor the matchmaker made contact with Durelle or his manager. They left arrangements up to another man who said he knew a friend of Durelle.

Matchmaker Jackie Nichols said there was no written contract for the bout with Augusta boxer Paul Wheelock because the bout was to have been only a sidelight on an otherwise all-wrestling program.

Nichols told the commission he talked with wrestler Emile Dupre of Moncton, N.B., who said he had a friend who knew Durelle and could arrange the bout. It was left with Dupre to make the contact.

When Durelle hadn't appeared late on July 4, a call was made to his home in Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. and his wife said he was still in town.

The commission received a letter from Chris Shaban of Moncton, who said he is Durelle's legal manager. Shaban wrote that he knew nothing about an Augusta match until he received a telephone call from commission chairman Russell Bryant after the date of the supposed bout.

Wall Leads Members Open

Wall, 36, former Masters champion, broke a record set in 1951 and gave him a two-stroke lead with a 137 total, seven under par, at the 36 - hole mark.

Four players trailing by two took part in the best shooting this course has ever seen. They are Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Pete Cooper, Jim Ferree and young Tommy Jacobs all deadlocked at 139. Ferree and Leonard had 68s Friday, Cooper and Jacobs 69s.

Raise Funds For Oarsmen

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A fund - raising campaign has been launched here to provide $5,000 expenses for four members of St. Catharines Rowing Coub competing for Canada in the Rome Olympics next month.

J.R. Leach, fund committee chairman, said the money is needed to cover the crew's travelling expenses and to buy a training shell.

Each of the four high school boys must pay $200 of his expenses. They will fly from Montreal Aug. 17 and their rowing event will be held 13 days later. Crew members are Frank Zielski, Clay Brown, Bob Adams and Chris Leach.

100 Metres In 10 Seconds

Vancouver Youth Fastest In World

SASKATOON (CP) — An astounding time of 10 seconds flat in the 100 metres has stamped Harry Jerome of Vancouver as one of the fastest men in the world.

The 19 - year-old track sensation sped the distance here Friday in competing in the Canadian Olympic track and field trials, to become one of only two men in the world who have recorded the time.

In Zurich last June a German sprinter, Armin Hary, also sprinted the distance in 10 seconds but his record has not yet been officially recognized.

The record - shattering time by the Negro athlete was a complete surprise. His times in the qualifying heats were low, 10.7 and 10.8.

His electrifying speed, which might enhance Canadian chances in the Rome Olympics in August beat the established record of 10.1 first set by W.J. Williams of the United States in 1956.

Others who made that mark were I.J. Murchison of the U.S. and Leamon King of the U.S. who did it twice within a week in California in October of 1956.

Right up to starting time Jerome "couldn't say" whether or not he would be turning up the speed in the final.

"It's a thing you just have to feel," he said. "Sometimes it feels good and sometimes it doesn't."

There was a false start in the final when one of the runners broke early and a track official remarked at the time it would probably throw Jerome off if he was keyed for a record run.

The second start was good and Jerome broke from the starting blocks as if jet-propelled.

He was in the lead after his first driving steps and widened the gap all the way down to the line. At the finish he was 10 to 15 feet ahead of the second-placer, Lynn Eves of Victoria.

The wind gauge showed a breeze well below the four miles an hour - limit for a following or crossing wind. If it had been more, the record would not have been recognized.

Jerome took the news of his record calmly. He said in a brief interview.

"I got a good start and I guess I was ready for a good one. I haven't had a good run for a couple of weeks."

His victory almost assures him of a spot on the track and field squad Canada will send to the Olympics.

Jerome, a student at the University of Oregon, was born in Prince Albert, Sask., the second youngest of five children, son of a railway porter. The family moved to Winnipeg in the early 1940s and to Vancouver in 1950.

He started sprinting in 1958 after he decided he could beat most of the other students in the high school meets.

In his first test, an inter-high school competition, he showed his promise by knocking 1-10th of a second from Percy Williams' 22 - second record for the 220 yard event.

He and his sister Valerie became the first brother - sister entry in the Pan - American Games in Chicago in 1959, but did not place in the finals.

Bob Osborne, coach of the Canadian Pan - Am team, said at the time Jerome was the greatest Canadian sprinter since Williams.

In May of this year he ran three straight 100-yard times of 9.4, 1-10th of a second off the world record.

Williams, the man Jerome is being constantly compared with, astounded the world in 1928 when he scored upset victories in the 100- and 200 - metre events at the Olympics.

In 1930 he equalled the world record for 100 metres, 10.3, in Toronto. Two weeks after he pulled a thigh muscle in his left leg and the injury has never mended.

In other events athletes from Western Canada held the spotlight today in the first section of the Canadian Olympic track and field trials.

Geoff Eales, Vancouver, 1,500 metres; Alice Whitty, Vancouver, high jump; Doug Kyle, Calgary, 10,000 metres; Emmett Smith, Saskatoon, broad jump; Stan Raike, Toronto, shot put, and Pat Cole, Hamilton, women's 800 metres.

A Canadian record in the women's 100 metres competition was set by Nancy Lewington of Toronto with a time of 11.8 seconds. The former record was 11.9 set by D. Matheson of Montreal in 1956.

She was awarded the Ontario Championship Cup and the Sheffield Bowl. Mrs. McCarter received the Margaret Hamilton Memorial Trophy. She has reached the semi - finals seven times in eight attempts.

After her victory, Miss Woodley, whose chipping and putting was excellent, said: "I was lucky in spots and I got all the breaks. My putter was really hot and it was working overtime."

The lead changed hands four times before she took control on the 17th hole. Her medal - play score would have been 82 for the 18-hole morning round and 74 for the 16 holes in the afternoon.

Mrs. McCarter would have been 83 for the first round and also 74 for the other 16 holes.

Is It True, Asks Rush?

"There Aint Gonna Be No Moore?"

TORONTO (CP) — Promoter Dave Rush of Toronto said Friday night he will go to New York Monday to find "whether or not the world light - heavyweight fight scheduled for this city Aug. 8 is on or not."

Rush, co - promoter of the Archie Moore - Erich Schoeppner bout at the open - air Varsity Stadium with Feature Sports Inc. said in an interview "They've got to give me an answer then."

Rush said he will meet with Bill Fugazy, president of FSI; Roy Cohn, counsel for FSI; Jack Kearns, manager of titleholder Moore; Andy Neiderreiter of New York, American representative for Schoeppner, and others.

"I owe it to my community to let people know whether this fight is on or not," the Toronto promoter said. "People are arranging receptions for Schoeppner in Toronto, Kitchener and Hamilton. They are spending money and I want to make sure that all of this isn't in vain."

Rush, a Toronto businessman, said he has spent nearly $20,000 to date in promotion of the fight. "I've upheld my bargain in the contract with Feature Sports, and right now I don't even know if there's to be a fight or not."

Rush added:

"My part in the contract is to guarantee a gate of $150,000. I'll stick to my end of the bargain. If the gate doesn't reach this figure, I'll dig in my pocket and meet my obligation.

"The FSI, according to our contract, is to guarantee $200,000 for television and other rights. The closed - circuit television deal fell through and I was informed Friday that there is a letter in the mail to me from producer Lester Malitz of the American Broadcasting Corporation that the ABC can no longer hold the lines open for the Aug. 8 fight.

"Now, I'd like to know what FSI plans to do about their television commitment."

Seeks Bucks From Bucs

William Newman, 36, owner of a barbecue pit here, charged Stuart poked him on the knee at San Francisco's Candlestick Park June 15.

It caused Newman "much emotional distress and mental anguish, as well as bodily harm," Dusky said. Newman said he has been unable to work since the incident.

Cleroux Ready For Harris

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian heavyweight Bob Cleroux of Montreal arrived Friday from his New York training camp for his July 27 bout with Roy Harris of Cut 'n' Shoot, Tex., at Delorimier Stadium.

Cleroux, a contender for George Chuvalo's Canadian title, will be taking on tough opposition in Harris, ranked 10th in world heavyweight standings. He is expected to arrive here sometime this weekend.

Trainer Whitey Bimstein said Cleroux is "a serious and ambitious fighter with a deep killer instinct which can flare with a single knockout punch."

U.S. Seeks Clencher Today

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — The United States will send a pair of 19-year-olds against Canada's Bob Bedard and Don Fontana today in a bid to clinch the first round of the North American Davis Cup tie in a doubles match on the clay courts of the Civil Employees Tennis Club.

Earl Buchholz and Charles McKinley, who grew up together in St. Louis, were nominated by U.S. team captain David Freed to go for the clincher.

Veterans Bernard Bartzen and Barry MacKay shot the Americans into a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series with victories in Friday's opening singles.

The nationally televised match will begin at 2 p.m.

Two other singles matches will be played Sunday afternoon regardless of today's outcome.

Bartzen, 33, lefthander from Dallas, Tex., was down two sets Friday before rallying to beat Bedard, Canada's No. 1 singles player, 5-7, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, in a gruelling thee-hour and 14-minute match.

MacKay, big power hitter from Dayton, Ohio, had a much easier time against Fontana, needing only 69 minutes to beat Canada's No. 2 player 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

The matches, in ideal weather conditions with the temperature in the high 70's, were watched by 2,000.

One more victory in today's doubles or Sunday's singles will assure the U.S. of a berth in the second round against Mexico in Mexico City Aug. 6-8.

Bedard, 28, of Sherbrooke, Que., threw a scare at the favored Americans when he came from behind to take the first two sets against Bartzen. He appeared to have the match in control until just before the end of the second when he suffered cramps just above his right knee.

Bedard led 5-4 in sets but trailed 40-15 in the 10th game when he tried to scoop a shot and his knee tightened. He took a brief rest, came back and made four successive good shots to win the set. But he seemed to fade after that and Bartzen was never in serious trouble in the next three sets.

MacKay was in top form and completely demoralized Fontana with his service. Fontana played gamely but could not match the play of his opponent who time and again found gaping holes for booming shots.

MacKay never trailed in the match and was tied only once, after the first two games of the second set.

T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Regardless of his training, skill and experience, a television technician must have proper equipment. For example: one technician in a shop must have a high quality Tube Tester, a Sweep and Marker Generator, an Oscilliscope and a Vacuum Tube Volt Meter. Although not essential, further aids would include a Transformer and Yoke Tester and a Test Pattern Generator.

Of course the technician must carry a kit of tubes. Since there are over 1,000 different types of radio and TV tubes, he cannot possibly have them all — but he DOES carry an impressive number of the most popular types.

The point is this: equipment such as we have mentioned is precision-built and thus expensive and stocks of tubes and spare parts are costly — which means that a TV technician must invest considerable money before he can put to use his special training and ability.

Whenever your TV set gives you trouble, remember that CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman Street, has this combination of skill, experience and proper equipment. This means that you get better service and repairs that cost you less in the long run. Phone WO 8-6791 for fast action!

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, July 17

General tendencies: You really want to break up existing conditions and to do so in a very argumentative fashion. Instead, see to it that you mind your manners and live in accordance with the principles and good manners under which you were raised, if you want to avoid considerable worry and keep the good will of allies.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Just the magic of a smile will drive away almost any opposition today, provided you do not dwell on any very important practical matters. P.M., important you show real affecti[illegible] wife, or husband. Be thoughtful, too.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Close ties may irk you a good deal today, but you must try to be understanding and kind or there can be a serious rift which will be regretted in the future. Rest if you do not feel well. That may be the trouble.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You may be in low spirits today, but if you make it a point to attend church, you will soon get out of the doldrums. By keeping cheerful for the remainder of the day, you will find that things work for you instead of against you.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — It is very likely that a loyal comrade will cooperate with you today in something that is very vital to you, if you are not so huffy that you annoy him, or her. P.[illegible] fine for social pleasures, esp[illegible]ally with intimates.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — It may be true that a higher-up is trying to take advantage of you today, but be sure you stand your own ground in a dignified way. Loss of temper could mean serious trouble, especially with officials.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You may feel that you are being cheated out of many things that rightfully belong to you and want to vent your ire on someone. This may be just the person who can help you, so be patient. Confer with wise advisers.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Your intuition is all wrong now and you are at your wit's end to know where to turn. But a good friend comes along at the right time with fine ideas. P.M. don't be jealous of anyone.

[illegible]io (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — [illegible]portant you choose your words well, for the slightest error could touch off an argument with associats whose nerves are also on edge. Results could be regrettable. Be ethical in all that you do or say.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are sorely tempted to leave all duty behind and go off on a spree when by applying yourself now, you could make rapid strides forward in career or business, plus becoming a model for others to follow.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You had better make this a day of pleasure but without spending too much money, since advisers or higher-ups are trying to lead you in the wrong direction and you would be making no progress at all. Keep smiling.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — [illegible]ortant you tend to vital aff[illegible] now and not get into discussion with those who are as determined as you are and could easily pick a quarrel with you on some current problem or venture. Meet your obligations, promises.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Forget those usual Sunday duties and confer with high-minded adviser or philosopher who will give you the right advice so that you may lead a happier life. Tenets learned today will make you a more successful person in the future.

If your child is born today... he, or she, will at an early age start to fight over everything that is desired. This is because the mind is very active and there is a great deal of physical energy as well. So, it is important you early give the sports and other activities that will best utilize this excessive force. Then the chart is wonderful for any work connected with government, especially in any police work capacity.

Make sure also that you do look for some very original way to perform your desires in an inventive manner, for mental ideas can now be reduced to a manual and workable expression. Action now.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be sure you follow that intuition today that is pecking away at you, since it will help to clear up any existing problems. Then be sure your books are set up more efficiently so that you do not run into the red. P. M. be with loved one.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Important you know exactly what is expected of you by associates. Ask questions if you do not comprehend fully. Then you can really make progress. P. M. go out socially with a good friend and have fun.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Begin week properly by gamely going after those duties that await you. Be your most efficient self. Evening is then fine for getting abode in better order and delighting all. Activity is the keynote now.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This is one of those ideal days when you can make plans and carry through with them almost as if by magic. Take the direct, positive approach. A cheerful manner with all wins the day for you. Be alert.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You can easily and efficiently handle all affairs connected with family ties. Get an early start, especially where property interests are concerned. P.M. take it easy at home and bring cheer to depressed members of family.

If your child is born today... he, or she, will have a rare ability to take on large projects during adult life and bring them down to a workable and by-and-large practical basis. However, you must early teach to study first any plan in mind so that a method can be set up to carry it through. Fine chart for the engineer, business man or woman.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Check Your Income Bracket Here And Learn 'How' You Will Retire

By THOMAS COLLINS

Here is a fairly accurate appraisal of the slot you are going to fall into when you reach age 65, take your pension, reserve funds and move out into the land of Oz.

You will insist to yourself that what follows simply does not apply to you. If it makes you happy, insist. But from what I am able to observe, about 90 per cent of the men who retire follow this pattern:

(1) The man who has a lot of money, ample money for anything he wants to buy —

This man has been in business, probably with a large corporation. Prior to his retirement date, because he had the qualities of success, he made some deals. He made a deal with his company to maintain a desk in the front office after he retired and be an adviser of sorts to the company or to be on the board of directors. He also has the services of a company secretary.

ENTERS CIVIC AFFAIRS

There's not much for him to do so he projects himself into the civic affairs of the community. This is a worthwhile thing to do from the standpoint of the company, and it's very fashionable nowadays. Also, it gives the fellow something to occupy his time.

This is not a very good retirement because ambitious younger people who are making a career of civic affairs keep pushing the old guy off the speaker's table.

But he perseveres and gets a fine obituary as a great civic leader in the newspaper when he dies.

(2) The man who has been making from $25,000 to $40,000 a year —

This man is, and has been, closer to bankruptcy than anybody realizes. This is the financial station in life that compels a man to live beyond his means. He must provide for a maid and a few club memberships and for income tax. When he retires, he and especially his wife and children have been accustomed to the fastest way of life in the world. The comedown to one-fourth his salary is something more than a privation. It is a family crisis.

This man cannot have a retirement desk at the office, has no appetite for the raw roast beef of the civic affairs luncheons, and also much pack up the bedstead and move. Where he has been living, to keep in tune with his success, is too expensive for a pension.

Maybe he has made connections for another job with another company but this new job is below the status level his success has entitled him to, and it's unpalatable to his family if not to him.

CAME UP RANKS

(3) The man who has been making between $10,000 and $15,000 a year —

This fellow, if he has been with a pretty good company, won't fare too badly. He probably came up from the ranks and his wife has not cultivated a taste for caviar. He will philosophize a good bit about retirement and tell you that he certainly should have been saving some money back in 1952 (when he and his wife were living it up on trips to Banff). He will complain considerably about inflation, the coldness of big companies, and will be willing to consider the proposition that socialized medicine might have been a good idea after all.

(4) The man who retires on an income of less than $10,000 a year, but more than $6,000 a year —

This is the child of the gods. He doesn't know how a Cadillac smells. His wife has never tasted caviar. His children do not think the world or their parents owe them a living. This is the man who can retire to a small town, call people by their first name, urge them to do the same, and be a human being without trying.

This man, so far as I have been able to determine, is the happiest retired man in the country. He doesn't have to prove anything. His wife is not pressuring him. He is just a people.

If you fit into any of these four financial brackets, you naturally think you do not belong. Maybe you don't. But don't kid yourself.

Your Car

Trouble Arrives With Removal Of Thermostat

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Few, if any, drivers who remove the cooling system thermostat each summer suspect they are mistreating their cars. Their intent is to avoid overheating, but the logic is faulty.

If the thermostat is working properly it will not cause overheating. If it's defective, it should be replaced. Here's why.

Engine wear is greatest during warm-up and without a thermostat a longer period is required to reach normal operating temperature and full lubrication. In other words, engine wear is increased when there's no thermostat.

When the thermostat is removed, cooling system water will tend to surge to the top of the radiator as the car travels at higher speeds, especially in warm weather. Water loss through radiator overflow and overheating can then result.

From A.M.: "What would cause too much steering play to develop on my 1954 sedan?"

(A) Looseness or wear in gear connections or front wheel bearings are frequently at fault.

D. M. asks: "Can overheating cause an engine block to crack?

(A) It can happen, but it would take extremely high temperatures to do it. Freezing is the more common cause of cracked blocks.

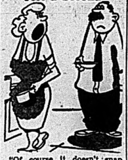
G. S. writes: "Oil pressure in my '53 engine was normal until I changed the oil and the filter a few weeks ago. Now the pressure is very high. I don't understand this."

(A) Perhaps the refill oil is too heavy. If not, the gauge and the pressure relief valve become the logical suspects.

AFRICAN PEAK

Cameroon Mountain in the British Cameroons, highest peak in West Africa, reaches 13,350 feet.

"Jest a Second"



"Of course it doesn't snap, crackle and pop, you great idiot. It's porridge."

Scohaire

SCOHARIE — Mrs. Maud Platford, Picton, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Payne for several days last week.

The Live Women's Circle was entertained at the home of Mrs. Garfield Pearsall, on Thursday evening with a good attendance. Next meeting will be held in the form of a picnic at Bruce Martin's, Outlet.

Y.P.U. members had charge of the church service on Sunday morning. There was a good attendance and everyone enjoyed the service.

Bloomfield W. M. S. is holding a food sale at Harold Cleave's store, Saturday morning.

Mrs. Roland Istead and wee daughter have returned home from hospital.

Mrs. Finley Hennessy and Paul spent last week holidaying in a cottage at Lansdowne with Mr. Hennessy, who is working there.

Mr. Ronald Hennessy enjoyed the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hennessy and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Algar, who are spending a week's holidays in a cottage at Gravenhurst.

Garden Notes

Your Own Rose Garden Over Night

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Potted roses can give you a rose garden over night. Not so long ago a rose bush had to be planted while in the dormant stage. As a result the buyer was often disappointed in the color of the blooms and stocks received through shipments were dried out in transit.

Sturdy bushes with well developed roots that will not be injured in transplanting are offered in potted roses. Then too, you can select the plants according to color since they will be in bloom at time of purchase.

NEW VARIETIES

Because of the clamor for more continuous bloom and disease resistant plants new types and varieties have come from the hybridists. In 1954 the newest class of roses, the Grandifloras, were introduced to the public. This was the answer to more flowers for indoors and outdoors. They were longer lasting both on the plant and as cut flowers. Some were of medium size others quite large with double blooms 24 to 36 petals each. Most of these bore their blooms in clusters and the plants were just the right height for modern gardens about four feet tall.

In this class you will find the now popular Queen Elizabeth, warm pink, Montezuma a deep raspberry rose shade, Buccaneer, deep yellow, Starfire a sparkly scarlet, and Roundelay vivid red.

The Florabundas like the Grandifloras bloom all through the summer and fall. The plants may be two feet or six feet tall. They are suitable for the back of a border, for solid bed, or edging. The dwarf types are excellent for planters. Jimminy Cricket, Vogue, Fashion, Fashionette and Ivory Fashion are two feet tall. Betty Prior is six feet tall. Wonderful for a hedge a mass of bright pink to red all summer.

Blaze is the new type Paul Scarlet. A climbing rose that blooms in brilliant color from June to frost. Others in this class are Dubloons, Dream Girl, New Dawn, and Prosperity. What ever you most desire, color, fragrance or long season of bloom you will find in one of these climbing roses. Use them wherever you would a vine, as a screen, to provide light shade, to drape an arbor or gate or to fan out over the side of a wall.

MINIATURE ROSES

For a tiny corner, a planter, a low edge, or a strawberry jar, pick the miniature roses. These are six to ten inches tall. May starts them into bloom and they carry on until heavy frost. The foliage is ample for setting off these tiny jewels. Choose from Pygmy Red, Pygmy Gold, Dwarfking, deep red, Rosa Roulette (four to six inch plants) a Swiss rose now grown in America. This is bright pink. Twinkles is white and there is a miniature Masquerade that astonishing rose which produced red, pink, orange and pale yellow blooms all on the same bush at the same time.

If you have a square foot or several square yards to spare plant a rose garden. It is not too late to have one this year, over night if you buy them as potted roses.

Madoc Junction

CONGO SITUATION 'WORSENED ALL OVER'

Cuba Catholics Demonstrate Against Reds

Latin American Lands Bring Pressure to Bear

In a switch from the "Cuba si! Yankees no!" chanted by Castro's followers on every occasion, churchgoers vented their feelings against the government trend following a mass dedicated to "victims of Communist persecution."

A handful of hecklers had to be rescued by a police car when they shouted "Cuba si! Yankees no!" at the throng that poured into cathedral square following the mass. Men and women pounded on the police car with fists and pocketbooks as the hecklers were escorted to safety.

Two uniformed but unarmed militiamen got the same treatment and had to be rescued by police.

CASTRO SILENT

Prime Minister Fidel Castro, reported mending after a lung infection, continued silent as the thorny dispute between his regime and the United States moved into world regional organizations.

Cuban Foreign Minister Aul Roa was to present a two-hour complaint against the United States in the UN Security Council today, charging U.S. economic and military aggression against Castro's revolution. U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge had a one-hour defence ready.

After the exchange of speeches, the two Latin-American members of the council, Argentina and Ecuador, planned to propose referring the dispute to the Organization of American States (OAS). The Havana Communist newspaper Hoy said any attempt to place the Cuban-American dispute before the OAS rather than the UN was a trap.

Cuban Defence Minister Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, arrived in Moscow Sunday. He is believed to be seeking more economic and military aid from the Soviet Union.

RUSSIA PLEDGED HELP

Soviet Premier Khrushchev, who will visit Cuba soon, already has pledged help for the island nation in its dispute with the United States. The U.S. administration in turn has warned that the United States will not tolerate Communist interference in Latin American affairs.

British informants in London said they expect Cuba and Communist China to exchange ambassadors soon.

The Chinese Reds today promised "all-out support" against U.S. intervention in Cuba. An economic mission from Peking, now in Havana, is expected to agree to large purchases of Cuban sugar to offset some of the effect of U.S. cancellation of 700,000 tons of its previously anticipated purchases.

TIGHTEN EMBARGO

DAMASCUS (AP)—Nine United States firms, including the Firestone International Company, and Studebaker-Packard Corporation, were blacklisted Sunday in all Arab countries along with 12 European and Asian firms for "violating Arab boycott regulations." The statement said the action was taken to tighten the eight-year Arab embargo against Israel.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba's swing toward the Soviet Union appears to be slowing under pressures from its Latin American neighbors, diplomats said today.

They pointed to:

A recent statement by a Cuban official that the Cubans would fight any attempt to make their island a Soviet satellite, Cuba's apparent retreat from veiled threats against the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay and Havana's mild rection to a proposed review of threats to western hemisphere unity.

The observations came as the Organization of American States prepared to give final approval by an overwhelming vote to a call for its foreign ministers to meet to consider menaces which affect hemisphere solidarity, the regional system and democratic principles.

The 2-nation OAS council meets at 4 p.m. EDT to approve Peru's resolution for the ministerial meeting.

MAY SHIFT CHARGE

Diplomatic sources at the United Nation said another resolution dealing with Cuba — a charge by the Havana government that the United States is guilty of economic aggression—may be relayed to the OAS.

United Nations representatives from Argentina and Ecuador were expected to propose the move today when the Cuban resolution goes before the security council.

Cuba's complaint to the UN accuses the United States of attempting what Havana called economic strangulation through government actions related to sugar and oil.

Representatives of 17 nations, in addition to Peru, approved the call for the OAS ministers' meeting. Mexican and Venezuelan representatives, awaiting instructions from their governments, did not vote on the councial call at a preliminary session Saturday in Washington.

The one-sided expression of opinion in the Saturday meeting was interpreted as strong Latin American aversion to Soviet interference in hemispheric affairs.

Britain Opens Big New Drive For Exports

LONDON (CP)—Britain today launches a big new export drive against a background of indications that the bloom is off the nation's boom.

Prime Minister Macmillan himself has taken on the task of telling the country's industrialists and businessmen that they must get out and sell more products overseas.

This is taken as an indication of the seriousness with which the government views the country's economic performance in recent months.

The latest indicators sketch out a picture of rising imports, falling exports, a slump in the monthly-payment buying spree and a big drop in Britons' spending at home.

The government is worried about the trading pattern as revealed by last week's provisional figures for June. During that month the trade gap widened to £99,000,000 from £60,000,000 in May—the highest since the post-Suez crisis month of January, 1957.

Last weekend 42 persons died while a record 122 deaths were recorded over the Dominion Day holiday long weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday showed 46 persons killed in traffic accidents this weekend. Drownings claimed 18 lives, one man was burned to death and seven other persons died in a variety of mishaps.

Congo Natives Seek to Keep Missionaries

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Congolese tribesmen are trying to stop American missionaries from leaving their posts in the interior of the Congo.

Messages received in Leopoldville by the American Mission Radio Centre said crowds prevented the landing of United States evacuation planes in several parts of Leopoldville and Kasai provinces.

The messages stressed the crowds were not hostile but simply wanted to head off the departure of men who served as doctors and teachers.

The newly-opened U.S. Embassy here announced that approximately half of about 2,000 Americans in the former Belgian Congo had been evacuated and most of the others were out of danger. But no contact had yet been established with several posts isolated by dense jungle.

Weekend Rains and Firefighters Control Fires in Tweed District

TORONTO (CP)—All but one of 29 forest fires burning in Ontario were reported under control today.

Lands and forest officials said weekend rains and the efforts of more than 600 firefighters had eased the situation during the last 24 hours. Most of the fires are in the Sioux Lookout, Geraldton, Fort Francis and Tweed districts.

Officials said some 165 fires, all but five caused by lightning, have burned out 18,000 acres of spruce and jack pine in the last 10 days. An unofficial estimate of the value of the lost timber was $500,000.

Water-bombing planes were credited with saving the cost of large ground parties in some cases. Flying tankers alone put out four small fires.

Canada's Trade Deficit Cut In Half by Rise in Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—Expanding export trade in the first five months of this year has helped chop Canada's trade deficit in half.

A trade deficit of $177,300,000 during the January-May period was reported today by the bureau of statistics. The figure compares with a $355,900,000 deficit a year earlier.

Exports climbed 13.8 per cent in the period to $2,144,800,000 from $1,885,000,000. Canada's import buying advanced by a more modest 3.6 per cent to $2,322,100,000 in January-May from $2,240,900,000.

Figures for May alone showed a similar picture, with the month's trade deficit slashed to $32,900,000 from $74,600,000.

May exports were up 12.8 per cent to $485,900,000 from $431,300,000 in May, 1959. Imports advanced 2.5 per cent to $518,800,000 from $505,900,000.

The trend toward closing Canada's trade deficit—the excess of imports over exports was reflected in all four main areas.

The January-May trade deficit with the United States was reduced to $336,900,000 from $379,600,000 a year earlier. The surplus in trade with the United Kingdom rose to $97,500,000 from $60,100,000 and with other Commonwealth countries to $24,500,000 from $20,100,000. A deficit of $56,500,000 in trade with all other countries in the first five months of last year was turned into a $37,500,000 surplus this year.

11 Underground Blasts in Next 2 Years Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States disclosed Sunday it plans 11 small underground nuclear explosions in the next two years as part of a research program to improve methods for detecting subsurface atomic blasts.

President Eisenhower on May 7 announced a new series of underground tests—the first nuclear tests of any kind to be conducted by the United States since late 1958.

Also during the next two years, possibly as many as 21 subsurface explosions involving conventional high explosives will be set off in the same program.

At the same time, the government gave new details of a less extensive research program in the field of detecting underground explosions which has been underway since 1948.

One of the major phases of this earlier program, it was indicated, has been an effort to keep tabs on any kind of earthshock activity—natural or man-made—originating in Russia.

The newer, and vastly expanded, program has two basic aims. One is to develop effective detection of sneak underground nuclear tests. The other is to explore the possibility of using nuclear explosives for peaceful purposes such as digging canals, diverting rivers for irrigation, and opening up new natural resources.

Rockefeller Will Not Second Nixon's Nomination for Pres.

Every current sign points to Nixon's nomination by acclamation at the convention that opens July 25.

But Rockefeller, hailed by Republicans as a bright, new light in the party after his upset election victory in New York in 1958, has kept himself out of this mainstream of Republican activity.

Although agreeing that Nixon "for all practical purposes" is the nominee, Rockefeller has kept himself open to a draft. Some think his arrival today with a large corps of advisers and consultants marks the beginning of a last-ditch effort to win the nomination.

Rockefeller is chairman of the 96-vote New York convention delegation, which he so far has held neutral. He may clarify his position today at a press conference.

Tuesday, Rockefeller will appear before a committee drafting the 1960 Republican platform.

Rockefeller will urge the committee to adopt his views on subjects ranging from nuclear testing — he wants it resumed — to medical fare for the aged — he thinks it should be handled through existing social security machinery.

On these and several other points, he is in conflict with the national Republican administration. He has said much has been left undone in the fields of civil rights, national defence and foreign policy, among others.

Rockefeller has refused consistently to endorse Nixon. In a television interview in New York, Rockefeller said he had turned down an invitation to second Nixon's nomination. He declined to say who extended the invitation.

FLYING FORTRESS USED TO BATTLE B.C. FOREST FIRES

275 Fires Burning In Kamloops Area

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — A B-17 Flying Fortress, capable of carrying 2,000 gallons of water, today joined 15 other aircraft as the battle against spreading forest fires entered its 12th critical day in the Kamloops forest district. There are 275 fires in the district and 66 of them sprang up during the weekend.

The aircraft, on loan from the United States, can drop its load as a single 2,000 gallon shower or as two separate 1,000 gallon drops. It will operate out of the Kamloops airport.

A temperature of 102, highest this year in the Kamloops area, Sunday brought urgent appeals for more firefighters to join an army of men that was expected to be more than 1,500 today.

The forest service "ran out" of volunteers from Kamloops and late Sunday drafted men off the streets in Princeton, 80 miles to the south to fight a blaze in the Spius Creek area, the largest so far.

Canadian Nuns Take Refuge in Leopoldville

ASBESTOS, Que. (CP) — Two Canadian nuns in the Congo have taken refuge in Leopoldville with others of their community, it was learned Sunday.

Mrs. Albert Gendron, mother of Sister Marie-Celine, said she has not heard from her daughter in more than a month. However, she received a telephone call from Rome recently and was told that nuns in the Congo have been placed under police protection in Leopoldville.

The family of Sister Marie-de-la-Paix said they have had no news of her.

The call to Mrs. Gendron came from the mother-house of the Roman Catholic religious order to which her daughter belongs, she said in an interview.

Govt. May Call Soviet Troops If Belgians Remain

First of UN Forces Taking up Positions

STANLEYVILLE, Congo (AP) Maj-Gen. Carl Van Horn of Sweden today took command of United Nations military forces in the Congo as Congolese officials threatened to ask Russian troops to intervene.

Van Horn arrived in Leopoldville from Palestine, where he has headed the UN truce mediation commission. Troops for his force were already on hand from Ghana., Tunisia, Morocco and Ethiopia—but most of the job of trying to restore order still fell on the 6,000 Belgian troops fanned out over the vast new central African nation.

UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold asked five more countries to send troops. Sweden said today that it was one of the nations asked. Others were reported to be Ireland, Yugoslavia, Burma and Haiti.

The continued presence of the Belgian troops angered the government of Premier Patrice Lumumba, and a cabinet minister announced that the Soviet Union would be asked to send in troops unless Belgium withdrew her forces within three days.

The Belgians made no move to comply. But Western officials were gravely concerned over the development.

The Congolese minister charged the UN force was not competent to deal with the situation.

(The UN security council, prodded by the Soviet Union, is expected to meet Tuesday for a report on implementation of its resolution calling on Belgium to withdraw its troops from the Congo. The Belgians had told the council they would not pull back until the UN force could protect the thousands of European settlers in the former Belgian territory.)

As Van Horn and his staff landed at Leopoldville, confusion reigned in the temporary military headquarters set up in the airport control tower. No one was sure of the task of the newly arrived UN forces.

Belgian paratroopers continued to occupy Leopoldville airport. They manned approaches to the airport, located about 12 miles east of the city, and several points in the European section of the capital.

A senior Belgian staff officer said Belgian troops would continue to hold the Leopoldville airport "as long as there is one ref-

Etna Explodes, Then Subsides

CATANIA, Italy (Reuters) — Sicilian peasants returned to their volcano-slope villages today as Mount Etna subsided in a cloud of smoke and dust after a noise eruption Sunday.

The peasants fled when the volcano exploded with a shattering roar, pouring streams of white-hot lava down the seaward slopes.

The explosion of the 10,800-foot volcano was described by persons living nearby as the loudest in living memory. It was called "unprecedented" by scientists at the Institute of Volcanology here.

Direct Mortgage Loans Will Be Made Merchant Builders by Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp easing of restrictions governing direct mortgage loans by the government, aimed at increasing winter employment in the construction industry, was announced today by Works Minister Walker.

In an announcement to the Commons, he also said that starting Sept. 1 the government will make direct mortgage loans to merchant builders.

The easing of restrictions on direct mortgage lending to prospective home-buyers involves the income ceiling for eligible borrowers. For some months government loans through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation have gone only to families with incomes between $5,000 to $5,600 depending on family size.

Effective Sept. 1, these income ceilings will be boosted by $2,000 to a $7,000-$7,600 range.

Mr. Walker listed several re

Mother of Six Awaits Word From Husband

AVONMORE, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Ione McMillan, 47, veteran Congo missionary who escaped Wednesday with her six sons from the strife-torn republic, today anxiously awaited word of her husband.

Rev. J. Hector McMillan stayed behind at Stanleyville, in the former Belgian colony, after loading his family on a plane Wednesday. He wanted to help other missionaries escape.

Mrs. McMillan and her sons, ranging in age from six to 13, are staying at the farm of a brother Archie McMillan near this town about 60 miles southeast of Ottawa.

Mr. McMillan, a missionary for 15 years with the Unevangelized Fields Mission, and his wife, in the field for 19 years, operated a boarding home for 26 children of missionaries attending school in nearby Stanleyville.

Only last Monday mobs shouted at her and a group of children she had brought to Stanleyville.

Mrs. McMillan said that when she left the Congo no missionaries had been hurt or mission property damaged. There are more than 200 Canadians, most of them missionaries, in the republic.

But the children attending school in Stanleyville had to be accompanies three times by troops "to protect them against the rocks hurled at them."

"It began with fights on the bus but later we found out little girls were not safe from the big black boys who travelled on it."

Mrs. McMillan said the Congolese obtained independence at least five years too soon.

They were not even ready she said to take advantage of the educational facilities available to them. She understood that Premier Patrice Lumumba had only primary schooling.

Thirty Youths Stage Fight At Claremont

CLAREMONT (CP)—Residents of this village 20 miles northwest of Oshawa asked for police protection Sunday night after a gang fight of 30 youths on the main street Saturday night.

One youth suffered a broken nose, others cuts and broken teeth from tire wrenchs and bicycle chains in a brawl that was broken up by provincial police.

One of the gangs warned would return Sunday night. Police roadblocks were set up on three sides of the community to halt the gang but were taken down about 10 p.m. EDT.

Police said about 20 members of the Golden Hawks Motorcycle Club of Oshawa arrived Saturday night. A fight started with Robert Forsythe, 19, of Uxbridge who called for help. About 1 Claremont teen-agers came t his aid.

The local group said all attackers piled upon Forsythe before he called for help.

Two provincial police cars were called to the scene. The youths dispersed when the cruisers arrived, sirens blaring.

Police detained six youths, but released them after questioning.

Claremont youths said the Oshawa group was out to even score with Forsythe because highway incident last week.

Local Netters Take Lead in Oshawa Series

Belleville-Trenton coasted to a long 13-1 lead in the opening home and home series with Oshawa played on the courts of the Quinte Club Saturday.

The Belleville team was picked from the results of ladder standing within the club and the results of consistent competition for positions was apparent in the one sided victory.

Bill Redquest was outstanding in the men's doubles teaming skillfully with Doug Grant to turn back the top Oshawa pair. John and Mike Black were victims of the only setback to opponents who finished off the points a little better.

The Oshawa side is expected to field stronger teams when the two districts wind up the total games series on Oshawa courts on Sunday.

Francis Sheffield and Alex Adamson served a supper which was much enjoyed by all the players.

Eight junior players, largest entry to represent this city, will clash with the provinces' best in the junior Ontario's championships at Toronto next Monday.

The local entries who have come along fast with good coaching and competition are Pete Annis, Don Brearley, Bill Moffat, James and David Hurst, Casey and Kerry Soden and Jim Muir.

Criminal Charges Laid Against Toronto Man

TORONTO (CP)—The two-day disappearance of Patricia Adams, 14, and her five-month-old niece Michelle Smith, has resulted in criminal charges against a 24-year-old Toronto man.

David McLean was charged Sunday with contributing to juvenile delinquency. A 13-year-old boy who lives with McLean has been charged with being a juvenile delinquent in connection with the case.

The Adams girl disappeared Thursday night after she went to baby sit with the child at the home of her sister, Mrs. Gerald Smith.

Mr. Smith was in Belleville and his wife had gone to play bingo.

Police said the girl told them she spent Thursday and Friday night at the home of a girl friend in North Toronto. Mr. Smith said Patricia said she had not called them because she was afraid to do so.

The baby received medical treatment at Sick Children's Hospital. Officials said she was in good condition, but hungry.

The house on which the loan is to be made must be sold in advance to a bona-fide purchaser, and the same income ceilings of $7,000 to $7,600 will apply. Advances on the loans won't be made until title is transferred to the home-buyers.

Further, builder applications won't be accepted if the builder already has a stock of unsold houses or "insists upon reproducing a house type of which there is already a number completed and unsold in the immediate market area."

Applications for these loans will be received from builders immediately, but CMHC loan commitments won't be issued until Sept. 1.

The program of loans to builders will continue only until Nov. 30

After that, Mr. Walker said, "we will revert to loans to home-owner applicants only, on terms and conditions to be announced at that time."

He said the two moves are being made to provide greater winter employment in the construction industry and to meet a demand for new housing by home-owner applicants who can't meet the present income ceiling rule.

Rash of Traffic Mishaps Sends Three to Hospital, Lay Charges Against Drivers

A rash of motor vehicle accidents occurring in the immediate Belleville area over the weekend sent three persons to hospital and resulted in charges being laid against drivers.

One of the most unusual accidents which fortunately resulted in no personal injuries occurred Saturday evening on Bridge Street West, near Highland Ave., when an out of control auto sideswiped the John R. Bush Funeral Chapel, and then did a "whirling dervish" over a five-lap circuit in the street before being brought to a stop.

The driver, 18-year-old Regis Landry of Toronto has been charged iwth leaving the scene of an accident.

Previous to the mishap at Bridge Street, police claim the Landry car struck three others in the Holloway and Moira Street area.

The car then turned south on Octavia Street failed to make the corner at Bridge Street.

The vehicle mounted the sidewalk, ripped through shrubs at the side of the funeral chapel and went into its "whirling dervish" act.

MANAGED TO STOP CAR

Harry Danford, funeral parlor attendant, managed to stop the car by reaching in and turning off the ignition and steered the vehicle onto a nearby lawn.

The driver leaped out of the still moving vehicle and took off across Highland Ave. disappearing down the hill.

Police arrested Landry on the Bay Bridge Road after he had waded through the marsh up to his waist in the mud.

Also on Saturday evening Charles Henry Caverley, 36, of Carrying Place, suffered head and chest injuries when a blowout threw his car out of control on Dundas St. W., the vehicle striking three trees and a mailbox before coming to rest in the centre of the highway.

Mr. Caverley was taken to Belleville General Hospital by Bush's Ambulance, where he was treated for head and face cuts suffered when he slammed into the car windshield. His car was wrecked.

Early this morning two men were injured following a head-on collision caused when one vehicle turned out to pass near the Trenton Air Station.

Police said that cars driven by Roland Vieau, Byron St., Trenton, Richard M. Savoy, of the RCAF, collided when the latter turned out to pass another vehicle. Property damage amounted to over $1,000.

CHARGES PENDING

On the Foxboro-Madoc Road Jack Douglas, 20, of Crookston, suffered severe scalp lacerations when the car in which he was riding missed a curve on the Madoc-Foxboro county road and slammed into a tree. He was taken to Belleville hospital. The accident occurred Saturday evening.

Police said Douglas was riding in a car driven by Bernard Blair, 21, also of Crookston. The car was northbound when about a mile north of the Crookston turn, the car missed a curve and then struck a tree on the east side of the highway.

Contract Let For Interchange At Shannonville

KINGSTON — The Ontario Department of Highways has announced the letting of two new contracts for constuction in the Kingston district.

One was let to the Onway Construction Company Limited of Welland for paving the newly-built by-pass around Corbyville and Cannifton, north of Belleville and back to Highway 37 north of Cannifton. A bridge over the Canadian National Railway tracks has been finished as part of the by-pass.

Work on the old section of the road will include curb and gutter improvements in the two villages.

Estimates for the project include excavation of more than 20,000 cubic yards of earth, the laying of nearly 90,000 tons of granular material all topped by 15,000 tons of hot mix paving material.

BUILD INTERCHANGE

The other contract is for construction of a bridge and interchange at the junction of the Shamonville Road and Highway 401.

The contract has been let to the Donald J. MacDonald Construction Company. It is expected that the project will be completed this year.

The bridge is to be built of reenforced concrete and will be 176 feet long on top and 116 feet between the pillars at each side of the roadway. It will have 16 feet clearance above the surface of the highway and will be 28 feet wide on top with sidewalks in addition on both sides.

IN MEMORIAM

CAMPBELL. — In loving memory of my mother, Mary, who passed away July 19, 1947.

True was her heart, her actions kind,
Her life was a pattern to those left behind.
God knows best for reasons divine.
But memories last for all time.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear mother,
I do not think of you.

—Lovingly remembered by son, Leonard Hamilton. Jy16-6t

CLAPP. — In loving memory of my dear wife, Bertha A. Clapp, who passed away July 17th, 1959.

Gone, wife, gone forever,
How I miss your smiling face;
But you left me to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by her loving husband, Gilbert, and her two sons, Gordon and Raymond and their wives.

WHALEN. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, William Whalen, who passed away July 18th, 1956.

Adoption Plan By Diefenbaker Not Accepted

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Cecile of Ontario says he has serious reservations about the application of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announced plan for adoption of refugee children.

Mr. Cecile said Sunday night he would refuse to support any policy that would jeopardize adoption chances of the 8,000 to 10,000 Ontario orphans now under care of Children's Aid Societies.

Mr. Diefenbaker announced Friday the federal immigration policy will be altered to authorize admission of refugee children for Canadian foster parents. He said provincial child welfare authorities will rule on applications.

Mr. Cecile said he would be the last to discourage help for suffering orphans in countries like China and Korea.

"I'll have to adopt a wait-and-see policy," he said. "It's all very well for Ottawa to make all these pronouncements, but we have to wait and figure out how it's going to affect us."

Lloyd Richardson, children's aid executive director, said he also had reservations about the plan. He said placements of Negro orphans had dwindled to a trickle and it was almost impossible to find parents for orphans of mixed Oriental blood.

Bowling Notes

Two rinks from the Belleville club took part in the mixed trebles tournament held in Cobourg on Saturday and both rinks came home with prizes, one for three - game high and one with two - game high score. Wally Lavergne, Mrs. Millie Smith with husband Orlo Smith skipping, won three games and took the second prize of the tourney. The other rink Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon, Mrs. Grace Clapp with "Skit" Vandervoort as pilot won the two-game high and just missed winning the tournament by one shot.

The team that won the tourney, Mrs. G. Hirst, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Crozier, of Toronto, were down 15-12 to Mr. Vandervoort with 'Skit' laying two shots but Crozier with his last bowl, got a nice "wick" off a front bowl, came to the 'cat' and kicked it over to lay a big five. In the last end 'Skit' made a game try but could manage to count only one shot and lose 17-16. Morris Booth with Mrs. E. Wicks and Mrs. G. MacLeod of Cobourg, won one-game high.

There were sixteen rinks present from Toronto, Peterborough, Port Hope, Trenton, Belleville and the host club. The greens were lightning fast and the bowling exceptionally keen.

Four rinks from the women's section of the club journeyed to Trenton on Friday and a rink of Mrs. Jessie Hunter, Mrs. Edna Jackman with Mrs. Myrtle Smith, as skip, won the one - game high score. There was a full draw of sixteen rinks and the women report a fine day of bowling on greens that were well groomed.

On Thursday, the regular session of bowling was held in the women's section with Mrs. Clela Gilbert and Mrs. Grace Clapp winning the high score of the afternoon. There was a tie for second and third spots by Mrs. Chris Hoard with Mrs. Rhea Gerow in one rink and Mrs. Ethel O'Connor, and Mrs. Helen Putnam on the other.

The tea hostesses were Mrs. Irene Trudeau, Mrs. Ethel O'Connor and Mrs. Teresa Wardhaugh.

Two rinks of men's trebles journeyed to Kingston on Saturday to take part in the Fashion Craft tourney and one rink came home with second prize. A rink of Ken Ashley, Jerry Hyde and Bruce Miller as skip won the second three-game high score. The other rink, William VanTassel, Gordon Vince with Gordon Watkin as skip failed to get into the prize list. There was a good entry and the greens improved greatly from earlier in the season. As usual the hospitality of the Kingston club left nothing to be desired.

On Tuesday last a ladies doubles tournament was held at Brighton and only one rink went from the local club. Mrs. Jessie Hunter and Mrs. Myrtle Smith journeyed west and although they did not win a game they came home with the no-game high score and that is quite a feat in itself. Apparently the rink was beaten by close scores in all three games.

Parkdale Baptist Church DVBS Well Attended

A most successful two weeks of Daily Vacation Bible School has just been completed by the Parkdale Baptist Church. The school was held at the Parkdale Community Centre and had an average attendance each morning of slightly over 90 boys and girls. Total registration for the school was 169.

The school was under the direction of Mrs. Angus Hannah, with Mrs. Donald Ernst as craft supervisor. There were five teachers and seven assistants who made up the adequate staff.

On Thursday night of last week the parents were invited to see the craft display, and to hear the children recite. The auditorium was nearly full with about 125 in attendance altogether.

The daily program included a Bible story, a memory verse, a craft period, a hearty song service and a missionary story.

Awards were given to the child bringing the most new scholars. 70 received certificates for 70 per cent attendance.

Kennedy Says Johnson Invited To Join Ticket

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Political corridors are still buzzing with rumors about the strange alliance between John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

Was the Texas powerhouse invited or did he force himself on the Democrats' presidential ticket?

Kennedy, the party's presidential nominee, insisted at a post-convention press conference Saturday that he did in fact invite the Texas senator as his running mate and that it was not true, as some reporters suggested, that Johnson presented him with an ultimatum.

It seemed that the alliance was born of political necessity rather than the personal desires of the Massachusetts senator.

Johnson was the choice of the southern states for the presidential nomination. He maintained all along he had no desire to be vice-president and that if he didn't win the No. 1 spot, he would be content to remain as Senate majority leader, a powerful controlling position in Congress.

DEROGATORY REMARKS

In fact during the convention nomination battle, Johnson used such derogatory remarks about Kennedy's family, particularly his multi-millionaire father, that he seemed to be shutting all doors of close association with the Kennedys if he didn't win the fight.

At the same time the Kennedy forces, in talking to reporters, frequently listed a group of men Kennedy would favor as a running mate. Johnson was not one of them.

Yet on the morning after his big first-ballot victory, Kennedy said he approached Johnson to accept the vice-presidential nomination and Johnson agreed.

If in fact Johnson forced himself on the ticket, Kennedy may find himself less than a fully free agent in controlling the party's destiny. Johnson is a tough operator. He may be a difficult man to budge once he has decided on a course of action.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES WHITE

Queen, P.M. Send Wires

Mr. and Mrs. James White Observe 60th Anniversary

TRENTON — Mr. and Mrs. James White, Ford Street, Trenton, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last Friday.

They were married at Castle Acre, Norfolk, England, by Rev. J. Powell. The village of Norfolk is near the Royal Family's Sandringham estate, and contains the ruins of ancient castles.

Mr. White said it was an every day occurrence to see King Edward VII drive into the village with a four-in-hand and carriage, and show a royal party through the ruins.

The couple came to Canada in 1910 and settled at Stanford, in the Niagara district, where Mr. White for a number of years engaged in fruit farming.

After his retirement, Mr. and Mrs. White lived in a number of Ontario communities. Their only daughter is married to Flt. Sgt. Bruce Woods of the RCAF, and whenever their son-in-law was posted to a different part of the country, the Woods and their children, Barbara and Barry, insisted that "Grandma and Grandpa" go too. The Woods are presently living at 12 Laird Drive, Middleton Park.

Mr. and Mrs. White received numerous congratulatory messages, among them a telegram from Queen Elizabeth, which read: "The Queen sends you warm congratulations and good wishes on your diamond wedding day."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in a telegram: "It is not the privilege of many to enjoy these long years of happiness together, and I hope that you may celebrate many more anniversaries."

Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, also sent a telegram which, in part, read: "Celebration of your 60th anniversary is an example of a good life together and must be a source of pride and satisfaction to all people associated with you."

On Saturday, a party was given in honor of the couple at their daughter's home. Many friends and relatives from out-of-town attended.

Mr. and Mrs. White both are in excellent health and take a keen interest in current events. Mrs. White's hearing has been impaired since a mastoid operation a few years ago, but she keeps abreast of the times through the printed page. She does all the housework in their apartment and also sews.

Mr. White has gardening as a hobby, and keeps the lawn and flower beds of the house, in which they have an apartment, ship-shape.

Trenton C of C Will Hand Out Maps, Brochures

TRENTON — H. B. Smith, manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, soon will be dispensing maps and tourist brochures from the chamber's tourist booth on Dundas Street West, near the CNR tracks, just below Dr. Farley's home.

There has been a tremendous call for this type of literature at the chamber office this summer, he said, and it is expected that business will pick up once the services of the chamber are made available to the motoring public.

Meantime, the chamber is concerning itself about a number of subjects which are vital to the public welfare. Work with the apprenticeship program committee is progressing. Several boys have been placed with local employers.

Word has been received by the chamber that the Ontario chamber has concerned itself with the betterment of the Trent-Severn waterway. The managers of the Lindsay, Peterborough and Orillia chambers met recently with Bruce MacKinnon, chairman of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce public relations advisory board, and established an implementation committee to study the ways and means of bettering conditions along the waterway.

On Wednesday, a meeting will be held with representatives of communities along, or in the vicinity of, the waterway to plan a complete program.

Outdoor Service

TRENTON—Rev. J. T. Irwin, of King Street United Church, conducted an open air service at the Quinte Drive-In Theatre Sunday night.

There was a good attendance of worshippers, who enjoyed the service in the comfort of their own automobiles.

The choir and the men's chorus supplied the music.

The experiment will be repeated in August, and if the attendance warrants, plans will be made to make the services a summer-long project next year.

Trenton Planes Flying Food To Congo

TRENTON — AN RCAF North Star took off at 12:05 p.m. today carrying 11,400 pounds of food to the strife-torn Congo.

Three more were standing by.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Saturday after a cabinet meeting that the government has decided to send 20,000 pounds of canned pork and 20,000 pounds of whole milk powder to the former Belgian colony. The Canadian decision was made after a request by the United Nations for emergency food supplies for the republic.

Four other planes were also being readied, it was understood, in case they were needed by the government.

The government is also sending three officers from the UN truce supervisory organization in Palestine to the Congo to assist with administrative problems in the republic. Two others from the same force are understood to have been put on stand-by duty in case they are also needed.

JANET MOWBRAY

Trenton Ranger Attending Camp In Nova Scotia

TRENTON — Air Ranger Janet Mowbray, 16, of Trenton, left early Sunday for Nova Scotia, where she will spend 10 days at the Girl Guide Jubilee Camp at Hartwood Lake, King's County.

Two Air Rangers or Guides from each province will attend the camp. Two guides from Britain are also expected to attend. Each girl was chosen by the Girl Guide Council of each province. The other Ontario Guide is from Toronto.

Janet will spend one week preceding camp at a private home in Lunenburg, and one week following camp at a private home in Colchester County, giving her one month all told for the trip.

The Canadian Council of Girl Guides will pay all train fares for the girls; the Ontario Council is partly responsible for expenses and meals on the train; the Northumberland division of the Girl Guide Association provided gifts for Janet's hostesses; Trenton West Association paid her camp fee and Air Rangers 1st Flight, Trenton, gave her a cheque towards her expenses. Janet is a member of 1st Flight Trenton.

Janet will be required to write a 300-word essay on the trip for the Ontario Council and expects to give several reports to the Trenton groups.

SOCIAL SECURITY ANALYZED

How far has Canada moved, since the end of the Second Great War, towards the "welfare state?"

Most people would say that the movement, call it progress or regression as you will, has been considerable.

Dr. D. E. Armstrong, writing in Canadian Business, presents statistics which appear to make this conclusion questionable. Since Canadian Business is published by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and since that body and its affiliate local Chambers and their members have been in the forefront of those warning us against the perils of diverting too great a proportion of the national income to the support of social security measures, this is a highly interesting analysis of the current economic situation.

Dr. Armstrong admits that there are several faults which can be found with his comparison between the situation in 1946 and today, but contends that "it does at least demonstrate that some of our defences against recession have been eroded away."

• • •

For the purpose of his analysis, Dr. Armstrong considered the case of a family of five, made up of one old age pensioner, two parents, one of whom earns the current average wage, and two children aged 5 and 13 receiving family allowance cheques.

In 1946 the family's total monthly income was $193, in 1960 $394, or more than double.

The family still looks to be doing fairly well. But of the $193 the family received in 1946, wages accounted for $140, while the old age pension and family allowances totalled $53, just over 27 per cent of the family's income. In 1960 wages amounted to $325, "transfer payments," as Dr. Armstrong terms the pension and family allowance payments, to $69, or only 17½ per cent of the total.

If the 1946 wage-earner lost his job, the family income would be reduced by 73 per cent; today it would be reduced by 82½ per cent.

Of course, there are unemployment insurance benefits to be considered. These would have brought the family's income to $121 a month in 1946, a drop of only 37 per cent from that when the wage-earner was employed. Today, the benefits are higher, $156 compared to $68, and the total income of the family will add up to $137 in 1946 dollars. Now it is true that this is $16 a month more than the family would have received in 1946, but it is also true that the family's standard of living has changed. The family will find its income reduced by 43 per cent, while in 1946 the cut in income would have been only 37 per cent. It will face the necessity of economizing more rigorously than it would in 1946.

Dr. Armstrong carries his comparison one step further. He presumes that the family has savings, and he further presumes that these savings amount to the amount of the federal government bonds in the hands of the general public divided by the labor force, in other words that, regarding government bonds as the sole form of savings, the family's holdings are at the average level. If the 1946 unemployed wage-earner had used these savings to maintain the family's level of expenditure at the normal rate, he could have done so for 22 months. Today savings would run out after only ten months.

In case any person is prepared to shrug off this comparison by pointing out that Dr. Armstrong himself says "that there are all kinds of faults to be found" with it, let it be added that one of the major flaws, as we see it, is that it fails to take into consideration consumers' debts, including time payments. These, of course, have increased tremendously since 1946.

The only possible conclusion from these figures seems to be that, whatever one thinks of the "welfare state," it is hardly possible to blame social security measures for any economic difficulties we may be experiencing or may experience in the future. The cold truth seems to be that we are further from providing this security today than we were just one year after the conclusion of the war.

Dr. Armstrong at least has one word of hope. If economic conditions should require the government to resort to further deficit financing, this should not alarm us unduly, "The government debt outstanding now is, on a per capita basis, considerably smaller than it was 15 years ago," he points out.

He denounces the contention that the recent federal government deficit was not in the best interests of the country and declares: "It would be very unfortunate if because of irresponsible and ill-informed opinion about the evils of government deficits the government felt at all reluctant during the next recession to use fiscal means for dealing with unemployment."

The next recession? Oh, yes, Dr. Armstrong says that "the present expansionary phase of the (economic) cycle is no longer of much interest; the end of this phase of the cycle is not far off. What is of more concern at the present time is the impending recession."

Disagreement Is Anyone's Prerogative

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I wonder why so many people feel the need to tell me that they disagree with what I say "some of the time."

By letter, and in person, the most frequent comment I get from readers is, "I enjoy your column, but often don't agree with it."

When I reply, "Why should you?" this usually takes the air out of them. Yet I can't imagine anything duller than a writer we agree with all the time. Who would read such a bland facsimile day after day?

This thought occurred to me while compiling columns last month for a new book collection, which will be published around Christmas. I was forced to read some 700 of my columns of the last three years, and to select about half of them for immortality.

You would be surprised at the number I joyfully tossed away—because they were trivial, or silly, or plain wrong-headed. Reading them a year or two later, I could plainly see the half-truths and the overstatements, the thoughtlessness of some, and the pretentiousness of others.

This is not false modesty: I have no false modesty and not much real modesty, either. It is simply acceptance of the fact that writing good sense every day, all year long, is a human impossibility.

When a man is compelled, by the exigencies of his trade and by his native incapacity for earning a living any other way, to express an opinion daily — then an inevitable percentage of these opinions will be half-baked. I try to keep this percentage as low as possible, but I do not delude myself that the nonsense-quotient is invisible to the naked eye.

Apart from these somber considerations of mortal frailty and fallibility, there is an element most readers forget: that some of the columns they disagree with may be the best and truest ones. And it is certainly the case that what we disagree with tends to make us think (or at least reinspect) the subject.

It may give us a feeling of warm satisfaction to read an opinion that mirrors our own, but it contributes little to our intellectual or emotional growth. It is when an idea strikes us as odd, or frightening, or perverse, that the cerebral juices begin to flow and we are tempted to reexamine those beliefs we have long held without troubling to think about them.

I would not bother very long to read an author whose views perfectly coincided with mine. This may be nourishing to the ego, but it does nothing for the mind. Disagreement develops muscles in the head.

Man Aged 114 Flees Radio

Ottawa Citizen

The case of a resident of a home for the aged in New Liskeard who decided to go prospecting because he could no longer bear the noise from a radio reinforces the opinion of those who consider deafness a hidden blessing. The man, who is reported to be 114 years old, but still vigorous, found himself voted down by his companions in the home where he resided when he asked that the radio be turned off. With another man, he has gone into the bush to prospect, and find peace and quiet.

It is to be hoped he finds it, and that he does not have the ill-fortune to make a rich strike. Maybe, if he is sensible, he won't look very hard for the kind of minerals that bring hordes of fortune-hunters into the silent woods. He sounds like a man who knows what he is doing, and will likely spend most of his time fishing.

Consumers Are Cheated

Milwaukee Journal

There was a time when the "baker's dozen" was rather standard, and a bag of candy was handed to the children when the grocery bill was paid. Those were the days when service to the consumer meant something extra.

The situation, it seems, has drastically changed. Instead of something extra, a survey by the federal food and drug administration (FDA) indicates that consumers are being extensively cheated on weights and measures.

The Washington Star in describing the survey says that nearly 107,000 packages and containers of 35 commodities were examined. Shortages were found in 54 per cent. Some shortages were insignificant. But more than 32 per cent of all butter packages weighed less than the stated amount, 29 per cent of all margarine and more than 27 per cent of the salad dressing.

For butter alone—if the FDA sample is valid for all sales—the shortages could add up to $25,000,000 a year.

An FDA deputy commissioner, John L. Harvey, noted a while ago that food packers are under competitive pressure to "work as close to the declared weight as possible". Actually, it would seem they are working closer than that.

If this lack of regard for consumer's interests continues, as evidenced also by excessive claims of TV commercials and excessive pricing of certain drugs, there ultimately will be rigid policing and severe penalties. And the offenders will have only themselves to blame.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE SCHOOL OF LIFE

We often find it hard to believe that there is purpose in all that happens, even in the mistakes we make and in the sorrows we endure. The idea that this world is plunging on, thoroughly out of hand so far as God is concerned and beyond His control, is a tragically mistaken notion for anyone to hold. There is a reason for everything that happens.

The poet Keats died when he was a very young man, and his great contribution to English literature was made as he experienced much physical suffering. In writing to a friend, Keats once said: "The common cognomen of this world among the misguided and the superstitious is a 'Vale of Tears.' Call the world, if you please, a 'Vale of Soulmaking.' Do you not see how necessary a world of pains and troubles is to school our intelligence and make it a soul — a place where the heart must feel and suffer in a thousand diverse ways? As various as the lives of men are, so various become their souls, and thus does God make individual beings souls of the sparks of His own essence."

We were not put into this world to be rich, happy, or anything else usually deemed desirable. We were put into the world to grow souls and to prepare ourselves for an eternal destiny in fellowship with God Himself.

Insect Stings Can Be Fatal

Stratford Beacon-Herald

This is the season for bees, wasps and hornets. They probably command too little respect from some of us and cause too much panic among others. Either can be dangerous.

More Americans die of insect stings than snake bites, according to Dr. Harry L. Mueller of Boston, quoted in "Today's Health" magazine. He is counting only deaths directly caused by the sting, which seriously "poisons" some people.

Honey bees and bumblebees are less likely to sting than the easily - irritated yellow jackets. The bees, wasps and hornets generally will sting only if nests are threatened or they are touched — but don't bet on it.

Dark clothing, hair oils and perfumes attract them. If you want to keep them away from you or your picnic area a chemical repellent is best.

If you see two or more of the same insects disappear into the same opening, that's probably where their nest is. Stay away. If you want the nest removed from your yard or house call an exterminator or other expert.

When a wasp, hornet or bee gets close to you, don't try to slap it or brush it away. Quick movements excite them. Move away slowly if possible. If the insect gets inside your car, wait until a stop can be made safely; open the doors and let the unwanted rider escape. Failure to do this has led to many a serious accident.

Enjoyment of the countryside doesn't need to be barred by the presence of these stinging insects. They just want to be left alone and we are safer when we grant them the privilege.

Life Becomes Documented

Windsor Star

Every so often someone has a wallet stolen. Even more important than the cash is the loss of personal papers. When these are gone an individual realizes how documented life has become, even in a so-called free country.

If a man owns and drives a car, he must have a paper known as a licence. If he is ever stopped by a policeman and asked for these papers, he is in trouble, if he cannot produce them.

In this community, people going back and forth to Detroit find it useful to have a birth certificate or some other identifying paper. If he tries to enter Detroit without any identification, he will have his own time arguing his way past the immigration officer.

In addition to these papers, many persons have all kinds of things to show they belong to this club, that order, this group, that lodge.

Life has become so documented. And so complex.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

TERMS NERVES AND NERVOUSNESS TOO EASILY CONFUSED

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please differentiate between nervousness (tension, anxiety, etc.) as against injured nerves? — A. G. D."

The best way to keep this difference clear in your mind, I suppose, is to use the words "organic" and "functional."

The nervous system, for our purposes, includes the brain and all the nerve branches which spread in a network throughout the body. Some control the voluntary muscles. Some give us our sense of touch — pain, heat, cold, pressure and so on. Some control the functions over which we have no conscious control — such as breathing while you are asleep, or the working of most internal organs.

An injury to a nerve can, of course, shut off the impulses which normally would pass over that nerve track. For instance a deep cut on the wrist can sever the nerves controlling the hand. In such a case the hand may be partially or even entirely helpless until the damage is repaired. This, however, does not cause you to be "nervous," or tense, or anxious, except to the extent that you normally are concerned about the injured hand.

The injury to the wrist nerves thus, are an organic matter. It is possible to show that physical damage has occurred.

On the other hand, excessive anxiety, hysteria and the like often occur without being able to detect any physical basis at all. This is a "functional" disorder. The system is working improperly, but we can't find any "organic" cause for it, no physical injury.

Hence there is mighty little in common between a nerve injury and "a case of nerves." Indeed, we might do well to stop using the common expression about taking "a nerve medicine," because it seems to give the impression — falsely — that the medicine treats the nerves themselves.

Actually the so-called "nerve medicines" are generally one form or another of a sedative or tranquilizer, helping the patient to relax. It still remains for the patient to develop a different emotional outlook on life.

Now it is true that certain forms of brain damage can result in mental degeneration. Syphilis, allowed to go untreated, is a known example of this. Likewise tumors on the brain or spinal cord can have serious effects. These can resemble what we call mental or emotional illness — yet they are physical, or organic, in origin.

On the other hand, sheer nervousness (anxiety, etc.) may at times lead to acquiring nervous tics — twitching, or what-not — that may seem to be the result of a disorder of the nerves themselves. Yet in such cases we would find nothing wrong with the nerves. The trouble would lie in the nervousness.

In short, it's too bad we don't have some entirely different word for "nervousness." It's too easy to confuse nerves and nervousness. But there they are, two separate types of things entirely.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son, five years old, has quite a few nose bleeds while asleep at night, usually from the left nostril. — Mrs. F. P."

Bleeding from one nostril repeatedly suggests an ulcer or possibly a fragile blood vessel on that side. Usually the answer is to have it cauterized — a simple procedure in the doctor's office. Nose bleeds can also result from an unconscious habit of picking at the nose.

Commerical Espionage

Vancouver Sun

It's a sad commentary on the morality of the business world that one of today's most thriving industries is the one that supplies cloak-and-dagger equipment to other industries.

They're not using U-2 spy planes yet, North American businessmen. But you can get a paint chemical that's an excellent conductor of electricity. Just paint a conducting stripe from a hidden microphone along the wall in your rival firm's head office. Cover it up with ordinary paint.

Then you'll know your rival's every move, just what he's planning in the way of competition.

Or you may prefer to use a wired picture frame, or a typewriter or a clock with a built-in transmitter.

Who uses these gadgets?

According to those in the know, milk companies use them to get a line on how much butterfat a rival dairy is using. They're used to check answers on bank-loan applications. Or by a businessman anxious to make sure his partner isn't dipping into the till behind his back.

And in many other ways. As one lawyer advised his client: Don't say anything over the phone you wouldn't be willing to shout through a megaphone.

About the only thing, apparently, that's not openly available for the competitive businessman is a burglar's kit for opening a rival's safe. That, no doubt, will be next.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INVEST IN PLEASANTNESS

What a great investment is possible for each one of us. I often concentrate my thoughts on a little child's grave in New England. I have lost track of its location, but I can never forget the inscription on that small stone. It merely had these words upon it: "She was so pleasant."

What joy would be ours if we only could live by those words. How that small body must have shed a glow of Light and Beauty in an endless number of other lives. "She was so pleasant."

There are those who never seem to lose their power to make other people happy. It is an investment that is greater than any stock or bond. It is something that we should own as a permanent gift of character, and hold as one of our greatest assets — something that we may select early in life.

Such a person as was this New England child makes me think that we can become great in heart and warm the hearts of others at will. How the neighbors and companions of that child must have loved her. What a world this one could be if populated by such characters! Kindly influence is the result of pleasantness. How worthwhile to own it! Invest in Pleasantness.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

How do you pick a good melon? I was always taught to feel the end of the melon; and if it is soft, it is ripe.

"No," says an Italian fruit store proprietor of my long acquaintance. "All it means, if the end is soft, is that more customers have squeezed it than the other melons on display. It drives me crazy to see the ladies bending over the melons, giving them each a firm poke with their thumbs. You take ten ladies with strong thumbs, and they can make every melon in the basket ripe. The tenth lady buys the most-poked melon, takes it home; and then complains to me that it was unripe. It never occurs to her to doubt the traditional myth that a soft end means a ripe melon."

"Well," I asked, "how do you tell when a melon is ripe?"

"There is no way," said the fruit man sadly. "With melon as with life, you are usually disappointed.

When I was a boy, however, fifty years ago, and at least four houses in every city block grew musk melons in their back yard gardens, the way you told the ripe ones was by smell. After dark, as you cautiously climbed the fence and crawled on hands and knees in the musk melon patch, you simply bent down and sniffed like a dog. And the ripe ones revealed themselves immediately. Neither melons nor life disappointed, in those days.

Plans were being made to send Moroccan troops by train southwest of Matadi, the Congo's chief port, held by mutinous troops of the Congo army. Sketchy reports from Matadi indicated all whites had abandoned the city and economic activity had come to a complete halt.

UN Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche telephoned Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in New York and informed him of the critical turn of events caused by the Congo's threat to call in Soviet troops.

(The Belgian News Agency reported in Brussels that Premier Lumumba has told Bunche that he will appeal to Russia if the UN does not force all Belgian troops to leave the country Tuesday. The agency said the warning was contained in a letter from the premier to Bunche.

(In Brussels, a government spokesman said no official notification of the Congo's move had been received. He said Belgian troops are in the Congo trying to save lives and would remain as long as necessary.)

Bunche, Van Horn and other UN officials reviewed the deteriorating situation.

Gen. Henry T. Alexander, British commander of Ghana's army and head of its contribution to the UN force, said the situation in the infant African republic had "worsened all over."

Alexander flew from Leopoldville to this picturesque city 775 miles north of the capital Sunday to hoist the UN flag and confer with Premier Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu.

INVITE RUSSIANS

The disclosure that the Congolese leaders were planning to invite Russia to send troops came from Jacques Lumbala, one of nine secretaries of state in the government and leader of the left wing faction in the regime.

Shocked by the leakage of his government's strategy, Lumumba upbraided Lumbala before newspaper men and told him, "I will take the most serious measures against you."

The 34-year-old premier did not deny the plan, and it was learned reliably his government has drafted a telegram for sending to Moscow.

The Soviet Union approved the sending of a UN force to restore order in the turbulent Congo but at the same time condemned "imperialist intervention" in the African nation. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev last week promised Congolese leaders "the necessary help which may be required for the victory of your just cause."

BLAME BELGIANS

Congolese leaders blamed the troubles in the country on the presence of Belgian troops, who showed no signs of withdrawing.

Even as Lumumba was conferring Sunday with Alexander, he got word that five planeloads of Belgian paratroops were dropped into Kindu, about 325 miles south of Stanleyville, to disarm Congolese troops in that river port on the banks of the Lualaba.

Alexander brought only a token force of 20 Ghanian troops with him. They got a smiling reception from Congolese soldiers at the airport. But the Congolese still ran the show.

Tension ran high and white settlers showed fright.

Two Belgian aircraft — a military helicopter and a Harvard escort plane—were reported missing in the Leopoldville area. Each carrying a crew of two, they set out Sunday for Lukula, 80 miles southwest of Leopoldville, to pick up white refugees. Belgian officials suggested they may have been shot down by anti-aircraft guns.

During the weekend the UN force in Leopoldville swelled to more than 2,000. Latest arrivals were 300 Ethiopian soldiers.

NEED 25,000

Plans call for building up the force to about 6,000 men within two weeks. But a Belgian officer said about 25,000 would be needed to bring the Congo under control once more.

Africans formed the first contingents to arrive in the Congo but the United Nations said Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold has asked five non-African countries to supply troops—three European, one Asian and one Latin American. The UN announcement did not name the countries, but said big powers were excluded.

UN forces were preparing to fan out in the big republic. Mutinous Congolese troops still hold the important port of Matadi and the town of Thysville between Leopoldville and the port.

Premier Moise Tshombe of rich Katanga province has warned the UN against interference in its affairs. Breaking away from Lumumba's central government, Tshombe sounded ut leaders in neighboring uanda-urandi on uniting. Just he hoped to bring about such federation was not explained Ruanda-Urandi is a Belgium-ninistered trust territory un-er the United Nations.

OTES TO SECEDE

he Katanga assembly has ed to secede from the Leopld- government and to show independence Sunday ex-elled n the province the Negro mander of the Congo army, Victor Lundula.

Two envoys of Congo Premier Lumumba also were arrested in Elisabethville when their plane ran out of fuel and made a forced landing.

"It's about time Lumumba realizes Katanga is not his country," said Godefroid Munongo, the provincial interior minister.

FLURRY OF RUMORS

A Polish freighter steaming toward the mouth of the Congo River touched a flurry of rumors that it was carrying 300 tons of arms for the Congo government. But later Leopoldville radio explained the ship's cargo was "part of United Nations aid."

Another rumor that two Congo cabinet ministers had resigned was quickly squelched. Foreign Minister Justice Bomboko said the reports that he and Economic Minister Joseph Yava had quit were "planted by the Belgians" to foment trouble.

The Soviet government announced it was sending 10,000 tons of food by plane and ship including 1,000 tons of sugar.

Trade Minister In Kishi Cabinet Is New Premier

TOKYO (AP) — Outspoken Hayato Ikeda was elected prime minister of Japan today and immediately faced an explosive crisis at a strife - torn Kyushu coal mine.

The 60-year-old financial expert won overwhelming approval over two socialist opponents in both houses of parliament to succeed Nobusuke Kishi, who stepped out after 3½ years in office. Kishi is recovering from stab wounds in the thigh inflicted by a rightist assailant July 14.

A continuation of pro-Western policies through alliance with the United States is assured, although the government is expected to be short - lived. New nation - wide parliamentary elections are planned this fall.

Ikeda, trade and industry minister in Kishi's cabinet, has pledged to restore Japan's international prestige damaged by riots in May and June, and to pursue a "soft" policy of negotiation with the socialist party.

But battle lines are already drawn for a bloody clash—possibly Tuesday — between 13,000 police and 30,000 to 100,000 striking workers, Communists and radical students entrenched behind barbed wire at the Miike coal mine in Kyushu.

An all-out fight to remove the strikers would plunge Ikeda's government into a crisis. The giant labor federation Sohyo, with socialist and Communist party backing, has poured in thousands of reinforcements to help the miners.

The outcome should indicate whether Ikeda's government will do any better than Kishi's at controlling the mobs that forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's Tokyo visit although they did not prevent ratification of the military treaty with the United States.

The strikers have been disputing for two years with the Mitsui Mining Company, which wants to cut 6,000 miners from its payroll and reduce wages because of losses due to increasing use of petroleum for fuel.

The strikers have dug a 6½-foot wide trench before their position with sandbags piled in front. They have been organized into regiments and companies. Helmeted police have been pouring into the area for two days.

Julie Harris Wrings Last Ounce Of Tragedy From Role of Juliet

By ROBERT TANNER

Each year, the question of "imported stars" is one which is sure to arouse controversy at Stratford. Should the Festival bring in talent from across the border or across the Atlantic? Should it rely entirely on the gradually increasing numbers and talents of Canadian actors? If stars have been imported, are they the right ones? These and other questions are likely to be hotly debated.

This year, the controversial artist was Miss Julie Harris, star of Broadway, many television shows and films, who came to Stratford this summer to play the prized but demanding role of Juliet. This is always a challenge to any established and mature actress, if only because the text makes it so clear that she is not yet 14 (Romeo's age is never mentioned), and here Miss Harris' petite figure and fresh little face fit the part of perfection. When you add tremendous ability, emotional range and artistic sincerity, her performance becomes one of tremendous impact, wringing the last ounce of tragedy from one of Shakespeare's greatest plays. If one must find fault with so fine an interpretation, it is that Miss Harris' voice contrasts rather too strongly with the softer Anglo-Canadian accents of the rest of the cast.

Another controversial point about this production, although for a very different reason, was the casting of Bruno Gerussi as Romeo. This young Vancouver actor has been one of the most regular members of the Stratford company, but until now has concentrated more on humor or on villainy. His Romeo is suitably youthful, dashing and impetuous, but his reading of Shakespeare's verse smacks a little too much of the elocution lesson, a fact that somewhat detracts from the force of his interpretation. In many ways this is indeed a noble effort, and experiment which perhaps did not quite succeed.

Christopher Plummer and Douglas Rain again contribute performances of sterling merit, and it is to the play's disadvantage that they are both killed before it is half done. Jack Creely is more nearly his normal self as Juliet's father than he was as the King of France in "King John", but his rage when his daughter defies him is most believable, and reinforces the opinion that his introduction to Stratford was well worthwhile. William Needles plays the rather unrewarding part of Romeo's friend Benvolio with his usual grace and competence.

NOVEL TOUCHES

The play's direction by Michael Langham, introduces some novel and revealing touches which give added point to the tragic climax. In the earlier scenes, the comedy, and in particular the earthy humor of the nurse, played very ably by Kate Reid, are given full scope, again emphasizing the mounting tragedy of events. The production is perhaps less all embracing than in Mr. Langham's historical presentations, but as usual movement is well handled and the dances, arranged by the Lunds, and the fights, staged by Peter Needham, are up to the very high standard that Stratford has set for itself.

Since the design is in the hands of Miss Tanya Moiseiwitsch, little need be said except that the costumes are beautiful and striking. Louis Appelbaum's music matches the costumes in period and feeling and runs like a gentle counterpoint throughout the play.

All in all, this is a very moving and thrilling presentation, with the plot clear and sharp, another jewel in Stratford's crown.

fear the number of blazes will go much higher.

FROM LIGHTNING

Most of the fires are the direct result of a lightning storm July 13 which burned a patch of destruction 220 miles long and 50 miles wide.

The 4,000-acre Spius Creek fire, 15 miles east of Boston Bar, was brought under control during the weekend but more than 280 firefighters were having trouble keeping it inside established fireguards.

A railroad fire 10 miles southeast of Spence's Bridge has blossomed to 2,000 acres and due to rough terrain, bulldozers cannot work constructing fireguards.

Other critical fires include one at Douglas Lake, which swelled to 600 acres before being brought under control, and one 30 miles northwest of Lillooet, which also covers 600 acres.

Bus loads of men were dispatched from Kamloops this morning to various fires and men from as far away as Vancouver are responding to the request for firefighters.

Princess Has Changed Her Hat Styles

LONDON (AP) — Since her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones, Princess Margaret has radically changed her hat styles. She's settled on a variation of the toque, or souffle, made famous by her grandmother, the late Queen Mary.

Gone are the beloved head pieces of yesterday—the elaborate cartwheel, the berets, turbans, picture hats and hats with brims. Since her wedding May 6, Margaret has worn the toque on every occasion she's been in the public eye.

Margarest' toques differ from her grandmother's in that they're made of very light spun net. Queen Mary's were of heavy silk and satin.

And just as the princess has clung to the toque in hats, she's worn a duster coat on every public occasion.

B.C. Newswoman Now Member of Queen's Hundred

By STEWART MacLEOD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

BISLEY, England (CP) — A Victoria newspaper woman who began shooting nine years ago with her kid brother, "and sort of kept it up," has joined the elite Queen's Hundred.

That means Mrs. Eileen Learoyd is one of the Commonwealth's best 100 marksmen who advanced to the final round of the Queen's Prize, ahead of 1,700 other competitors.

For a while it seemed that Mrs. Learoyd, a reporter on the Victoria Colonist and a reserve army lieutenant, would carve even a bigger niche in the Bisley record books. In the final phase of the final round she shot a remarkable 69 out of a possible 75—well in line with the leaders.

"But after that you could say I sort of fell back." She finished 56th, with 264 out of a possible 300, but that was still ahead of 44 of the Commonwealth's best male marksmen.

"Actually," says the pleasant blonde reporter, "I have had a tremendous shoot—I guess you could call it phenomenal."

Of the dozen or so events she entered, she only failed to hit the prize list twice. Her prize money totals about £50.

Mrs. Learoyd, wife of a naval officer and mother of two, has competed in British Columbia provincial meets eight times, and she has shot on Ottawa's Connaught Ranges nine times.

"It's great fun."

Motion Favoring Red Ensign Withdrawn by Business Women

By EDNA BLAKELY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—A resolution which would have asked the federal government to adopt the Red Ensign as the national flag of Canada was withdrawn at the 17th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Dr. Marguerite Bailey, a member of the North Toronto club which originally suggested the motion, said later the resolution had been presented to the board "but was considered too controversial."

Controversy also arose from a Sydney, N.S. - sponsored motion which called for the federation to urge the government of Canada to take necessary steps to abolish trading stamps "being used by many stores to attract customers and to lure them with the belief of something for nothing."

OUTSIDE OBJECTIVES

The resolution was adopted but a faction of the 400 delegates and observers said the move was outside the aims and objectives of the federation.

British Columbia provincial president Adele de Lange of Vancouver said the federation should not initiate such a program but should support such a move through its affiliation with the National Council of Women and the Canadian Association of Consumers.

Convention delegates, who ended their five-day business sessions Friday approved a resolution requesting representation on the five - man national parole board. The resolution, from Toronto, said four men have been appointed to the board and "we believe such a board would be strengthened by the addition of a qualified woman."

At the suggestion of Isabel MacMillan Edmonton, the federation will suggest women be added to representatives of the 1962 Commonwealth conference headed by Prince Philip.

WEDDINGS

BEGBIE—CRANSTON

On Saturday, June 18, 1960, Picton United Church was decorated with white chrysanthemums, snapdragons and ferns, with white satin bows on guest pews, when the Rev. F. J. Whitely united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony, Gaila Margaret Cranston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cranston, R.R. 1, Halloway, Ontario, and Robert Laverne Begbie, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Begbie, 111 Union Street, Picton, Ontario.

Mr. A. A. Benvie presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a street-length dress of white nylon, with full skirt, strapless dress and bolero jacket. She wore white gauntlets, pointed over the back of her hands, matching headdress and a corsage of red roses.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Melvin Begbie, 53 Main Street, Picton, who wore a baby-blue nylon, street-length dress, made on princess lines with rounded neckline and cap sleeves, with white feather bandeau, white gloves and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Melvin W. Begbie, brother the bridegroom, was groomsman. Another brother, Mr. Roger Eugene Begbie, was usher.

The reception followed at Maple Inn, Bloomfield. The bride's mother chose a dress of printed silk with beige hat and accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother was in delphinium blue lace over taffeta, with blue hat, white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table, covered with a white linen cloth was centred with a three-tier cake, the base surrounded by tulle and mauve flowers. Pink and white streamers were suspended from the ceiling to the corners of the table.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride donned a fitted linen suit, in navy blue, a white feather hair band, white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from Picton, Belleville, Peterborough, Whitby and Halloway.

Mr. and Mrs. Begbie will reside at 389-B MacDonald Ave., Belleville, Ontario.

ANDERSON — FRASER

A lovely double-ring ceremony was solemnized on Saturday, July 2nd at 2 p.m., in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, when the Rev. William Fletcher, of Rawdon, assisted by Mr. Paul Packman, of Stirling, united in marriage Patricia Kendall Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fraser, of Stirling, and Donald Ross Anderson, son of Mr. and Bert Anderson, also of Stirling.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a semi-princess floor-length gown of "I Do" silk taffeta fashioned with nipped-in waistline and lace applique, bustled hipline and large bouffant bow at back. The full skirt swept to a chapel train and the long sleeves ended in lily points. The dainty semi-scalloped bodice neckline of Imported Chantilly lace was trimmed with sequins and brilliants.

Her finger-tip veil was also caught to a cap of Chantilly lace and trimmed with sequins and brilliants matching her gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of regal lilies and stephanatis.

Miss Joan Fraser was maid of honor for her sister, wearing a four-tiered dress with brief jacket of moss green organza and matching crown headdress with short veil. Her shoes were dyed to match and she wore white gloves, and carried a bouquet of pink 'mums and carnations intermixed with white tulle.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gail Sine, of Belleville, wearing orchid, and Miss Marilyn Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, dressed in pale yellow. Their gowns and headdresses were identical to the maid of honor, also matching shoes and white gloves, but they carried bouquets of opposite colors, orchid and yellow.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth Fraser, sister of the bride, wore a three-tiered dress of pale pink organza in the same style as the other attendants and her hair was caught back with a wide velvet band which matched her dress. She wore white shoes and gloves and carried a matching blue and white bouquet.

Little Miss Judy Sloggett, as flower girl, cousin of the bride, was demure in a two-tiered matching dress of pastel blue organza and hairband with white shoes and gloves. She carried a smaller bouquet of pink and white flowers identical to the other attendants.

Mr. Glen Anderson, of Rylstone, was his brother's best man, and the ushers were: Mr. Robert Anderson of Stirling, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Bryce Philp, of Belleville. Master Gary Bateman, Bonarlaw, nephew of the bridegroom, was junior usher.

The wedding music was rendered by the church organist, Mrs. Harry Brown, and the soloist, Miss Carol Ray, of Stirling, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

The church was decorated with tall standards of pink, white and lilac Canterbury Bells and Foxglove, and the guest pews were marked with dainty bouquets of white flowers tied with fancy ribbon bows.

The reception was held in the church parlor where Mrs. Fraser received the guests, wearing a three-quarter jacket-dress of pastel green eyelet organdy with beige accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Bert Anderson, mother of the bridegroom, wearing white flowered organza on blue taffeta with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

The bride's table, covered with white damask, was centred by a four-tiered, all-white wedding cake, and tall white tapers in crystal candelabra. Pink and white streamers and bells adorned the head table and vases of red cluster rose buds and baby's breath decorated the other tables.

For their wedding trip to Niagara and the United States, the bride chose a white and grey figured organza dress over taffeta with black velvet belt trimming, red accessories, and wore a corsage of matching carnations. When they return home, they will reside in Stirling.

Out-of-town guests were present from Oshawa, Toronto, Cooper, Queensboro, Belleville, Frankford, Peterborough, Bonarlaw, Madoc, Campbellford, Plainfield, Rylstone and Cobourg.

Previous to the marriage, a miscellaneous shower was held for the bride by Mesdames Jason Fields and J. P. Collins, of Campbellford; a presentation at the bride's home by neighbors and friends of the family; a coffee party by Mrs. Albert Fraser, mother of the bride, and a surprise linen shower by Misses Linda and Gail Sine, at Stirling.

Fall Fashions Offer Variety For Editors

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Changes in the fashionable silhouette for fall are subtle. But new easy softness of line, teamed with wild extravagance of fabric, fur and glitter, will make women prettier than they've been for years.

That's the happy prediction for autumn as New York designers today opened the 35th National Press Week for visiting fashion editors.

Since no one silhouette has taken over, the new clothes offer a variety of fluid, feminine outlines. This promises fashionable wearing for more than one season.

Dresses: They're loose, soft, low-waisted, or with overblouse or tunic. Skirts may be tiered, full, cut on the bias, pleated—but always allowing easy movement. Sleeves have deep armholes, set on low shoulder line. Necklines may be collarless, or have scarf collars or cowl folds.

Suits: Jackets are in lengths from hipbone to wristbone. Skirts may be rounded, pleated or flared.

Coats: The full coat is back in magnificent width. Frequently it's lined with fur.

Betty Ingram Turned In Good Scores in Ont. Open

The big ogre of the Ontario Ladies Open Golf Tournament was not such a big giant after all.

Outside of a slight assault on the nervous system the first day, the women's golf classic did not bother Betty Ingram too much.

In fact the lone representative of the Bay of Quinte Country Club in the big event found her debut among Ontario's top lady golfers an enjoyable affair.

"It was just wonderful," she said. "I liked it so well I hope to go back next year."

Mrs. Ingram bowed to Jean Dunfield of the Kawartha Club on the second day with an 89. Mrs. Dunfield had an 86.

But she defeated Mrs. McCormick on the 15th hole with an 89 on Friday.

And husband Alex Ingram got in some golf glory of his own over the weekend. With Dorothy Wilson he won the Belvedere Trophy on Sunday with a low net card of 72.

Scoring low gross in the mixed two-ball 18th hole competition was Gary Bowerman and Monica MacDonald with an 87. The couple got away to a fine start scoring a 37 going out, but faltering on the back nine.

Second low net went to Helen McCorquodale and Ken Lewis with a 73. Alice Stuart and Ralph Ketcheson won third low net.

Forty couples took part in the play.

Large representations of the club will play in the Napanee Golf Club's Ladies Field Day next Saturday and the "Mr. and Mrs." tournament of the same club on Sunday next.

Student Must Learn Italian By Autumn

MONTREAL (CP) — The task of learning fluent Italian by autumn is not unduly disturbing to Eva Kubikova.

As one of six Canadian students who won Italian government scholarships for a year's study in Italy, Eva will begin medical studies in Rome in November.

She plans to arrive there six weeks early so that she can practise her Italian.

Eva is already an exceptional linguist. Born in Czechoslovakia, she was among the children who survived the massacre of Lidice in 1942 and were deported to Germany. Her father was shot, as were all the men in the village. Her mother was sent to a concentration camp.

LEARNED GERMAN

By the time mother and daughter were reunited in Czechoslovakia after the war, young Eva spoke fluent German.

After they were forced to go to Germany again, this time as refugees from their homeland, Eva, her mother and her new stepfather and sister went to Norway, where they lived for three years. Eva thereupon learned Norwegian.

When she arrived in Canada six years ago, she wanted to go to college immediately. "But at the time I could not speak any English so I had to go to high school instead," says Eva.

She graduated second in her class two years later. To meet the requirements for a Bachelor of Arts degree at Marianopolis College here, Eva then began to study Latin at night. She also studied French language and literature.

NOT DIFFICULT

"Italian as languages go is not difficult," says Eva. "Once you know a few languages you have little difficulty in picking up another one."

Eva, like the five other Canadian students selected for scholarships, will have her boat fare paid to and from Italy by the Italian government. She will receive about $100 a month living allowance in addition to her university fees and books.

The students are free to choose the courses they wish to take and may attend the university of their choice.

Eva, who has decided to make medicine her career, says:

"These kind of scholarships give students the opportunity of knowing and understanding people of other countries, and they do a great deal to improve international relations."

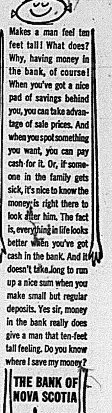
PEACEFUL PURSUIT

LONDON (CP)—Gardening is the key to sanity, says Mrs. Francis Perry, president of the horticultural society. Writing in the society's magazine she says: "Never in the world's history has there been a greater need for the sanity and peace which gardening brings."

$1,000 Cheque Given Fund By Association

LONDON (CP) — Mrs. L. G. Lymburner of Port Colborne, Ont., Sunday presented a $1,000 cheque as Canada's donation to an international scholarship fund designed to further the study of home economics and rural community welfare. The fund was set up by an organization called the Associated Country Women of the World.

Mrs. Lymburner is president of the federated women's institutes of Ontario. The Canadian donation is from the income of a fund contributed to by Ontario members as a memorial to Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, founder of the first women's institute at Stoney Creek, Ont.



Makes a man feel ten feet tall! What does? Why, having money in the bank, of course! When you've got a nice pad of savings behind you, you can take advantage of sale prices. And when you spot something you want, you can pay cash for it. Or, if someone in the family gets sick, it's nice to know the money is right there to look after him. The fact is, everything in life looks better when you've got cash in the bank. And it doesn't take long to run up a nice sum when you make small but regular deposits. Yes sir, money in the bank really does give a man that ten-feet tall feeling. Do you know where I save my money?

Women's Institute

MOUNTAIN VIEW W. I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. William Nightingale opened her home on Wednesday for the July meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute. The meeting opened with Mrs. W. Barber, president, in the chair. Business was discussed. It was decided to choose three worthy causes to donate to this year. The Ho-Boteas which had been held the past month, rendered $2?.75.

The girls who had taken the "homemaking" projects during the past year, were present and with their leaders, Mrs. A. Wallbridge and Mrs. W. Joyce demonstrated and showed their finished projects of 'Working with Wool'. This all proved very interesting. The girls were presented with their spoons and the leaders also received gifts. The president also presented Mrs. Roblin and Mrs. Werkhoven, leaders of the Home Extension Course, with a gift each.

Mrs. Stanley Barber, convener for Canadian Industries took over and, with the help of Mrs. W. Burkitt, read interesting articles on this subject.

Mrs. D. Hall thanked the hostess for her hospitality.

After the meeting was closed, the hostess, with the co-hostess, Mrs. R. Fairman, and lunch committee, Mrs. Clifford Barber and Mrs. W. Motley, served refreshments, and a social half hour was enjoyed.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

CONCERNING SHORTS AND SLACKS

I met my friend Mrs. Inexperienced the other morning while shopping on main street. I was amazed to see her clad in brief shorts and a flapping shirt. And the fact that Mrs. Inexperienced is rather small and a bit overweight certainly didn't enhance the picture.

This episode reminded me of the comments of an irate gentleman who recently commented to me about ladies who wear slacks and shorts on city streets. He was violently opposed to the idea, as have been many other men with whom I have talked.

While I do not presume to be a fashion dictator, I still maintain there is a definite place for wearing slacks and shorts. And I truly feel that wearing them on city streets is definitely incorrect. Particularly shorts. Appearing so clad is displaying not only bad taste, but a lot of yourself as well.

"But," you say, "what does this have to do with manners?" Well, the conventions we observe every day are based on our thoughts of others. And this concern for others is, after all, the basic rule behind all "Manners". You wouldn't dispense with knives and forks and eat with your fingers, would you? No, because it would be unsightly to others. Neither would you appear on the streets clad in a bath towel. Convention forbids it. And yet, there are too many women who wear even less and think nothing of it.

Of course there is a definite time to wear slacks and shorts. To do so in the centre of the city's business district comes under the heading of bad taste. Flaunting one's self in trousers, long or short, in any public place other than a resort isn't showing good judgment.

During the summer when working in the garden or around the house slacks and shorts are perfect. They are comfortable, easy to move around in, and cool. But the reason they have been condemned, ridiculed, and cartooned is that some of us ladies haven't learned to discriminate between when they can and cannot be correctly worn.

There is also one definite question we should ask ourselves, aside from when to wear slacks or shorts. That is how do we look in them. Slacks and shorts are a boon to sports lovers this time of year, but look into the mirror first after putting them on. Let's face facts! Are you a little on the middle-aged side? A little too plump in spots? Just remember that what you see in that mirror is what you are inflicting on all those who see you. If you are not made to wear slacks and shorts, don't wear them, for your own dignity's sake!

If they become you, wear slacks or shorts by all means, but wear them at the right time. These clothes have come to stay, of that I am sure, because they are so sensible for some occasions. But if we ladies are to avoid criticism, we've got to conduct ourselves so that particularly the male population will find no cause for criticism and condemnation.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: My cousin's daughter was married May 14 and one month later I received an announcement of the marriage. Am I obligated to send a gift?

Answer: To begin with, the announcement should have been issued the day the marriage took place, not a month later. Were it not for this slip up on good taste, I would say that, as a relative, a gift should be sent. But in this case, I think it is up to you to make the decision. It would seem to me that a gift would not be expected at this late date.

Question: Just what obligations must I assume in the role of the extra man at a small party? One I attended recently had six guests and the hosts. I wound up paying the bar bill and escorting three of the other guests to their homes after the dinner at the restaurant was over. This didn't seem fair to me. What do you think?

Answer: That you are absolutely right! It is an extremely unfair host who allows one of his guests to assume any expense whatsoever. He may ask you to escort one of the ladies home (if you don't have a car you would pay for the taxi). Other than that, he should expect, and demand, nothing!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura C. — Evelyn gets all the privileges.

Mrs. L. C. — We are trying to even the score.

• • •

Laura C. — I am 16 and my sister Evelyn is nearly 15. We don't get along and my parents show her all the favoritism.

They are so unfair sometimes I feel I could just do something violent. Recently, for example, one of my aunts wanted to take me on a trip. My parents talked her into taking Evelyn instead. Shouldn't an older sister have the preference?

My parents make the excuse that I have to work on my music and dancing. But they know I need a vacation once in a while too. You'd think I was nothing but a work horse. They show preference for Evelyn in a lot of other ways too.

• • •

Mrs. L. C. — This problem has been going on since the girls were little more than babies. They are extremely jealous of one another and we can't seem to make them understand that we love them both equally.

Now that the girls are older things are even more serious. Laura is extraordinarily pretty, vivacious and talented. She plays the piano beautifully and is a fine ballet dancer. She gets a tremendous amount of attention from everyone.

Evelyn, on the other hand, is a sweet, lovely girl, but nobody even notices her when Laura is around. We try to even the score a little.

• • •

The Council: As long as the C.'s talk and think in terms of evening the score, they will be defeated in their efforts to make their daughters happy with themselves and the world in general.

Scores are rarely even and nobody can afford to be miserable about that. We are all less well off than somebody else in some respects. Those who bemoan this fact do not bother to develop their own full potentialities.

A girl like Laura inevitably attracts the attention of the public. Nevertheless she is very insecure. She seriously feels her parents love her sister more and she can't be expected to feel sisterly affection for such a rival.

We get the impression that these parents are, themselves, overwhelmed by Laura's talents. Possibly they expect big things of her. It is very easy for such a child to get the impression that her parents care only about her achievements and do not love her for herself.

The score the C.'s want to "even" really involves their own feelings. We believe they love their two daughters equally, but perhaps their own yearnings for success have gotten in the way of the proper demonstration of love for their children.

Possibly the C.'s have pointed out to Laura that she is better endowed than her sister and should therefore be willing to agree to certain concessions for Evelyn. This may comfort Laura's sore ego for the moment, but it will not touch her deep-seated feelings.

What is needed in this family is a genuine appreciation of both girls for themselves. Undoubtedly Evelyn has wonderful qualities which simply haven't been brought out because the parents have been sidetracked by Laura's assertive abilities. When they can take just as much pride in Evelyn as Laura, their daughters will be able to live at peace with one another.

MELROSE W.M.S.

The regular meeting of Melrose W.M.S. was held on Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. E. Lazier, with 15 present. The president, Mrs. J. Milligan, was in the chair and opened the meeting. She welcomed all present, especially the visitors.

The theme of the devotional service was "Blessed Are the Pure in Heart". Mrs. C. Hagerman read a poem, the president led in prayer and Mrs. W. Embury read the Scripture lesson.

A short Bible study was held, led by Miss Margaret Bailey, who led the discussion on Matt. 7:13-14, and John 15:4. Mrs. Roy Badgley followed with a discussion on Matt. 7:15-23 and Luke 13:6-9, while Mrs. W. Embury spoke on Matt. 7:24-29 and 21: 28-32.

Mrs. C. Bates, Sr., read an article on "Peace", which stated that if war can be made, peace can be made also. To get peace the whole world must be given equal places of opportunity.

A short business session was held. The treasurer reported that $100 had been forwarded on the missionary assignment. The subject of sending a delegate to the conference at Whitby in August was discussed, but was left to the August meeting for a final decision.

The members agreed to cater for a wedding in September and a committee was formed consisting of Mrs. J. Milligan, Mrs. R. MacFarlane, Mrs. C. Bates Sr., Mrs. Roy Badgley and Mrs. Grant McLaren, to make the arrangements

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Grant McLaren with Mrs. Roy Badgley as group leader.

The group leader, Mrs. G. McLaren, took charge of the meeting, her topic being, "The Eskimos". She read a beautiful prayer. Mrs. Lorne Weese read a short article, "Happy Birthday, Canada". Mrs. McLaren said in part, that "the Eskimos were a friendly, cheerful people. They were at the crossroads and there was great danger that they might lose their simple habits and native ways. Mrs. J. McLaren read an article on "The Future of the Eskimo", and Mrs. R. MacFarlane one about a young Eskimo working in Ottawa.

The hostess served refreshments and a pleasant social hour was spent by all.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown ladies held their Women's Association meeting on the afternoon of July 6th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis.

The theme of the meeting was "Walk as Children of Light". Mrs. C. J. Brunt opened with a poem, and welcomed the members, the visitor and also thanked the hostess.

The Scripture was found in Ephesians 5:1-14, and read by Mrs. A. Meyers, who gave the lesson story and prayer.

Mrs. Arnold Harry gave a missionary reading called, "There is Someone at Your Door". A sing-song of hymns was enjoyed led by Mrs. Clayton Curtis.

A thank-you note was received from the Harry family, thanking the W.A. for its kindness in sending flowers and cards at the time of their father's death, (Mr. Roy Harry). A thank-you note was received from the Retarded Infants Home at Plainfield thanking the W.A. for a donation.

Several poems were read, "Before it Is too Late," by Mrs. W. Smith; "Items About Queen Victoria" by Mrs. William S. Harry and "Farmers Wives", by Mrs. Alec Vandervoort.

A letter was read by Mrs. Meyers from a Missionary in Formosa, asking the W.A. to send more used Christmas cards to her to help her in her work. She said one did not realize how much good the cards did to her people, as they write a Bible verse in Chinese on them and they create a good feeling between the Formosans and western people.

Mrs. Meyers asked all the W.A. members who had old cards to bring them to her.

A social half hour with fine refreshments, was then enjoyed.

ENGLISH CLASSES

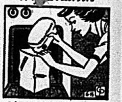
Wife Preservers



Salvage stale bread by putting it in a paper bag, closed tightly, in a 350-degree oven for 10 or 15 minutes. If very stale, first sprinkle bread lightly with warm water.

Mother's Helper

GELATINE desserts are easy for beginners in the culinary department. If your own small cook wants to use a mold (either a large one or individual sizes), have her brush the inside lightly with salad oil before she pours in the liquid. This will help slide out a perfect product at dessert time.

Fish Cooked In Foil Tasty Dish

OTTAWA (CP)—Outdoor cooking of fish wrapped in aluminum foil is suggested by the fisheries department as a way of producing a tasty meal while avoiding the necessity of washing dishes.

The fish can be cooked in its own juices from the steam built up in the airtight container which also serves as a plate.

First, clean, scale and dress the fish, season it with salt and pepper, then wrap individual portions in heavy - duty aluminum foil or a double thickness of household aluminum foil, folding the edges so they meet on three sides. Close the package with firm double folds.

Place the packages directly on hot coals, allowing five minutes cooking time for thin fillets and about 10 minutes for small whole fish or cuts about one inch thick. It isn't necessary to turn the packages.

When cooking time is up, open a test package. The fish is ready if the flesh flakes easily when tested with a fork and when the flesh down the backbone has lost its watery look and has become opaque.

Oven Meal For Owner Of Electric Range

By Mary Moore

This one sentence ". . . send me the recipes for some casseroles or oven meals as I have just got a new electric range . . ." started me off on an oven meal spree.

Here is the menu for the meal I baked:

Roast Chicken
Oven-Steamed Rice
Peas with Onion Rings
Cherry Cobbler

I added chicken gravy and a tomato salad and coffee.

ROAST CHICKEN WITH VEGETABLE STUFFING:

1-4 cup butter or margarine, 1-2 cup minced onion, 1 1-2 cups chopped celery, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 2 1-2 cups shredded carrots, raw, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1-2 teaspoon thyme, 1 4-lb. roasting chicken, dressed melted shortening.

Melt butter in frying pan and add onion and celery; cook gently over low heat until onion and celery are tender. Combine bread crumbs, shredded carrots, salt, pepper, poultry seasoning and thyme in large bowl. Add the hot vegetable mixture and toss lightly. Loosely pack stuffing into the cavity of dressed chicken. Tie wings and legs to the body. Place chicken in uncovered roasting pan. Brush with melted shortening. Bake 2 hours, at 350 deg. Fahr. or until drumstick meat is soft when pressed with the fingers.

OVEN STEAMED RICE:

Combine 3-4 cup washed rice, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons butter, 1 medium green pepper, cut in strips, and 2 cups boiling water in a medium casserole. Bake, covered for 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr.

PEAS AND ONIONS RINGS:

Place 2 1-2 cups fresh green or 1 package frozen peas, 1 tablespoon water, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1 tablespoon butter in a 3-cup baking dish. Cut 1 onion in rings, sprinkle on top of peas. Bake, covered at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes; stir after the first 15 minutes of baking.

CHERRY COBBLER:

To 2 cups sour cherries add 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca. Mix well and pour into medium-sized casserole. Allow to soak while you make Cobbler Batter: Sift together 1 cup sifted cake flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Cut in 1-4 cup soft shortening with 2 knives or pastry blender until consistency of rolled oats. Mix together 1 slightly beaten egg and 1-4 cup milk and quickly stir in just to blend. Spread over cherries (or other fruit) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until fruit is tender and batter is baked. Serve with Hard Sauce or pouring cream.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

The professional hockey octopus has reached out and grabbed another amateur tidbit in its tentacles.

As is well-known now the New York Rangers will operate an entry in the Eastern Professional Hockey League this year in the Kitchener auditorium.

The decision to operate the pro team was ratified by members of the Kitchener auditorium commission and the New York Rangers. At the same time an attempt to keep senior "A" club in the same building on an equal footing went by the boards.

Len Taylor, sports editor of the Kitchener Record, who has fought bitterly against the pro invasion takes a very dim view of the situation. Always a strong backer of the famous "Dutchmen" Taylor sees anything but success for the new pro venture.

Having sold the Twin City hockey birthright the Auditorium Commission has left a mess of pottage to the Kitchener community for the coming months and years, he says.

"Advent of the Rangers in the guise of an Eastern Professional Hockey League team, mean the end of independence for all grades of the game here from the toddlers up to the top."

"This" says Taylor, "is a signal victory for the pros in general and for the Rangers in particular. It very likely means the destruction of the OHA senior series, the last independent stronghold and the disappearance of the Kitchener Dutchmen, one of the few clubs that has had enough guts to stand up for its rights in opposition to the professional juggernaut."

"Some people" Taylor goes on, "have forgotten or never knew, that this community has had earlier, disastrous experience with pro hockey. The last effort some 30 years ago, left the community in a mess for nearly a score of esasons. Let's hope this time, we escape a bit easier."

Some commentator remarked recently that Kitchener deserves professional hockey.

"No doubt," Taylor comments, "someone said the same thing in the current hockey graveyards marked Valleyfield, Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Chicoutimi, Ottawa and so many more."

However some attempt will be made to salvage a senior "A" club out of the wreckage. Jack McMaster, former member of the Dutchmen who was seriously injured, said a majority of the Dutchmen players and certain prospective players want to operate an entry this year in the Ontario senior "A" circuit.

McMaster wrote to the commissions stating that he had been in direct touch with nine Dutchmen players and others. He said he was interested in doing all he could to keep the senior team alice.

He said he was confident almost all of the Dutchmen would join the OHA club on a share-the-wealth basis. A meeting of the players will be called within a few days to organize the team and it is hoped to announce an executive at that time.

Other clubs of the Ontario senior circuit definitely want the Dutchmen back again. But, we do not go along with Taylor's statement that the demise of the Dutchmen means the end of the senior "A" loop in Ontario. Chatham, Windsor, Whitby and Belleville will operate and if Galt, Welland or some other western club or clubs enter, everything should be comfortable.

Meanwhile what about the champion of both the senior OHA and the Eastern Pro League, Wren Blair. What he will do about the matter? He has been charged with advocating the pros for Kitchener, and by his own statement working hard to keep the senior loop alive and healthy.

Juniors Shade Foxboro 4-2 In Mound Duel

By PETER CARVER

Although they only collected three hits to their opponents five, the Belleville Juniors defeated Foxboro 4-2 last night in a South Hastings Baseball League tilt.

The winners scored single runs in the second and third inning, and wrapped it up with two in fourth. Foxboro plated both their runs in the third stanza.

Larry Soden went all the way in the winning cause allowing five hits, walking four and whiffing five. George Sinfield started for Foxboro and took the loss. He allowed only two hits, walking five and striking out four. Jerry Mann came on in fourth and held the Juniors to one hit over the remaining two innings, he passed three and whiffed two.

Larry Soden helped to win his own game with two singles, which accounted for three RBI's. Bill Moxon had the other Belleville base hit.

Gord Parker had a double in the losing cause while Plane, Reynolds, Rumleski and Sinfield each had a single.

Belleville: Follwell, Kellar, Asseltine, Soden, Mavety, Clapp, Clarke, Moxon, Morris.

Foxboro: Dulmage, Parker, Plane, Rumleski, Sinfield, Charlton, Skimmer, Belanger, Mann.

Shannonville pushed across two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to squeeze out a 3-2 victory over Latta in SHBL action over the weekend.

Lorne Cronkwright, with help from Stan Reid in the sixth, toiled for Latta. He gave up just two hits and whiffed six. Reid fanned one. They walked six between them.

Shannonville plated the tying and winning runs on a couple of bases-loaded passed balls in the sixth and final inning.

Latta hitters were Parks with two singles, Stan Reid with a triple and Wayne Gow with a single.

Tigers, Yankees Beaten Twice

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

When Chicago White Sox were in spring training in Sarasota, Fla., the experts said Roy Sievers' hitting and the pitching of me like Bob Shaw and Early Wynn was going to help them win another American League pennant.

Wynn didn't win a game until May 15. Sievers was batting .182 on May 30 and Shaw had been just so-so.

But the White Sox are rolling now, in third place only half a game behind runner-up Cleveland Indians and two games behind New York Yankees.

Sievers extended his consecutive-game batting streak to 20 Sunday with a game-winning single in a 2-1 first-game victory over Baltimore Orioles and a two-run homer and single in the 11-2 second-game romp. Shaw won the opener with a six-hitter and Wynn won his fifth behind an 18-hit attack in the second.

LEADERS WINLESS

The Yankees and Indians both continued their slumps. Detroit Tigers knocked off New York 12-2 and 3-2 and Washington Senators thumped Cleveland 3-2 and 5-3.

Boston Red Sox ran their winning streak to seven with a 4-2 victory over the Athletics at Kansas City, where pitcher Tom Brewer won his sixth and also hit his first home run of the year.

Saturday, the Orioles edged Chicago 4-3, Cleveland defeated Washington 9-5, Detroit beat the Yankees 2-1 and Boston squeaked out a 1-0 victory over Kansas City.

Two walks by loser Steve Barber and a sacrifice set the stage for Sievers' game-winning single at Chicago Sunday. Sievers slammed his 14th homer with a man on in the first inning of the second game. Gene Freese added a three-run blast in the sixth.

Frank Lary, a non-winner since June 15, beat the Yanks in the first game as the Tigers rapped Ralph Terry and two successors for 11 hits including homers by Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash.

FANS DELAY GAME

The second game at Detroit was delayed for 10 minutes when fans threw programs, beer cans and pieces of bleacher seats to the field in protest of a ruling that Bill Skowron's two-run homer was a fair ball. Skowron's homer tied the score in the eighth but Detroit won it with a run in the last of the eighth. Pete Burnside was the winner.

Washington finally beat Jim (Mudcat) Grant after losing 14 in a row to him over a three-year span. Tex Clevenger won the opener from Grant and Ray Moore took the second in relief. The Indians, with a chance to move out front, have lost seven of their last 10 starts.

Earl Battey, Washington catcher, and Vic Power, Cleveland first baseman, exchanged blows in the first game and were tossed out. Power had been nailed at the plate by a fine throw from Dan Dobbek, whose seventh-inning single won the game.

Brewer's eight-hit pitching and homer did the job for the Red Sox but Russ Nixon also hit a home run to help hang a seventh defeat on Dick Hall.

Giants Option Willie McCovey To Tacoma

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco Giants Sunday optioned their 1959 rookie of the year, Willie McCovey, to their Tacoma farm club of the Pacific Coast League.

Giants secretary Eddie Brannick said the first baseman's spot will not be filled immediately.

The six-foot-four left-handed swinger has been a disappointment this season afield and at bat.

Last year McCovey had a .354 batting average in 52 games with 13 homers and 38 runs batted in.

This season he has batted .24 in 71 games. Included were 11 home runs and 40 RBI. He committed costly errors in the field and Saturday was booed loudly each time he came to bat.

Hitting — Roy Sievers, White Sox, extended consecutive game hitting streak to 20 with game-winning single in first game victory over Baltimore 2-1 and two-run homer and single in second game 14-2 romp.

Pitching—Larry Jackson and Ray Sadecki, Cardinals, boosted St. Louis into third place in National League race with 6-0 and 8-1 victories over Chicago. Jackson pitched four-hit shutout and 19-year-old Sadecki allowed six hits.

Pirates' Lead Slashed

Surging Cards Threat In National

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

If the St. Louis Cardinals keep on winning, Solly Hemus will be in line for a bonus instead of the bum's rush.

Hemus was a Red Bird on a hot seat a few weeks back when the Cards had lead in their wings. His job was in danger as the St. Louis "youth movement" floundered.

By winning 13 of their last 17 games, the Cardinals suddenly have become a factor in the National League pennant race. Two victories over Chicago Sunday 6-0 and 8-1 left them in third place, only six games off the pace.

Ray Jackson, "old folks" on the staff at 29, pitched the shutout, a four-hitter, and 19-year-old Ray Sadecki, a $50,000 bonus boy, won the second with a six-hitter.

LIFE IN MUSIAL YET

Just to prove that the Kiddie Korps hasn't taken over completely, Stan Musial came up with two singles in the second game that gave him a career total of 3,252 hits, fifth in the all-time standings. He passed Hall of Famer Nap Lajoie who had 3,251.

Pittsburgh's lead was cut to 2½ games when second-place Milwaukee thumped Philadelphia 7-3 while the Pirates were dividing two with Cincinnati. The Reds took the first game 6-5 but 25-year-old Tom Cheney, recently recalled from the Columbus farm, blanked the Reds with four hits in the second game, 5-0.

Willie Mays' eighth-inning triple stopped the march of the Los Angeles Dodgers who have lost only two of their last 10. Mays' hit gave San Francisco a 5-4 victory. During the game, the slumping Giants announced that first baseman Willie McCovey had been shipped to the Tacoma farm of the Pacific Coast League.

JACKSON'S 11TH WIN

Jackson's first game victory was his 11th of the year. The Cards chased Dick Ellsworth in the fifth when they scored five runs. Rookie Julian Javier drove in two with a single and Ken Boyer tripled with the bases loaded. Bill White hit home run No. 10.

Sadecki completed the job on the Cubs who scored a total of two runs in their four-game series at St. Louis. Musial's hits were the big noise but White had a double and single to drive in two in the defeat of Bob Anderson.

Eddie Mathews hit his 19th homer and Lew Burdette won his 10th game for Milwaukee as Del Crandall, who had a perfect four-hit night Saturday, ran his string to seven with three singles.

Cheney saved the day for the Pirates with his four-hitter to beat Cal McLish after Don Newcombe was chased by an umpire before he threw a pitch. Newk became involved in a dispute about a long, loose left sleeve on his sweatshirt to which the Pirates objected.

Dick Groat had seven hits in the doubleheader, four in the first game defeat when Vern Law lost to Bob Purkey.

The Giants' victory was only their second in their last 10. It dropped the Dodgers into fourth place.

DRIVER DIES

KITCHENER (CP)—Bob Neilson, 34, of Milverton, died Saturday night on his way to hospital after he collapsed while driving a jalopy at the Bridgeport Speedway near here. He apparently suffered a heart attack. Track officials said there was no accident in the race.

Rademacher Is Fight Underdog

TORONTO (CP)—George Chuvalo will hold a slight edge in odds tonight when he squares off with Pete Rademacher in a 10-round heavyweight scrap at Maple Leaf Stadium.

But there has been little interest in wagering.

Chuvalo will probably be a 6- or 7-to-5 favorite by starting time of the match, only his third in 22 months.

During the last week Chuvalo's weight has gone up and down like a yo-yo—from a low of 214½ to 220. At weigh-in today he'll be tipping the scales at about 218, an edge of about 15 pounds over Rademacher.

Balding Rademacher, 31, has an advantage in reach with 77¾ inches compared with Chuvalo's 73½.

Both fighters have lost three times as pros. Rademacher, Olympic champion, lost to Floyd Patterson, Zora Folley and Brian London. Chuvalo, 22, has lost to Toward King, Bob Baker and Pat McMurty.

Beats Wall on 73rd

Leonard Takes Western In Playoff

DETROIT (CP)—Stan Leonard of Vancouver, a 45-year-old veteran usually stricken with inconsistency when he's among golf's touring professionals, staged a tremendous finish Sunday to win the $25,000 Western Open on the first sudden-death hole.

He rammed down a six-foot birdie putt on the 73rd hole to beat Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., after the American suffered a horrible slump.

Leonard and Wall were deadlocked at 278, 10 under par, for the regulation 72 holes. Leonard sank his short putt on the par-four playoff hole but Wall missed a seven-footer.

Leonard won $5,000. It was his first big victory on the U.S. circuit since he took the rich Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev., in 1958 and banked $20,000.

It was a stunning loss for Wall, 36-year-old former United States Masters king who had not been over par in his last 10 rounds. He grabbed the Canadian Open earlier this month and was 19 under par for the 72 holes. Leonard was tied for 31st place in that one. Wall pocketed $2,500 Sunday, raising his earnings in the last two weeks to nearly $10,000.

Leonard came home the hard way. He was trailing Wall by six strokes going into the final round and closed with a four-under-par 68. Wall, who fired a brilliant 66 in the second round at the Western Golf and Country Club, carded a 74.

Leonard finished ahead of Wall, then waited for Art to make his move. Wall could have taken the crown on the 18th green but his six-foot putt rimmed the cup and he ended with a one-over-par five.

Leonard was leaning against a clubhouse rail as most of the $25,000 fans stood near the green.

"I was watching and dying," he said. "I didn't think Art would bogey the last hole. He has a good short game and I didn't think he'd miss the green with his second shot."

Leonard almost passed up the tournament because of his inconsistent play.

"I had been playing so badly I almost didn't come down here. I was on the verge of playing well in the Canadian Open but I couldn't drop a putt. I guess I was saving them all for this one."

He had earlier rounds of 71, 68 and 71 and birdied the first hole Sunday by sinking a 25-foot putt. His other one-under-par holes came on a 10-foot putt on the second hole, a 20-footer on the fourth, a 10-footer on the seventh and a two-footer on the 15th. He went one over par on the par-four 11th.

Doug Sanders and Gene Littler, two veterans whose solid play was overshadowed in the par-breaking excitement, each closed with 69 and shared third place at 279. Each won $1,750.

Mike Souchak, who won $9,000 top money in the Flint Open two weeks ago, tied for fifth - spot with Jerry Barber and Dave Ragan.

Homer Gives Flyers Win Over Cobourg

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Kim Matheson's two-run homer in the top of the ninth gave RCAF Flyers a 5-4 victory over Cobourg Merchants in Cobourg Saturday night and lifted the Flyers within one point of the B. and D softball league's fourth and final playoff spot.

Cobourg led 4-2 going into the final frame but Harold "Bugs" McDonald led off with a base hit off the pitcher's leg. Pinch-hitter Crowell went down on strikes before Matheson belted a shot through the infield that bounced over Sharpe's shoulder in left field for the 5-4 score. It was RCAF's second win in a row and third of the season.

Ken "Lefty" Kibblewhite pitched the victory, allowing eight hits, while striking out 10 and walking three.

Rolly Campbell tolled the distance for the Merchants. He gave up nine hits, fanned four and did not walk a batter.

Cobourg got one back in their half of the inning on a walk and base hits by Elliott and McGahan. They tied it 2-2 in the third when O'Brien and Goyer sandwiched infield hits around a walk and an error.

The Flyers went ahead again in the top of the sixth on two bobbles and McDonald's single to centre. Cobourg took a 4-3 lead on three RCAF bobbles and O'Brien's bunt single in the bottom of the frame and held the edge until the last inning.

Kim Matheson with his game-winning homer and a double paced the Flyers. "Bugs" McDonald had two key singles, as did Gord Duff, while Desimone homered, Don Beck tripled and Gil Girard singled.

Gary Goyer doubled and singled while Leo O'Brien and Rex McGahan had two singles each for the Merchants. Jackie Elliott and Claude Carr had the other hits.

Defeats Cowan in Final

Dave Morland Wins Amateur

By HARVEY SHEPHERD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — North Bay's Dave Morland, 35, stroked his way to the amateur golf championship of Ontario at Sunningdale Golf Club Saturday, fooling most sports pundits.

Favored was Phil Brownlee, 18, a relaxed 120-pounder from Toronto Scarborough. Ontario junior champion in 1957 and 1959, he had accumulated an unofficial 11 birdies in two matches totalling 29 holes the day before and had eliminated top - notch golfers Bruce Castator of Toronto and Den Doig of London.

But in the semi-finals Gary Cowan, 21, Kitchener native playing out of Toronto Cedar Brae, took advantage of a ball Brownlee lost at the 15th green, chipped for a birdie deuce on the 16th and stopped Brownlee two and one.

ANOTHER FAVORITE

Colorful veteran Nick Weslock, the other semi-finalist, had also been highly rated. He'd won the Ontario amateur and Ontario open championship three times each, been Canadian champ in 1957 and led the qualifying round for this tournament with a five-under-par 67.

Morland, however, playing a tremendous short game, one-putted nine of 15 greens, needing only one putt longer than eight feet, and put Weslock out of the running in the morning semi-final five and three.

In the final match, Morland played a careful, colorless game and let Cowan, who outdrove him 50 to 70 feet on some tee shots, go over par. He wound up unofficially one over par; Cowan wound up four over.

Big "Newk" Out Before He Starts

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Starting pitcher Don Newcombe of Cincinnati Redlegs was ejected from the second game of a doubleheader with Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday before he threw a single pitch.

Boggess ordered Newcombe to change the shirt. Newcombe did, but as he returned to the mound he made some remark to Boggess and was ejected.

Americans Sweep Cup Series

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — The United States Davis Cup team cleared the first roadblock of a long journey back to Australia Sunday when it completed a five-match sweep of its North American series with Canada.

Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, Tex., gave the U.S. the sweep with victories in the last two singles matches.

MacKay, towering six - foot, three-inch power hitter, was in great form as he beat Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 in two hours and 18 minutes before a crowd of 1,500.

Bartzen, veteran of the team at 33, was never in serious trouble as he disposed of 22-year-old Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

The U.S. had clinched the round Saturday when Earl Buchholz and Charles McKinley, two 19-year-olds from St. Louis, Mo., beat Bedard and Don Fontana of Toronto 14-12, 6-3, 6-2 in the doubles.

The U.S. is seeking to recapture the cup which it lost to Australia at Forest Hills, N.Y., last September.

Next stop along the cup trail will be in Mexico City Aug. 6-8 when the team meets the Mexicans in the North American zone semi-finals.

David Freed, U.S. team captain, was pleased with the overall performance of his boys and admitted they had been in a battle with Canada.

Wild Tiger Fans Pelt Yanks

DETROIT (AP) — Long after the wildest Briggs Stadium rumble since the Joe Medwick vegetable barrage in the 1934 world series had ended, umpire Joe Paparella defended his controversial call that set it off.

The fact that Detroit Tigers pulled the American League game out 3-2 a half-inning later didn't stop their fans from booing and jeering and firing missiles at New York Yankees.

Paparella's decision awarded Yankee Bill Skowron an eighth-inning home run that tied Sunday's second game 2-2. The ball floated into the right-field seats within two feet of the foul line.

"I'll go to my grave thinking it was a fair ball," Paparella said. "If I thought I made a wrong call, deep down in my heart, I'd say, 'I blew it.' But no I'd call it the same way again."

RECALL MEDWICK

Veteran ballpark employees likened the fans' outburst to the famous Medwick incident.

"It was the worst we've had here since Ducky slid into Marv Owen," said an usher.

In that world series game, the St. Louis Cardinal outfielder slid hard into Owen. Tiger third-base man, with his spikes high.

The late judge K. M. Landis, then baseball commissioner, ordered Medwick from the game to protect him from injury.

The Yankees were seething about the bombardment of right-fielder Roger Maris and their bullpen corps. Manager Casey Stengel pulled his relief pitchers into the safety of the dugout. But Maris had to stay out there and take it until the Tigers were out in the eighth. A torn-out seat plank, two bottles and a beer can narrowly missed him. Maris walked to the infield several times to complain.

"THEY'LL KILL ME"

"Pap, they'll kill me if I go back out there," Maris told Paparella.

Four announcements for order among the 42,596 fans were to no avail.

Paparella was pelted as he headed toward the umpires' room after the game. Tiger manager Jimmie Dykes escorted him into the Detroit dugout.

Paparella said of Skowron's looping shot: "I followed the ball as it went to the height of the upper deck and then came down. It curved right around the foul fair and a kid caught it."

Announce Canadian Team

Jerome Picked for Olympics

SASKATOON (CP) — Harry Jerome of Vancouver, who Friday night became the second man to run 100 metres in 10 seconds, will run that distance for Canada in next month's Olympics at Rome.

The slight, 19-year-old Negro was among 11 men and four women announced Sunday as Canada's Olympic track and field team. The selections were made after two days of trials which concluded Saturday.

Jerome will bear Canada's colors in both the 100- and 200-metre races. He will be joined in both events by Lynn Eves of Victoria. George Short of Saskatoon was named for the 100-metre distance only.

Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C., is a second candidate for the 200 metres and will be Canada's only entry in the 400 metres.

The Olympic selection committee gave the nod to three men as Canada's 800-metre representatives: Sig Ohlemann of Vancouver, Ergas Leps of Toronto and Joe Mullins of Glace Bay, N.S.

PICK OSHAWAN

Doug Kyle of Calgary, at 27 still Canada's best distance runner, is down for both the 5,000 and 10,000 metres. George Dickson of Hamilton will tackle the marathon and Alex Oakley of Oshawa the five- and 20-kilometre walking events.

The four women selected were: Nancy Lewington, Hamilton, 100 metres; Eleanor Haslam, Saskatoon, 200 metres; Sally McCallum, Vernon, B.C., 80 metres and broad jump, and Valerie Jerome, Harry's sister, 100 metres.

The women will also run together as Canada's 400-metre relay team.

Jerome, son of a CNR porter, shaved one-tenth of a second off the recognized world mark of 10.1 for the 100 metres. Saturday he ran the 200 metres in 21.2, breaking the Canadian record of 21.4.

MARKS SHATTERED

The Canadian record in the men's 800 metres fell Saturday when Ohlemann, a student at the University of Oregon, charged across the line in 1:51.5, one-tenth of a second below the previous mark.

Another Canadian mark fell in the 5,000 - metre event. Geoff Eales of Vancouver, a recent immigrant from England, reached the line in 14:29.8.

Bruce Kidd, 16, a fleet-footed Toronto youngster, was one-tenth of a second slower, but still fast enough to break the native Canadian mark of 14:54. Kyle, who has run the same distance in the United States in 14:01.2, did poorly at the 5,000 in the trials, but he won the gruelling 10,000 metres.

Liston Favored Over Folley

DENVER (AP)—Sonny Liston, of Philadelphia rules an 11-to-5 favorite over boxing stylist Zora Folley for their scheduled 12-round heavyweight fight tonight in the Denver Coliseum.

Most experts here pick Liston, weighing 212, to knock out Folley, 195, from Chandler, Ariz., in less than seven rounds. But Folley has plenty of backers who point to his experience, ability and a knockout punch that has flattened 29 opponents in 56 pro fights.

Folley has lost three bouts and has two draws on his record. Liston has kayoed 20 opponents in 30 bouts. His only defeat was a 10-round decision to Marty Marshall in 1954.

There is no radio or television coverage of tonight's fight.

Liston is ranked No. 1 and Folley No. 2 in Ring Magazine's latest rating of challengers to heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson. The winner is expected to earn an early shot at the heavyweight championship.

Second place went to Edwin Schroeder of Niagara Falls, N.Y. and third to Fred Brouse of Iroquois.

I think the standup comic is on his way out in television. I've learned that those six minute "comedy" guest spots on TV variety shows don't do the comedian a bit of good. In fact, they only hurt him.

It frightens me to think of the great number of such spots I have turned down recently at excellent money, but it's much more important to me and my career to appear on the Jack Paar Show for the standard $320 minimum, than to be integrated as a character in a situation comedy sketch.

My decision to refuse these lucrative guest spots is based on the fact that TV has definitely changed the standards of comedy. Viewers have got a lot sharper and are demanding more subtle comedy material. What they once accepted years ago is dull and old hat now. Why? Simply because they have seen the standard comedy routines over and over again. Look what happened to a lot of the comics, some of them good ones, who were on television a while back—gone. They just didn't adapt to the ever-changing comedy tastes of their public.

MOST DIFFICULT

Comedy is the most difficult of the entertaining arts. When you are given six minutes to make people laugh uproariously — between a Bulgarian high-wire act and a modern jazz ballet—you are being asked to shoulder the heaviest entertainment burden imaginable. It takes that long just to warm up an audience before they really start yakking. Sure, maybe you can do it once or even twice, but if you figure you are here to stay for a long time, what do you do the next time?

The most negative aspect of standup comics is that the comedian never matures into a personality. The performer who wants to get anywhere in TV has to show his real self to the viewers. He has to become a human being who, incidentally, is a comedian.

Jim Piersall Tossed Out Fifth Time

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jimmy Piersall was thrown out of the game with Washington in the first inning Saturday. Cleveland general manager Frank Lane said later the excitable outfielder would pay double for any fines levied by the league.

Piersall was thrown out for the fifth time this season when he protested a called strike by umpire Cal Drummond. The freshman umpire said later that Piersall had used abusive language. However, no league fine is expected in this case.

Lane, angry over Piersall's ejection, said:

"No player is any good to us in the clubhouse. We have a right to fine a player for loss of his services. Maybe this is the only way to curb Jimmy."

Highest Bisley Award

Canadian Wins Queen's Prize

By STEWART MacLEOD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

BISLEY, England (CP)—Gunnar Westling of New Westminster, B.C., whose sharpshooter's eye is as deadly as the cutting blast of his welder's torch, won the highest award at the Bisley shoot—the Queen's Prize—Saturday and his Canadian countrymen carried him on their shoulders for a mile in joyous celebration.

"Wonderful, wonderful, wonderful," said the 52-year-old welder in a Vancouver boiler factory after he scored 280 points out of a possible 300 in the final round of the famous rifle shoot that started July 2 with 1,800 entries from all over the Commonwealth.

A Canadian accountant placed third—behind a Royal Marine—and a Canadian newspaper woman was the highest woman scorer in the field to make it a great windup for Canada.

PLACES THIRD

Capt. E. L. Warner of Lennoxville, Que., an accountant who is one of Canada's outstanding small-bore shots, captured third place with a creditable 276—just one point behind Maj. D. L. Langley of the Royal Marines.

Another Canadian, Maj. R. W. Hampton of Alliston, Ont., a regular army man attached to the Canadian School of Infantry at Camp Borden, Ont., finished eighth with 274.

Mrs. Eileen Learoyd, a Victoria newspaper woman who entered privately, led the women, finishing 56th with 264.

But it was Swedish-born Westling's performance that captured the eyes of all. With deadly accuracy, he drilled shot after shot into the bullseye at a distance up to 1,000 feet.

APPROVE FIGHT LICENCE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Athletic Commission Saturday unanimously approved a licence for Feature Sports Inc. to stage a heavyweight title rematch between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson in Los Angeles.

Counsel Roy Cohn proposed a date of Oct. 31 or Nov. 1. Agreements must be worked out between the fighters within the next 10 days.

Italian Wins Bike Race

PARIS (AP) — Italy's Gastone Nencini, a quiet but stubborn man, Sunday won the 47th tour de France, the world's longest and toughest bicycle race over 4,172 kilometres (2,607 miles) across flat lands and up and down some of Europe's highest mountain passes.

Nencini didn't win any of the 21 stages but arrived high up in the pack every day and thus returned the lowest aggregate time.

Tuesday, July 19, 1960.

General Tendencies: Now you have a day and evening in which there is every chance for you to find the ways and means by which you can make your biggest aims and ambitions come true by your own ingenuity and resourcefulness. However, combine mental ingenuity and manual dexterity for best results. Fine for salesmanship of all kinds. Be active.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Get an early start at the barber or beauty shop and be at your most charming best for any important appointments you may have today. P.M. be sure to write inspiring letters and get the results you want. Retire early.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Before going off to business make it a point to handle any affairs or problems connected with close ties. Then you can make real progress by applying yourself with enthusiasm and if you use practical methods. Work.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Concentrate upon whatever will bring a greater income and increased inner happiness this morning. Then contact the most vital people you want connected with your enterprises and start the ball rolling sensibly. Be wise.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Private angling is your best daytime bet, and do not be afraid of that dynamic urge to accomplish within you, since it is this very discount that will get you the results you desire. Have meetings with the right people.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) The ideal day to contact those particular comrades who are loyal and clever, since they will be the ones to lend support when most needed. A cheerful mien and a sincere word of praise brings the results you want. Be kind.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Better seek out the individual who knows all about you and your ambitions today, since he, or she, will come up with fine ideas for you to adopt. Fine benefits can then be yours. P.M. go out for relaxation and fun, as you prefer.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try to induce that influential and kind friend to bring you along where there are powerful people so that you, too, may make progress in life. P.M. study new methods.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There is an excellent opportunity for you now to adopt the new systems that will prove more effectual and increase good will. This may concern any tax, mercantile or intimate affair or relationship.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Surely it would be wise to be more broad-minded when conferring with associates today. Listen carefully to their ideas and cement better relations. P.M. is then fine for going out socially and having a ball.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have so much energy today that it would be wise to get an early start at all the important work ahead of you. Waste very little time and plan your duties wisely. P.M. take health treatments you need.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) It is important you exude that special charm now in order to get the added support you sorely need at this time from higher-up. Sign contracts, come to full understanding. P.M. have a fine social evening. Be dynamic.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Devote most of this day to home and family, getting abode in better order and increasing harmony with close ties. Be sure to buy little thoughtful gifts and then have a quiet happy time with loved ones.

If your child is born today . . he, or she, will be endowed with both an excellent phyique and a fine mind. While on the outside it may seem there is not enough speed, this is only because your progeny has already thought a thing through thoroughly and realizes that a steady pace is after all the fastest. A very fine chart here for the cracker-jack sales person or the politician, the orator.

Car Crash Kills Eight Soccer Stars

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—A chartered plane crashed just after takeoff from Copenhagen Airport Saturday, killing eight of Denmark's leading soccer players.

The players, all candidates for this country's Olympic soccer team, were on a flight to Jutland for an Olympic selection match.

The pilot, the plane's only other occupant, survived but was critically injured.

Airport officials said one of the two engines quit moments after takeoff and the plane crashed in shallow water off the island where the airport is located.

Six of the dead had been playing on Denmark's national team —Peer Funck Jensen, Boerge Bastholm, Arne Karlsen, Erik Jensen, Kurt Cramer and Soeren Andersen. A seventh player, Ib Eskildsen, had played on the B national team and the youth team. The eighth victim was identified as Erling Spalck, a promising young player from Jutland.

Police at first report that Erik Poulsen, another B team player, was killed but this later was denied.

CONGOLESE DEMONSTRATORS ON THE RUN — A policeman, arm outstretched in foreground, follows demonstrators who race around the Boulevard Charles de Gaulle in Leopoldville Friday. Measure Track Three Times

SASKATOON (CP) — It took officials half an hour to measure the 100-metre track after Harry Jerome, 19, of Vancouver ran the distance in a record 10 seconds Friday night at the Canadian Olympic track and field trials.

When track officials learned of Jerome's time, they remeasured the distance and found it actually to be 2-100th of an inch longer than 100 metres.

The measurement was made three times with a steel tape measure and once with a cloth tape measure. Measurements were the same in all cases.

The wind velocity was taken at the start of each race and event by a Royal Canadian Navy man with a wind gauge. The velocity was slightly above two miles an hour. The allowable velocity is four miles an hour.

Three timers clocked Jerome and each recorded the same time. The watches were checked against a chronometer before and during the trials.

Leafs Defeat Royals Twice; Bisons Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Left handed rookie Al Neiger and a playful Miami wind kept Buffalo Bisons in front of Richmond's Vees in their tussle for second place in the International League Sunday.

Neiger allowed only four hits as the Bisons defeated Rochester 5-1 in the nightcap to split their doubleheader. Fourth-place Red Wings won the opener 9-3 behind the two-hit pitching of Artie Kay.

First-place Toronto swept a pair at Montreal, 5-4 and 7-1, for an 11½-game lead over Buffalo. And Columbus Jets made a mess of Havana's shift to Jersey City, sweeping the three - game inaugural series with a 3-1 decision.

STRUCK OUT SIX

Neiger struck out six, five in the first three innings, and was backed by two-run homers from Fred Hopke and Bob Bowman. Cal Browning was the loser.

In the second game, Kay allowed just one hit, a first-inning, pop fly double by Bobby Morgan, walked only four and retired 18 in a row at one stage going into the ninth. Then he walked two and Bowman rifled a two - out pitch for a home run.

The Miami wind carried Ron Samford's drive against the left field wall for a two-run double and hoisted Leo Burke's smash over the same barrier for his 10th home run as the Marlins piled up a 3-0 lead in the first three innings off loser Jim Bronstad. Arnie Portocarrero was the winner, but needed Wes Stock's saving relief when the Vees broke through his five-hit shutout in the seventh.

Toronto tagged 17 hits in the twinbill at Montreal. The Leafs took the opener on solo home runs by winning pitcher Rip Coleman and Tim Thompson after blowing a 3-0 lead. Ralph Mauriello was the loser.

WAYFARERS CHAMP

TORONTO (CP) — Barclay Livingstone, 19, who will sail for Canada in the Olympics next month in Rome, won the first Canadian and North American wayfarers championship Sunday. He took two firsts and two thirds in the two-day four-race series on Lake Ontario. Mike Lansdown of the Brockville Yacht Club came second in the over-all standings.

Helpful Hints on Bass Fishing

One of the many nice things about a black bass, largemouth or small mouth, is his versatility. Instead of there being one, clean-cut, sure-fire method for catching black bass, there is a great variety of methods, all of which produce bass in satisfactory amounts.

The great majority of the bass fishermen use bait. That's all right with the bass, and the bait fishermen stay happy. Quite a few prefer orthodox casting equipment. The bass take plugs, both floating and sinking; they take wobblers, spoons, streamers, bucktails and so on, ad infinitum.

The same thing is true of spinning gear, as a rule a slightly modified or miniaturized form of plug casting. Here the variety of available lures is as broad as with lures for the plug rod. Go to any sporting goods store and you will find a dazzling and confusing array of spinning lures. All of them will catch bass.

Then there is the fly rod and the lures which go to make up fly-rod equipment — bass bugs of every shape and size, webblers, flicker spoons, spinners, streamers, bucktails and, just as effective as any of them, the old-fashioned orthodox bass flies.

DON'T TRUST LUCK

But no matter what method you happen to choose, there are certain rules that you should know in order to make good catches. All too many bass fishermen are content simply to go to good bass water, rig up their gear, and then trust to luck. If you know where the bass are, what they are doing, and how to find them, your chances for success are far better than if you simply go fishing.

Opening day of the bass season comes directly after the spawning season. Spawning, as you know, is done in the shallows. Bass guard their nests quite actively and even after the eggs have hatched and the youngsters have moved into the safety of the very shallow water, the parents still spend much time in the shallows.

Obviously the place to fish for bass is where most of the bass are. You will find far bitter shore-line fishing in the early part of the season than you will two or three weeks later.

Unless you can find definite concentration spots where the bass are apt to gather in appreciable numbers, it is not a good idea to anchor a boat when you are fishing. Up in Georgian Bay, Ontario, there are many channels and passages between islands known locally as "thoroughfares." Nearly always there is a current flowing through these channels. The bass [illegible] in the backwaters and coves beside these thoroughfares, waiting for what the current may bring them.

We used to test the depth of these backwaters and then tie a colored-string marker on our lines so that our baits would be a foot or so off the bottom. Then we would drift slowly along the edge of the current until somebody picked up a bass. Down would go the anchor, right there. With a pailful of minnows we could, if we wished, fill a canoe with bass in the course of one afternoon's fishing.

Somewhat the same rules apply to fishing bait in a bass river. What bass there are out in the deep water usually hang around together. Instead of anchoring, we would drift, keeping our baits moving. That way we could find the schools. Usually we would take most of our fish from the same general area.

USE SAME METHOD

When wading, we use the same method. In the upper Delaware River, an excellent smallmouth stream, we would move slowly along in knee-deep water near shore. The baits would be cast out into deeper water and allowed to sink and swing below us. In that way we could cover an entire pool in a comparatively short time. The same methods can be used successfully with casting rods or spinning rods, using deep-running lures.

In a river, not nearly enough attention is paid to shallow riffles and the shallow ends of the pools, "the fans." Feeding fish go where there is the most food and that, of course, means the shallows. In every riffle there are pockets, even in very shallow, wadeable riffles. These pockets nearly always hold fish. The tails of the pools also hold cruising fish in search of food. By holding the boat and casting a rather long line across these fans, often you can pick up surprisingly large bass in water that is not knee-deep. Here again a shallow-running lure takes fish just as well as bait will.

When drifting the open water of a lake, often you will find concentration spots. It is a good plan to mark these spots for future reference. Don't try to do this by drawing imaginary lines from one shore to the other. Instead, take a sight on some convenient object on shore, such as a tree or a dock. Then line up another prominent landmark well in the background. Next line up another pair or landmarks at an angle of about 90 degrees. That will give you cross-bearings that will pin-point the spot for you and make it easy to find again.

Early morning and late evening are regular daily feeding times, as you know. But the solunar periods during the day are feeding times, too, which are apt to be every bit as productive. Remember that during these feeding periods the majority of the fish will be in the shallow water, searching for food. In lakes, this means shore lines and rocky bars; in rivers, shore lines and the heads and tails of pools. As I say, the places to fish are those where the bass are most apt to be. So keep track of the feeding periods and govern your fishing accordingly.

Sievers Rides Hot Streak

CHICAGO (AP)—Roy Sievers of Chicago White Sox, one of the hottest hitters in the American League, is riding a 20-game hitting streak in which he has lifted his average from .2?1 to .303.

"I can't ever r[illegible] b[illegible]ing this hot before," said [illegible] twice in his major league career has batted .300. He won rookie honors in 1949 with .306 mark with St. Louis Browns and eight years later finished at .301 with Washington.

Sievers' blazing bat has been the big factor in Chicago's recent rise to third place, two games behind league - leading New York Yankees. During his streak, he has collected 32 hits in 75 at bats for a .427 average with 23 runs batted in and eight homers, boosting his season total to 14.

"I'd hate to think where we'd be without him," said manager Al Lopez.

Soccer Fans Stage Riot

NEW YORK (AP)—A Swedish player was injured by hot-headed fans Sunday during an international soccer game which saw Sampdoria of Italy score three goals in the second half to beat Norrkoping of Sweden 6-4.

Late in the second half of the game at the Polo Grounds, Italian Sergio Brighenti suffered a leg injury in colliding with a Swedish player. Some of the fans in the crowd of 9,040 stormed onto the field. Most of them seemed to be chasing Inge Blomberg of Norrkoping. In the midst of the confusion another Swedish player, Rune Lind, was discovered lying on the ground.

It took police about five minutes to clear the field.

On the Track

NEW YORK (CP)—The stylishly bred colt from Kentucky, Dotted Swiss, captured Saturday's $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup by three lengths.

Ridden well by Eddie Burns who was ill from dieting just before the race, Dotted Swiss came on with a rush from the top of the Hollywood Park stretch to win a net $100,000. Second favorite Bagdad was second and there was a dead heat for third between Eddie Schmidt and Prize Host.

Dotted Smith paid $4.60, $2.80 and $2.20, Bagdad $3 and $2.20. Prize Host $2.20 and Eddie Schmidt $2.60.

At Oceanport, N.J., First Landing flew past Manassa Mauler in the last sixteenth of a mile to win the $122,000 Monmouth Park Handicap. Talent Show was third.

Eddie Arcaro won his fourth Monmouth Park Handicap since 1956 as First Landing boosted his total winnings to $774,767. He paid $4.20, $3.60 and $2.80. Manassa Mauler returned $9.40 and $6, Talent Show $4.40.

Rash Statement, a 40-to-1 shot, upset the odds-on favorite Berlo in winning the $62,512 Delaware Oaks at Stanton, Del. She paid $90.40, $35.20 and $3.40. Sarcastic paid $5.40 and $2.20, Berlo $2.20.

In Chicago, Intentionally, ridden by Bill Hartack, won the $55,000 Equipoise Mile by a nose in a photo-finish. Dunce, shut out when moving up on the rail at the turn and forced to the outside, was second. Little Tytus was third. Intentionally returned $4.80, $3.40 and $2.60.

TORONTO (CP)—Harold Wellwood's Royal Alleen, the longest-priced pacer in a select field of five, was the starting winner of Old Woodbine's $3,000 Invitation Pace Saturday.

Going away from the outside post position at odds of 7 to 1 before 5,782 patrons, Royal Alleen found a hole on the rail as the field raced down the stretch and came on to win in 2:03.2 ahead of Rocky Hal Can, and Storm Velo. Royal Alleen was driven by Bill Wellwood, 19, nephew of the [illegible] Stratford [illegible] that Dune Campbell, veteran driver from Ailsa had been set down for today and Tuesday for cutting in on Earl Rowe in the second race last Friday.

1,000-Car Motorcade Plans 1,400-Mile Drive to Promote International Highway

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The aim is a 6,600-mile international highway from Nome, Alaska, to Guatemala in Central America.

The idea for promoting it is a 1,000-car motor caravan travelling from Weed, Calif., to Dawson Creek, B.C., this fall.

Behind the ambitious plan is the Okanogan Cariboo Trail Association, a group of energetic boards of trade, newspapers, tourist groups and civic organizations.

With little financial support but plenty of drive, they plan the motorcade to draw attention to the importance and tourist potential of Highway 97.

FIVE-DAY DRIVE

"We have to limit the size of the caravan either to 1,000 cars or 3,000 persons because that's the amount of accommodation available at Dawson Creek," said Jack Bews of Kelowna, B.C., secretary of the Canadian section of the association.

"The caravan will start at Weed Sept. 4 and pick up cars as it moves northward. It will reach Dawson Creek five days later and be met by another caravan from Fairbanks, Alaska. At Dawson Creek we'll hold our 30th annual convention."

Through the scenic Okanogan, Cariboo and Peace River districts the caravan, expected to stretch 10 miles along the highway, will be escorted by the RCMP. Government officials from British Columbia, Washington State, Oregon, California and Alaska will meet the group at Dawson Creek.

En route travellers will be treated to fish fries, moose barbecues, tours of orchards and oil fields and trout fishing.

ORGANIZED IN 1930

"It will definitely be the largest caravan of its type ever staged in the West, perhaps in North America," said Bews.

OCTA was organized by a group of hotel and restaurant operators from Washington and B.C. at Kamloops, B.C., Oct. 19, 1930. Five months later it was incorporated in Canada and seven months after that in the U.S.

Today the organization has been expanded to include other groups interested in pooling resources to promote travel and improvement on U.S.-B.C. Highway 97.

The group's first project was to get both U.S. and Canadian officials to designate the route as Highway 97. The designation is given to about 3,000 miles of connecting highway between Weed and Fairbanks.

PARALLELS COAST

From Weed, 308 miles northeast of San Francisco near the California - Oregon border, to Dawson Creek, near the Alberta border 310 miles northwest of Edmonton, is a distance of 1,460 miles.

The highway runs through the heart of Oregon and Washington roughly parallel to the Pacific coast and crosses into B.C. just south of Penticton. It weaves through Penticton, Kelowna and Kamloops and northward to Prince George before branching northeast to Dawson Creek.

There it connects with the Alaska Highway for the 1,523 miles to Fairbanks. There is no direct road route from Fairbanks to Nome, on the tip of the Alaska coast 500 miles west. At Weed, Highway 97 connects with Highway 99 which runs to Mexicali, Mexico. The southward extension to Guatemala is another project of the future.

Supporting its contention that the route is important, the association points to increase in traffic in the last 12 years. In 1948 about 175,000 people checked through the Canadian customs at Osoyoos on the B.C.-Washington border. Last year there were more than 476,000.

School to Have New Bicycle Racks Installed

FRANKFORD — Chairman Clarence Lohnes, of the Frankford School Board will investigate the provision of the new bicycle stands for the public school, it was decided at the monthly Board of Education meeting last Wednesday evening.

Anticipate UN To Refer Cuba Dispute To OAS

Likely to Shift Burden To American States

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United Nations Security Council was expected to give the Organization of American States (OAS) a clear field today to deal with the bitter dispute between Cuba and the United States.

After a day of debate on Cuban charges of U.S. "economic aggression" against Fidel Castro's regime, the 11-nation council scheduled a morning meeting to hear a blast from Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev and vote on an Argentine-Ecuadorean resolution passing the controversy to the inter-American organization.

Castro in a television appearance in Havana Monday night criticized the move to refer the dispute to the OAS, saying the United States had less influence in the United Nations than in the OAS. But Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa, representing the Castro regime in the Security Council debate, privately accepted the resolution.

Because of Roa's acceptance, some delegates believed the Soviet Union would either vote for the resolution or abstain on the vote. But in case of a Soviet veto, Argentina and Ecuador were reported ready to substitute a procedural proposal that would have the same effect but would not be subject to the veto.

The original resolution noted that the Cuban-U.S. dispute is under consideration in the 21-nation OAS and called on the council:

1. "To adjourn the consideration of this question pending the receipt of a report" from the OAS:

2. To invite the OAS members "to lend their assistance toward the achievement of a peaceful solution," and

3. To urge "all other states to refrain from any action which might increase the existing tensions between Cuba and the United States." This was considered directed at the Soviet Union, Premier Khrushchev having threatened a rocket attack on the United States if U.S. forces intervene in Cuba.

The OAS council in Washington voted unanimously Monday to call a meeting of American foreign ministers to consider Caribbean tensions. The organization's inter-American peace committee also has before it a U.S. memorandum accusing Cuba of false propaganda against the United States.

In the debate Monday, Roa told the council the United States had falsely accused Cuba of being a Soviet satellite, had declared "economic war" on the revolutionary regime and had aroused fears in Cuba that armed aggression would be launched.

Soviet oil, Roa said had saved Cuba from "the Anglo-American petroleum blockade." Resultant exasperation, he asserted, led the United States "to exhume with the idea of hegemony the Monroe Doctrine and to take such a bellicose tone . . . that it provoked the paralyzing warning of the Soviet Union." He added that Castro had called this warning "absolutely spontaneous."

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro accused the United States today of trying to take its dispute with Cuba out of the United Nations Security Council's hands and put it before the Organization of American States (OAS) because it can exert more pressure on the "vulnerable" member nations of the inter-American group.

Hoarse and haggard from his recent siege of pneumonia, Castro returned to TV with a wide-ranging three-hour blast in which he called the new U.S. plan of aid for Latin America a "half-billion-dollar bribery" designed to "destroy the sympathies of the Latin American people for the Cuban revolution."

Castro also took note of anti-Communist outbursts at Roman Catholic church services in Havana during the last two days. He accused "privileged counter-revolutionary" elements of trying to convert religious shrines into centres of conspiracy and asserted that part of the Catholic clergy in Cuba is "pro-Franco, Falangist and reactionary."

MOLEST AMERICANS

During one scuffle between Catholics and pro-Castro youths Monday, an American woman and her two sons were dragged from a passing car and the eldest boy was beaten on the head with steel bars after he started to take pictures of the fight.

Castro was visibly disturbed by the expected Security Council action leaving the U.S.-Cuban dispute up to the OAS. The United States, he declared, is "judge and jury" in the hemisphere body because most of the nations are small and impoverished like Cuba and "Cuba's disadvantage in a dispute with the powerful United States in the OAS is clear. . . . It would be therefore vulnerable to the same weapons the United States has used against Cuba."

Cuba wants the dispute aired in the Uited Nations, Castro said, because U.S. influence is less there than in the OAS.

"With gold now they seek to buy reason, that's Washington's mentality — to resolve problems with money, money, money," he asserted.

The clash Monday between Catholics and pro-Castro youths followed a mass requested by the Spanish Embassy to commemorate the national holiday of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's dictatorship — the start of the Spanish Civil War in 1936. It was called a mass for "victims of Communists" in recognition of Franco's claim that his was a war against communism.

LIBERALS CHARGE PAYROLL PADDING AND PATRONAGE

Works Minister Under Attack

The minister has been a marked man for the Liberals ever since he took a leading part in a parliamentary inquiry into irregularities in construction of the $15,000,000 federal printing bureau in neighboring Hull, Que., during the Liberal administration.

They launched a three-sided attack. Armand Dumas (L—Villeneuve) read affidavits from three men, which he said proved payroll padding and falsification and mismanagement of government funds in a river-dredging contract in his northwestern Quebec constituency.

Alexis Caron (L — Hull) accused Mr. Walker of returning to a long-past era of patronage in the award of two post office contracts to a builder who was not the lowest bidder for the job.

And Maurice Bourget (L—Levis), former parliamentary assistant for public works during the Liberal administration, maintained that after using a causeway to link Prince Edward Island with the mainland as an election enticement the government now plans to bury the project.

Mr. Walker, never one to back away from a fight, struck back

U.S. Complies With Request U-2 Trips Over Canada End

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green indicated today that Canada has asked the United States to stop making U-2 weather reconnaissance flights over Canadian territory and that the U.S. has complied.

He said in a Commons reply to Hazen Argue, CCF house leader, that no U-2 flights are being made over Canadian territory.

On May 11, Mr. Green informed the Commons that no U-2 planes have ever operated from Canadian bases but that some flights for meteorological and radiological air sampling had been made over Canada. These flights, however, did not cover any Soviet territory. One U-2 made a forced landing near Prince Albert, Sask., March 15.

Mr. Green added today that Premier Khrushchev of Russia last week "admitted" to David Johnson, Canadian ambassador to Russia, that no U-2 flights had ever been made from Canadian bases.

Mr. Argue asked whether Canada has received from the U.S. scientific data obtained by the U-2 planes as Argentina had.

Mr. Green said he didn't know "what kind of trouble" Mr. Argue was "trying to stir up."

The "imputation" in the question could cause only harm.

He repeated that U-2 flights are not being made over Canadian territory.

Capital Investment This Year Should Be Close to '57 Record

OTTAWA (CP) — Capital investment in Canada this year should come close to record 1957 levels despite a housing decline that now appears to be more pronounced than was expected in January, the trade department said Monday.

In its mid-year investment review, the department knifed $126,000,000 from its original housing forecast for 1960 and produced a new figure of $1,570,000,000—down nearly 11 per cent from last year, and seven per cent lower than January's indications.

However, the same second look also produced an upward revision in the planned investments by Canadian business. After calling at first for a six per cent boost this year, the department Monday predicted a rise of eight per cent to $5,082,000,000.

Biggest surge is in the forest and mineral products industries, now planning to increase investments by nearly 26 per cent to $795,000,000, as against $623,000,000 last year. Within the total is a climb of 36 per cent in the forest products industries.

Over-all Canadian capital investment this year is estimated at $8,712,000,000, down 7 per cent from January indications but still 3.6 per cent better than last year's $8,411,000,000. The record was 1957's total investment of $8,717,000,0000.

"This should provide a strong sustaining influence to general economic activity," the department said.

The mid-year survey revealed "little change" in factors affecting the investment plans of businessmen.

Angry Seaman Bones up on Law To Tie up Tanker to Collect Wages

VANCOUVER (CP) — An angry 28-year-old seaman became do-it-yourself barrister to have the tanker Tyee Shell placed under arrest for 24 hours.

Elias (Bunty) Mallett used law books borrowed from the Vancouver public library and advice from a magistrate and two county court judges to have the $1,500,000 ship tied up in drydock in a dispute over $250 wages.

It was "under arrest" until J. Douglas Forin, acting for Shell Canadian Tankers Limited, posted a $1,000 bond at the court house and paid $43.75 for bailiff's services.

A writ has been issued ordering Capt. R. C. Laing and M. V. Tyee Shell to appear in Exchequer Court of Canada, British Columbia admiralty division, within a week.

Mallett claims he was dismissed from the Tyee Shell on June 20 and a launch summoned to put him "ashore in mid-stream" in Burrard Inlet.

After gaining advice from the magistrate and judges on legal procedure, Mallett borrowed law books, a typewriter and $75 to post as a bond.

Before Mallett decided taking court action, the Seaman's International Union (Ind.) conferred with Peter Rendell, shipping master for Vancouver on June 23, to produce the ship's log and the articles.

The writ, ordering Capt. Laing and the Tyee Shell to appear in court, states Mallett was employed from June 9 to June 20, 1960, and was paid his wages in full for that period.

It says "he verily believes having been discharged he is entitled to payment of one month's wages pursuant to Section 207 of the Canada Shipping Act and for costs."

Mallett says he will fight his own case in court.

He still has his library card and intends to bone up on court rules before making his appearance against some of the legal profession's finest lawyers.

Slash Spending

Creator of Parkinson's Law Cuts Wide Swath of Criticism

TORONTO (CP)—Unless governments take preventive measures they are going to spend themselves to destruction, British professor C. Northcote Parkinson said Monday.

The outspoken creator of Parkinson's Law, cut a wide swath of criticism through all governments as he spoke before the legislature select committee on the administrative and executive problems of government.

He said the paper work governments contend with is rubbish and that electronic computers designed to speed things up made more work than they saved.

Apart from criticizing needless work he told the committee it should establish a three-member tribunal to consider, adopt and reward acceptable proposals for slashing public expenditure. He gave several suggestions for such slashing.

Ontario should scrap its civil defence branch and save $400,000 a year; abolish the economics department and save $343,000 annually and save another $100,000 by abandoning the Ontario racing Commission.

To top off his suggestions he advocated a straight 20 per cent reduction in spending in the next fiscal year.

Prof. Parkinson dwelt at length on civil defence. He said money spent on this department was completely wasted. Civil defence literature churned out by the British government before the Second World War was an impressive collection of drivel.

Parkinson's Law states, in essence, that work expands to fill time available for its completion.

It says that in any organization the number of subordinates multiplies at a predeterminable annual rate regardless of the work a staff turns out.

Inquiries were not the answer. When governments conducted in-

UNEMPLOYMENT IS CUT 99,000 DURING MONTH

300,000 Jobless At Middle of June

OTTAWA CP)—Canada's unemployment rolls were cut to 300,000 on June 18, a drop of 99,000 from mid-May, as construction and forestry provided large gains in the job supply, the government reported today.

The mid-June estimate of the numbers of jobless persons seeking work was 66,000 higher than the 234,000 unemployed in mid-June of last year. But it was 24,000 less than the post-war high for June set in 1958.

All of the month's decline in unemployment was among men, the bureau of statistics said, reporting on its monthly labor-force survey of 30,000 households. Half of the decline took place in Quebec, where there was an above-normal gain in employment.

The bureau estimated that the number of persons with jobs increased between mid-May and mid-June by 162,000 to 6,154,000—a record for the month.

It said that almost all the gain in job-holders was among men, with non-farm activities accounting for virtually all of the rise.

The number of job-holders was 101,000 higher than in mid-June of last year, with about three-quarters of the gain being among womens. The year-to-year gain in employment was entirely in non-farm activities, up 150,000 to 5,472,000. Farm employment declined by 49,000 over the year to 682,000.

Unemployment on June 18 represented 4.6 per cent of a labor force of 6,454,000 as compared with the year-earlier level of 3.7 per cent when the labor force was 6,287,000. Two years ago unemployment was 5.2 per cent of the labor force.

The government also reported today that 401,196 persons were registered for jobs at National Employment Service offices on June 16. This represented a drop of 233,695 from a month earlier but was 80,269 higher than a year earlier.

The NES registrations figure is not considered an accurate gauge of unemployment since it includes an unknown number of persons seeking to change jobs and others who have found work on their own since registering.

The year-to-year rise of 66,000 in the numbers of jobless was concentrated in Ontario and British Columbia—the two regions accounting for about four-fifths of the increase.

The report said of Ontario:

Employment increased by 15,000 in the month to an estimated 2,283,000. The gain was below normal, partly because of production cuts in durable goods industries. The construction industry was particularly active despite slowness in housing. Large numbers of workers were released by the primary iron and steel and farm implements industries, but new hirings were reported in most other iron and steel products industries. Auto-making employment fell as production runs of 1960 models were completed.

The NES figure of job registrations for Ontario, with bracketed figures for mid-May, 1960, and for mid-June, 1959, respectively: 138,435 (190,551—104,249).

Leave UN Forces To Keep Peace In Leopoldville

Security Council to Look At Situation Wednesday

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (CP)—Belgian troops began pulling out of Leopoldville today, leaving United Nations forces to keep the peace within the capital

UN undersecretary Ralph Bunche told reporters the withdrawal is to be completed by 7 p.m. Saturday.

Premier Patrice Lumumba had threatened to ask for Soviet troops if the Belgians were not out of the Congo by midnight tonight, but the commander of UN military forces said that "does not worry us at all."

RETURN TO BASES

The Belgian troops, called in to protect white residents from bands of mutinous Congolese soldiers, are pulling back to their Congo bases. It is not expected that they will return to Belgium. Congo bases were guaranteed to them by treaty with the Congo government.

Lumumba insists, however, the treaty became dead when Belgian troops were flown into this former Belgian colony after the outbreak of the Congo Army mutiny earlier this month.

An announcement by Bunche, broadcast to the Congolese people, promised the UN forces will protect all the people, "European as well as African."

The withdrawal of Belgian troops from Congolese territory was called for in the UN resolution last Thursday providing for military intervention.

RUSSIAN THREAT

The Soviet Union, charging that the Congo is the target of imperialist aggression, had threatened counter-measures if the Belgian units were not withdrawn.

Bunche earlier rejected Lumumba's ultimatum, saying that the UN is "not in the habit of accepting ultimatums."

In Elizabethville, capital of the breakaway province of Katanga, Premier Moise Tshombe demanded a decision by UN headquarters by Wednesday on the proclamation of independence on the mineral-rich area. Tshombe also repeated that no UN troops would be allowed in Katanga.

A source close to the tottering Congo government said Congolese leaders believed Russia would respond promptly and effectively if asked for help.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev last week promised Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu "the necessary help which may be needed for our just cause". If "Western aggression" continued, he said, Russia would have to consider "decisive measures".

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

These other developments stood out in the confused Congo scene:

1. Congo government officials flew to UN headquarters in New York today for the Security Council session Wednesday, called to hear Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold's first report of the UN's effort to restore peace in the central African country.

for one week, bringing in food and flying out refugees.

TO LIMIT ACTIVITIES

Hammarskjold announced Monday that Belgium had agreed to limit her troop activities to the security needs of Belgian nationals and that in all other matters the Belgian command would abide by instructions of the UN command. Belgian forces will Thomas Kanza, Congolese delegate to the UN, and Foreign Secretary Andrew Mandi were making the trip with Maj-Gen. Henry T. Alexander, British commander of Ghana's army, who headed the Ghanaian contribution to the UN force.

2. Belgium will ask the Security Council to order an embargo on sending arms to the Congo, Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny announced in Brussels. As soo as the UN forces have contro over the situation Belgian troop will leave the Congo, he pledged but Belgium will insist on a international investigation in th Congo of alleged atrocitie against Belgians by Congoles troops.

3. Three Soviet aircraft loade with food were on their way t the Congo from Moscow. Fou RCAF transports left Canad Monday with 44,000 pounds c supplies. The Russians provide sugar and tinned food while Ca ada sent canned pork and pov dered milk. The Swiss airlin Swissair, also joined the airli also act in cases of "grave a imminent danger," Hamma skjold said, but will immediate refer the matter to the UN co mand,

Tornado Dumps 59 Cars of Train off Tracks

HARTE, Man. (CP)—A "dome-shaped" tornado Monday night swooped down on a CNR freight train near this town 22 miles west of Brandon, picked up 59 cars and dumped them off the tracks. No one was injured.

The 116-car train was travelling west along the CNR's main line. Most of the cars were empty.

Residents of the area said they saw a "dome-shaped" cloud approach from the north. It touched the ground along the track, lifting up the freight cars and tossing them on to the south side of the tracks.

At least one barn was knocked down during the 15-minute storm, which was accompanied by blinding rain and hail. Trees were uprooted and other minor damage was reported.

Most of the derailed cars were at the rear of the train. The caboose, carrying the conductor and the rear-end brakeman, was anchored down by a flatcar immediately in front of it carrying a load of steel rails.

Women Arrested At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Two shorts-clad women were arrested Monday shortly after an attempt to hold up a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada here.

Irene Jenneaux, 30, and her sister-in law Claudette Perron, 19, both of Peterborough, have been charged with attempted robbery and will appear in court today.

Max Tate, acting manager of the branch, said two unarmed women entered the bank about 2:30 p.m. and asked for the manager. Mr. Tate took them into the manager's office where the women handed him a shopping bag and threw a note on his desk asking for all the money in the safe.

Mr. Tate tripped the alarm and police arrived within minutes. They captured two women after a short chase.

Smoke Is Hanging Over Kamloops As 1700 Men Fight 300 Bush Fires

KAMLOOPS, B. C. (CP)—Smoke hung over the eastern rim of this interior British Columbia city today as forest firefighters prepared to battle through another day of near-record temperatures.

The first visible signs of the 13 - day fire outbreak reached Kamloops Monday night from a big fire at Spius Creek, 65 miles to the southwest.

The fire, 15 miles east of Boston Bar in the Fraser Canyon, doubled in size Monday and was raging across 8,000 acres of valuable timber. Firefighters hurried to the northern end of the outbreak where the blaze was reported heading toward three possible escape routes. A forest service official warned that if it got away it could be disastrous. About 330 men were expected to be at the site today.

Seven firefighters were forced to spend Sunday night in a shelter at Peddy Creek, near Blue River, 150 miles north of here. They were caught when a fire rushed them and had to wait until it burned past them.

This has been the only report of a brush with danger by any of the nearly 1,700 men fighting more than 300 fires in the Kamloops district. The blazes have hit stands of spruce, fir and pine.

Temperatures reached 101 Monday, a few degrees short of Sunday when the mercury set a 16-year record for this area. The weather office sees little hope of relief in the next four or five days.

Two new major fires broke loose Monday and the forest service rushed crews of 30 and 40 men to each of them. One was near Blue River and the other was 40 miles south of there.

Fires at Spences Bridge and Douglas Lake were burning through valuable timber. Water-bombing planes hit the 2,000-acre Spences Bridge outbreak but it remained "a very hot fire," foresters said.

Rotarians View Vacation Land Through Film

Local Rotarians saw the film "Vacation Waterway" at their regular weekly dinner meeting at the Quinte Hotel yesterday afternoon. The film, produced for the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity, starred a family taking a cruiser trip through the Trent Canal system up to Midland, which visited Belleville but a few weeks ago with a houseboat.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sutherland of Peterborough, posing as American tourists in the film, were pictured as they visited many interesting spots along the waterway.

Rotarian Arnold Campbell introduced the film and expounded briefly on the joys and pleasures available local people on the Trent and the Rideau Canal systems, both of which are close by. He suggested that they provided most excellent vacation opportunities which, because of their very closeness, were liable to be overlooked by area residents.

President Bill Hurst was chairman of the meeting, which saw Doug Courtney and Glenn Smith honored on the occasion of their birthdays. Guests were introduced by Glynn Reynolds and grace was given by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan.

Cobourg Takes Major Honors At Kart Meet

Cobourg entries took major honors at the Quinte Karting Club's races here on the weekend, grabbing first place in two division finals.

Approximately 35 karts took part in the nine-hour meet on the half-mile paved track at the Fairgrounds. A good crowd was in attendance for many of the events.

Jim Meens, promoter of the races, said that plans for a paved track to be built east of the city are being readied.

Bell took the Super "A" finals over another Cobourg entry driven by Murray Payne.

In the AC division, Harris finished first in the finals with Ted Beatty and Ron Bell, both of Cobourg, coming in second and third. AC semi-finals saw Fax Beatty of Cobourg finish first with Ross Vivian of Shannonville second and Wally Istead, Belleville, third.

Jerry Doyle of Belleville captured the "A" class title.

LEAVE UN FORCES

The Associated Press reported some confusion surrounded Premier Lumumba's demand that all Belgian troops quit the Congo by midnight tonight or he would ask Soviet troops to intervene.

The Congo Senate adopted a resolution Monday opposing the ultimatum, but voted against granting the premier special powers to govern without parliamentary control.

Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu apparently still were in Stanleyville, 775 miles northeast of Leopoldville. They went there during the weekend after Belgian troops took control of Leopoldville.

Swedish Maj.-Gen. Carl van Horn, who took command Monday of the UN emergency force in the Congo, was deploying units "with all possible speed" to trouble spots throughout the country.

DEATHS UNCONFIRMED

There were conflicting reports of a clash between Moroccan troops under UN command and Congolese soldiers near Thysville, the cradle of the mutiny which erupted six days after the Congo attained its independence June 30.

The Belgian news agency Belga said some Moroccan troops had been killed in a clash with mutineers in the district 100 miles southwest of Leopoldville. Other reports said, however, that two Moroccans were captured by the mutineers and later released.

Another report said a Moroccan detachment entering Matadi, the Congo's only seaport, clashed with Congolese troops and there were casualties on both sides. The report said the Moroccans were unable to occupy the harbor.

Bunche said here that he knew nothing of the reports of Moroccan casualties.

The UN official also said he had no official knowledge of a Polish ship reported taking arms to the Congo.

The Belgian state radio reported Monday that the ship had arrived at Matadi, on the mouth of the Congo river, with 300 tons of arms and ammunition. But Belgian foreign ministry officials denied the report and said the harbor was so clogged with silt because of lack of maintenance that no ship of any size could unload.

An American helicopter was hit in eight places Monday when mutineers opened fire on it while the crew was searching for a Belgian helicopter missing over the Thysville area since the weekend.

None of the crew was injured and the pilot, Lieut. George Crawford, brought the helicopter back safely to Brazzaville, capital of the former French Congo across the river from Leopoldville.

MOROCCANS TAKE OVER

Moroccan troops took over Monday at Thysville, the cradle of the Congolese army mutiny which erupted six days after the Congo became independent June 30.

A witness to the takeover said there were a few tense moments, but there appeared to be no foundation to reports of clashes between the Moroccans and the Congolese. He said the Congolese were suspicious of the Moroccans at first but later obeyed a Moroccan colonel's order to unload their rifles and remove the magazines.

The Belgian news agency Belga had reported that some Morocan troops were killed in a clash with mutineers in the Thysville district and other reports said that two Moroccans were captured by the mutineers but later released.

Hammarskjold said the UN was discussing with 27 countries the prospect of sending troops or other assistance to the Congo.

UN sources in New York figured a force of at least 10,000—compared with the original figure of 6,000—would be needed in the Congo.

Six Queen's Professors Are Retiring

KINGSTON — Six Queen's University professors who have given long and distinguished service will retire from full-time duties at the university this autumn. All are retiring with fine records of achievement in their varied fields, and in the words of Principal W. A. Mackintosh "carry with them the good wishes and friendship of their colleagues and the acclaim of hundreds of their graduates who recall with gratitutde their great help and their friendly interest."

Professor J. C. Cameron has been professor of industrial relations for the past 23 years and aside from his university associations is widely known throughout Canadian industry for his work in this field.

Professor R. L. Jeffery has been professor and head of the department of mathematics for the past 17 years and has earned special gratitude from all mathematicians for his promotion of the Mathematical Congress and the Research Institute which the Congress has held at Queen's University for many years.

Professor D. M. Jemmett retires from his post as professor and head of the department of electrical engineering. He has the longest term of service of any present member in the faculty, having been appointed instructor of mathematics in August 1914, an appointment which he did not take up until he returned from overseas service in the fall of 1917. With the exception of a year spent in graduate study, he has been continuously at the university for 43 years and has been a member of the staff for 46 years.

Dr. W. A. Jones, who has combined his position as professor of radiology with his work as chief of the radiological service at the Kingston General Hospital and private practice, has been on the university staff for 41 years. Though Dr. Jones is retiring from the university, he is continuing his professional practice.

Professor H. W. Harkness has been a member of the department of physics for 22 years, and while he is retiring from full time work, it is anticipated he will continue to carry on more limited teaching.

Professor F. M. Wood, a Queen's graduate who came to this university from McGill in 1946, has been in charge of mathematics for the faculty of applied science since that date. Professor Wood, it is anticipated, will continue to do a more limited share of teaching at the university.

IN MEMORIAM

COOK. — In loving memory of our dear father, Clarence Cook, who passed away July 19th, 1958.

Please God, forgive a silent tear,
A fervent wish our dad was here;
There are others, yes, we know,
But he was ours, we loved him so.
Dear God, take a message to Dad in heaven above,
Tell him how much we miss him,
And give him our love.

—Lovingly remembered, sadly missed by his daughter Della and family.

SOBLE. — In loving memory of a dear dad, Richard, who passed away July 19th, 1959, and dear mother, Maria, who passed away October 31st, 1959.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past;
In silence they suffered, in patience they bore,
Till God called them home to suffer no more.

CAMPBELL. — In loving memory of my mother, Mary, who passed away July 19, 1947.

True was her heart, her actions kind,
Her life was a pattern to those left behind.

In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear mother,
I do not think of you.

Member Wants Lovers' Lane Put in Shape

OTTAWA (CP) — Urbane, white-haired H. W. Herridge went to bat in the Commons Monday night for lovers' lane.

The particular haunt of the starry-eyed for which he made a plea was the broken - down and disused walk behind Parliament Hill overlooking the Ottawa River. For years, it has been closed off to the public.

The CCF MP for Kootenay West said he thinks the money the government spent cleaning the bronze statues of D'Arcy McGee and other historic figures on Parliament Hill would be better spent restoring lovers' lane.

"I have walked around the back of the building," said the 65-year-old socialist but laughter prevented him finishing his sentence.

"Mind you, I have only been there because I wanted to see the beauty from the bottom.

"As it is, this wonderful river walk is denied to members of the House of Commons and of the Senate, as well as to residents of Ottawa and visitors to the city."

TRENTON — George Baker, publisher of the Courier Advocate and Eben James, president of the Trentonian and Tri-County News, yesterday announced that the two weekly newspapers had merged.

The merger ended the 107-year life of the Courier Advocate. The Trentonian was established about four years ago by Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton.

J. Nolan Sisson last year sold the Courier Advocate to Mr. Baker, who came from Peterborough.

It was understood that where possible the Courier's staff would be absorbed by the Trentonian.

Stormy Session

Councillor Lange Raps Two Committees in Debate Over Awarding of Sand Contract

TRENTON — As an aftermath of the 2 1-2-hour heated committee-of-the-whole meeting of council last Thursday, a longer and hotter formal session of council was held last night.

Councillor Vagn Lange rapped the committee of public works and the sanitation and waste committee for not submitting written reports of their meetings to other council members.

The matter was first introduced when the public works committee revealed that four tenders had been called for supplying the town with gravel and sand, and that the field had been narrowed down to two at a committee meeting, and that thereupon, the engineer had phoned one of the bidders, asked him to lower his tender, and accepted the tender forthwith.

Councillor Lange said he disagreed with this method of conducting the town's business.

"If all the tenders were too high, you should have called for new tenders," he told the committee.

Councillor H. G. Aziz said he agreed with Councillor Lange. "Too many things are being done in committees. Last year, contracts were approved by council as a whole."

"And another thing," said Councillor Lange, "I have heard a great deal of talk on the street about the town foreman, Bill Gidman, being demoted. This is a serious thing. This man has been town foreman for 12 years. He has pleased a number of councils. This should have been discussed with council."

Walter Murray, town engineer, explained that Mr. Gidman had not necessarily been demoted. He said that he had been made foreman in charge of maintenance of equipment on the night shift, as this sort of work seemed to be more in his line, than the position of town foreman.

"I can't see having a foreman and one man on night shift for equipment maintenance said Councillor Lange." They can't get parts at night. I think we should reinstate Mr. Gidman as town foreman."

'At least wo should have a special meeting with Mr. Gidman and the whole council," said Councillor Graham.

WILL MEET GIDMAN

It was decided that council should meet with Mr. Gidman to discuss the situation Tuesday morning.

Trenton's proposed Meter Maid was the next bone of contention.

"There's lots of men out of work," said Councillor Graham.

"Put a dress on him if you want, but I think we should have a young married man," said Councillor McNair.

"What type of man would you get for $2,600?" asked Councillor Aziz.

"Lots of pensioners would be glad of it," said Councillor Whitley.

"Why don't we call for both men and women and pick the most likely prospect?" suggested Councillor Lange.

"Well, this advertisement will have to be worded differently," said the clerk. "Some of these specifications won't fit a man."

Councillor Lange asked why no tenders had been called for re-paving of street and the building of sidewalks.

"In former years we called for these contracts in May, even if the work wasn't done until later," he said.

Councillor McNair explained that there wouldn't be any paving mix within 30 miles of Trenton until August. The engineer said that tenders would be called for the construction of a sidewalk on Dufferin Ave., and that the work would be finished by the end of August.

Councillor Lange said he had always heard "that east is east and west is west and never the twain shall meet," but that whoever had put up a sign on Dufferin Ave. had mixed his metaphors and that the "east" sign pointed to the west and vice-versa. He asked that this be changed.

SWEEPER LAID UP

In the report of the committee of public works, it was revealed that the street sweeper, purchased second-hand from Scarboro last year, was completely un-usable and was likely to remain so. The committee advised laying the sweeper up for the summer and "passing this lemon off on an unsuspecting buyer next year".

The town has now secured surveyors' reports concerning various Front Street properties. Persons living adjacent to these lots have been using them for different purposes without paying rental.

Council decided to notify these persons that the property belonged to the town, have the land assesed and charge rental accordingly.

Jack Clarke appeared before council to ask that his business tax be adjusted. He claimed that since Sidney Street had been closed at one end due to the CNR subway construction, his business had fallen off 50 per cent. Councillor D. R. Fraser, acting mayor in the absence of Mayor MacDonald and who is also chairman of the court of revision, said that the matter would be brought to the attention of the court.

Adjacent County Seeks Trenton's Help on Road

TRENTON — Preceding the formal meeting of council last night, councillors met with members of the Northumberland and Durham council to discuss the subject of the Trenton-Wooler suburban road.

George Totten, county engineer, explained that county council was eager to establish good relations with town council and to enlist the moral and financial support of the town for the reconstruction of the stretch of road between Wooler and Highway 401. He said the town was bound to contribute one-half mill annually towards the maintenance of this road in order to receive a 33 1-3 per cent provincial grant towards the upkeep of town roads.

Councillor Vagn Lange of Trenton questioned the validity of this latter statement. He said that council had been unable to find any act which laid down the stipulation that the one-half mill must be given in order to receive the provincial road grant.

Mr. Totten said that the reconstruction work would be spread over a four-year period at least and that if the town could raise the annual stipend to one mill for that period of time, county council, with the aid of the 50 per cent government grant, would be able to finish the work.

Trenton councillors agreed that town taxpayers would only agree to spending this amount of money on out - of - town roads if there was a definite promise from the government that the strip of road between Highway 401 and Trenton was reconstructed simultaneously.

They said to county council that last spring when they had been on the verge of granting the county $35,000 for this purpose, the ratepayers had "risen up in arms".

"They even threatened to su us", said Councillor McNair.

The final decision was that committee from town counc and one frmo county counc would meet with provinci government authorities and di cuss the possibility of simultar eous reconstruction of the tw strips of road. If governme action wa forthcoming on th 401 - Trenton strip, counc would be inclined to go alo with the 401-Wooler strip.

Councillor R. J. Whitley di sented. "I think the whole thi should be put to the people Trenon. I, for one, will not com mit the taxpayers to spend $5 000 in Murray. At least 1 families from Murray are ma ing their living in Trenton 90 per cent of them spend the money in Belleville."

The other councillors agre to the joint meeting with go ernment officials, but Councill C. V. Graham added that the were "eight miles of unpav roads in town to be seen to"

Representing the Nort umberland and Durham coun were Warden Earle Nelson, E gineer George Totten, Bru Ashton, Garnet Rickard, Dav Dingwall and Bob Carlaw.

Councillors D. R. Fraser a Vagn Lange and town engine Walter Murray will represe the town at the meeting w the provincial governme authorities.

The Best Reason For Divorce

"A marriage is bad enough in which mutual love, ven basic respect, has withered and been replaced by e evil foliage of rancor, venom, bitterness and mis- rust," wrote Frank Tumpane of the Toronto Telegram a recent column. "At the present time however," he dds, "nobody of any consequence has suggested that ven such circumstances as those should be grounds or divorce."

The more the pity—and the less claim to respect ave people "of any consequence."

Tumpane's column, dealing with the general ques- ion of Canada's divorce laws, included the observation nat the state "ought, it seems to me, to inquire hether sexual offences have any exclusive claim to ontrousness" justifying the invalidation of the civil arriage contract. With this observation we have no uarrel.

But surely the whole essence of the case is that does the state no good, and may do it much harm, attempt to keep together people who not only lack ve or even respect for each other but who regard each ther with "rancor, venom, bitterness and distrust." this "evil foliage," to use Tumpane's phrase, is vergreen, if the rancor, venom, bitterness and distrust o not wither, surely it is impossible to conceive of any ounder grounds for granting a divorce. The cause of is rancor, venom, bitterness and distrust is immater- l; it matters not one whit whether it is the result adultery or of a thousand and one minor irritations ich as occur in every marriage, and indeed in every ose relationship between two people, and which nor- ally are ignored or completely forgotten. Regardless its cause, it is a corroding evil, a cancer which will ventually destroy the persons who live with it. It is o more than simple mercy to rescue them, and their ildren, from the shade of such evil foliage.

View To The Rear

"Whenever I look in my rear mirror, all I can see e three red, angry faces! Such is the bitter com- aint of a friend of ours, father of three turbulent nall boys and owner of a small car," said Honor arman, speaking on a recent BBC program, "Woman's our."

Her conclusion: "Without a doubt, parenthood is rained to its limits when family life takes to the road the confined space of the small family car."

That observation may seem the logical deduc- on to women and to makers of large-sized family cars, ho will no doubt be delighted to read this reaction, ut to the man behind the wheel another, wholly dif- rent, conclusion suggests itself.

This may be stated thus: The size of the car and e breadth of the manufacturer's comprehension of otorists' problems do not necessarily vary in inverse atio.

Or, in simpler words, the car driver quoted may ave been more concerned about what he could not e, the road behind him, than by what he did see, e three angry faces.

Now in a small car three small boys can block the iew to the rear, but precisely the same effect can be chieved in a large car by a woman passenger with a urge hat.

Having to request passengers, front or rear, to uck their heads is somewhat embarrassing to the verage male driver. Even more embarrassing, though, the plight of the man who generally travels alone nd who, on glancing into the rear-view mirror in an mergency, discovers that his passengers have robbed im of urgently needed information.

For this reason alone, every car should have an utside rear-view mirror, one which under all circum- ances reveals more than three small angry faces or ne broad-brimmed ladies' hat.

In Canada there is an additional reason for such mirror—the rear window often ices over in winter eather.

But how many manufacturers equip their cars with utside rear-view mirrors? They are supposed to be xuries, while the pointed hood ornaments are appar- ntly regarded as necessities.

Thought, Action Need Joining Says Sydney

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The book clerk almost kissed me when I walked into the store and asked him to recommend a book for a 15-year-old "who is not terribly bright."

"You're the first customer in my eight years here" he burbled, "who has not wanted a book for a child 'much brighter than average.' Don't the dull children ever get presents of books?"

I guess they don't. And I think this is a big mistake. It is the precocious, the intelligent, the literary-minded child who receives books as gifts. And he needs them least of all.

When I was a boy, nobody had to give me books. I haunted the public library, and sometimes went there twice a day, carting home armfuls of treasures on the "research" card I had wangled from an older friend.

It is the child who does not care to read, whose home is devoid of books, whose interests are limited to the physical and the technical, who should be tempted to enter the realm, but the child does not know which one to unlock.

I would not give books to a precocious and intellectual child — I would give him sports equipment, to try to develop his latent powers in another field. What he does well, he can do by himself, without assistance; what he does poorly, or not at all, should be encouraged by the adults around him.

Most of us, however, cater to the child's overpowering interests. We make the physical child even more physical-minded. This is easy and comfortable, but it is not sensible if we want human beings rather than onesided monsters.

I am not suggesting, of course, that the athletic child be bombarded with Homer or Shakespeare, or that the constant reader be tossed off the pier in a pair of water-wings. This is not re-education, but coercion.

The literary boy will never play football, but he can be made interested in tennis or track or other sports requiring less brute strength. The shot-putter will never read Keats or translate Virgil, but there is a vast literature designed to appeal to the extrovert. Both can be made to see, by skillful guidance, that thought and action are incomplete halves of existence, each requiring the other. The world is already too full of half-people.

British Plan Superliner

Windsor Star

Reports from England are that the British government is ready to make a loan of up to $48,000,000 for a new superliner to replace the aging liner Queen Mary. At least as far as passenger ships go, Britain apparently intends to continue ruling the waves.

With the vast increase in airline travel, spurred by the introduction of jetliners which cut an Atlantic crossing to a few hours, there was some doubt about the future of luxury ships. But sea travel has maintained a large part of its popularity, and new ships are coming from the yards regularly.

In an age when mimnutes seem increasingly important, despite a steady growth in leisure time, the comparatively slow but luxurious life of an ocean liner still has its attractions. The decision by Britain, possibly the most experienced nation in sea travel, to replace the Queen Mary, is an indication that these attractions will continue.

Do Not Chew Grass Stalk

Fort William Times Journal

The old rural habit of chewing grass and nibbling at flowers has become dangerous today, we are reminded by the Department of Agriculture. Flowers, weeds or grass that have been sprayed by sprays or dusts will make children or adults very ill. Store your garden chemicals and keep them from children at all times. As for reaching down for a bit of fresh grass, stalk of grain or lovely bright flower to put in the mouth—don't. They may look good enough to eat and yet be coated with poison.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 19th., 1940.

Heralding what is said to be a fine crop, the first garden-grown tomatoes made their appearance in the city today. Mr. Walter Breach of Cedar Street, brought a fine sample of the vegetable to the office of the Ontario Intelligencer this morning, that measured two and one-half inches in diameter, was finely fleshed and of excellent quality.

The Canadian Motion Picture Industry's win-the-war campaign was headed today for a swing over the top in a flutter of war savings stamps. The power of the motion pictures' appeal was demonstrated in no uncertain manner on Monday night on the occasion, the 'one night stand' of Canadian moviedom to aid the sale of war savings stamps. The theatres were crowded. Canada owes a debt to the organization of the motion picture industry and to the tireless managers who have given such a demonstration of interest in the war effort.

Mr. H. St. G. Lee, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch in Stratford, Ont., a former Bellevillian, is spending a few days in the city visiting relatives. Mr. Lee is a son of the late W. Walter Lee, C. E., who designed and built the Bay Bridge.

Penicillin's Discovery

BBC London Letter

People make decisions which are to have profound and far reaching consequences for such odd reasons that one is sometimes tempted to discern the hand of fate. What, for instance, directed Alexander Fleming towards one particular medical school, and next, towards the particular part of it where he was to make medical history by the discovery of penicillin? In a BBC General Overseas Service broadcast about his life, based on the biography by Andre Maurois published last year, the speaker pointed out that it was Fleming's passion for games that was the decisive factor. On receiving a legacy from an uncle, at the age of twenty, he left the shipping office where he was working as a clerk and enrolled as a student at St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington. Why St. Mary's? Because they had a water-polo team. He went on to cap a spectacular series of academic successes by taking the advance degree of Fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons, which pointed to surgery as an obvious choice for his postgraduate career. Instead he stayed on at St. Mary's in the only vacancy — in the Inoculation Service as a bacteriologist. Why St. Mary's again? Because he wanted to join the newly-formed rifle club.

Rockets Used At Waterloo

Brantford Expositor

The notion that military rockets date back only to the ones used by the Germans in the last war is erroneous.

To keep the record clear, it was Sir William Congreve (1772-1828) who invented the Congreve Rocket used at the siege of Copenhagen in 1807, the Basque Roads, in 1809, at Leipzig in 1813, (where the Rocket Troop of the Royal Artillery is described as having done "yeoman service") and at Quatre Bras in 1815.

The Duke of Wellington, commander-in-chief of the polyglot Allied Army with which he faced and defeated Napoleon Bonaparte, was a tough and tried soldier. He knew the business of war as then practised. He knew about the rockets and had them in his armament, but considered them unreliable. On the contrary, one of his officers, Captain Whinyates, was a rocket enthusiast. He was mortified when he learned that the Duke did not propose to use such missiles. He got Colonel Sir George Wood to intercede for him.

"It will break poor Whinyate's heart to lose his rockets," said Sir George. "Damn his heart, sir; let my order be obeyed!", barked the Duke. However, his bark was worse than his bite, and he consented to the rocketeers going into action — provided they took guns with them! So the rockets were used, and with some effect, on the retreat from Quatre Bras to Waterloo.

One is tempted to draw a parallel between the Duke of Wellington and Sir Douglas (later Earl) Haig. The latter, too, tended to look upon new-fangled devices with suspicion. For too long he persisted in depending on cavalry during the First World War, instead of making best use of the revolutionary tanks which eventually contributed so much to victory.

Incidentally, let us bear in mind that Congreve, a versatile genius, invented many other things, among them a process of color printing, improved fireworks, a smoke-consuming gadget and a gun-recoil mounting. The last two items would have come in very handy for Wellington at Waterloo and in his earlier campaigns. Even so, his British artillery was far more mobile and far more accurate than the French. Indeed it was the British Army's technical superiority that enabled the Iron Duke to beat the Emperor.

Mentally Ill, Earns $40,000

Milwaukee Journal

In New York a $40,000 a year advertising executive spends his day on the job then instead of travelling to his home in the suburbs he goes to a private mental hospital where he is a nighttime patient.

The "sleep-in" psychiatric care, says the Wall Street Journal in describing this as a representative case, is enabling the executive to work his way back to a normal life after a severe mental breakdown.

In its more organized form, nighttime treatment is new. It was begun on a large scale in 1954 by the Montreal general hospital and was subsequently adopted by hospitals in this country. But well conducted private mental hospitals, including those in Milwaukee, have been doing this sort of thing with selected individuals for a period of years. And now the large public hospitals are beginninng the therapy.

The Milwaukee county mental hospital has several patients who have daytime jobs and return to the hospital at night. Some hold their old jobs. Others are on jobs found for them where the pressure is less. The hospital provides a nighttime haven until the patients are stable enough to take on family, social and other responsibilities.

Sleep-in care is only one type of therapy coming into more general use. Another is day care. This requires patients treatment during the day but go home at night. Home placement is still another. This is foster home care for patients who need only "looking after" but have no homes of their own or a poor home environment. Out patient are is expanding. It is provided by hospitals and clinics both to prevent mental breakdowns from occurring and to treat patients after a stay in a mental hospital.

These promising forms of treatment could be more widely used, especially by the big public mental hospitals, if they had adequate staffs— more psychiatrists, therapists, psychiatric nurses, social workers. Attracting qualified people requires good facilities and a modern progam. The Milwaukee county institutions have both. But it also requires salaries that are at least competively close to those offered by similar institutions elsewhere.

To Your Good Health

LET DOCTOR DECIDE WHEN AND IF BIRTHMARKS SHOULD BE REMOVED

"Dear Dr. Molner: My wife and I would like your opinions on birthmarks and information about them. — A.P."

While I like letters that come to the point, this one may be a little too short for me to guess exactly what you have in mind.

There are several different types of birthmarks. We can divide them by color — black, brown, blue, red, purple or even neutral-colored raised areas. Some are hairy, some not. Indeed, it is quite possible for an infant to be born with a comparitively large area of the body covered by dark or colored skin and the whole big spot having a rather heavy growth of hair. This isn't frequent, but it's an example of what a "birthmark" can be.

Calling such a blemish a "birthmark" probably isn't too good a choice of terms, because the mark has nothing to do with the process of being born. Likewise — and keep this in mind — "birthmarks" are not a result of the mother being frightened or anything of that sort. There are all sorts of wild stories which purport to "explain "birthmarks," but for every case in which somebody says a birthmark was caused because the mother "ate strawberries," or "was frightened by thunder," or "was outdoors in the dark of the moon," you will find thousands of mothers who experienced exactly the same thing — except the babies had no birthmarks.

What is a birthmark? A minor flaw in development, just as a child may have a cleft palate ("hare lip") or six fingers, or a partial web between the fingers — all of which we can correct. A person may have a congenital heart deformity which sometimes the surgeons can corect, or other "errors of nature."

The birthmarks show up more prominently, at times, but they are not as a rule of any medical significance. If a birthmark is large, or if it is on the face or other area where it will be an embarrassment to the child later on, see about having it removed.

This does not have to be done immediately. Some authorities think major birthmarks should be removed in the first year of life, and some prefer to wait a longer time.

In any event, there is scant chance of a birthmark showing cancerous tendencies before puberty, when the body goes through various glandular developments.

Therefore I would not be in great haste. Let your doctors guide you (in cases of large blemishes) to a specialist. Leave it to him as to whether to correct the blemish sooner or later. Also leave it to him whether it is a mere matter of pigment in the skin, or a "sebaceous mole" which is a clotting of sebaceous or oily glands in the skin, or, perchance, one of the red or purple "hemangiomas," which result from a tangle of small blood vessels near the surface.

The average birthmark, if located so it ought to be removed because of its appearance, or size, can be removed with little scarring, and it is part of the doctor's job to decide whether plastic surgery, "freezing" with dry ice, X-ray or other radiation, or some other method will be the simplest and best.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My grandson, 17, has been exposed to the mumps. Is it true that this disease always damages the sex glands and leaves the patients unable to reproduce? — I. A. T."

In an adult mumps sometimes affects the sexual glands. One authority says it can affect them in 20 to 25 per cent of cases among older teenagers and young men. But even so, not every such case of the glands being affected will leave permanent results afterward. Only if the testes are affected on both sides, and there is shrinking of the glands on both sides, can sterility result. In short, no mumps does not always damage sex glands. However, there is sufficient risk so that care should be taken in treating all such cases.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR INSTINCTIVE IMPULSES

Most people grow commonplace and tread in fear because of repression. Our instinctive impulses are natural. They may sometimes get us into trouble as they run into set conventions, but they make our personalities all that they are.

Nearly every child has a distinct personality. And it is free and attractive, because it is so impulsive. As people grow in age, they start to repress, so that to many the perfectly wholesome acts of those who are younger are almost a shock.

But to the mind that ever is growing, a new world is opened up each morning. The more you express what you think, the more generous in viewpoint do you become. And the finer visioned, also. So that, after all, your instinctive impulses are quite a safe and sane guide to honest conduct.

Not every thought that we have is good and worth expressing. But the more we do express what is good and worth while, the more are we able to express.

The viewpoint of the unschooled is always interesting — because it is always personal and original. It isn't colored up with opinion. The province of education is to bring out and to create, but into many cases it reacts and kills off honest expression. Do not be ashamed to obey your instinctive impulses.

Natural society acts as a protectorate to itself. So if we are taught to regard the feelings of others, our very freedom of action comes forward to spur us individually and to lead others along with us!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The trend towards credit cards appears to be so lively that business experts who go in for prophecy are saying that cash is on its way out. The day may come when panhandlers will be out of luck entirely, since nobody will carry cash.

"Cash," said one management expert, "is already a nuisance in many lines of business. People are irritated by cash. You must already have noticed how pettish many sales clerks are when you offer cash instead of a credit card that can be stuck in the machine, a button pushed, and the transaction completed without all the old-fashioned business of counting out coins."

The expansion of credit buying, starting with instalment buying that received a big boost with the era of the motor car, has been accelerated by the development of marvellous computing, recording and other business machines.

"And don't forget," said the management expert, "you who pay with cash are helping to pay for the machinery and intricate mechanism involved in the credit card system. Since you are not getting the benefit of the credit system, you are paying more than the credit card carrier."

With cash in your pants pocket, however, you feel less like the chain gang organization man. Cash gives you an interesting feeling of independence. Copyright: Canada Wide

Woman Charges Novel From Actual Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — Was Anatomy of a Murder, a best-selling novel and hit movie, based entirely on fiction? Or was its background taken from a real - life murder trial in Michigan in 1952?

The answer must now come from United States district court Judge Michael L. Igoe, in a $9,000,000 libel suit filed by a Michigan nurse and her 18-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Hazel A. Wheeler, 47, and her daughter, Terry Ann Chenoweth, of Three Rivers, Mich., claim in their suit that since the novel by John D. Voelker, who wrote under the pen name of Robert Traver, she and her daughter:

"Have been held up to public contempt, ridicule and shame, and have been placed in the glare of unfavorable and unwarranted publicity."

The suit was filed against Dell Publishing Company, publisher of the book, and Columbia Pictures Corporation, which released the movie starring James Stewart.

SIMILAR INCIDENT?

Mrs. Wheeler charges that the novel was taken from the actual trial of an army lieutenant who was charged with fatally shooting her husband in their tavern in Big Bay, Mich.

Mrs. Wheeler's suit said the novel invaded her privacy and the movie placed the stigma of illegitimacy on her daughter.

Both the fictional and real-life events took place in Michigan's upper peninsula.

The suit said Mrs. Wheeler's late husband, Maurice (Mike) Chenoweth, was shot and killed in the tavern July 31, 1952.

Army Lieut. Coleman A. Peterson, who was stationed near Big Bay, was tried for the murder in Marquette County circuit court and acquitted.

Mrs. Wheeler's lawyer, William G. Carr of Chicago, said that in both the actual and fictional incidents the shooting occurred because the lieutenant thought the tavern owner had raped the lieutenant's wife.

Carr said the movie was filmed in the Lumberjack Tavern in Big Bay, the actual scene of Chenoweth's death, and in the Marquette County courthouse.

LIBERALS CHARGE

at Mr. Caron, accused Mr. Dumas of "cheap politics" but promised to investigate the possibilities of an RCMP inquiry into the affidavits, and had not replied to Mr. Bourget by the time the House adjourned for the night.

The payroll case was presented in some detail by Mr. Dumas who later, at Mr. Walker's request, turned over to the minister the three affidavits. In all three, he said, the men stated they did not receive a cent of the money for which they were credited in departmental documents tabled at Mr. Dumas' request earlier in the session.

Mr. Dumas named the three men as Omer Gregoire, Jules Cloutier and Delphis Perron, all of Duparquet, Que., about 25 miles northwest of Noranda.

He said the department's payroll bore a notation to send cheques for the 16 men listed as employed on the job to foreman Rene Leroux, who undertook the job with his brother, Wilfrid, as assistant foreman. Total payroll was $6,836.60.

"ANOTHER SCANDAL"

The dredging contract, said Mr. Dumas, is just "another scandal" in public works in his riding, recalling that the RCMP now are investigating repairs to a wharf on the Malartic River about which he complained earlier in the session.

He demanded that Mr. Walker state in both cases who recommended that the work be done, who suggested the contractors, who supplied materials and who did the hiring. He attached no blame to Mr. Walker or senior departmental officials but said investigation will show even more "funny business."

Mr. Walker said Mr. Dumas' statement was the government's first indication of the matter and asked why the Liberal MP hadn't come to the works department with his information. Mr. Dumas replied he received the affidavits only last Friday.

CONTRACTS COMPLAINT

Mr. Caron complained that Hull contractor Arthur Langlois failed to get the job to build post offices at Hudson and Hudson Heights, in the Montreal area, although he submitted lower tenders on both. The contracts went to S. R. Wilson of Hudson Heights.

He said Mr. Langlois had stated that Marcel Bourbonnais (PC—Vaudreuil - Soulanges) had informed Mr. Langlois he would be "murdered" if tenders weren't kept to contractors in the constituency.

Mr. Walker replied that investigation of Mr. Langlois' work by two departmental officials showed his past work was unsatisfactory. Mr. Caron, backed by Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) and Mr. Bourget, disputed his stand, arguing that Canadian National Railways and Banque Canadienne Nationale had expressed satisfaction with Mr. Langlois' efforts.

Repeated demands by the Liberals for the names of the departmental officials who recommended against Mr. Langlois were refused by Mr. Walker who said his department's job is to "keep scalliwags and incompetent people, even if they are friends of the honorable member for Hull, from getting contracts."

Names of officials weren't revealed because "then we couldn't expect them to act in a straightforward and fearless manner."

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate), harking back to the printing bureau inquiry, said Mr. Walker's stand is touching to those who recall how Mr. Walker dragged the names of departmental officials through the mire two years ago.

STUDENTS WELCOMED — Above may be seen a number of local and visiting Quebec students as they are welcomed by Mayor McLean Haig upon their arrival at the CNR station yesterday afternoon. The Quebec students are arriving for a two-week stay in Ontario. The local students have just completed their fortnight stay in Quebec.

11 French Students Arrive In City for Two-Weeks Visit

Twenty-two participants in the Inter-Community Visits, a summer high school student exchange program sponsored jointly by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews and the Visite Inter Provinciale organizations, arrived in this city early yesterday afternoon at the CNR station. On hand to greet the eleven returning local students and their eleven guests from Quebec were a large number of parents, friends and local dignitaries.

Extending an official welcome to the city was His Worship Mayor McLean Haig who personally greeted each visiting student. He was acompanied by Chamber of Commerce president Enos David and Paul Mercier, chairman of the exchange students entertainment committee of the Chamber.

The twenty-two students who dropped off at the Belleville station were but a few [illegible] six carloads of students on their way to 14 other centres in Ontario. Richard Jones, national executive director of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, said that there were some 1,000 students involved in this summer's program. He was expecting another train-load behind the one which stopped in this city.

The atmosphere around the station was certainly one of both pleasure and anticipation as local students rushed to greet their parents and the Quebec students took their first look at the city they will be calling home for the next two weeks. The students visiting this area are from Dolbeau, Victoriaville, Roberval, Drummondville, Valleyfield and Kenogami.

Numerous activities have been arranged for them and their hosts starting off with a special dinner with the local Kiwanis Club today noon. Trips to Outlet Provincial Park and the Avon Jewellery firm will form a part of the week's agenda.

MUSIC MASTER

LOOKING FORWARD . . . to different aspects of the Inter-Community Visits are the members of the group above. While the two young Quebec ladies on the train are looking forward to a two-week visit in Ontario, the two gentlemen are looking forward to a bit of work with the project. Paul Mercier (lower left) is in charge of entertainment for the visitors in this community on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and Richard Jones (lower right) is in charge of the entire operation which this year involves some 1,000 students from Ontario and Quebec.

Police Unable To Control Plant Pickets

ORILLIA (CP)—Orillia council decided at an emergency meeting Monday night to offer to conduct a secret ballot among workers at the strikebound Otaco plant on whether they should return to work.

Mayor Arthur Truman called the meeting after Police Chief E. W. McIntyre reported his force could not control pickets outside the agricultural machinery plant.

The mayor said afterwards council did not discuss calling in extra police.

A picket line of 58 men was reported to have prevented four workmen entering the plant Monday in defiance of an Ontario Supreme Court injunction limiting pickets to four at each gate.

Union officials claimed, however, that only four men were on the picket line.

Chief McIntyre said six officers in front of the plant were unable to control the crowd. He said he does not have enough men on his 13-man force to handle the situation.

Union area representative James Robertson said picket captains told him there was no violence and police did nothing other than urge the workers to enter the plant.

Works Manager Glen Phelps said no one entered the plant Monday morning.

"It appears to us that the Steelworkers have taken the law into their own hands in face of the court order," he said.

Three persons were arrested Monday outside the Strathey Transport Company premises and charged with obstruction. They were carrying placards claiming the firm was moving Otaco shipments.

The Otaco strikers, members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) have made no wage demands but are requesting a closed shop. The company has offered a wage increase but has refused the second demand.

HEFTY SALADS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most men regard salads as "bird food," said a delegate to a recent conference of the institute of food technologists. The solution, said Ruth Schwartz, is to let a man make his own salads "with big slices of meat and cheese."

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Pieper are shown cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Wanda Gail Smith, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel C. A. Stanley Smith of Belleville, and the late Mrs. Smith. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Bernhard (Gerda) Pieper, of Hamilton, and the late Mr. Pieper. (Photo by Loyola McCabe, Belleville.)

PIEPER — SMITH

Peach-toned gladioli, blue delphiniums, and white chrysanthemums adorned the sanctuary of Christ Church, Belleville, and white satin bows the guest pews on Saturday, July 2nd at 3.30 p.m. for a very pretty summer wedding when Wanda Gail Smith, of Belleville, daughter of Lieutenant Colonel C. A. Stanley Smith, and the late Mrs. Smith, became the bride of Kurt Pieper of Hamilton, Ontario, son of Mrs. Bernhard (Gerda) Pieper and the late Mr. Pieper. Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attractively gowned in silk organza and white Chantilly lace, fashioned with full skirt accented by lace inserts, large back bow in bustle effect and fitted bodice of Chantilly lace having short gathered sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet style headdress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Heinz Nepaszing, of Scarborough, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wearing turquoise silk organza, with matching headdress, white shoes and gloves. She carried a nosegay of white baby 'mums, centred with pink roses.

Miss Brenda Smith, of Belleville, also sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, was gowned similarly to the matron of honor, and carrying a nosegay of similar flowers.

Little Miss Dawn Smith, wee sister of the bride, wore a frock of orange-ice with floral headdress of white baby 'mums and carrying a basket of white pinocchio poms.

Master Philip Smith, little brother of the bride, was ring-bearer, carrying a white satin cushion bearing the rings, which had been made by the bride's grandmother Mrs. Austin Smith.

Mr. Richard F. Robertson, of Cornwall, attended the bridegroom and Messrs William C. Patterson, of Kingston and Sugfried Quickert, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the bride's home, 22 Isabel Street, on the lawn. The home was adorned with baskets of assorted roses for the occasion.

The bride's table was lovely in its appointment of white damask and traditional wedding cake, flanked by white tapers in antique silver holders, the bridal bouquets completing the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother, gowned in turquoise silk organza in sheath style with lace bodice, white accessories and corsage of pink carnations, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a floral mauve organza over mauve taffeta, beige accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

For the honeymoon to New York State, Vermont; New Hampshire; Maine, and along the Atlantic coast to Quebec and Ontario, the bride wore an olive-green shantung ensemble with shawl collar, white accessories, and white gardenia corsage.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained to a Chinese shower by the girls of the Ontario Hydro; at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. E. Vermilyea, with Mrs. Vermilyea and Miss Sydna Vermilyea as co-hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Rae Bethune with Mrs. Bethune as hostess; at the presentation of an electric fry pan by the Social Club of the Ontario Hydro of which the bride is an employee; at a trousseau tea given by the bride's mother, and also at a rehearsal party given by the bridegroom's mother.

A "lady in waiting" can be mighty pretty if she chooses wisely from the wide variety of maternity apparel now available. This dress-up daytime frock comes in a honey-beige tone or in black silk shantung. The curved seaming at bodice is lined up with the half belt above the waist to effect a young appearance. The curved cut-away tunic is lined in matching taffeta.

Scott's W.F. Hears Talk 'Brotherhood'

6th SIDNEY — A large crowd was in attendance at Scott's church hall Wednesday for the July pot-luck dinner. The children, who are on holiday now certainly enjoyed the meal out.

In the evening the ladies congregated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Copeland, Stirling, for their meeting.

The president, Mrs. George Pollard, opened the meeting.

Roll call showed 11 members and six visitors present. During the past month there had been 15 calls made on the sick and shut-ins, and nine cards sent.

Mrs. Grenville Sine will be hostess for the dinner in August.

Mrs. Avery Martyn read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. K. Faul a paper on Christian Stewardship, showing that all phases of life are requested — money time, opportunity, church attendance and talents. The financial returns are not so important as the spiritual results.

The theme for the devotional was "We Are All Brothers", with meditation on the Scripture. "The missionary tells his people of God's love and lives his love towards them hence they follow his example. We are divided outwardly but in our inner thinking we are one. Christ is the one hope of the world". This was followed by a prayer that all work together in true brotherhood.

STUDY BOOK

Mrs. M. Sine gave a talk on the Study Book. In part she showed how the western influence has not always been for good upon the Africans. The men who lived under strict control in their villages have now gone out to the cities to work in industry or labor leaving their wives and families at home. As time goes on the men forget their Christianity, and in many cases live loose lives. Prostitution and drink are the two main evils. The result is broken homes and lives of misery.

The women are playing a large part in holding Africa together. They are taking part in professional political and industrial life. It is hard for girls to get an education, but some parents are beginning to see that education pays off when their daughters begin teaching and send part of their good salaries home to help out there.

The situation in the Belgian Congo at the present time was mentioned and was much deplored. People going out to Africa from the western world have grave responsibilities whether they go as missionaries, educators, employees of industry or government officials. The Africans are our brothers as children of a common Father, God, yet in so many ways, they have been exploited to bring material gain to the white man".

Mrs. Pollard read an article, which was appropriate, from the current issue of Reader's Digest on "The Basque Sheepherder and the Shepherd Psalm".

The shepherd psalm 637 was sung and meeting closed with prayer. A social hour was then enjoyed with thanks being tendered to the host and hostess.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

CONCERNING TABLE MANNERS

There is a basic reason why those of us who want to do the right thing try to observe the rules governing good table manners. The reason is that we do not wish to affront others by unsightly methods of eating.

During the summer months, when life is more informal, it is easy to disregard the little niceties that make eating a pleasure, not only for yourself, but for those who must watch you.

For many years there has been a controversy about whether or not to cut lettuce with a knife. Many experts are horrified by the thought of using a knife in this case. Personally, I subscribe to the edict that a knife should be used. Attemps to cut lettuce with the edge of a fork usually end with the lettuce in your lap — or your neighbor's, which is worse! To avoid such disaster, it seems to be common sense to use a knife!

Opinions are also divided as to whether or not one should eat shoestring potatoes, crisp bacon, and asparagus with the fingers. Chicken drumsticks and chop bones have also come in for their share of argument. All of these foods grace the summer menu quite often. All of them can be eaten with more relish if just the fingers are used. However I think the final decision should depend on the time, the place, and circumstance.

If any of these foods are being consumed at a picnic, a beach party or a backyard get-together, it would seem perfectly appropriate that they be eaten with the fingers. Informality is the order of the day at such gatherings. However, I would strongly suggest that the knife and fork be used when dining formally or in a public restaurant. It is obvious that using the fingers presents a rather messy, and certainly ungraceful picture to the beholder.

Of course there are certain foods that may properly be eaten with the fingers at any time. In many instances they can't be eaten any other way. Corn on the cob, olives, radishes, potato chips, and celery come under the heading.

Don't make too much of a point of "fancy table manners." Just make every effort to eat in a way that is not offensive to others. Then you should have nothing to worry about!

Question: I was criticized by a friend when I attended a party the other evening. I wore a lovely gardenia corsage and she said I was wearing it upside down. I thought you were supposed to wear corsages with the stems pointing up. Am I wrongb

Answer: Yes, you are! Flowers should always be worn the way they grow — which is up. The blooms should hold their heads high, just as they do when growing. The stems in a corsage should be inconspicuous, and should always point down.

Question: My boy friend has asked me to go to a big picnic. They are going to have hamburgers and hot dogs cooked on the grill and lots of other food, so he tells me. My question is, am I supposed to take anything with me? He has not mentioned that I should.

Answer: As he has not asked you to bring anything along, it would seem that you are not expected to. But, just to be on the safe side, I would suggest that you ask him. There is certainly nothing wrong in doing that!

Question: My wife and I are having quite an argument and I sure hope you can help solve it! The other night I brought three of the men from my office (who are summer bachelors) home for dinner. When I served the roast, I gave the guests their plates first and served my wife last. She says this was wrong, that I should have served her first. Who is right and who is wrong in this silly argument?

Answer: Your wife is absolutely right. This is the one time that a hostess is served first. But only when all the guests are men. If other women are present, she would then be served last.

W.A. Presents Birthday Gift

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, the Women's Association of Rylstone United Church, met at the home of Mrs. Lily Anderson for their regular meeting as Mrs. Anderson's 80th birthday fell on the day after, the W.A. took this opportunity to honor its eldest member. All the ladies brought her birthday greeting cards and during the meeting, Mrs. Anderson was presented with a corsage of red roses from the association.

Mrs. Wilfred Spencer, president was in charge of the meeting, as follows: Hymn "Thou Whose Almighty Word"; Scripture reading and story from Ephesians 5 followed by prayer by the president.

It was decided that each member donate 2 at the next meeting instead of holding cooking sales. Preparations are being made for a pie social and entertainment to follow the Rylstone church anniversary service in September.

Mrs. Spencer gave a reading, "We Must Build", vocal duet, "Jesus Bids Us Shine", was sung by Lynne and Suzanne Spencer, with organ accompaniment by their aunt, Mrs. Ellis Jones; paper on the history of the famous composer, Joseph Scriven, prepared and read by Mrs. Will Rutherford reading "Forgive Us", by Mrs. Ellis Jones; reading "The Village W.A." by Mrs. Ross Dickie; reading "Enjoy the Things", by Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn; paper on "Causes of Juvenile Delinquency", prepared by Glen Stewart and read by his mother, Mrs. Ray Stewart; Bible contest conducted by Patsy Anne Spencer.

Master Randy Spencer collected the offering.

Refreshments served by the hostess and committee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ray Stewart. Program committee: Sherry Spencer and Marilyn Stewart. Refreshment committee — sandwiches — hostess and Mrs. Ellis Jones; cake — Mrs. Ross Dickie and Mrs. Chester Meiklejohn.

GREEK SINGERS

The 1960 cast of the Cairo State Opera includes two Greek singers, baritone N. Chandelis and soprano Katie Fylakouridis.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Leonard D. — Edna and my mother don't have to see one another.

Edna D. — You must live with your in-laws.

• • •

Leonard D. — My wife and I have been married four years and have a 2-year-old daughter. We could be very happy — if not for the mother-in-law problem.

The mother involved is mine. Edna's died when she was in her teens. Edna was very attached to her mother and would like to make a substitute of my mother.

But the two women just don't get along. They always manage to get on one another's nerves and wind up crying. They try to involve me in their squabbles, but I don't want anything to do with it. If they can't get along together they don't have to see one another so often. But somehow they always manage to make up and get involved all over again.

• • •

Edna D. — It's all very well for Leonard to say "O.K. then, don't see my mother." The fact is you have to live with your in-laws for better or worse. I want my daughter to have a granny. It is more for her sake than anything else that I try to have good relations with my mother-in-law.

What I can't stand about my mother-in-law is the way she tears down everyone in my family. She doesn't even know them, but she has something bad to say all the time about my sister and my sisters-in-law. She has even come out with criticisms of my mother and she knows how devoted I am to my mother's memory.

I feel that Leonard should talk to her and explain she has no right to behave like that toward me.

• • •

The Council: The repeated listener to gossip or evil tales must be considered as responsible as the speaker. It is possible to get hooked into a character assassination session once, but the individual who hears these things often and from the same person may be assured that his ear is playing as active a role as the other's tongue.

Edna points out that her mother-in-law doesn't know her family, yet has something bad to say about all the women in it — even her dead mother. Well, where did she hear these bad things? Could Edna have told them or hinted them when she didn't keep sharp guard on her tongue?

Edna and her mother-in-law have a similar weakness and this binds them in an unholy alliance. They fear other women and have found a method of destroying them without endangering themselves. Edna gets the added satisfaction of being able to defend her family and placing all the guilt upon her mother-in-law.

Although Edna believes she was very attached to her mother, her feelings were probably quite mixed. It is unfortunate that her mother died when she was an adolescent, for this is the period when girls may be at odds with their mothers, yet finally learn to love them in an adult way. Edna's feelings toward her mother might have contained much fear and hostility and this has carried over into her feeling about other women.

It would help Edna to try to work out a happy relationship with her mother-in-law. If she can learn things about homemaking and child-rearing from the older women, instead of indulging in personality discussions, she would probably benefit and give her mother-in-law the satisfaction of asserting herself in a harmless way.

Recommended Cakes From Readers

By Mary Moore

Two good cooks in the space of one week recommended and gave the same recipe to me. One, Helen P., lives near Havelock and was my hostess last week, and made these little beauties so I could taste them. The other cook, "Peg," lives in Dundas and says of them "I just adore these — could eat a whole pan myself."

With that kind of a build-up I decoded that our other readers should have the chance to make and taste them. Although they are called Mallow Squares they do not call for marshmallows.

MALLOW SQUARES:

¾ cup butter or margarine, 1-3 cup light brown sugar, 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 2 cups sugar, ½ cup warm water, ½ cup chopped maraschino cherries, red or green, ½ cup walnuts or toasted almonds, chopped, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring, red or green food coloring.

Cream butter and brown sugar well. Stir in flour and mix thoroughly. Press this evenly into a 9 x 12" pan and prick well with a fork. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about ½ hour or until pale golden in color. Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine sugar and warm water in saucepan and bring to a rolling boil and boil exactly 2 minutes. Dissolve gelatine in hot syrup. Transfer to large bowl. Beat with rotary or electric mixer until very stiff. Add cherries, almonds or walnuts, flavoring and food coloring (red or green depending on whether you use red or green cherries). Pour over baked shortbread layer. Allow to cool for several hours until gloss disappears. Cut in 2" squares or 1 x 2" fingers.

Owners of deep freezers will welcome this next recipe. It is for old-fashioned Sunshine Cake. Helen says it has a long freezer life — she has kept Sunshine Cakes (well-wrapped of course) for months. When she served it to me it still retained its original feathery texture. It is just right at this time of year to serve with fresh fruits or ice cream topped with fresh fruits. You can make it now and freeze it for guests you expect during the summer.

SUNSHINE CAKE:

1 cup sifted all-purpose or cake flour, 1 cup sifted granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 6 egg whites, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, 4 egg yolks beaten until very thick and lemon colored, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add ½ of sugar and sift together 4 times. Add salt to egg whites and beat slightly. When foamy, add cream of tartar and continue beating until a faint line can be drawn across the surface of egg whites and remain. Add remaining sugar gradually and continue beating as before, until texture is very fine and even and egg whites are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in egg yolks and vanilla. Sift small amount of flour mixture over egg mixture and fold in carefully; continue until all is used. Pour into ungreased tube pan and bake in a slow oven of 300 deg. F. for 30 minutes, then increase heat slightly to 325 deg. F. and bake 35 minutes longer. Remove from oven and invert pan 1 hour, or until cake is thoroughly cold. Coax from pan. Sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar if desired, but do not ice.

Artist's Biggest Victory Was Defeat of Instructors In Quebec Competition

By Paquerette Villeneuve
Canadian Press Correspondent

PARIS (CP) — Artist Pierre Boudreau says one of the highlights of his career was winning an art contest in competition with some of his former instructors.

"Winning the Quebec government's grand prize for painting was wonderful and it was all the more so because some of my former teachers were competitors."

A native of Quebec city, now well-established in Paris, Boudreau is a graduate of l'ecole des Beaux Arts in Quebec. He graduated in 1946 after interrupting his studies in 1943 to serve with the Canadian army overseas.

He came to Paris in 1947 and two years later won a grant from the Moroccan government which enabled him to paint in Casablanca, Marrakesh and Safi. On his return to Paris in 1950, some of his works were placed on exhibition and a few sales were made.

He returned to Canada in 1951 and shortly after was named assistant director of the National Gallery in Ottawa. He arranged exhibitions of Canadian paintings and also gave art courses to children. He found that he became so absorbed in his work that he was neglecting his painting. In 1953 he decided to quit and return to France.

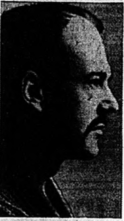
Since 1957 he has made it a point to return to Montreal annually for an exhibition and sale of some of his works.

A man with a high forehead and a distinctive moustache which curves from his upper lip to his lower jaw, Boudreau is sometimes mistaken for a Turk. He laughs when he recalls his last visit to Canada. A railway employee approached him and asked "aren't you the knife-thrower I saw last night on television?"

In Paris, Boudreau works in a studio on the sixth floor of a building which has no elevator, mainly producing abstract paintings.

Perfectly bilingual, he also does some writing, particularly for art magazines.

ESTABLISHED ARTIST



Pierre Boudreau of Quebec City, former assistant director of the National Gallery in Ottawa, now is a well-established artist in Paris. Winner of the Quebec government's Grand Prize for painting, he is a graduate of Quebec's L'Ecole des des Beaux Arts. Mr. Boudreau returns to Canada each year to exhibit and sell his works, mostly abstract paintings. (CP Photo).

Two Democrats Will Be Given Security Data

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—An obstacle to President Eisenhower supplying Senator John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, with secret national security information appeared Monday to have been cleared up.

Through a spokesman, Eisenhower made it plain late Sunday that he was willing to make such confidential data available during the campaign to Kennedy and his running mate Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, on this condition:

They—as well as the leaders of the Republican ticket—had to accept it personally and not through go-betweens. Kennedy had indicated he planned to have representatives accept it on his behalf.

After the president's terms were outlined to Kennedy, the Massachusetts senator's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, read a vague statement to reporters at Hyannisport, Mass., Kennedy's summer home.

Asked whether it meant Kennedy and Johnson were accepting the Eisenhower condition, Salinger replied: "I would say yes."

Kennedy previously had announced plans to have Adlai Stevenson, twice-defeated presidential Chester Bowles (Dem. Conn.) receive the confidential security information on his behalf.

James C. Hagerty announced Saturday that Eisenhower intended that the Democratic and Republican presidential and vice-presidential nominees, if they wanted it, could have secret data on international affairs, to be provided by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The purposes: to keep the candidates informed regarding perhaps delicate situations and help them avoid any unwitting public statements which might imperil security.

President Truman in 1952 had intelligence reports supplied personally to Eisenhower and his Democratic opponent, Stevenson.

In 1956, Eisenhower had the CIA brief Stevenson personally when he again was Eisenhower's opponent.

Economies Cover Cost Of the Job

In an era when the high cost of living gets higher every day, it's good news to hear of a luxury that costs less.

This "luxury" is home comfort. It's a fact that today it actually costs less to be comfortable in the home, throughout the year.

The secret to this phenomenon is insulation. Properly installed in thick enough quantities, insulating materials block the escape of heat so efficiently in the winter months that it not only makes a house more comfortable but can reduce heating fuel costs by as much as 40 per cent per year.

In summer, insulation works the other way around, helping to keep heat outside and resulting in greater comfort inside. When a house is to be air conditioned, a marked savings results from the use of insulation. Tests have shown that adequate thick insulation in walls, ceilings and floors where needed cuts down the size of cooling equipment required, often reducing the initial investment in air conditioning. In addition, this smaller equipment operates at a lower cost.

Insulation materials are made of mineral wool, rock wool, glass, slag, paper pulp, gypsum, asbestos, cork, aluminum foils, vericulia, cotton and other mineral and vegetable matter. Most commonly, insulation comes in batts (4 and 8-ft. lengths), blankets (usually in 50-ft. rolls) and loose in bags (fill type).

It s a simple matter for the home handyman to insulate a new home before walls and ceilings are completed by installing thick batts or blankets of insulating material.

Older homes can also be insulated by the do-it-yourselfer in areas that are accessible. These include attic floors, the area between living quarters and an attached garage and such other areas as floors in sleeping quarters above the garage in split-level homes.

1. Be sure to use thick insulation in all exposed walls, ceilings, and floors over unheated areas.

2. Cut the insulation slightly larger than the space it is to fill, leaving a flange of vapor barrier at each end. Use a very sharp knife and cut along a piece of board or other straight edge.

3. Wedge the insulation tight between joists, studs, or rafters, permitting the vapor barrier flange to overlap the wood framing member at the end of the space. The vapor barrier should be toward the side of the house that is heated in winter.

4. Staple or nail the flange to the wood at the end of the space, and along the facing side of the joist, rafter, or stud. A staple gun is faster and leaves one hand free to hold the insulation in place.

5. Butt the next batt or blanket tight against the end of the first one.

6. Don't skip small spaces, as they can reduce the efficiency of the insulation significantly.

7. If in doubt about the proper thickness, get the thicker lating material, as the slight extra cost will pay for itself in mineral wool or other insucomfort and fuel savings.

A home that is already finished can be fully insulated without damage to walls or blown into accessible areas.

This is not a do-it-yourself project, but is done by an insulation contractor. Loose mineral wool is blown through flexible hose attached to a truck. Air pressure forces the insulation into all cracks and corners. Siding removed to insert the hose nozzle is replaced carefully after the walls are tightly filled. Ceilings are done by bringing the hose through an attic window.

Hypnotism Takes Long Step Towards Medical Recognition

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hypnotism has taken a long step towards medical recognition in British Columbia as a result of a study by the Vancouver Medical Association.

More than 125 doctors from many parts of the province attended the association's summer school at which three Portland, Ore., physicians explained how they use hypnosis in their practice. The aim of the study was to arouse interest, rather than to teach.

Internist Dr. H. C. Harding, anaesthetist Dr. Donald Dobson and dentist Dr. Walter Lindsay said science cannot explain hypnosis; it can only be described.

COMMON EFFECTS

Among the phenomena produced by hypnosis they listed:

Rigidity of the limbs—a hypnotized person can hold an arm or leg in the same position indefinitely without discomfort.

Anesthesia—insensivity to pain.

Amnesia—blotting out of memories.

Age regression—the hypnotized person may relive his earlier life, will cry for his bottle when told he's one year old.

Automatic writing—an outpouring of the subconscious onto paper.

TRANQUIL STATE

In its simplest form, a light trance, hypnosis is used by doctors to tranquilize nervous patients before surgery. In most cases hypnosis is not favored as an anaesthetic for major surgery because of the danger that the patient may wake up, the doctors said.

Nevertheless it had possibilities for use in the case of heart patients.

Hypnosis has been used widely in the U.S. in childbirth to promote shorter, painless delivery. Delivery under hypnosis took place recently at Vancouver General Hospital.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

Dr. Harding answered three questions about hypnosis which patients often ask:

A person cannot normally be hypnotized against his will, although there is some evidence to suggest the contrary in the case of highly susceptible persons.

A patient will not remain in a hypnotic trance if the doctor is called away, neither will he awaken suddenly; he will either drift into a comfortable sleep or else return gradually to complete consciousness.

A person cannot normally be made to do something under hypnosis which is against his will or contrary to his moral code, although a clever hypnotist may create a situation to circumvent his moral code.

A doctor can learn the techniques of hypnotism in four hours, Dr. Harding said. But it takes years to become a good hypnotist.

Dr. Harding, who admitted he had been skeptical about hypnotism for many years, described it as "a very wonderful, normal, natural thing quite as valuable as morphine when that drug is used properly and just as dangerous when misused."

CANADIAN PIANIST

LONDON (CP)—Ronald Turini of Montreal, pianist who placed second in the Concours Reine Elisabeth of Belgium, has finished a concert tour of several Belgian cities and towns. His final program at the Canadian embassy in Brussels included Beethoven, Chopin and Liszt.

Canadian Troops Are Goodwill Ambassadors

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian troops stationed in West Germany play a bigger role as goodwill ambassadors than as a military force, says Dr. Herbert Siegfried, West German Ambassador to Canada.

"It is of great value to both Germany and Canada that young Canadians come to the country their fathers fought against and make friends, understand the way of life—the way of thinking—of its citizens," he said in an interview during a visit here.

The ambassador said the Canadian contingent with NATO forces in Germany would not be of great military value in a case of emergency. But they are "of decisive political importance for the bilateral relations between our two countries."

Canada is an exceptionally strong moral partner with West Germany in efforts to prevent the cold war from turning hot, he said.

"Canada is in the unusually lucky position not to have any traditional enemies in the world. The effect of this fact is great prestige."

He said Germany will need the conciliatory help of Canada to prevent a political split between the countries of the two major trading blocs in western Europe—the Common Market and the Outer Seven.

"The German government has demonstrated its determination to terminate past rivalries on the Continent by sacrificing its sovereignty in the Common Market and in NATO. The worst thing that could happen would be a divided Western Europe—nobody in the West could afford that."

RECORD BREAKER — Harry Jerome (right) of Vancouver talks strategy with Lynn Eves of Victoria before smashing the recognized world record for the 100 metres Friday with a time of 10 seconds in the Canadian Olympic track trials at Saskatoon. Eves came second. (CP Wirephoto)

'If Right, I'll Be There'

H. Jerome, Sprint Wonder, Looks Forward to Olympics

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — If I'm right I know I'll be there," says Harry Jerome, 19-year-old Vancouver sprint sensation, in looking forward to the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome.

"There's not much more a coach can do for me at this stage," the fleet son of a CNR porter said in a recent interview here.

The quiet - spoken Jerome flashed to a world record of 10 seconds for the 100 metres Friday night in the Canadian Olympic trials at Saskatoon.

"He has matured as a runner," says Lloyd Swindells, coach of Vancouver Olympic Club and a staunch Jerome supporter. "There's no questioning his international calibre, but it's up to Harry how far he goes."

EQUALS STANDARD

Harry, one of only six Canadians to equal the Olympic qualifying standard, has done it in both the 100 and 200 metres.

Much of the credit for his recent consistency must go to Bill Bowerman, head coach of Oregon University and one of the best track men in the United States.

Five of his runners have made the U.S. track team. Jerome and Sig Ohlemann, a Vancouver half-miler, are expected to reach Rome on the Canadian squad.

At home and during workouts the trim good-looking youth is affable, eager to make new friends.

But in action he is another man. He allows nothing to interfere with his running. He will only grudgingly talk with friends and sports writers, if he talks at all. Posing for pictures is taboo.

"This is serious business at this level," he says. "You've got to concentrate throughout the meet. One slip and you're out. I know that since Bowerman told me this and I've followed it my times have been more consistent."

BEAT NORTON

Three times this year Jerome has done the 100 yards in 9.4 seconds, the second time beating the world's acknowledged leading sprinter, Ray Norton of the U.S.

Jerome remembering his dismal performance at the 1959 Pan-American Games where he failed to place for the finals in his specialties, works out two hours daily.

Starts and a tendency to stride are the main problems.

"Last year I ran against the clock. Now I try to beat the man. Records will come, but they aren't much good if you don't get there in front."

Jerome gave up promising football and baseball starts for the cinder path. He's a lover of jazz and calypso music and hopes to learn how to dance and swim during the summer.

The five-foot, 10-inch 165-pound sprinter looks to a career as a track coach when his running days are over.

Causing as much a stir, but on the distaff side, is Harry's younger sister Valerie, 17. The willowly teen-ager was also on the 1959 Pan-American squad.

A brother, Howard, 15, and sisters, Caroline, 17, and Louise, 6, are content to be fans. But dad, Harry Sr., is both flattered and grateful.

Harry Sr., is a porter on the CNR's Kelowna-Vancouver run.

NO CANADIAN BILL

MONTREAL (CP) — United States businessmen close to the Canadian border have been warned not to accept Canadian $10 bills because of a major counterfeit ring operating in the Montreal area. One upper New York state garage owner said, "We still take $1, $2, and $20 bills but not the tens."

'Fear' Factor In Deciding Record Winner

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Fear may decide which of four men will break the 400 mile-an-hour land speed barrier this summer on the blistering hot salt flats of western Utah.

The drivers, of course, are convinced their cars are capable of reaching the 400 m.p.h. speed which would set a world mark.

They are Athol Graham of Salt Lake City, Mickey Thompson of El Monte, Calif., Dr. Nathan Ostick of Los Angeles, and Donald Campbell of Great Britain.

Thompson, who set the American land speed mark of 363.67 last summer, recently admitted fear plays a big part in a driver's success. During his record run, fumes escaped into the cockpit. Thompson blacked out, but not before he released the parachutes which slowed down his blue racer.

The American record holder says now "I have to talk myself into the car every time I start . . . There's always the feeling that something might go wrong."

GOODWOOD, England (AP)—Donald Campbell has set Thursday as the date for the first powered test of his Bluebird, the car in which he hopes to set a new world record.

The English daredevil plans to shoot for the mark this fall on the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah. It was there England's John Cobb set the existing record of 394.196 miles per hour over the measured mile in 1947.

The Campbell car has a 4,250 horsepower engine with an idling speed of 170 m.p.h.

Ho, Hum, Here We Go Again!

NEW YORK (CP)—The world light-heavyweight fight between champion Archie Moore and challenger Eric Schoeppner will be held but a definite site and date haven't been decided on yet, a spokesman for the promoters said Monday night.

The spokesman for Feature Sports Incorporated indicated the bout will be moved from Toronto, where it had been scheduled for Aug. 8.

He said directors of Feature Sports discussed a new date and site for the match at a meeting Monday night, but nothing definite was decided. He said the date and site will be announced Wednesday.

The fight was originally scheduled for July 18 in Toronto's Varsity Stadium, then put off until Aug. 8. The match was to have been promoted by Feature Sports and Toronto promoter Dave Rush.

The spokesman for Feature Sports, Al Conrad, said Toronto was ruled out because the fight would not be televised there.

Rush could not be reached here for comment.

Favor Palmer In Pro Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The lineup for the 42nd Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Firestone Country Club course, Thursday through Sunday, reads like a Who's Who in Golf.

Among the 197 entries, the largest field for any major pro tournament in United States history, are 17 former PGA titleholders, including defending champion Bob Rosburg, and 11 former National Open champions.

The pot this year is a minimum $50,000. Favorite to win the $9,000 top prize is Arnold Palmer, who has won seven tournaments on the PGA tour in the last eight months and pushed his winnings for the year to $69,120.

Sterkel, a six-foot-two, 210-pounder, is with Aurora Sealmasters of Illinois, world champions who are on an exhibition tour.

Sterkel, 26, has 18 victories without a loss this season. His greatest achievement came in the 1959 world championship tournament when he won eight games over a four-day period, including three consecutive shutouts on the last day.

Russ Says Yanks Will Be Tough In Olympics

MOSCOW (AP)—Coach G. V. (Harry) Korobkov of the Soviet track and field team said today he is optimistic over Russia's chances of wining in the Olympic Games in Rome.

"But," he added, "the Americans will be tough competitors. They have a brilliant team. It is the strongest team they've ever had."

Korobkov made his remarks at the conclusion of the last pre-Olympic trials here. Nearly 900 athletes took part in the four-day meet to determine places on the 80-member Russian team.

Russia placed first in unofficial standings at the 1956 Olympics in Australia with 722 points. The U.S. was second with 593 and Australia third with 278. The standings were computed on a 10-5-4-3-2-1 basis for the first six finishers in each event.

Western observers say Russia has a strong team which may not win many events but which will place many athletes, particularly women, in second or third spot.

There are 144 rinks from Florida, New York, Quebec and Ontario in the bonspiel.

Pete Rademacher Chuvalo Fight Question Mark

TORONTO (CP)—The heavyweight boxing match between Pete Rademacher of Columbus, Ga., and George Chuvalo of Toronto was in danger of being rained out again tonight.

The scheduled 10-rounder was to have been staged outdoors at Maple Leaf Stadium Monday night but a downpour during the day ruined things.

The weather office forecast scattered showers for the city this afternoon or tonight.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Sports fans read it at the time and passed it over lightly as a publicity gimmick, or just another of the colorful whims of the Jack Kearns-Archie Moore combo.

Archie was quoted on more than one occasion—and this prior to the Johansson-Patterson battle that his sole remaining wish before retiring was to win the world heavyweight title. He even went so far as to relate, for publicity purposes his battle modus operandi against both Patterson and Johansson.

At the same time, had anyone taken note of the fact—and very few did—that Archie was tipping the scales at 208 pounds, 33 over the light heavyweight limit, with a world title fight some five weeks away—they might have found it passing strange.

The Moore-Schoeppner world title battle was originally dated for July 18. Suddenly Archie asked postponement until August 8 to trim down to the required poundage. That part seemed reasonable. Only a Moore can peel off some 30 pounds within five weeks.

But the well-laid plans of mice and men . . . Wily Jack Kearns, like a lot more, figured Johansson would flatten Patterson. He also figured old Arch—as did Archie himself—could take the Swede.

Uncle Dan Parker of the New York Mirror, lets the cat out of the bag. Says Daniel: "Jack Kearns outsmarted himself in ordering Moore to fatten up for the Willie Besmanoff fight, in which the champion weighed 205 pounds. Kearns expected Johansson to retain the crown and there would be a battle between Ingo and Archie for the heavyweight title."

"In this case the Toronto match for the 175-pound title would be postponed until later. But when Ingo went bye-bye, Archie was faced with the almost impossible task of taking off 30 pounds in a few weeks."

And get this, Parker says: "The soft touch in Toronto with Andy Niederiter's German importation Erich Schoeppner, had to be postponed tentatively until August 8, with the loss of the rich closed TV circuit revenue."

The word of the Kearns-Moore plan of action must have reached Toronto, for if memory is correct, the Queen City's well-heeled promoter Dave Rush, also its honorable mayor, hit the publicity highway with statements that Toronto would be an ideal spot for a world heavyweight battle.

Meanwhile the publicity drums for the Moore-Schoeppner fight are thumping loudly. The built-up is for the handsome young German. They may give Ole Arch a plug or two later.

The handouts are being dished out on highly colored letterheads in glaring red, white and blue print, with pictures of the smiling old veteran and the handsome German leaping out in opposite corners. Incidentally top price is $25.00 graduating down to a five-spot.

The latest says Schoeppner, undefeated in 31 fights, seeks to become the first German to wear a world boxing crown since his boyhood idol Max Schmeling beat Jack Sharkey for the vacant heavy title in June, 1930.

The German is a versatile athlete, it says. He is an outstanding soccer player, swimmer, diver, a skier and figure skater. He was born in June, 1932, started to fight as an amateur at 15 and wound up winning 264 out of 279 amateur bouts. He is unbeaten in 31 fights and has knocked out 16 opponents. He kayo's Willie Hoeppner in December, 1958, to win the European light heavyweight title.

However his record fails to impress this corner. Besides Hoeppner the only fighter of any repute he has met is Mike Holt the South African who fought a ten-round draw with him in March of this year. The rest are unknowns.

17-Year-Old Steals Show From Cuppers

CHICAGO (AP)—Barry Mackay led the United States Davis Cup team through first - round victories Monday in the national clay courts tennis tournament. But the main applause came for 17-year-old Justina Bricka of St. Louis.

The well-proportioned, black-haired lassie ousted the No. 1 seeded Darlene Hard of Montbello, Calif., 7-5, 1-6, 6-2 in an upset.

Miss Bricka, a high school senior who won the national girls indoor crown in Boston last winter and more recently the southern girls crown, beat the Nation's No. 2 ranked women's player at her own forcing game. Miss [illegible] could not shake her young opponent despite a blazing rally in the second set.

Mackay, Earl Buchholz, Chuck McKinley and Bernard (Tut) Bartzen were U.S. Davis Cuppers who advanced.

Marty Mulligan of the Australian Davis Cup team was ousted by Rudy Hernando of Modesto, Calif., 10-8, 5-7, 6-2. The other Australians — top foreign seed Rod Laver, Bob Mark and Bob Hewitt—all won.

Hewitt ousted Harry Fauquier of Toronto 6-1, 6-0.

Score Hurls Chisox Into Second Spot

Yankees Dump Indians 9-2

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Al Lopez finally has begun to collect dividends for his weeks and months of patience in Herb Score.

Score came through with a complete game, his first after 15 straight failures over a two-year span, to pitch Lopez's Chicago White Sox into second place in the American League Monday night.

"Al understands me," said Score shortly after he was traded to Chicago by Cleveland Indians April 18. "He knows my problem. He's helping me."

Although Lopez understood the lefthander's peculiar problems and stuck with him in the face of criticism, Score was slow to repay him for his faith.

Until Score threw a five-hitter at Boston Red Sox for a 9-1 victory Monday night, he had not gone the route since July 14, 1959. He started seven games for Cleveland last season and eight for Chicago this year before he finally finished.

TRIBE FALLS

Score's pitching, backed by a 14-hit attack, put the White Sox only two games behind New York Yankees, who dumped Cleveland into third with a 9-2 triumph behind Whitey Ford.

Monday was a night for comebacks. Ned Garver also chose the occasion to record his first victory of the season, pitching Kansas City Athletics to a 5-1 decision over Baltimore Orioles. The defeat left the fourth-place Orioles four games off the pace. Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators were not scheduled.

The entire National League had an open date Monday. They all return to action Tuesday night.

Score's pitching effort was remarkable for him because he walked only four men. Sometimes he walks that many in an inning.

SIEVERS SETS HIGH

Roy Sievers ran his consecutive-game hitting streak to 21, longest in the majors this season, as the White Sox won their 17th of the last 25. Boston had taken a seven-game winning streak into the contest.

Gene Freese, who hits best against Boston, had three hits, making it 22 in 33 at-bats or a .667 average against the Red Sox.

Mickey Mantle's three - run homer was the big blow of New York's five-run fourth inning that defeated Dick Stigman. It was Mantle's 22nd. Roger Maris added No. 29 in the ninth off Barry Latman while Ford calmly turned back the Indians with eight hits, including John Romano's 10th homer.

Norm Siebern hit his 11th homer with a man on and Andy Carey slammed a two-run double as Kansas City broke a five-game losing streak. Garver scattered seven hits while loser Hal Brown gave up all nine Kansas City hits and the five runs.

Edward la Blanc, 63, appeared at the Caliente track with a ticket that won top money from the five-ten pool Saturday. His multiple ticket, costing $144, was the only one with all six winners in the fifth to 10th races.

La Blanc said four others shared the cost of the ticket.

Leafs Blank Montreal 1-0; Bisons in Third

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wynn Hawkins, the rookie who didn't make it with the Cleveland Indians, is a winner again—with the International League's front - running Toronto Maple Leafs.

The young right-hander, 4-4 with the Indians, made his IL debut a four-hit success Monday night with a 1-0 victory at Montreal in a duel with Royal rookie Ron Perranoski.

Richmond jumped into second place with a 5-4 victory at Jersey City while Rochester skidded Buffalo to third place by beating the Bison's 4-3. Columbus, shut out for six innings, hammered Miami 7-3.

The Maple Leafs were blanked on four hits by Perranoski for eight innings, then broke it up with three singles by Don Dillard, Jim King and Steve Demeter in the ninth. Perranoski (5-7) struck out seven and walked two. Hawkins struck out five, walked five.

TWO RUN HOMER

Richmond made it with a ninth-inning run on a single by Ray Bellino, playing in his home town for the first time in eight years of organized ball. Deron Johnson's 17th home run, with two men on base, gave the Vees a 4-2 lead in the eighth, but Jersey City then tied it on a two-run homer by Borrego Alvarez, his 11th. Gary Blaylock (6-8) was the winner in relief. Orlando Pena (6-9) was the loser.

Leon Wagner's eighth - inning home run cracked a 3-3 tie for Rochester and beat Ken Lehman (10-8). Wagner got into the game late, coming on in the sixth after Ellis Burton was chased for disputing a called strike. Bob Tiefenauer (7-1) was the winner with 3 1-3 innings of one - hit relief.

The Jets didn't break through against Miami lefty Bunky Stewart until the seventh, when they tied it with three runs. Three more in the eighth handed Stewart, who singled home two of the Marlin runs, a 5-7 record.

Sonny Liston KO's Folley In Third

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER (AP)—The massive 14 - inch fists of Sonny Liston thundered a tattoo today on the door to the heavyweight boxing throne room occupied by champion Floyd Patterson.

Liston's sledge-hammer hands smashed Zora Folley to the canvas twice in the second round and knocked him out in 28 seconds of the third round of their scheduled 12-round bout Monday night in the Denver Coliseum.

"I got him quicker than I expected," the unmarked 215½ slugger from Philadelphia said in his dressing room afterwards.

Folley, 198½, of Chandler, Ariz., said he made a mistake in trying to slug it out with Liston. "I fought the wrong type of fight—I fought his fight," he said.

SCORES WITH HOOK

Liston said he tagged Folley with a left hook that decked him for a count of nine early in the second round. That caused Folley "to start respecting my left hook," Liston said. "Then I started faking with the left and that opened him up for my right hand."

The combinations slammed Folley to the canvas at the end of the second round with the round-ending bell sounding just as the knockdown count reached nine. Folley scrambled to his feet and wobbled to his corner where handlers worked speedily to revive him.

The Arizonan moved out for the third round still groggy and became an easy target for the finishing bone-crushing left jabs and right hooks by the Philadelphian.

Folley tumbled face down onto the canvas for the final count. He never moved until seconds after the knockout.

RANKED NO. 1

Liston, ranked No. 1 challenger to Patterson, now boasts 21 knockout victories in 31 fights. His meeting with the heavyweight champion, however, will have to take a back seat to the scheduled rematch between Patterson and Ingemar Johansson.

Folley, who entered the fight ranked No. 2 by Ring Magazine and No. 3 by the National Boxing Association, had won 10 straight fights, three by knockouts, before last night's defeat. He led on points.

In his dressing room afterwards, Folley explained: "I didn't want to start slugging with him, but after he knocked me down the first time, I got up and hit him with a good right hand and I thought I might have him."

The fight, not broadcast nor televised, brought a gross gate of $77,406.55. Folley received $40,000 and Liston $25,000.

Two Boxers Cut From Canadian Team

MONTREAL CP) — Lack of Canadian citizenship by two boxers—one selected for Canada's Olympic team and the other named as the team's only alternate—has cut the squad to four from five, it was disclosed Monday.

Both boxers are German-born: Winnie Schelt of Vancouver and Siegfried Fisher, the alternate, of Toronto. Both are in the 165-pound, or middleweight, class.

Dennis White, chairman of the boxing committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, said the selection committee had named five members and the one alternate for the team.

"There was no provision for further additions and I have no power to make any myself," said White. "I can only follow the provisions made by the selection committee."

Schelt, 18, came to Canada from Berlin with his family when he was nine years old. His parents did not apply for Canadian citizenship and the son, a minor, is not legally a Canadian. Fisher came to Canada from Germany only about two years ago.

Atlantic City Swim Attracts 16 Natators

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The crack of a starter's gun today sends 16 long-distance swimmers stroking around Absecon Island in the annual 25 - mile marathon race.

Defending - champion Cliff Lumsdon of New Toronto, Ont., headed an entry list including a former champion, veterans and newcomers in a bid for the $5,000 first prize.

Eleven men and five women, representing six nations, entered the competition for $11,000 in prizes in a gruelling race that exceeds nine hours.

Co-favorites were Tom Park, formerly of Hamilton, Ont., and Lumsdon. They won the title in five of the first six races. They finished 1-2 each year except in 1957 when Lumsdon did not participate.

Park, now of Long Beach, Calif., won the crown in 1954, 1955 and 1958. Lumsdon was two strokes ahead of him in 1956 and five minutes ahead in 1959.

Greta Andersen, 31, formerly of Copenhagen, Denmark, and now of Los Alamitos, Calif., was back to try for the special $800 prize awarded to the first woman finisher. She's won the prize every year since 1956.

Batting Marks Soar

Musial, Ted Comeback 'Kids'

NEW YORK (AP) — What looked like dismal seasons for Ted Williams and Stan Musial have developed into sparkling comeback campaigns for major league baseball's elder statesmen.

A month ago, Musial was batting only .235. The seven-time National League batting king was a disconsolate member of the St. Louis bench and his ineffective performance led to rumors of his imminent retirement. At the same time, Williams was just returning to the Boston lineup following recovery from a leg injury and a virus.

Since then, however, both have been hitting at a pace that belies their 80 combined years.

The 39 - year - old Musial has lifted his average to .312 while Williams, 40, and an inconsistent .254 hitter last year, shows a .328 mark. The Red Sox slugger is a six-time American League batting champ.

Neither of these respected veterans will accumulate enough total appearances this season to qualify for another batting title. Williams has had only 131 official at bats and Musial 157. However, both are adding to their impressive lifetime figures.

With 506 home runs, Williams needs only six to pass Mel Ott, No. 3 man on the home run list. Musial moved ahead of Nap Lajoie and took over fifth place on the all-time total hits table with 3,252.

Pete Runnels of Boston, who lost out to Williams on the final day of a tight American League batting race in 1958, again leads in 1960. Runnels dropped one point to .320. But Jim Gentile of Baltimore, the pace - setter a week ago, lost 10 points and dropped to second place at .318.

In the National League, Norm Larker of Los Angeles gained 11 points to .351 and took over the top spot from Willie Mays of San Francisco. Mays slumped five points into the runner-up position at .348.

Gordon Fines Piersall $200 For Poor Show

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland manager Joe Gordon said Monday night he has fined outfielder Jimmy Piersall a day's pay—approximately $200—for his lackadaisical performance during the double loss to Washington Sunday.

Gordon also said Piersall would be fined $500 the next time he is ejected fom a game by the umpire. Piersall has been bounced five times this season.

Piersall was benched in both games against Washington. He struck out on three pitches in a pinch-hitting appearance in the opener, and flied to centre in the nightcap, also as a pinch-hitter.

During the two games, Piersall sat in the outfield bullpen, kicking baseballs and gloves trying to entertain the customers.

General Manager Frank Lane said Monday Piersall's clowning clearly was designed to "show up" Gordon for keeping him out of the lineup.

Rain Cancels Softball Game

The rains came down and washed out the Belleville and District softball league game between the Bobcats and RCAF Flyers last night, an important game for both clubs.

The game did get started, but the Flyers' Bob Butterfield had just thrown two pitches to lead-off batter Floyd Crawford when the rain returned. The field was already in greasy condition from earlier rain.

Bobcats need one point out of their remaining two games to clinch the league pennant, while RCAF is one point back of Deseronto in the race for the loop's fourth and final playoff spot.

Nothing definite was decided last night but the game may be played on Friday, the only other night this week that both clubs are idle. League playoffs are to commence next week.

Proposes 10-Team League

National Circuit Votes Expansion

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Baseball League voted unanimously Monday in favor of expanding to 10 teams and in effect told the newly formed Continental League to put up or shut up.

The National now has eight clubs.

Following a meeting of club owners and general managers, league president Warren Giles said:

"If it develops that a new major league is impracticable, the National League has voted unanimously to expand its membership to 10 clubs. The standards for a new major league were set forth at Columbus, Ohio, last year and were accepted by the Continental League, which so far has not met them."

The National League named a four-man expansion committee, headed by Walter O'Malley of Los Angeles Dodgers, to start work immediately.

SEEK MEETING

The committee, which also includes owners Lou Perini of Milwaukee Braves, John Galbreath of Pittsburgh Pirates and Bob Carpenter of Philadelphia Phillies, sent a telegram to Branch Rickey, president of the Continental, and to Joe Cronin, president of the American League, asking either or both to meet at their convenience with the committee on the subject of expansion.

In New York, Bill Shea, founder of the Continental, said the National League's action was a good sign. He said Rickey would be glad to meet with the committee "because we want to use every means at our disposal to be taken into organized baseball."

"My main objective from the very beginning has been to get another club for New York," Shea said. "I have been convinced for a long time and still am convinced that the only way to do that is by a third league. Perhaps Mr. Crosley's statement that he planned to remain in Cincinnati had something to do with the National League's action."

DENIED RUMORS

Powell Crosley, 73 - year - old owner of Cincinnati Redlegs, denied rumors that he will move his team to New York by stating they will remain in Cincinnati during his lifetime.

A statement through the team's home office said:

"Recently there have been stories based on unfounded rumors, as there have been for many years, that the Cincinnati baseball club might be sold and major league baseball taken away from Cincinnati.

"None of these stories ever has been authorized by me, nor have there ever been any negotiations by me or any one in our organization in this direction.

Giles said no possible cities were mentioned in the discussion on expansion and no new standards were set for any cities desiring to become members of the National League.

The American League met last week and said it could not combat problems of expansion alone and needed help.

However, Hank Greenberg, vice-president of Chicago White Sox, said he doubts each league could expand to 10 teams in event the Continental fails.

Wants 'Gramps' For Canadian Tennis Team

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Harry S. Spencer, chairman of the seniors' committee of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, appealed Monday for the entry o fall 45-and-over players who may be able to compete for Canada.

The appeal specifically is for the 12th annual international matches for tennis seniors to be held Aug. 19-20 at Lake Placid, N.Y.

"senior tennis is much more highly organized in the United States, with every section of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association having senior players ranked," said Spencer. "Bitsy Grant has just beaten Hal Surface for the U.S. national seniors' tennis title." Spencer formerly played in Montreal.

"The Americans are invariably too strong, and yet the Canadian team frequently wins matches and frequently provides stiff competition. Anyone who is 45 years of age any time this year is eligible."

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Presiding steward, Floyd Milton, said Monday night the new starting steward, Floyd Milton, said Monday night the new starting method at Old Woodbine is "a distinct improvement."

Milton, dismayed by the number of breaks in stride by horses starting from the short chute at the head of the stretch, suggested the horses move out of a long chute at the southeast corner of the track and start at the three-quarter pole. Horsemen voted to adopt it immediately.

The new method cut down the number of "breaks" at the start Monday night but it also gave the horse with the No. 1 post position an edge. The so-called "pole" horse won four of the first six races, and was second in the seventh and eighth.

The evening's top event was the class C-1 sixth which was also the first quinella race in Ontario harness history. In a three-horse charge for the wire, Harold McKinley, the meeting's leading driver, held on with Take Command, to edge Hal's Bomb. Third was Streamline Lee.

The inaugural quinella was worth $20.60.

Meanwhile, the Jockey Club disclosed that about $200 was paid out on altered losing tickets at Old Woodbine harness races last week.

A club spokesman said the numbers were removed with ink eradicator and the winning number written in.

The spokesman said it was a professional job, but it was unlikely the offenders would strike again soon since the return was limited.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CP)—The Fort Erie Jockey Club's 42-day summer meeting got away to an auspicious start Monday as 8,946 spectators watched Tyhawk defeat Wonder Where by three-quarters of a length in the $7,500 Fort Erie Handicap.

It was the largest crowd for a Monday-opening in the 62-year history of the track.

Tyhawk, ridden for the first time by Avelino Gomez, had enough speed in reserve to handle Wonder Where's challenge in the final two furlongs. Tyhawk, a speedy but moody animal, had been left at the post in his last start.

Gomez, celebrating the birth of his first child, a son born Sunday in Buffalo, kept him running without using the whip.

Tyhawk paid $3.50, $2.50 and $2.10 and combined with Wonder Where for a quinela of $8.10.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Victoria Park, withdrawn from the July 9 Hollywood Derby because of leg trouble does not have bowed tendons but will remain in California for a rest, it was learned here Monday.

The Queen's Plate winner was flown from New York to Hollywood for the $10,000 added race but was withdrawn when his forelegs swelled after a light workout.

Joe Thomas, manager of Windfields Farm, the Canadian-bred's home stable near Toronto, said he was told in a telephone conversation with trainer Horatio Luro in New York that Victoria Park is merely being rested.

A horse which develops bowed tendons in its legs is no longer fit for racing.

RETURN BOUT SET

TOKYO (AP)—A return match for the world junior lightweight title between Philippines' newly crowned champion Flash Elorde and Harold Gomes of Providence, R.I. has been set for Aug. 17, in San Francisco.

Canadian Ladies 'Open' Shows Lack of Entries

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Plans are going well, the course is expected to be perfect, but there is one thing worrying officials of the annual Canadian ladies open and closed golf championships scheduled here Aug. 4-13: A lack of entries.

With the July 22 entry deadline drawing uncomfortably close, there are only between 30 and 40 entries for the tournament.

However, tournament secretary Mrs. Hugh Gregory said Monday night, "we are hoping for an influx of late entries this week. Post entries will also be accepted for the open championship."

Of those entered so far, Mrs. Horton Semple of Pennsylvania is the lowest handicap player entered. She has a handicap of three.

Marlene Stewart Streit, who won both the closed and open 1959 championships, will not defend her title in this year's nine-day tourney because she is expecting a baby.

Charge 'Cat' With Assault

HAMILTON (CP) — Angelo Mosca, 265-pound linebacker with the Hamilton Tiger - Cats, has been charged with common assault in connection with an incident in a downtown tavern last week, police said Monday.

Police said the tavern's doorman, John Kliesdorff, 23, a wrestler and weight-lifter, suffered a nosebleed when punched in the face.

The charge has been laid but the summons has not yet been served. The six-foot, four - inch Mosca is spending the week at the Big Four club's North Bay training camp. He is expected back July 27.

BRITAIN WINS

BROOKWOOD, England (Reuters)—Britain won the Commonwealth rifle match for the Empire Trophy at Bisley Camp Monday, scoring 1,440 points. New Zealand finished second with 1,438 points and Canada third with 1,424. Teams fired 10 shots at 300, 600, 900 and 1,000 yards.

Midsummer Night's Dream Thrills Under Direction of Mr. D. Campbell

By ROBERT TANNER

Mr. Douglas Campbell is obviously a man of parts; since coming to Stratford six years ago he has played many roles at the Shakespeare Festival; he has helped to found the Stratford Players and has toured the country with them; two years ago he turned his hand to direction to produce "A Winter's Tale"; and this year he again directs one of the three Shakespeare plays, in addition to making his debut in comic opera in H.M.S. Pinafore. His "Midsummer Night's Dream" is a delightful production, full of humor, color and full-bodied down-to-earth entertainment.

In his direction, Mr. Campbell makes quite clear the division of his characters into three categories, the Athenian Court, the Fairies, and the "rude mechanicals" who are determined to present Theseus, their lord, with a play to entertain him on his wedding day. In this division, he is more successful with the mortals than the immortals, since Oberon, Titania and Puck all fail, in one way or another, to be convincing. As Oberon, Bruno Gerussi's western guestures conflict with the eastern garb in which designer Brian Jackson has dressed his Fairies. Deborah Cass as Titania tends to be rather wooden and stereotyped in her actions, and loses much of the point of some of her finest speeches. Jake Dengel is a most agile, graceful and puckish Puck, until he opens his mouth, when at once his accent jars. On the other hand, the little fairies, Cobweb, Peaseblossom and the rest, are altogether charming and betray theatrical talents and instincts far beyond their years, for their average age can be no more than eight. Their acting, speech and singing are all an unexpected delight.

EARTHY PORTIONS FUNNY

With Tony Van Bridge as Bottom, and Mervyn Blake as Quince the more earthy portions of the play could hardly fail. Mr. Van Bridge is as funny as he was as Dogberry in "Much Ado", which is high praise indeed.

Mr. Blake shepherds his ill-assorted company through the rehearsal in the wood, and the performance before Theseus, with the impassioned frenzy of all amateur directors and riotously amusing results. In addition to Tony Van Bridge, his team includes Robin Gammell as Flute, William Needles as Starveling, Chris Wiggins as Snout and Bernard Behrens as Snug; all of them deserve honorable mention for their contributions to the general hilarity.

Of the four lovers whose bewitchment in the wood provides the main plot, Leo Ciceri as Lysander seemed the most convincing, although Peter Donat as Demetrius, Helen Burns as Hermia and Kate Reid as Helena were all more than adequate and added greatly to the fun and confusion. Theseus and Hippolyta, portrayed by Max Helpmann and Pat Galloway, do not have much to do except to look decorative, which they did very well indeed.

Mr. Jackson's costumes for the mortals were extremely attractive and colorful, and the music by Harry Somers of Montreal, while as different as it could possibly be from that more usually associated with his play, fitted the mood of Mr. Campbell's direction and provided a satirical commentary on the action on stage.

Now that all three plays have been reviewed, it is possible to sum up the season as a whole, and to forecast that it will probably end up as one of the most sucessful yet, both artistically and financially. Advance bookings are continuing heavy both for the plays and H.M.S. Pinafore and some performances are already sold out.

Many Visitors Are Attracted To Colorful Outdoor Exhibit

MONTREAL (CP) — For the third year in a row summer visitors to Montreal's Dominion Square have the opportunity to inspect, and buy, paintings and sculptures chosen from the work of Montreal artists.

The city parks department, which last year saw 150,000 visitors attracted to the colorful outdoor exhibition, has chosen some 90 paintings and a dozen sculptures to line the paths of the midtown park.

The works were selected from more than 600 paintings; more than 20 sculptures by a panel of four experts appointed by the department.

Lucien Desmarais, in charge of arranging art shows for the department, said the shows have proved of great interest to tourists.

AVERAGE $50

"Some paintings now are in collections in countries as far as Australia and England.

Some Americans even phone their favorite artists before the show opens to find out if they are going to sell again."

Average price for an oil at the exhibition is $50 and a sculpture sells for about $150, although one hopeful sculptor is asking $1,200.

The exhibits, representing both modern and traditional styles, are hung in sealed, lighted glass cases.

"Generally speaking I hated to sell but last year I sold to French ambassador Francis Lacoste and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

Mr. Rostand, a full - time painter who specializes in Montreal and Quebec City scenes, has exhibited mainly in small art centres in Granby and Cowansville in Quebec's Eastern Townships.

PICTON

30th Anniversary Of Wedding Suitably Honored

PICTON — Cherry Valley hall was the scene of an enjoyable surprise party Friday night when seventy friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wiggins gathered to mark the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding. It was one of the "best kept secrets" since, until gift presentation time, the guests of honor were under the impression they were attending a hobo tea and even helped with the preparations. Lovely baskets of lilies, delphiniums and roses, flowers used at their wedding, decorated the hall while low bowls of pansies centred the lace-covered table.

Following a few games of cards, Mrs. Gordon Bell led in a sing-song of old familiar songs with Mrs. Malcolm Dulmage at the piano. Phil Dodds was master-of-ceremonies.

Much amusement was created by the "I've Got a Secret" show. Panellists were Mrs. Lyall Hicks, Mrs. John Chourney, Garnet Dainard and Vernon Armstrong. Contestants were Mac Dulmage, Sam Armstrong and Gordon Moore.

In a reading, Mrs. Emma Fenemore told the story of a boy and girl which included "This is Your Life", when Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins learned for the first time that the party was in their honor. The sketch concluded with stories of showers and their wedding thirty years ago, recalling many memories for them as well as for some present who had attended that event.

EXPRESSED THANKS

On behalf of their friends, Harold and Clifford Fennell carried in the gift, a handsome combination swivel and rocker easy chair. Though almost overcome by surprise, Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins suitably expressed their appreciation and "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung.

Of interest to many were photos of the wedding 30 years ago, as well as a school group.

A card with congratulations and a gift was received from California friends who had known Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins when they resided in St. Catharines. Adding to the pleasure was the arrival of his brother Fred and Mrs. Wiggins and family of Marmora. The honored couple were also presented with rose corsage and boutonneire.

For an old-fashioned square dance, Mrs. M. Dulmage at the piano and Garnet Dainard, violin, provided music while M. Dulmage called.

Delectable refreshments were served buffet style. Mrs. Sam Armstrong and Miss Ruth Bowerman Abbey convened this happy event.

ducing sectors— the department said that those responding to its survey "frequently reported that the longer run sales outlook had improved since the earlier survey was made, with a resulting expansion in capital plans.

Reduction of housing outlays was the main change in the "housing and social capital" part of the department's forecast.

In the same part, the midyear review produced at 2.9 per cent cut in investments indicated for institutional services. However, at $607,000,000—down $18,000,000 from January's estimate—they still would be 14.3 per cent greater than the $531,000,000 of 1959.

Outlays for government departments and waterworks projects across Canada are indicated at $1,453,000,000, down one per cent from the original January estimate of $1,439,000,000 but an increase of 3.7 per cent from $1,401,000,000 last year.

In the business sector, main increase besides the forestry and mining industries was in "trade, finance and commercial services," up 12.4 per cent this year to $853,000,000 from $759,000,000 in 1959.

AT THE PARK — The spirit of Dunkirk is epitomized in this study of John Mills, portraying the heroic Corporal in "Dunkirk", telling the dramatic story of the evacuation of the British Expeditionary Force from France during World War II, released by MGM, showing today and Wednesday at the air-conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program "Prisoner of War", exposing communist propaganda starring Ronald Reagan.

AT THE McCARTHY — Sonya Wilde stars in her screen debut in Allied Artists' "I Passed For White". She portrays a light colored negress whose love for a white man compels her to hide the secret of her birth. Fred M. Wilcox produced and directed the film which also stars James Franciscus, is now playing at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-In Theatres. The second new feature at both theatres is "Bluebeard's 10 Honeymoons", featuring George Sanders and Corinne Calvert.

More Sing Along With Mitch Shows Coming Next Season

By MITCH MILLER

Since the beginning of television and until May 24, 1960, with few exceptions, the quality of musical sound and musical production numbers on TV have been awful.

On May 24, 1960, we did an hour show titled Sing Along With Mitch. The final count still isn't complete, but the last report revealed that close to 20,000 letters, phone calls and telegrams were received by NBC, by me, by the sponsor, and by newspapers all over the country.

Their only purpose was to voice delighted satisfaction with the show. (In 90 per cent of these letters, the people mentioned the sponsor, the thing TV has been dying for for years.)

What really does this avalanche of praise, for which I am so grateful, mean? It means that millions of youngsters and adults were starved for a selection of popular music with familiar and pretty melodies, vocalized by a superb chorus of 25 reproduced with detailed attention to sound quality that everybody could hum or sing with.

The star of our show was music —music that has withstood the rest of 40 years of singing around the piano. The pictures that accompanied this music were simple, uncomplicated and never once interfered.

I've recorded nine Sing Along albums so far which have sold more than 4,500,000 copies. What more proof could you have that America wants to hear and sing good songs?

From all indications, there will be more Sing Along with Mitch specials next season.

Senator's Unusual Behavior Explained by Actor Gargan

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why did Senator Kennedy climb down the fire escape and jump over the back fence the night of his nomination?

And where did he go?

As the Democrats flee our town that mystery lingers. Source for the Democratic presidential nominee's unusual behavior last Wednesday night is actor William Gargan.

His tip brought Gargan a neighbor. The Massachusetts senator rented the apartment as a hideaway spot to catch a little rest from the maddening whirl of party headquarters at the Biltmore.

"KEEP THIS QUIET"

"I guess it can be told now," said Gargan. "Last Wednesday night—it was still daylight—I was out in the backyard. All of a sudden I see Senator Kennedy coming down the back fire escape. As he climbed over the back fence, he said: 'Keep this quiet, will you?'

"I don't know where he went but he was back upstairs by the time the balloting started. We could hear him walking around. Just about the time the roll call got to California, he came to our door.

"'May I look at your television set?' he asked. 'Mine won't work.' He sat there, nervous and tense. Occasionally he would say: 'I've picked up one here' or 'I picked up three there.'

"Just before the roll call got to Wyoming, he jumped up and excused himself. 'I've got to get upstairs,' he said. 'Bobby (his manager brother) will be calling me. And I want to call my wife.'"

AT THE BELLE — Mickey Rooney and Terry Moore play starring roles in "Platinum High School", suspenseful drama of a young father who investigates the mysterious death of his son at an exclusive military academy for wealthy delinquents, and co-stars Dan Duryea and Yvette Mimieux, playing today for the last times at the Belle Theatre. The 2nd feature is "The Last Hunt", from MGM in Color.

RELEASED ON BAIL

MONTREAL (CP)—More than 100 persons, arrested in a raid on a suspected gambling house, pleaded not guilty Sunday when arraigned in criminal court. Three were charged as keepers and were released on $500 bail each. The remainder, totalling 102, were released on $100 bail each. Preliminary hearing was set for July 21.

Sidney Twp. Council

The council of the township of Sidney held a special meeting to set 1960 township tax rate. The general commercial rate for 1960 is 41.1 mills with farm and residential at 33.7 mills. The various school section mill retes are as follows S.S. No. 2, 15.9; S.S. 4, 11.9; S.S. 5, 18.8; S.S. 6, 17.6; S.S. 7, 12.2; S.S. 9, 11; S.S. 10, 16.7; S.S. 11, 11.2; S.S. 12, 12.9; S.S. 13, 16.8; S.S. 14, 13.2; S.S. 16, 16.8; S.S. 17, 20.9; S.S. 19, 8; S.S. 20, 17.8; S.S. 21, 12.8; S.S. 22, 22.1; S.S. 23, 18.2; S.S. 24, 20.7.

In addition various school debenture rates and local improvement rates make up the total tax rates. Belleville separate school supporters have a school rate of 10 mills, Trenton separate school rate is 24.1 mills with Batawa separate school rate at 39.1 mills. The tax collector will be mailing tax bills to ratepayers beginning on the first of August. Sidney township taxes are due on December 5th, 1960, with a penalty of 4 per cent added after that date.

At the regular meeting in July it was noted there were 26 building permits issued were the building inspector during the months of May and June for a value of $226,400.00. Parts of the Batawa street system were added to the township road system. School debentures for S.S. 2 and S.S. 6 have been approved by the Department of Municipal Affairs and are in the process of being finalized to pay for the building of the school additions.

The cost of holding the liquor licence vote within the township of Sidney, which remained negative for outlets, was $1,492.79.

Mr. H. L. Hunt was appointed Inspector of Trailers, Trailer Camps and Tourist Camps within the township.

The council decided that payment of fox bounties would be discontinued as of July first, 1960.

A proposed sub-division was presented to council and the questionnaire attached was answered and returned to the Community Planning Branch, Toronto, Ont.

A grant of $100 for the Belleville Agricultural Society was passed along with road voucher No. 7 for $5,859.69 and various other accounts.

Council adjourned to meet on August first, 7.30 p.m., at the Orange hall, Wallbridge.

Passenger Train Hits Truck, 40 Persons Injured

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Between 30 and 40 persons were hurt Monday when the Milwaukee Road's Hiawatha passenger train plowed into a semi-trailer truck and was derailed.

All escaped critical injury, however, and the truck driver—who said he had "a feeling of death as the train came at me"—was unscratched.

A half-dozen cars of the 13-car Chicago-bound train jackknifed as they hurtled through the crossing near suburban St. Paul Park after the diesel units smashed into the truck.

Most of the cars remained upright although off the tracks. Other cars and four diesel units flipped on their sides.

Among the some 150 passengers was Mahalia Jackson, noted Negro woman singer, who was not injured. She and two companions were riding in a drawing room, one of the cars that did not overturn.

VICTORY TOAST — Hayota Ikeda, 60, raised glass in victory toast in Tokyo Monday after he won approval over two socialist opponents in both houses of parliament to succeed Nobusuke Kishi as Japanese Prime Minister. (AP Wirephoto).

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

SONGBIRD OF PREY

The shrike, though classed in with songbirds, is actually a queer combination of songbird and bird of prey. In both looks and actions it resembles predators. Like an owl, its plumage is soft and fluffy, making flight almost noiseless — a great advantage when chasing rodents and small birds. The grey costume is broken up by black and a little white, aiding camouflage. The short, rounded wings and long, straight tail remind us of a cooper's hawk or the sharp-shinned. Like those hawks, the shrike watches from some lookout perch, then makes a sudden dart after the prey. The cruel, hooked beak is decidedly not like a songbird's.

However, this strange mixture of a bird really has a song, reminiscent of the family to which mocking birds, catbirds, and thrashers belong, composed of harsh notes, squeaks, and mews interrupted by whistles, warbles, and trills. As with the mockingbird, some of the shrike's phrases seem to be taken from the songs and calls of other birds.

UNLIKE ANY OTHER

In one respect the shrike is definitely unlike any other bird of prey: its feet are decidedly weak. This feature necessitates a unique method of tackling the prey. Unable to firmly hold the victim while tearing it to pieces with the sharp beak, the shrike uses a thorn, a sharp crotch, or the barb of a wire fence on which to hang the "meat", and for this reason has been given the name "butcher bird". We can guess why it is that its bulky nest is usually made in a thickly branched tree with thorny twigs. The lining is soft feathers.

We cannot blame shrikes for destroying mice or even birds; all life is dependent upon other life of some kind. The cruel act is to leave the catch hanging, uneaten, which happens all too frequently. Although sometimes they return later for the feast, it would seem that they have the habit of killing more than they are able to consume. But our division of birds into "harmful" or "beneficial" is not always correct. A predator may improve the strain of its prey. "Survival of the fittest" is a truth; the imperfect specimens are killed off. And, it must also be remembered that every animal has a reproductive rate high enough to keep on a level with the number of individuals of its kind which can be supported in a district. So let us try to forgive the shrike for its apparent cruelty.

Will Widen Part of No. 5

COOKSVILLE (CP) — John Wilkes, Ontario highways department planning engineer, said Monday Highway 5 between Cooksville and Streetsville Road will be widened to four lanes in 1961.

He told Toronto Township councillors two new bridges will be built over the Credit River at Erindale, and improvements will be made to the intersection at the Streetsville Road and to the entrance to the Erindale woodlands subdivision.

The Queen Elizabeth Way will be widened through the township to six lanes next year, Mr. Wilkes said.

Cooksville is 12 miles west of Toronto.

CHAMPION SHEARER — Ivan Bowen, 43, of Auckland, New Zealand, world's champion sheep shearer, clips the coat from a sheep with his electric comb and cutter in a New Zealand competition. Bowen has sheared a sheep in 45 seconds and last year clipped a record 457 sheep in nine hours to claim the world title. He also teaches other sheep shearers in New Zealand how to use his technique.

Sheep-Shearing Champion Clips Them in Record Time

By RUSSELL ELMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — In an Auckland department store sheep shearer Ivan Bowen recently clipped a fleece in what he might consider a relatively slow 57 seconds.

Minutes later this husky 43-year-old New Zealander repeated the feat blindfolded and demonstrated why he is acclaimed as the world champion shearer.

Bowen and his brother Godfrey, now in the British Isles, today are the world's fastest shearers. Ivan, who has cut a sheep's coat in 45 seconds, last year clipped a record 457 sheep in nine hours at Ruatoria, N.Z., topping his brother's old mark by one.

"We can proudly boast in New Zealand of the best shearers in the world," said Ivan, still mopping the sweat off his brow after his city show. "We've developed a scientific method which has revolutionized our shearing practices."

The "Bowen technique" today has been adopted by most of New Zealand's 7,000 shearers, who cut an annual crop of 50,000,000 sheep. Each year Bowen and a team of instructors, employed by the New Zealand Wool Board, help train approximately 3,000 new shearers in provincial and agricultural college courses.

Chief Instructor Claude Waite, 50, who personally has clipped more than 1,000,000 sheep in a 35-year shearing career, explained the Bowen technique. The old method was to stretch the sheep's skin as much as possible, then cut. Bowen reversed this by allowing the highspeed 3,000 r.p.m. electric comb and cutter to follow the sheep's natural skin contours.

"There's no strain this way, it's easy on the sheep and easy for the shearer," said Waite. "We shear fast all right, but first we place emphasis on a clean shear."

At work New Zealand shearers wear a uniform of woollen singlet and trousers to absorb perspiration and prevent the sheep's lanolin from causing skin infections. They wear sack moccasins to get a good grip on the floor and roll sheep easily.

Grasping the sheep by the legs, they make the docile animal respond quickly to commands transmitted by a gentle touch. Shearing is done in straight, smooth strokes. Maori women sheep handlers, perpetuating techniques handed down generation to generation, grade the wool, take out the dirty pieces, and keep the board clean.

During the regular shearing season from October to January, shearers usually travel from farm to farm, working by contract or on piece rates. In the far north a second shearing season now is being introduced from March to May.

About 60 per cent of all shearers are Maoris, whose essential qualities are physical fitness and good technique. An average New Zealand shearer is expected to clip at least 250 sheep in a nine-hour day, split into five work sessions. An average flock of 1,500 Romneys would be finished by a team of three shearers in two days.

Earnings are high by New Zealand standards and may average £1,000 ($2,800) for five months. Most shearers quit after about 10 years, then often start out on farms of their own.

Six years ago the Wool Board started instruction classes to improve shearing standards and get more shearers in the trade. District courses are held on farms, much as Canadian field days organized by agricultural extension officers.

In keeping with wool's position as one of New Zealand's three major industries, shearing has also become a top sporting attraction. Crowds of 10,000 watch the national finals, where shearers are judged on quality of work and speed. New Zealand shearers habitually win overseas contests in Australia or Britain.

India Far Ahead of Other Asian Lands With Completion Of Costly Atomic Reactor

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—India has outdistanced in the atomic field all other Asian countries including Communist China with the completion of the Canada-India Reactor. The $20,000,000 project, under the auspices of the Colombo Plan, now dominates Bombay's skyline.

Modelled broadly on Canada's Ont., the reactor at Chalk River, Tnt., the reactor has undergone several modifications to suit Indian tropical conditions and other local factors. Some 30 Canadian scientists, engineers and technicians worked for more than four years with hundreds of Indians to push through the project at Trombay, a suburb of Bombay City.

PAID HALF

Canada and India contributed equally towards the cost of the reactor, India's second and bigger than any in Asia, but Indians ungrudgingly admit that Canada's contribution in terms of knowledge has been incalculable. Nearly 50 Indian scientists were trained at Chalk River and before long the Canada-India reactor will be completely manned by Indian nationals.

The CIR, as it is popularly known here, will be one of the world's biggest producers of radio active isotopes, even enabling India to export some.

Under the Canada-India agreement signed in New Delhi April 28, 1956, India will make its vast research facilities available to all the countries in the Asian region.

The CIR's importance to India also lies in the fact that it will enable the country to go ahead with plans for having a network of nuclear power stations. Blueprints of the first station to be set up near Bombay are already in the final stage.

Indian newspapers have paid warm tribute to the Canadian and Indian scientists who successfully coped with the peculiar problems posed by the construction of a NRX type reactor under conditions sharply different from those at Chalk River. One of the major problems was the question of shielding the 4,000,000 people of Bombay city from any possible radiation hazards.

MASSIVE DOME

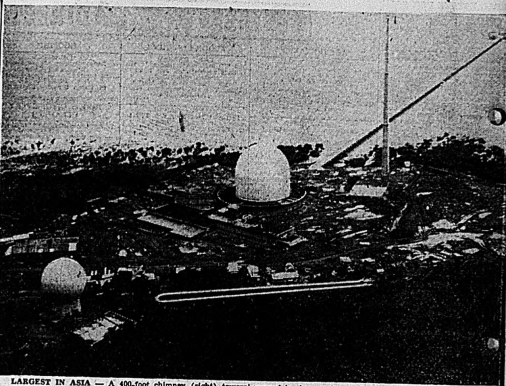
After much experiment the scientists devised a "steel shell" to enclose the reactors. The cylinderical steel wall is 120 feet in diameter capped by a massive dome. The rotunda, as it is known, is 133 feet high. The whole structure can withstand any internal pressures and, as one scientist put it, "the reactor is as safe within the protective shell as the baby in your cradle."

A special cooling system has been designed for the CIR. In the case of the NRX at Chalk River the cool waters of the Ottawa River have come in handy but the sea water around Trombay has an average temperature of some 80 degrees, shooting up to even 92 in summer.

"The CIR's chimney is 400 feet high, the highest in India. There is a ball tank capable of holding about 1,000,000 gallons of water.

Prime Minister Nehru has hailed the CIR as a great example of international co-operation for the benefit of mankind. He has said that "the close collaboration (between Canada and India) in a highly complicated field is a symbol of the manner in which the world has shrunk through modern technology and a token of the peace, understanding and co-operation which will one day spread throughout the world."

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has sold 20 tons of "heavy water" for the CIR. In addition, the U.S. has supplied to India a great number of technical publications and papers including an entire library on atomic energy.



LARGEST IN ASIA — A 400-foot chimney (right) towers over the completed Canada-India Reactor, largest atomic reactor in any Asian country. The $20,000,000 project, modelled after Canada's Chalk River, Ontario, reactor, was built under the Colombo Plan with money supplied by Canada. The reactor is encased in the massive steel dome (centre) at Trombay, on the outskirts of Bombay, India. At lower left is a 1,000,000-gallon water tank. 11 Sailors Die In Destroyer Collision

Two U.S. Ships Badly Damaged Off Long Beach

Heading for Scrap Heap Had Unloaded Ammo

LONG BEACH, Calif. (CP)—Two U.S. Navy destroyers, one of them a wartime victim of a Japanese suicide plane attack, collided in heavy fog eight miles at sea Tuesday morning. Eleven men died in the superstructure of the Second World War destroyer Ammen, which was on her way to the scrap heap. At least 20 other sailors were hurt.

Neither the Ammen nor the Collett, a newer destroyer, sank. The Ammen, heading for San Diego, 75 miles south, had just unloaded her explosives at nearby Seal Beach—or both ships could have been blown out of the water.

The destroyers are 376 feet long and of some 2,000 tons displacement. Their normal complement is 15 officers and 200 men.

The Collett left her bow anchor embedded in the Ammen's twisted superstructure — and in return carried off a crushed Ammen seaman in the fang - like wreckage of her bow.

YELLS WARNING

When bow lookout Patrick Medeiros of Honolulu yelled "Ship dead ahead!" into his microphone, the Collett's skipper, Cmdr. A. T. Ford of St. Petersburg, Fla., shouted from the bridge: "All engines back full. Right full rudder."

But it was too late. The Collett, apparently in a turn, struck Ammen's port side below the waterline just astern of amidships, then slid up and smashed into the superstructure. All the dead were aboard the Ammen, working in two offices above deck.

"Stop engines," ordered Cmdr. Zaven Mukhalian, captain of the Ammen. A damage control party quickly went below and secured watertight doors. The Ammen looked sadder than when a Japanese suicide plane crashed into her during the Battle of Okinawa in 1945.

She listed 11 degrees to port but did not sink.

"Thank God we unloaded the ammunition," said Mukhalian, sailing the Ammen on her last voyage.

BOW BENT BACK

After the crash the Collett, with 25 feet of her bow bent back, lay off in the fog and asked the listing Ammen if it needed assistance.

Help was already on the way in the fog. Small boats from the resort town of Newport Beach arrived and began to shuttle the dead and injured to shore.

A marine helicopter flew others to a hospital ship 20 miles away at the Long Beach Naval Station.

Both captains said they had their radar turned on. They refused to go into details of the speed of their ships or their manoeuvres, pending an official navy inquiry.

CUBAN DISPUTE DUMPED BY UN INTO OAS LAP

American States Requested to Report

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The United Nations Security Council voted Tuesday to dump the U.S.-Cuban dispute into the lap of the Organization of American States.

By a vote of 9 to 0 with two abstentions, the 11-power council approved a resolution by Ecuador and Argentina to suspend action on Cuba's charge that the United States has committed "economic aggression" and interfered in her internal affairs until the 21-country OAS reports on its efforts to resolve the dispute.

The Soviet Union, which had threatened to veto the resolution, and Poland abstained.

Cuba said it accepted the decision but would have preferred a council condemnation of the United States.

The Security Council's decision was delayed by a bitter exchange between Russia's Arkady A. Sobolev, who endorsed and enlarged on the charges made against the U.S. by Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa, and Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief American delegate.

Sobolev started the fireworks by saying:

"Do not touch Cuba. Leave Cuba alone. Let it do what it deems proper in its own country, and do not threaten Cuba with your might because other countries also have much might."

To this Lodge replied:

"Do not touch us; do not touch those with whom we are tied; do not seek to extend Communist imperialism. That is very simple and ought to be easily understood by everybody."

The OAS decided to call a meeting of the foreign ministers of the 21 American republics to consider the Cuban-American dispute.

Ambassador Jose A. Correa of Ecuador, president of the Security Council who introduced himself as a spokesman for all Latin Americans, warned Russia that the Latin-American nations will fight against any Russian intervention in their affairs.

Hit Back Hard and Fast at Red Propaganda Eisenhower Orders After Parley on Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported today to be all for a policy of American officials hitting back hard and fast at Kremlin propaganda onslaught against the United States.

Word from the summer White House at Newport, R.I., was that the president gave a personal go-ahead on this at a conference there Tuesday with State Secretary Christian A. Herter and other key foreign policy advisers.

Much of the hitting back will be done through the United Nations, where U.S. and Russian delegates have been sparring this week over the Cuban situation.

But Herter made it apparent on leaving the Newport meeting Tuesday that not all of the return fire will originate in the UN.

He accused the Soviet Union of waging "a very provocative type" of an anti-American campaign. Asked to speculate on the motives for the Soviet attitude, he said:

"We take this attitude seriously and regard it as one we should give serious consideration to."

Further evidence of the "hard and fast" policy in replying to Soviet charges came late Tuesday when the state department rejected a Russian demand made only a few hours earlier that 20 armed Americans be withdrawn from the Congo.

Lincoln White, state department press officer, termed the Moscow demand a "desperate and almost frantic effort" to obstruct UN efforts to restore order in the riot-torn Congo. He said the Americans were there to help the UN land troops from other countries as well as supplies for UN units.

TRY TO BEFOG

White said the Russian demand was "a further effort to befog the issue."

As examples of the "provocative" Russian campaign since the break-up of the May summit conference, Herter listed the recent Soviet downing of the U.S. RB-47 plane, recent statements by Soviet Premier Khrushchev on the Berlin situation, Soviet attitudes on Cuba and the Congo and Russia's breakoff of the Geneva disarmament talks.

Asked if Khrushchev might be rattling sabres to cover up troubles at home, Herter declined a yes-or-no answer. But he said it was "a factor that has to be considered."

Many Washington officials hold the view that Russia's violent anti-U.S. campaign apparently reflects a secret decision by the Communist bloc to toughen foreign policy towards the West.

Shift in Wind Threatens More Timber Loss in B.C.

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—The first injury to stem from more than a week of battling out-of-control forest fires sent a Nelson man to hospital Tuesday.

Sam Meyers, fighting burning timber on Upper Arrow Lake in the nearby Kootenays was struck by a falling tree. He suffered severe spinal and chest injuries and was flown to Vancouver for treatment.

More than 300 fires raged on Tuesday night—from Vancouver Island, across the southern interior, and north to Prince George.

In Victoria, the B.C. Forest Service warned of a potentially-dangerous weather system developing in the northern interior. Northwest winds blowing over most areas could carry storms and lightning over new acreage of dry timber. Dozens of fires were started in a brief lightning storm near here late last week.

Firefighters in almost every area of the Kamloops fire district reported some success Tuesday, despite temperatures of about 90 degrees and winds as high as 20 miles an hour.

Pine, spruce, fir and cedar have been destroyed in almost all fires.

More than 600 men took credit for slowing an 8,000-acre fire at Spius Creek, 15 miles east of Boston Bar on the Fraser Canyon. The men, with help from 18 bulldozers, were left alone as rising heat kept water-bombing planes on the ground.

A B-17 Flying Fortress from the United States dropped 2,000 gallons of water on a fire at Blue River.

"It was like Niagara Falls," said the men on the ground. Five firefighters expected to extinguish the few remaining flames.

A Martin Mars flying boat quelled a small outbreak near Nanaimo on Vancouver Island by dumping 7,000 gallons of water on the area.

The fire-fighting force is expected to reach 2,000 here today, many men being conscripted on the streets of nearby centres, others volunteering. Five who failed to report for duty will be charged.

Sentenced to two-years-less-a-day in Ashcroft Tuesday were Pete Bara, 32, and Frances Sampson, 54. Both pleaded guilty to an arson charge in connection with a forest fire.

Three Severely Mauled by Female Grizzly Bear Protecting Her Cubs

CARDSTON, Alta. (AP) — A female grizzly bear Monday attacked a party of five hikers on a park trail north of St. Mary's Lake, mauling three persons, one critically.

Reported in critical condition with a punctured lung is Smith Parrat, 10, son of Lloyd Parrat, a seasonal ranger from Clairemont, Calif., Less seriously injured were Alan G. Nelson, 27, of Bismarck, N.D., a seasonal ranger and naturalist, and a woman identified as Brita Noring, 38, of Alvajo, Sweden.

The United States Park Service and attending physicians said the 10-year-old boy suffered besides the punctured lung, a broken right arm, multiple cuts in the chest and severe damage to the face.

The five started down together but after covering a mile and a half came upon the grizzly.

"Bear with cubs," Mazzer shouted and warned the party to take cover in surrounding evergreen trees. The boy and Mazzer were in front.

There was a scramble and the boy was attacked. Nelson is thought to have been attacked after going to the aid of the boy. The bear then attacked the woman who was trying to climb a tree.

For nearly three hours the injured lay conscious on the ground while the bear hovered in the vicinity, watching and waiting. Then she departed without making another attack on the injured or those in the trees.

The uninjured two then left for St. Mary's Lake for help, reaching it nearly three hours after the attack.

British Fear Soviet Policy Stoking International Tension

LONDON (Reuters)—Is Soviet policy now committed irrevocably to stoking up international tension?

British officials waited eagerly today in the hope an answer to this monumental puzzler will be received when Nikita Khrushchev replies to a personal letter from Prime Minister Macmillan.

Macmillan revealed to the House of Commons Tuesday he had written the Russian leader about his concern over the aggressive trend in Soviet diplomacy.

"I simply do not understand what your purpose is today," he wrote Khrushchev.

Macmillan's letter and his solid defence in the House of the United States over the American RB-47 reconnaissance plane shot down over the Barents Sea July 1 won the critical applause of British newspapers from left to right.

Macmillan cited three disturbing developments in his letter—the Soviet breakup of the disarmament conference, the RB-47 incident and Russian charges of "aggression" by the Western power in the troubled Congo.

"If the present trend of events in the world continues," Macmillan said, "we may all of us one day, either by miscalculation or by mischance, find ourselves caught in a situation from which we cannot escape."

British officials advance two possible theories for Khrushchev's behavior:

1. Khrushchev may believe that U.S. policy is bound to be weak until after the November elections and Russia will follow a policy of maximum tension short of war until the end of the year. Then Khrushchev may revert to his earlier professed desire for peaceful coexistence.

2. Khrushchev may be influenced by some undisclosed events in the Communist world and has thrown over the policy of peaceful coexistence.

The trial of American U-2 pilot Francis Powers will provide another platform for Russian potshots at the U.S.

HIGHER PENSIONS FOR AGED SOUGHT BY OPPOSITION

Increase to $75 Requested by CCF

OTTAWA (CP) — The opposition strategists did their best in the Commons Tuesday to try to embarrass the government over its long study of a contributory pension scheme.

Blocking all other House business, the CCF called for a $20 increase to $75 a month in the old age pension — payable to everyone at age 70 — and the Liberals stepped in with a call for a contributory plan co - ordinated with the present flat-payment system.

Neither proposal came to a vote, but they succeeded in drawing from Health Minister Monteith a statement that the government still is studying questions raised in the 1959 Clark report but hasn't yet found all the answers.

Until the study is completed, Mr. Monteith indicated, it is premature to think of a general pension increase. This should await consideration of the relation between the present flat payments and a possible "graded" pension benefit.

SUGGESTS "CONTEMPT"

At one point, former Liberal health minister Paul Martin (Essex East) suggested it is "contempt of Parliament" to delay action on the 1959 report of Professor Robert Clark of the University of British Columbia, who compared the Canadian and United States pensions plans.

He called on Mr. Monteith to do what Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in 1958 would be done—the implementation of a contributory scheme in Canada "over and above" the present flat-rate pensions, through adoption of the U.S. system of payroll contributions.

Backgrounding the debate were the House mechanics that made it possible. Both the CCF amendment and Liberal subamendment were made to a government motion calling on the House to go into committee to study finance department estimates.

At this stage of the session, Commons rules require supply motions only on Mondays and Tuesdays. On any other day, the government can call for committee study of estimates without a formal motion.

WILL IT GO AHEAD?

Left hanging after Tuesday's long debate was the question of whether the government now will choose to go ahead with the finance estimates on a Wednesday, Thursday or Friday instead of waiting for another day requiring the supply motion to be debated again. Both opposition amendments have been accepted

'Would Seek Help From Devil' To Oust Belgians

Await Today's UN Meet Before Taking Action

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — The Congolese cabinet voted today to ask for Soviet intervention in this strife-torn country and Premier Patrice Lumumba said he would seek help from "the devil or anybody else" to get Belgian troops out of the Congo immediately.

The surprise cabinet decision to "make an immediate appeal" to the Soviet Union or any other countries of the Afro-Asian bloc to send troops here came after the threat of Communist intervention appeared to have eased Tuesday night.

Lumumba had said he would ask for Soviet help if Belgian troops were not out of the country by midnight Tuesday. The deadline, however, passed without any action.

Lumumba told a press conference today that he was again preparing to ask for Russian intervention in the strife which has swept this former Belgian colony since it became independent June 30.

Lumumba said he would be "grateful" for any American assistance. But he coupled this with a complaint against the United States for not condemning Belgian "aggression." He did not indicate any plans to ask the United States for help.

He said he is waiting for the results of today's meeting of the United Nations Security Council on the Congo "before taking action."

Belgian troops were moving out of Leopoldville as Lumumba made his new threat. UN and Belgian officials worked out a plan Tuesday to complete the withdrawal of all Belgian troops from the Leopoldville area by Saturday.

Today's cabinet decision said the requested troops from Russia or other Afro-Asian countries would have the task of:

1. Making Belgian troops withdraw peacefully.

2. Contributing to the mainten-

Says UN Troops Will Be Opposed

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — Katanga Province Premier Moise Tshombe said today that if United Nations troops are sent to Katanga "they will be opposed if necessary by force."

He told reporters: "If UN troops come here it will show they want war, but I don't think Hammarskjold would embark on such a path".

He added that if UN member states give any help to the Leopoldville government in trying to reclaim Katanga "this would signify war between the Katanga government and the central government of Leopoldville".

Congolese Thought They Had Right To Share Wives, Belgian Explains

THYSVILLE, The Congo (AP) "The Congolese don't look at rape in our sense," said the young Belgian lieutenant. "They frequently exchange wives among themselves."

The lieutenant, Alfons Schoonbroodt, is in command of 1,000 ill - disciplined Congolese who hold Camp Hardy, where the Congo army mutiny flared 11 days ago.

Schoonbroodt said the Congolese had asked him to stay on after the uprising in which white officers were beaten up and their wives raped.

When independence came to the Congo July 1, Schoonbroodt said, the soldiers thought they were entitled to share wives with their officers as they had been doing among themselves.

"I myself saw Congolese soldiers playing with children while waiting for their turn to rape the mother," he said.

Schoonbroodt talked to this reporter outside the gate of the camp where Moroccan foot soldiers of the new UN force stood guard next to Congolese with fixed bayonets.

Nearby stood the empty homes of Belgian officers. Along the road were several charred automobiles burned by raiding mobs.

"The Congolese changed their mind after the revolt and asked 35 officers to stay," the lieutenant said. "But all refused after what happened to their wives. I was a bachelor and decided to stay."

The mutiny prompted the Belgian air force to bomb the area. Four Belgian air force planes were shot down in the area and the Belgian pilots' bodies were dismembered by mobs and thrown into the river, according to local inhabitants.

"The Africans did not shoot first at the planes," Schoonbroodt said. "They were shouting "kubeta te" (don't shoot) when the bombs fell."

Anicet Kashamura, Congolese information minister, charged in Leopoldville that the Belgians "were first to rape our women."

"People from Kindu, Kasonga and other places recently complained of having suffered violence from the Belgians," Kashamura said in a broadcast. "They endured the most scandalous savagery from a people who call themselves civilized."

Tunisia to Ask UN to Hurry Belgians Out

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Tunisia plans to ask the security council tonight to prod Belgium to withdraw her troops from the Congo quickly.

Diplomatic sources said Tunisia's delegation to the UN is preparing a resolution for introduction at the council meeting, called to hear a report from UN Secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold on the progress of UN efforts to replace Belgian troops in the chaotic new African nation with an international peace force.

The UN announced Tuesday that Belgian troops in Leopoldville, the Congolese capital, had started pulling back to their bases in the Congo and would clear the capital by Saturday night. But Belgian soldiers were stationed in at least 20 other centres scattered over the vast central African territory, and the Belgians said they would stay until UN forces took over protection of European lives and property from them.

Tunisia presented the resolution adopted by the council last week providing for a UN military force for the Congo and calling on Belgium to withdraw her troops. That resolution set no time limit for the withdrawal.

LUMUMBA'S THREAT

The new resolution apparently was spurred by threats of Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba to ask Soviet troops to intervene unless Belgian soldiers were removed by Tuesday night.

Informants said African delegates had persuaded the Soviet Union not to introduce a resolution to fix a 72-hour time limit for Belgian withdrawal, on the ground it could not win council approval.

But these sources expressed belief the Russians still might propose an amendment to insert such a time limit in the Tunisian resolution.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny was flying to New York for the council meeting with proposals for an embargo on arms shipments to the Congo and for an international investigation of alleged Congolese brutalities against Belgian settlers.

CONGOLESE GOING, TOO

Two members of the Congo government — Thomas Kanza, minister delegate to the UN, and Andre Mandi, secretary of state for foreign affairs—were also on their way to present their government's viewpoint to the council.

From Leopoldville, UN undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche advised Hammarskjold that UN

Recruit Course For Students In Third Week

This year the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is again holding its summer recruit course for high school students. The five-week course, now in its third week, is held at the regimental armouries with a number of field trips to the regiment's two training areas and to Outlet Beach Provincial Park also.

The fifty high school recruits parade from 8:15 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and on Saturday mornings until noon as well. Their course includes instruction of fieldcraft, map using, military law, drill, rifle, organization, first aid and national survival. They are instructed by a number of regimental non-commissioned officers plus two Eastern Ontario area instructors, Sergeants D. Winegarden and C. Moorehead of Kingston. The entire program is under the command of Capt. W. O. Cochrane assisted by Lt. R. N. McLaughlen, both of the Hasty Pees.

As the course progresses more of the training is devoted to field work away from the armouries so that experience may be gained under simulated anticipated conditions, especially for rescue and national survival work. To assist in the latter there is a specially constructed apparatus, two stories in height, which is used in the armouries for practice in handling stretcher cases between different levels.

Not all the training consists of drill, lectures and field work. Each week there is a recreational period scheduled during which the recruits usually are taken to Outlet Park for a swimming session.

Although the number of recruits taking this summer's course are but a fraction of those enrolled in previous years, due to defence budget cuts, the quality of the instruction remains at a high level and it appears that many local youths are provided with valuable and direct experience in the responsibilities of citizenship.

Two Student Girls Believed to Have Drowned

OTTAWA (CP) — Two student girls working alone on a federal mapping expedition were believed drowned today following the discovery of their overturned canoe on Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories.

"We have every reason to believe the girls were drowned," a spokesman said after an RCMP search party found their canoe and two life jackets on the northwest shore of Good Hope Bay.

The girls, Marie Kroeger of Montreal and Joan Goodfellow of Plaster Rock, N.B., were geographers on a mapping survey for the department of mines and technical surveys.

They were reported missing Monday after scheduled air contacts July 4 and 12 failed to turn up any sign of life at their campsite near the Katseyedie River.

They were flown to the site, 1,500 miles north of Edmonton, on July 25. They had enough food to last them three weeks.

Quit School and Face Years of Unemployment

TRENTON — Today's school drop-outs can look forward to a life of unemployment.

That was the gist of a report read to the Chamber of Commerce's apprenticeship committee last night by Dennis Atkins.

The report said that while the daily average of persons job hunting in Canada from 1935 to 1955 was 5,100, in the 60s the average was expected to reach a daily average of 100,000.

This survey of the situation in which some youths find themselves between the ages of 16 to 21 years and who have for some reason left school without an ytrade or special training, was taken a few months ago by government agencies The report said that while there were any number of avenues of assistance to younger children, little organized help was given to the teenagers. They ended up, through sheer boredom, by hanging around street corners and restaurants and frequently became involved in petty crime and other anti-social pursuits.

The report urged that apprenticeship training be instigated wherever possible. Even in periods of high unemployment, some jobs cannot be filled because personnel with appropriate training are non-existent in Canada. In Europe, apprenticeship on-the-job training is much more prevalent than in North America; hence men to fill certain jobs must be imported.

Present at the meeting were Ben Kroeze, chairman of the apprenticeship committee, Douglas Whitley, Archie McNeil, H. B. Smith and Mr. Atkins.

Mr. McNeil said he thought everything came too easy to today's youth. He said that any youth could manage to get credit to buy clothes or a car. When they did get jobs, they thought they should start at a high wage.

"In my day you worked for your board and thought you were lucky," he said.

The progress and future plans of the apprenticeship committee were discussed at length.

Mr. Kroeze said 12 boys had indicated they were interested in the scheme and that a few had been placed with employers.

It was decided that a meeting would be called for the latter part of August or the first of September at which a specialist in the apprenticeship field would be guest speaker. To this meeting will be invited prospective employers, apprentices and their parents.

Another topic under discussion was the possibility that a trades school might be set up in the Quinte area in the future. Under the present apprenticeship plan, apprentices must spend 20 weeks in Toronto at a specialized training school.

Mr. Whitley suggested that a close record be kept of each boy sponsored by the committee. It was felt that if even 10 boys come under the plan this year, progress would be made.

Mr. McNeil said that if boys who apply for the training cannot be placed in Trenton, members of the committee could use their influence to place them with employers in other communities.

Man Pinned Between Wall And His Car

TRENTON — Edward Byreiter of Consecon, was injured Tuesday when he was pinned between the wall of the Garrett store and his automobile, driven by his wife, Naomi.

Mr. Byreiter had been attempting to unload a washing machine from the trunk of the car when Mrs. Byreiter accidentally stepped on the gas pedal. The car was in reverse gear. The injured man was treated at Trenton Memorial Hospital by Dr. J. V. Byrne.

Janice Altberg, 28, of Long Branch, N.J., received minor injuries Tuesday in a three-car, rear-end collision.

A car driven by Herbert Semrod, 15 Monroe Ave., Belleville, stopped for a traffic light at Front and Dundas St. West, and slid into a car driven by A. J. Black, 267 John St., Belleville, which in turn struck the Altberg vehicle.

The Semrod car received $150 damage; the Black vehicle received $200 damage, and Mrs. Altberg's car received $85 damage.

MINOR FIRE DAMAGE

Welfare Officer Describes Senior Citizen Plan

TRENTON — Welfare Officer A. Gordon Davis says he has been in touch with the Co-Op Company of Canada, a firm which in the past has devoted its efforts to the erection of chain stores but which now is concerning itself with the erection of apartment blocks for senior citizens.

One company plan, and one which seems to lend itself to the peculiar needs of a community the size of Trenton, calls for the erection of 11-unit apartment blocks. The apartment house would be a two-storey building with four quarters for married couples and seven single units. Each apartment would have an adjacent storage room.

The married quarters would rent for $55 a month, $20 of which would be subsidized by the provincial government. Single units would rent for $50 a month and the subsidy would also apply.

Each tenant would supply his own furniture and pay electric and water bills. Refrigerators and stoves would be provided.

Land for the apartment block would be supplied by the town and would carry a fixed tax or be given tax-free.

Representatives from the department of planning and development will visit Trenton to assess the need and demand for such a project. Mr. Davis said that 30 persons have indicated interest in such living accommodation and that several more would probably come forward once the apartment block was built.

ERECT SIGNS

TRENTON — Signs have been erected on the town bridge informing boaters that it is illegal to travel at more than six miles an hour in the Trent River. This law will be enforced by the RCMP.

Committee Needs Testimonials From Public

By Don Harvey

A check with the Chamber of Commerce yesterday revealed that no meeting of the airport committee has been called nor is one scheduled. Chairman Arthur Duncan, although not available yesterday for comment, last week indicated that a committee meeting was imminent in view of new developments which were mentioned in this space Saturday.

Most probable reason for the delay is the unavailability of local MP Lee Grills who, Mr. Duncan hopes, will attend the next meeting. Mr. Grills is busy at Ottawa.

Meanwhile, Jim Marker, acting committee secretary, while Earl Dicknoether is on vacation, said he had received a letter from a local industry — a big one at that—endorsing the committee's objective to bring airline service to this district.

In the letter, the company said it had moved part of its operations to Belleville from Toronto but since coming here has found it much more difficult, in fact impossible, almost, to count on any sort of air transportation. Future expansion of the company in this area could be dependent on the availability of air service, it said.

The company's letter was only one of many which the committee has been and we hope still is, receiving. Testimonials of interest in the committee's objective are of extreme importance. Without plenty of proof that air service is wanted in the Belleville-Trenton area, no airline is going to be greatly interested in providing the service. The committee must also get testimonials from the public. After all, the public will be the most frequent users of the air service.

The committee's acquisition of testimonials seems to be more important at the moment than any actual effort to open Station Trenton to airline service. The latter can be left up to the airline company when it applies for a licence to serve this area. Proof that airline service is desirable and the powers that be will be almost compelled to open Station Trenton. Without that proof the committee might just as well scrub its efforts because no airline company will pick up the ball and start it rolling.

It all boils down to a matter of dollars and cents. If an airline company is convinced it can make money in this district, then it will come in. No intelligent businessman will open shop before being satisfied that he stands a reasonable chance of making profit. That, essentially, is the way airlines operate, too.

But now that the iron is hot we hope the airport committee will strike and push its objective toward a successful completion. Time's a-wasting.

ance of order in the Congo in conformity with the decisions of the government of the republic.

3. Preventing all external aggression.

These troops would withdraw from the Congo as soon as Belgian troops had left and order had been established, the cabinet said.

"The military aid requested from the governments of the Soviet Union or other countries of the Afro-Asian group implies no political conditions," the cabinet added.

SURE OF HELP

Lumumba said he was sure the Soviet Union would help if the Congolese asked for aid.

"We sent one telegram to Mr. Khrushchev and he has given us assurances," he said. "We know that the Soviet Union is ready to help us."

Most diplomats here had considered Lumumba's midnight deadline more a bluff than a serious intention. But Soviet Premier Khrushchev's warning last week that Russia would consider "decisive measures" if "Western aggression" in the Congo continued had touched off fears of a new East-West conflict.

Meanwhile, troops from five continents were either moving into the Congo or preparing to fly here to bolster the UN force for the complete takeover from Belgian soldiers.

UNITS TO COME

Ralph Bunche, assistant UN secretary-general, said Tuesday that units would arrive here "soon" from Canada, Italy, Burma and South America. In addition to RCAF transport planes, Canada is sending five technical officers. A Swedish battalion—630 officers and men—was on its way from Gaza and Guinea said two battalions, totalling 1,200 men, would be flown to Leopoldville before the weekend.

The agreement for Belgian troops to pull out of the Leopoldville area and hand over to UN troops was worked out by Bunche and Belgian Ambassador Baron Jean van den Bosch.

Informed sources said the Belgians had been willing to pull out of the entire Congo if the UN could guarantee the safety of Belgian citizens, but Bunche conceded there were not enough UN troops in the Congo yet to do the job.

Van den Bosch disclosed that Belgium had agreed not to undertake any further military operations in the Congo without consultation with the UN.

Carole Tregoff Taken From Bed And Into Court

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Shapely Carole Tregoff, who said she was too sick to come to court, was hauled out of bed, handcuffed and jailed Tuesday.

Her $25,000 bail was revoked after a county physician ruled she was well enough to appear in court for the retrial of murder charges against her and Dr. Bernard Finch. Their first trial on charges of slaying his wife ended in a hung jury.

Earlier Tuesday Miss Tregoff sent word that she had the hives and would not appear. Superior Judge Le Roy Dawson sent Dr. Marcus Crahan to her residence to examine her.

Crahan said he found her pulse, temperature and blood pressure normal.

He added that she refused to let him examine her chest and said she did not feel like dressing and coming to court.

Gabrielle Johnston, woman deputy sheriff, tried to dress Miss Tregoff but was unable to do so alone. Judge Dawson ordered a bench warrant for Carole's arrest. She was dressed forcibly and taken to jail.

The incident caused a temporary recess in the selection of alternate jurors for the retrial, scheduled to resume this morning.

Reach Accord On Issues in Orillia Strike

ORILLIA (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CLC) Local 4657 and Otaco Limited farm machinery manufacturers Tuesday reached agreement on two major issues in a strike which began 50 days ago.

The agreement was reached through the efforts of James Hutcheon, Toronto, department of labor conciliator.

No company or union official was available for confirmation but reports said the company raised its wage-increase offer to six cents across the board in the first year of a two-year contract and four cents in the second year.

The union negotiating committee, it was reported, agreed to voluntary irrevocable union dues checkoffs instead of the modified Rand formula previously demanded. The Rand formula requires all employees to pay union dues, but leaves actual membership in the union on a voluntary basis.

The agreement has not yet been ratified by the union membership and some strikers interviewed here said they are not satisfied with the settlement.

IN MEMORIAM

COOK. — In loving memory of our dear father, Clarence Boulter Cook, who passed away July 19th, 1958.
Our family circle has been broken,
A link gone from our chain;
But though we're parted for a while,
We know we'll meet again.
—Sadly missed by the Cook family.

KIRKPATRICK. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Fred, who passed away July 20th, 1959.
I seem to see in the soft light
A face I loved the best,
I think of it when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west,
I miss you more as the time goes on
Than I did on the day of your going.
For absence can never close my heart
The lamp of my love is still glowing.
Your heart was the truest in the world
Your love the best to recall;
For no one could take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Jeannette.

KIRKPATRICK. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Fred Kirkpatrick, who passed away July 20th, 1959.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by Bill, Lil and children.

CAMPBELL. — In loving memory of my mother, Mary, who passed away July 19, 1947.
True was her heart, her actions kind,
Her life was a pattern to those left behind.
God knows best for reasons divine.
But memories last for all time.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear mother,
I do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by son Leonard Hamilton. Jy1

New York Post Favors Governor For Nomination

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Post spoke out today for the nomination of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as the Republican candidate for president.

In a front-page editorial by publisher Dorothy Schiff and editor James Wechsler, the independent newspaper conceded that all signs point to the nomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"Yet there must be many responsible, enlightened Republicans praying for the sort of upheaval that nominated Wendell Wilkie in 1940," added the Post. "We have no doubt that large multitudes of unaffiliated voters share their emotions."

Coins Stolen From Museum Soon Recovered

TORONTO (CP)—A valuable collection of coins stolen Tuesday from the Royal Ontario Museum were recovered an hour later from a dealer who had bought them from an unidentified man.

The coins were taken from a display case which was smashed open. Also taken, and still missing, was an old watch.

Southern Rhodesian Negroes Protest Arrest of Leaders

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters) — The government today clamped a three-month ban on processions after police used tear gas to break up demonstrations by Negroes protesting the arrest of their leaders.

Southern Rhodesia's prime minister, Sir Edgar Whitehead, announced the ban as unrest mounted here and in the Northern Rhodesian city of Lusaka.

Police said they fired the tear gas to disperse a crowd stoning automobiles driven by whites on suburban roads. Cars were escorted by police jeeps when the stoning started.

Police earlier blocked 3,000 marching Negroes on their way to protest the arrest of three of their political leaders here Tuesday.

But the Negroes switched tactics by going on strike and courting arrest in a passive resistance campaign.

About 100 policemen armed with clubs and tear gas turned back the long column of marchers as they approached this city before dawn.

The Negroes planned to demonstrate outside the main Salisbury police station and the home of federal Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky against the arrest of three National Democratic party leaders.

An estimated half of the labor force did not turn up for work after dawn. Some members of the National Democratic party—formed Jan. 1 to replace the outlawed African National Congress—went to the police and demanded arrest.

About 100 Negroes in a tobacco factory were prevented from leaving by the arrival of police. About 50 Negroes managed to get through the police cordon. The rest remained inside the factory grounds but refused to work.

The Rhodesian federation was hit by African unrest and violence early in 1959. The federation, which borders the troubled Congo, consists of the British protectorates of Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland and self-governing Southern Rhodesia.

Interviewing .... Task For Experts?

The Peterborough Examiner notes that the BBC, when it interviews a specialist in some field, employs another expert in the same field to do the interviewing. It contrasts this policy with that of the CBC.

"We have often complained in these columns," says the editorial, "that CBC interviewers are poorly equipped to talk to the specialists with whom they are confronted. The reason, we understand, is that interviewing is supposed to be a mysterious art on its own account; anybody who has mastered interviewing can interview anyone, regardless of his subject. This is rubbish."

The point intrigues us, because, like every newspaperman, we have at least a superficial knowledge of the art of interviewing a person. It is obvious, of course, that there are important differences between interviewing a person and then writing a story and interviewing a person for radio or TV. But there are also similarities.

That the interviewer needs some knowledge of the subject being discussed, nobody with even the slightest experience in interviewing will deny. We are not so certain, however, that it is necessary for the interviewer to be an expert on the subject. Those who read the interview in a newspaper, hear it on the radio or watch it on TV are not likely to be experts. Is there not a danger of two experts overlooking the necessity for explaining some point, which may seem crystal clear to them but which would puzzle the layman? Then, too, even if interviewing is not a mysterious art (but merely requires common sense, an ability to organize questions properly and a curious mind) is it not also possible that an expert might not always possess these simple qualifications? In other words, even if an expert makes the best interviewer, surely not all experts are good interviewers. (The Examiner, of course, did not suggest that they were.)

These musings bring up another point—the frequency with which an expert distrusts the inexpert interviewer. How often we have heard specialists in certain fields voice uneasiness about the interpretation which may be placed on their observations by reporters who interview them. Sometimes, no doubt, this is justified—but is it not just barely possible that there are occasions in which an untrained mind brings the fresh breeze of common sense into the atmosphere of orthodoxies outmoded by events? How often have the brightest minds with new ideas and new methods to offer the world found hostility amongst the 'experts but a readiness to learn amongst those who did not know enough to disbelieve and reject.

"A good interview is good talk," says the Examiner. "Nobody talks well to an interviewer who obviously does not understand what is being talked about."

True, but a reasonably intelligent interviewer will understand what is being talked about if the expert talks in simple language. If the subject cannot be dealt with in such language, then the interview, if conducted by experts, would be understood only by experts. Is such an interview suitable for presentation through a mass communication medium, such as TV, radio or newspaper?

None of these queries about the Examiner's preference for experts is intended to deny that the best interviews are those in which both participants are experts, but at the same time are able to keep constantly in mind the limitations in the knowledge of those who read, hear or watch the interview.

But between the interviewer who is no expert and the expert who is no interviewer, we would infinitely prefer the former.

At Long Last

Those who might doubt the efficiency or the value of governmental red tape, triplicate forms and multitudinous paperwork should have their doubts dispelled by a recent triumph of this system. After some 75 years the United States Army has awarded its Indian Campaign Medal to one Jess King. Mr. King served as a scout for the Army in its campaign against Geronimo, an Apache chief. It appears that the records, upon scrutiny, revealed this former oversight.

Mr. King is 110 years old, which must prove something about longevity conquering the paperwork.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A LITTLE-KNOWN BOOK

The Book of Revelation is almost a closed book to the average Christian. This is largely because people fail to read it in the light of the historical situation amid which it arose.

It was written by the Apostle John about the year 90 A.D. and was addressed to churches in Asia Minor which were suffering extreme persecution. Its message to humanity is that the unseen powers at the disposal of men are inestimably more potent than the materialistic powers in which the world at large puts its trust.

Too often the book has been used as an almanac in an attempt to forecast the future. It undoubtedly has much to say about the future, but its chief aim is not to disclose what is going to be, but to encourage and sustain believers amid the challenge of present trials.

Revelation is a book to be read and reread thoroughly in these days of world chaos. It calls upon Christians everywhere to be faithful and never give up their conviction that the hand of God at last decides all issues, and that even though we must suffer for the right, the triumph we experience is worth all it costs.

"Be thou faithful unto death," is the command repeated over and over again. It is counsel not just for the Christians in the first century but for the sincere and earnest believers of today.

India Has 723 Tongues

National Geographic Bulletin

In India, there are 723 ways to ask the time of day but only one way to request a monkey wrench.

The 408,000,000 people in the complex nation speak 179 languages and 544 dialects. Though only 3,500,000 Indians are fluent in English, many more millions understand a "bazaar" patois. English words and technical terms have crept into most of the native tongues: a monkey wrench is a "monkey wrench" from Assam to Bombay.

English is one of 15 major languages recognized for official use. It is the lingua franca of Indian officials and intellectuals, whose speech often has the stately flavor of Macaulay and other 19th century stylists.

• • •

Members of the Indian Parliament usually debate in English, the language most have in common. However, some legislators speak only their provincial tongues, and one representative of an aboriginal tribe could understand no one but himself.

This member's plight recalled instances turned up in an Indian census. There apparently was only one man in India who spoke Andro. The two persons who could converse in Nora and the four who knew Kabui were somewhat better off. These splinter groups lived in the sparsely populated tribal areas of Assam, where linguistic fragmentation still is rife. The great majority of Indians, however, speak at least one of the major languages.

The Indian Constitution establishes Hindi, an Indo-Aryan tongue, as the national language. What is called "Hindi" today actually is Hindustani, a dialect of western Hindi used by the man on the street in much of India. Hindi is spoken by some 140,000,000 persons, thus is the third most popular language in the world after Chinese and English. Hindi is related to Urdu, the official language of Pakistan.

True Hindi developed from Sanskrit, an ancient classical language. Today, according to the last census of India, only 555 people speak Sanskrit. There is however, a movement to purify popular Hindi by throwing out borrowed words and replacing them with Sanskrit. Substitution often proves difficult. When a synonym for an alien word does not exist in Sanskrit, the meaning must be conveyed by a definition. For example, radio becomes "celestial voice."

• • •

The wide gulf between written and spoken forms of many Indian languages causes confusion. The literary form of Bengali is cluttered with Sanskrit words and dead grammatical forms. Bengalis find it difficult to pronounce Sanskrit, so the spoken word often sounds quite different from its spelling.

Tamil, a major south Indian tongue, is burdened with clumsy rules. It is bad rhetoric, for instance, for a writer to repeat any of a dozen Tamil synonyms for heaven until he has used them all.

Language is such a major force in India that boundaries are drawn along linguistic lines. The large bilingual state of Bombay recently was divided into Gujerat and Maharashtra to give its two major language groups their own states.

Censor Bitten By Own Dog

Kingston Whig Standard

A censor has just been nipped where it hurts most. Mr. Robert B. Porter is the chief librarian at Peterborough. He made the fundamental mistake of becoming a member of the four-man Ontario "panel" recently set up by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, to pass on indecent literature.

Along with most non-thinkers on the subject Mr. Porter let himself be deluded by the supposed terms of reference of the new amendment to the Criminal Code dealing with obscenity. When the Montreal judge recently ruled that Lady Chatterly's Lover was obscene under the amendment — refusing as "inadmissible" any reference to the work of art or to literary value — he set the stage for what will inevitably happen. Mr. Davie Fulton, who thought he knew better than the generations of lawmakers who have made a mess of obscenity rulings, didn't think anything like this would happen. Neither, evidently, did librarian Robert B. Porter who has expressed public dismay over the fact that he expected to have to deal only with some sleazy news stand products.

Well it did happen and this is precisely what we have so often predicted would come about when advocating that the best censorship is no censorship at all. There is no way of closing the door on those who would rob us of the right to make our own intellectual decisions once that door is opened to any kind of censorship.

A librarian, of all people, should be on the side of absolute freedom. It is impossible to reach any agreement with those who do not almost instinctively feel this way. They are basically irrational and illiberal and it is to be hoped that this will teach Mr. Porter and those like him a lesson. We need him too much to lose him to the other side.

Few Girdles In Honolulu

Milwaukee Sunday Journal

The women in Honolulu simply do not wear girdles. Not many of them, anyway.

The Milwaukee Journal type of survey, called Consumer Analysis, of 21 American cities shows Honolulu at the bottom — pardon us, to have the . . . well, let's drop it.

Only 36.5 per cent of Honolulu women bought girdles, according to the 1960 survey. Playtex, Warner and Gossard led, but little did they sell. In Milwaukee a good 82 per cent of the women wear girdles — which is near the top (only three higher) — despite the local consumption of beer and strudel.

Actually it does not take a Consumer Analysis survey to discover that Hawaiians are ungirdled. Many waddle down the street. They wear the long, ugly nightgownish muumuu, descended from missionaries' efforts to clothe the natives' nakedness. And when you go around a corner the driver of your car oozes 12 inches into your lap, especially if she is of Polynesian background. No wonder Honolulu is at the bottom of the girdle list. They don't make them big enough.

Strictly Personal

Sydney Thinks People Have 2 Personalities

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the wisest and shrewdest men of our time, Jose Ortega Gasset, the Spanish philosopher, said something to me at Aspen a few summers ago which I have never forgotten.

When kind and charming ladies at that resort recognized him and approached him and asked, "Are you Senor Ortega?" said he was moved with the desire to reply: "Madam, I am he only in a vague way — because I feel so much that I am only a remote approximation of him whom I should be, of him whom I have to be."

What is this puzzling and paradoxical answer to a straight question? He meant that each of us has a double personality, not in the dramatic Jekyll-and-Hyde sense, but in a deep authentic sense. The Ortega known to the public, through his writings and social behavior, is not necessarily the Ortega he feels within himself, or knows he should become.

There is another self, the true personality, which lives beneath the social self, behind the face and mannerisms and occupation and life-situation. And, most often, the profiles of these two selves do not coincide.

What distinguishes genuine human beings from those who have already become monsters is this — that human beings know they are not living as they really should, morally and spiritually, no matter how much success or esteem they achieve in the eyes of the world.

The monsters have given up the struggle to conquer themselves and have reshaped their private identities to fit their public visage. The monsters define themselves by their occupations, their status, their reputations — and have sacrificed their total inner life in order to present a bland and impressive countenance to the world.

What constitutes a philosopher, like Ortega, is that he knows how far he falls short of his public profile. He knows what an authentic man should be, in his thoughts, his actions, and his ideals. And he never fools himself that the figure on the platform, receiving the honorable award, is the same as the naked personality in the silence of his soul.

Each man has to win a victory over himself — which is another way of saying that each man has to lose his life in order to find it. For only when we shed the snake-like skin of our social selves are we reborn as creatures of freedom and integrity. This achievement is a task for saints, but even the knowledge alone prevents us from becoming monsters.

Many Neglect Aged Parents

Windsor Star

Too many parents in Canada are neglected by their children. Sons and daughters who can afford to give personal care or pay for attention for their fathers and mothers do not give the assistance they should.

Sometimes when older people are in hospital and they can go home, days go by before any of the children come to take the parents. The older folk are there and unable to move because they have no place to go and no one to care.

In all the social service work done for people, some emphasis should be put on the duty of children to their parents. It is a cruel state of mind that allows sons and daughters to brush aside the fathers and mothers who brought them up.

It is surprising how many children are willing to forget their responsibility to their parents. They should be ashamed but they are not.

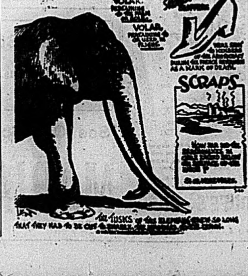
SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT



To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

PROBENECID USEFUL IN TREATING GOUT

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have frequent attacks of gout. I take six tablets of colchicine, plus bathing in epsom salts. Is there any new medicine that will give relief from pain in shorter time? — S. S."

In view of the number of inquiries I have had about gout, I would like to discuss this letter — trusting that several other readers will recognize that this column is also directed at them

Gout is a disease that has been known for many hundreds of years. It goes back at least to the days of Rome's grandeur and I presume that it was known before that.

Colchicine has been in use for a long long time. Only in very recent years has other effective medication become known. This has not meant that colchicine is ready to be abandoned. It is still a good medicine.

Gout, while it is classically connected with repeated periods of pain in the big toe also can, less frequently, attack other joints in the body. The familiar picture, as I've said before, is of a testy retired British colonel, with his bandaged foot on a hassock, raising hob because somebody gently bumped the sore toe. Gout is that sort of disease It can be, in its worst case, the cause of terribly extreme sensitivity while an attack is in progress.

But you don't have to be a retired British colonel to have the disease. I know business men, photographers public relations men and others in active professions who have this trouble. Women have gout, too.

The attacks come and go. And, frankly, the most important issue is not to try to find something that will "give relief in a shorter time," but to find something that will prevent future attacks or, at any rate, make them milder and keep them farther apart.

There are other preparations besides colchicine which have proved to be useful. The one which comes most readily to mind is probenecid (which is marketed, like most other drugs under a trade name). I habitually avoid using trade or commercial names in this column, but the generic term, probenecid, will be perfectly familiar to your doctor.

Anyway, the important point is this. With gout, discuss the problem with your doctor Let him prescribe the precise drug that will help you — or perhaps he will find that you get the best results with more than one. This is not a disease in which you look for a "cure." You look for prevention and amelioration of attacks. I know of patients who, by following orders faithfully, have gone for years without an attack.

Fussy diet used to be considered very important. However, this opinion has changed somewhat. But this does not mean that you can safely decide that you can ignore diet altogether and just eat to excess of rich foods

I am thoroughly convinced that sensible diet and suitable drug treatment will do worlds of good in keeping gout down to a point at which it doesn't make life utterly miserable. Maybe the important advice is to keep on observing the rules of prevention. If you decide that you are "cured," and stop taking the simple precautions you're pretty sure to be in for an unpleasant surprise.

This is a temporary discomfort which bothers a few people, but does not affect most of us. Unless unusual susceptibility to some of the vaccines is present (and I am sure your doctor would soon notice that) I think aspirin or some of the similar compounds will be all that is needed.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"GOOD EVENING — FRIENDS"

There used to be a most interesting feature on TV, managed by Major Bowes. They called it an Amateur Hour. Many a now famous person got his or her first start to fame on this program. I thought of this inspiring hour as I went to my Library for the evening (now it's "Good evening, Books"), for a book is a personality that can influence and bless millions!

Books travel, too — to the ends of the world, and keep influencing people all the way. In silence a book talks to us, and we feel its comfort and blessing the moment we take it into our hands. The feel of a book may be the feel of thousands of lovers of books, for it cheers and warms hearts endlessly.

You can enter the area of a book and make it yours. It is a matter of choice. If you are lonely, tired, or confused, meet an inspiring book, and immediately you have a friend. And that friend will never desert you. It can introduce you to scores of other book friends. That's how simple the path to a great book can be.

For as long as you live a great book can add to your sense of beauty and it can talk intimately to you, no matter where you may be. So it is now, as I enter my library the greeting is: "Good Evening — Friends."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

To hear this ducktail music that now fills hours of every day on the air, you had to go far back from the railroad in the days before the advent of radio. Even in the burlesque houses in the slummier regions of big cities, let alone in the more refined vaudeville theatres, such howling and yowling, such kindergarten children's rhythm band thumping and banging as passes today for "pop" music would have been shouted off the boards. I am quite sure the audience of preradio days would have instantly assumed that singers and musicians offering such noises as music were what we used to call simpletons, or which nowadays are more politely referred to as the retarded.

Yet there is another way of looking at the phenomenon of pop music. It may actually be what the majority prefers. It took radio to demonstrate what the public wants. Prior to radio, music was largely in the hands of an elite. To hear music, you had to go to concert halls and conservatories accommodating a very small proportion of the populace. Church music and band music in parks and a few polite dance bands made up the sources of music available to those who wanted it.

But now that music is in the kitchen of every home, musical taste has been broadened. Or flattened? Copyright: Canada Wide

Two Teen-Agers Rescued After Boat Overturns

Two young teen-agers, Teddy Ronsky, Belleville and Larry Potter, Rossmore, were rescued from their overturned motor boat in the Bay of Quinte Tuesday afternoon.

Belleville firemen rescued the boys and towed their overturned craft ashore.

Large Number Take First Look At Go-Karts

The past weekend saw a large number of people in attendance at the Shannonville Speedway Parkland to have a first hand look at go-karts. A good number of persons also tried out the small two and a half horsepower karts over the only regulation approved paved Go - Kart miniature road course in this district.

Open on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays the Parkland is still open at no charge, to the members of the public who wish to see just what go-karting is. The paved course has been laid out with a long front straight and a curved back stretch with a double - S bend in it and is identical to the many courses which are finding great popularity in the United States.

Those wishing to try their hand at karting may still do so at the special introductory prices for the remainder of this week and next Sunday. For those who wish only to watch there is pleasant parkland with lots of picnicking and parking area for their convenience.

Youngsters Land Largemouth Bass

David Hopkins of North Bay, visiting with his grandmother, Mrs. Kellett of 50 Montgomery Bl., and a young friend, Donald Hedger of 22 College St., are mighty proud of a largemouth bass hooked in the Bay of Quinte on Tuesday.

Hopkins, an ardent fisherman at 13, landed the bass with a worm while fishing from shore.

The bass measured 18½ inches in length with a 14¼ girth. There were no suitable scales at the Kellett household but Mrs. Kellett estimated the fish to weigh between four and five pounds, a mighty nice catch under any circumstances.

HIGHER PENSIONS

by the government as want - of-confidence motions.

Although the CCF amendment was specific in pegging a proposed pension at $75 a month, the Liberal sub-amendment covered more ground in different terms.

It would introduce legislation "to extend old age assistance to unmarried women and widows at 60 years of age; for the vesting of benefits in industrial pension plans; and for a national contributory pension scheme, co - ordinated with existing provisions for retirement and old age security, based on federal government contributions, as well as on contributions of employees, employers and self-employed."

Mr. Monteith said he understood the Liberals would vote against the CCF amendment, while the socialists would vote against the Liberal sub - amendment.

"To me, that indicates they are simply vying with each other in playing upon the sympathies of those elderly people who, through no fault of their own, find themselves in difficult situations."

HIGH COSTS

Opposition Leader Pearson's proposal for higher old age pensions in co - operation with the provinces was "simply a desire to load the provinces with further responsibility," Mr. Monteith said. Entire cost of the $55-a-month payment now is borne by Ottawa.

The federal government is spending $590,000,000 in the 1960-61 fiscal year for old age security — the $55 a month—and $31,000,000 for old age assistance, in which the cost of a $55 - a-month payment subject to a means test is paid to those between 65 and 69 with the costs split between the provinces and Ottawa.

The proposal to increase the old age pension to $75 a month would cost at least an extra $225,000,000, Mr. Monteith said.

He suggested this would mean that taxes now earmarked for the Old Age Security Fund would have to be raised to four per cent from the present three per cent of corporate and personal income taxes and the sales tax.

SHOULD COMPARE

He commented:

"Surely it would be unwise to make such a move prior to a careful consideration being given to the role of the flat rate benefit in relation to a graded benefit. This is particularly so with a proposal involving such very large expenditures."

Mr. Monteith outlined this difference between Canada's flat payment and a "graded" payment:

Basically, the flat payment is weighted — through the money being raised in taxes — in favor of lower income groups at the expense of higher income groups. It is a floor payment, made on the principle that "everyone should have bread before anyone has cake."

A graduated system of benefits, however, is not based so much on subsistence as on the idea that income after retirement should "bear some relation to income during active working years." In other words, the more a man earned in harness the more he would get in retirement.

Harmsworth Trophy Details Outlined to Kiwanis Club

The odds appear to be in favor of United States boats regaining the Harmsworth Trophy at Picton next month.

Commodore R. W. Hart of the Prince Edward Yacht Club, yesterday told Belleville Kiwanians that the first country to win two races wins the trophy irrespective of which two boats score the victories. Canada, the defending country, has entered one contestant — Miss Supertest III—which is expected to arrive at Picton July 25, for trial runs before the races August 19-22. The United States, which until last year held the trophy for 38 years, has entered three boats.

"We will be witnessing a single Canadian defender — competing against three U.S. challengers of exceptional power and stamina," he said. "If additional interest were needed, we have it in the form of this 3-to-1 odds which will present, in the minds of many, an intriguing field for conjecture as to the tactics and manoeuvres when we realize that the contest is between countries, not boats . . ."

Commodore Hart, a lieutenant-commander in the RCN during the Second World War and now a Picton hardware merchant, said the four boats will participate in a 45-mile race — nine times around a five-mile course with straightaway stretches of two miles and quarter-mile turns.

MANY RACING THRILLS

"The four-boat entry gives promise of producing racing thrills of unparalleled grandeur. These monsters of power (Supertest has a 2,000 horsepower engine) hit the starting line all-out timed to the nearest fraction of a second for the skirmishing at the starting signal."

He said the course is "exceptionally adequate" in providing maximum room for jockeying and strategic positioning for the start. The start is a peak moment of suspense and thrills for the spectators and, in some cases, even out-shines the finish.

"Two days of racing are assured," he added, "and it is most likely that a third race will be required."

There is no second place, only a winner. This is the last year countries will be allowed to enter more than one boat in the unlimited class championship race.

Races are scheduled to start at 5 p.m. daily. General admission is $1, children free. The 24-member Harmsworth Trophy committee has set aside a 45-acre reserved parking lot in the viewing area. Reserved tickets are $5 which admit car and driver for all three races without further charge. Other occupants of the car pay the general admission upon entering each day.

Commodore Hart cautioned against buying anything but official Prince Edward Harmsworth Regatta tickets, because "there are outsiders selling their own tickets for viewing in less desirable spots, who are attempting to exploit the presence of this event in our county. They contribute nothing to the cost and represent the type of individual without scruples in this otherwise wholehearted community effort."

Mayor Harvey McFarland of Picton, who, with Mayor A. McLean Haig of Belleville, and a number of visiting Quebec students, attended the Kiwanis meeting, said the roads between Wellington and Bloomfield, Belleville and Mountain View should be paved before August 19.

Women's Activities

SPRINGBROOK W.A.

On Thursday afternoon the W.A. of Springbrook United Church met in the church auditorium with 27 members and four visitors in attendance. The theme of the meeting, directed by Mrs. Clinton Robbins, was "Children of Light."

The Scripture reading was taken by Mrs. Percy Bateman, from Ephesians, and the "Lesson Thoughts" by Mrs. Arthur Reid with prayer for the missionary by Mrs. Ralph Wellman.

The president, Mrs. Gordon Webb, presided over the business portion of the meeting in which the various reports were given showing that the financial returns from the pot-luck supper and catering to the Cheesemakers' meeting, were most gratifying. Highlights of the district annual were also received, and the decision to pack and send a bale of clothing to Overseas relief, was made.

An interesting paper on "The Shepherd and the 23rd Psalm" was given by Mrs. George Williams, followed by readings which were also interesting. A musical contest was enjoyed, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Percy Bateman and Mrs. Arthur Reid.

Perfumes Still Top List of French Exports

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Blending rare perfumes has been a time-honored art in France through the ages and today it still tops the list of luxury export items alongside the famous French wines.

As early as the year 1900, Philippe Auguste had grouped the first chemists in France into a society known as the Corporation of French Perfumers.

A fundamental knowledge of perfume is an acquired art, comparable to learning to analyze high fashion and select the styles best suited to the individual.

In selecting a perfume, the old adage that "what is one man's meat is another man's poison" holds true. A fragrance which is subtly provocative on one woman may be actually unpleasant to her twin sister because of chemical reaction on the individual skin.

Jean-Jacques Guerlain, owner and director of the perfume firm which bears his name, states that each year women are becoming more knowledgeable about the subtleties and reactions of perfume.

BLEND IMPORTANT

Guerlain believes that all great contemporary scents are blended with some natural floral essence, as opposed to the purely synthetic compositions contrived of chemical blends.

A survey taken in leading retail shops in Paris reveals that Frenchwomen are divided into two schools of thought concerning the buying and wearing of perfume. Some women believe implicity in one, and only one, special fragrance which seems ideally suited to their personalities. Others are in favor of a veritable "perfume wardrobe," with numerous changes for the hour of the day, the occasion, the mood, and the season.

Each perfume certainly has its own personality. Romantic clothes call for light and poetic floral essences. Sportswear demands something crisp and spicy with an undertone hinting of field or forest. Sophisticated formal clothes and furs are the perfect backdrop for heady, exotic scents like Jean Patou's Joy.

Statistically it is known that blondes prefer the fresh, crisp, flower scents, while brunettes tend to buy the sensuous, Oriental and headier fragrances.

FAMED NOVELIST

Wedding

KELLY — LITTLE

Baskets of white chrysanthemums, pink gladioli, snapdragons interspered with fern formed a lovely setting in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 9th at 2.30 p.m. for a very pretty wedding when Marilyn Anne Little, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Little, of Belleville, became the bride of Harold Stanley Kelly of Foxboro, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly. The Rev. Everett Smith, assistant rector of the church, officiated.

The wedding music was provided by the guest organist, Mr. Donald Davenport of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, who accompanied the boys' choir in their rendition of "O Perfect Love," during the service and the "67th Psalm" and the "Wedding Prayer during the signing of the register

Given in marriage by her father the bride was radiant in her full-length bridal gown of Chantilly lace and organza over taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice having a scalloped Sabrina neckline accented with seed pearls and opalescent sequins, long, "V"-pointed sleeves over the wrists. The bouffant skirt billowed out over a hooped crinoline to a circular hemline. She wore a silk tulle illusion veil in waist length and crown type headdress studded with seed pearls and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Marion Harris sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor gowned in blue silk organza in street length with matching headdress and white accessories, and carrying a nosegay of pink roses surrounded by baby 'mums set in lace and tied with pink streamers.

Miss Helen Kelly, sister of the bridegroom as bridesmaid, was attired in mauve silk organza fashioned in style similar to that of the matron of honor. Miss Barbara Milligan, as the junior bridesmaid, was in yellow silk organza, featuring similar lines. They wore matching headdresses and carried nosegays of pink roses and yellow 'mums tied with mauve streamers

Mr. Wayne Shaw, of Ivanhoe, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Donald Harris of Halloway, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Donald Little, of Belleville, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the parish hall, where the bride's mother received, gowned in beige silk organza with matching duster and accessories, with corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in a beige and blue terrylene gown with white accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake surrounded by white tulle and tiny pink 'mums. Bud vases of pom-pom 'mums in pink and white, and tall pink and white candles completed the nuptial setting.

For the wedding trip to the United States and Niagara Falls the bride chose a pale blue silk organza dress with matching shoes and white accessories, and corsage of feathered pink carnations.

Guests were present from Windsor, Hamilton; Galt; Toronto; Brockville; Foxboro; Stirling; Ivanhoe; Roslin and Halloway.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was entertained at showers given by Mrs. Wes. Elliott, Mrs. Harry Woodbeck and Mrs. E. Kilfedder; by the girls of the office staff of Corby Distillery; at a presentation for the bride and bridegroom by the Young Peoples of Foxboro; at a presentation to the bride by the office staff of the Harry Corby Distillery

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a five piece dresser set; and the bride's gift to her bridegroom, luggage.

Before leaving on her honeymoon, the bride presented her bridal bouquet to her great-grandmother.

Mr and Mrs. Kelly will reside at Foxboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stanley Kelly are shown signing the register in Christ Church, Belleville, following their marriage. The Experts Say

Belleville-Born Stylist Authority on Lingerie

TORONTO (CP) — Verna Comings, stylist for a girdle and bra company, estimates that half the women she deals with are wearing ill-fitted, uncomfortable lingerie though their outer clothing may fit perfectly.

And she puts the blame largely on the sales people, not the customer.

"If a customer is shy to ask for advice it's because the salesgirl makes her feel that way."

A native of Belleville, Ont., Miss Comings started in the business as a department store salesgirl in Saskatoon in 1925. Later she was a buyer in Regina, then left for the United States where she ran schools for merchandising and sales help.

She returned to Canada as a buyer for a chain of Ontario stores and has held her present job with Peter Pan Foundations (Que.) Inc. for the last 10 years.

LINGERIE HISTORY

When she began selling lingerie the nipped - in waist was the fashion.

"The garments gave you a nipped-in waist all right, but they made you look hippy and busty."

This was followed by the flat look which made everyone look like a block.

"In those days everything was pink. It wasn't until later that we got white."

Advertisements used to describe the pink as flesh color, tea rose, nude or peach. Underclothing now comes in black and many pastel shades as well as white.

A Second World War shortage was responsible for introduction of the French bra. Because elastic was hard to obtain, the French model which laced up the back became popular. These are museum pieces now, Miss Comings said.

"All the control was from the straps and women's shoulders were ridged from the weight."

She says a properly fitted bra is controlled under the bustline and through the back. The back fastening should fit below the shoulder blades.

"No well - dressed woman is ever without a garment, even with shorts or slacks," she insists. There is even a knee-length girdle which has been designed for slims. Miss Comings says women need the moulding that a girdle gives.

"A girdle should be long enough to sit in," she says, adding that many women who complained that their girdles rode up bought a shorter model when they really needed a longer one.

Although it depends on the individual, most girls should begin wearing a bra at 11, she says.

The natural rounded bustline with a well - controlled waistline is the fashion and that's why basques are so popular now, Miss Comings says. In keeping with the feminine look in fashions, many designs are made in lace.

Name Women's Golf Teams

KITCHENER (CP) — Ontario women's senior and junior teams to play in inter-provincial golf matches at Saint John, N.B., were announced Tuesday.

Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Lambton, who accumulated 37 points in seven test matches by winning the Westmount field day here Tuesday, was the leading candidate for the senior team, but decided not to make the trip.

She was replaced by Roma Neundorf of Toronto Ladies, who totalled 23 points.

Other senior members are Gail Harvey of Scarborough 27 points, and Kay Heileur of Woodbridge with 26. Shirley Woodley of Toronto was an automatic selection by reason of her victory last week in the Ontario Ladies' Open at Peterborough.

Junior players are Joan Riddell of Weston and Suzanne Hilton of London Hunt Club.

PICNIC ETIQUETTE

The suggestion "let's have a picnic" is one that is often heard during these hot summer days. Picnics can be fun! They can also send you home vowing fervently "Never again." Perhaps the reason so many outdoor expeditions fail is because we forget that good picnic etiquette is almost as vital as a full lunch basket.

Outdoor courtesy begins with the host and hostess. Perhaps they are giving the picnic themselves, or they may be the leaders of a Dutch Treat group. Whichever the case, they should start by choosing in advance the place where the picnic is to be held. Starting out with no definite spot in mind may result in an endless search for a picnic site. Above all, don't just take a sudden fancy to any nice farm that you pass and settle down under the trees. Aside from the laws of trespass, it isn't very courteous to barge in on another's property.

Without food, there would be no picnic. Therefore, careful thought should be given to see that the food is not only good, but also appropriate. If a fairly large group is going, definite plans should be made to bring a variety of foods. Five packages of ham sandwiches and nothing else will add little to the festivities.

Of course a lot depends upon whether you are taking ready-to-eat food, or whether you plan to build a fire for hot dogs or hamburgers. In either case, be sure to refrigerate food that might spoil on a long trip. The idea that any food that's cooked will keep, has put hundreds of disillusioned picnickers to bed with food poisoning.

Before starting out, be sure to check that youhave everything. Arriving at a picnic site 20 miles in the country and discovering that salt, salad dressing, or matches for the fire have been left behind can ruin the party.

Avoid a messy picnic. Take everything you possibly can in containers that can be burned and use only paper plates, cups, etc. Remember, too, that it's not only good manners, but also good sense, to clean up thoroughly when the fun is over and you are ready to leave.

Turn down that invitation to a picnic if you can't enter wholeheartedly into the planning and do your part of the work. If you can't stand insects, sand in your sandwiches, cold hot coffee, or hot iced tea, don't be a spoil sport and put a damper on the party by your complaints. Staying home in the first place is certainly the kindest and most gracious thing to do.

The secret of a successful picnic is to gather together a congenial group who will join in the fun of "roughing it" and at the same time show consideration for others present.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: I am a widow and the mother of two children. This question always comes up — am I Mrs. Mary Jones or Mrs. John Jones?

Answer: There always seems to be confusion about this. A widow uses her name exactly as she did when her husband was alive. "Mrs. John Jones" is always correct.

Question: What do you do if your married son has a habit of showing up every Sunday afternoon, accompanied by his wife and four children, expecting you to give up everything else for the rest of the day just to feed them? He shows no consideration of me at all. I don't want to hurt feelings.

Answer: I wouldn't worry about "hurt feelings" in this case! Be frank with this selfish son of yours. You have a right to your own life now, and he is being most inconsiderate. Ask him to call a day ahead of time, to see if it is convenient for them to come. If not, say so. If this does not work, try being out when they arrive. This ought to do it!

Make a Summer Fruit Pie

By Mary Moore

The voice of doom is sounding all over the cherry growing area in Ontario. The rains came and knocked the blossoms off. What blossoms were left on were not pollenated because the bees don't like going out in the rain.

So there's no point in dwelling on the subject. I have had exactly 3 medium-sized sweet cherries from a pint box that cost 35c. I guess I'll survive until next summer.

On Monday of this week I gave you a recipe for Cherry Cobbler which calls for fresh sour or frozen cherries.

To keep this offering logical I am going to give you a general recipe for fresh fruit pies including cherry, raspberry, blueberry and Saskatoons. You will be able to buy (or pick) one of these fruits almost anywhere in Canada.

FRESH FRUIT PIE:

Sour Cherry: One quart washed and stemmed sour cherries (3 3-4 cups when pitted), 3-4 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca or 3 talbespoon flour, 1-2 teaspoon almond flavoring.

Saskatoon Berries: Three cups washed and dried Saskatoons, 1 or 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 7-8 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca or 3 tablespoons flour.

Raspberry: Three cups (1 1-2 pints) raspberries, 3-4 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca or 3 tablespoons flour.

Blueberry: About 1 quart washed and dried blueberries, 1-2 to 3-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons flour or 1 1-2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca.

Method: If flour is used mix together 1 tablespoon flour and 2 tablespoons of the required sugar and sprinkle this mixture over bottom crust which lines pie plate. Mix together all remaining ingredients. If tapioca is used mix together all pie filling ingredients and allow to stand while you make the Pastry: Two and one-quarter cups sifted pastry flour, 3-4 cup cold shortening, 3-4 teaspoon salt and about 1-4 cup ice cold water. Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening with 2 knives or pastry blender until mixture is as fine as coarse meal. Sprinkle a small amount of water over. Run a fork along bottom of bowl and bring it up with a tossing motion through the mixture. Each time more water is added try to put it on undampened flour. Press damp flour parform. Work quickly. Press lumps together. Divide into 2 balls. Use very little flour on board. Roll out 1 ball to fit 9" pie plate. Pour in prepared filling (or if flour is used sprinkle with small amount flour parform particles gently to see if they cling together. Remove lumps from bowl as they form. Work quickly. Press lumps together. Divide into 2 balls Use very little flour and sugar mixture — see above) then pour in filling. Seal on gashed top crust. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes then lower temperature to 350 deg. and bake about 20 minutes longer or until fruit is tender.

It is a long time since we have gone to the scrapbook which was found in a shed on Boswell Street and very kindly given to us to use. After a jaunt with the Historical Society last week, we opened the scrapbook in search of a story of early settlers. The following is a clipping from an old newspaper but without name or date. It is headed "Reminiscences of the Early Settlement of the Old Bay of Quinte District" and subtitled 'An Unnecessary Alarm".

"Writers on both sides of the revolutionary struggle have painted their opponents in anything but pleasing colors. Some of the crimes charged are exceedingly fiendish worthy of the vindictive conceit of savages. The American historians, with the single exception of Larenzo Sabine, heaped up monuments of enormities to disgrace the old Tory party, especially certain well-known regiments in the loyal army. The regiment particularly honored in this respect was the celebrated "Butler's Rangers," who, if half what has been imputed to them was true, were indeed desperate characters. On the other hand, our forefathers related hideous tales of wanton cruelty perpetrated by the rebel forces upon defenceless women and children. Such reports gained credence among the first settlers of the Bay of Quinte, and were transmitted to their descendants with intensified meaning.

"Probably not half the reports thus circulated were true, but so strong a hold did they have upon the public mind that when the war of 1812 began, a widespread alarm was manifested throughout the Bay settlement. The want of a sufficient force to guard the extensive coast, which almost everywhere admits of landing, it was feared would expose the settlers to predatory visits from the enemy.

"They believed that the American soldiers of 1812 were representatives of those their fathers encountered in the Revolutionary struggle and that having old scores to settle, they would not fail to embrace the chance offered by the renewal of hostilities.

"Our information concerning this feeling refers chiefly to those inhabiting that part of Prince Edward County known as Indian Point, in the township of Marysburg. Whether from their greater exposure, or a want of faith in the Yankee, we cannot say, but an apprehension of danger prevailed to an alarming extent, which considerably interfered with domestic concerns, and kept them in a fever of excitement for a long time. Houses and movable property were constantly guarded, for fear of a sudden descent upon them by the dreaded foe. Their slumbers were disturbed by visions of plunder and rapine, and every uncertain sound aroused them to an expectation of something horrible awaiting them.

"In the summer of 1813, just before harvest time, a rumor was circulated that two sails belonging to the enemy were then in the vicinity, and in fact they were ocasionally seen from the shore. This intelligence was sufficient to put the whole neighborhood in a furore of excitement; the women moaned piteously and became hysterical with fear; the children wept to keep them company, while the lords of creation made desperate efforts to vindicate their manhood by hasty preparations for flight and protection. Valuables were buried; what could not be removed was secreted as best they could; and then, gathering up provisions, clothing and bedding, many families sought refuge in the midst of fields of wheat where they remained concealed for several days. In the meantime they expected the humble abodes they had deserted were being pillaged, and mayhap burned by piratical Yankees. Subsequent events proved the futility of all this apprehension of evil.

"The Americans did visit the settlement but not for hostile purposes. They were in quest of provisions and other necessaries required on board, and when the deserted buildings were found without any evidence of occupation they were curious to know the cause. At first they were inclined to impute the general desolation to some tyrannical order of the Government, but ultimately learned the real influence.

Some of the less timid of the settlers having ventured forth from their hiding places, messengers were dispatched to assure the rest of the friendly intentions of their visitors. In this manner the natural order of things was restored; and the hereditary vindictiveness of the Yankees became an obsolete doctrine, no longer worthy the attention of those who had so satisfactorily discovered its falsity. Frequent visits were paid to them afterwards by parties from the enemy's vessels, as well as from their own, and their surplus produce consisting of beef, mutton, veal, butter, eggs etc., was bought up at prices far in advance of the market value, while a plentiful supply of the genuine specie gladdened the hearts of the honest yeomanry. In one instance, we are told, a Yankee foraging party actually bought a large black bear which had been captured by the farmers, paying a handsome price for bruin's carcass. After getting the monster on board they dressed him a la porcus, and fastened the head upon the top of the foremast, where it remained as a trophy of the event.

"Evidence is borne to the systematic courtesy with which the American sailors conducted all their trafficking intercourse, no instance of rudeness or hostility being known. The opportunity to dispose of so much domestic produce, and at such a highly remunerative figure was greatly appreciated by the farmers who, at that time, were not very well situated, as regards marketing privileges.

"When the war closed they lost excellent customers, and good-humoredly referred to the erroneous impression that prevailed at the beginning."

CHEERFUL TEACHER

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Miss Marion Black, a teacher here for 43 years, at a testimonial dinner in her honor described the experience as "short and pleasant." She said a sense of humor is the chief requisite for a teacher.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Tom S. — I'm sick of her nagging.

Beverly S. — I only want people to respect him.

• • •

Tom S. — My wife and I have been married 25 years and have four fine children. We have had a happy married life, but recently we have had arguments over one particular thing.

We have been doing a lot of socializing in the past year and Beverly has taken to criticizing me on every step. She says I clown too much or I bore people with my stories and jokes. I enjoy telling a good story and I notice that everyone but Beverly laughs.

I like to liven things up and I see no harm in that. Sometimes a story may be a little off-color, but I never tell one that hasn't some real humor in it. I'm sick of being nagged every time we come home from a party.

• • •

Beverly S. — Tom just doesn't know when people are laughing at him, not with him, and I can't get him to see the difference.

The reason we have been socializing in the past year is that Tom has been raised to an executive position in his firm. This has brought us into contact with a different group of people. This crowd is sophisticated and most of them are well educated. None of the other men acts the way Tom does.

Tom should realize that I criticize him for his own good. I want people to respect him. He wants to be the life of the party. I think some of these people encourage him because they want him to make a fool of himself. The others listen because they are polite.

• • •

The Council: Tom and Beverly apparently are both a little insecure in their new social environment and Beverly's criticism is doing neither of them much good.

If Tom has the ability to rise to an executive position in his firm, the chances are that his judgment is fairly good and that he knows how to get along with people. If he goes too far in his attempts to be the life of the party, it may be out of uneasiness.

If this is true, Beverly's sharp criticism could undermine his confidence further and lead to more of the behavior she finds so objectionable.

However, it en entirely possible that the "sophisticated" and well-educated people who have Beverly on her mettle find Tom a lot of fun and genuinely enjoy his humor. In a large crowd, the individuals who don't particularly enjoy him can always steer clear.

Beverly can best help the situation by developing her own social abilities. Instead of watching her husband to see if he is making a fool of himself at parties, she should develop the habit of creating the kind of conversation she would like with the individuals she prefers. She can win the respect and friendship of desirable couples on her own. When she feels more secure she will worry less about her husband's behavior.

Tom may develop more social refinement through repeated pleasant contacts with his new crowd. Nagging at home will only cast a shadow on the future contacts.

Fall Clothes Are Worth Blinking At

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly every New York designer's collection shown the fashion press this week has sparkled with blinding brilliance.

What makes it an occupational hazard worth the risk is that the fall clothes are worth blinking at. Ingenuity, good taste and glitter seem to have been layished in equal proportions.

Ceil Chapman is a case in point. Her dresses at Tuesday afternoon's showing were all that women have come to expect from her. Her afternoon and evening clothes made use of the lowered waistline, yokes, floating back panels, hipbands for an easy, lowered, elegantly feminine look.

Her Phantom silhouette reached its height in a black evening dress of wide flaring tiers of shadow lace. And her colors, in tropical orchid shades from greenish brown to crimson, were exotically adaptable.

Octogenarian Honored by Relatives

RYLSTONE — On July 10th, about 30 relatives of Mrs. Lily Anderson, met at the summer cottage of her niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holland, at Belmont Lake, to honor her on her 80th birthday which falls on July 14th.

A picnic dinner was served at noon and Mrs. Anderson was presented with a rose corsage and many useful and beautiful gifts, among which was a platform rocker from her family and her sister's family.

Those in attendance were: her four sons, Eldon at home, Lane, Peterborough; Clarence and his wife, Peterborough; Raymond and his wife, Welland and their son, Ronnie, Mrs. Anderson's only grandson; Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart (sister); Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stewart, Glen and Marilyn; Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson and Susan, Peterborough; Mrs. Florence McKeown, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Solmes, Springbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McKeown, Diane and Lisle; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKeown, Paul and Agnes and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rosebush, Havelock.

Fashion Designers Demonstrate They Still Have Minds of Own

NEW YORK (AP)—Fashion designers still have minds of their own.

This became apparent Monday in showings of fall clothes by the New York Couture Group for 230 visiting fashion editors.

With the soft, liquid, languid and low-waisted ensemble a shoo-in for dominant silhouette, along came Jane Derby with determinedly controlled oval skirts, Oleg Cassini with figure-hugging sheaths, and the Marquis collection with an almost exclusive preoccupation with leather and fur.

Mrs. Derby called her outline of rounded, tapered skirt below a narrow bodice "the ninepin silhouette." She made wide use of the double skirt, flaring either as a tunic over a slim slip or set over a slightly narrower slip for a tiered effect. Other skirts were completely round and imaginatively draped.

Other Derby winners were a pink satin damask evening coat over a satin sheath in the dark purple of eggplant, and beaded, brocaded tunic dresses that ended nine inches above the floor.

In the Marquis collection, designed by Philippe Tournaye, the animal kingdom was given top billing.

A coat of Australian opossum had a basque green lining to match its dress. A three-quarter Burgundy greatcoat was lined with Norwegian fox to keep warm the matching nubby wool crepe dress under it. A full-length antelope suede coat was trimmed with fisher. There were white mink ascots, and trimmings and stoles of sable, chinchilla and nutria lavished on coats, suits and costumes.

The offerings of Igor Cassini hadn't a single sequin or pearl, fur or embroidery.

"I still believe in a thing called 'line'," he said, and demonstrated what he meant with a series of close-fitting sheaths and exquisitely mannered little black dresses.

President of CCL Requests Provincial Consultation on Phases of Bill of Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Congress of Labor said Tuesday that provincial governments should be consulted to determine whether they would agree to enshrining fundamental rights and human freedoms in the British North America Act.

He told a special Commons committee studying the government's bill of rights that the federal - provincial fiscal conference in Ottawa from July 25 to 27 would afford the federal government an opportunity to learn the attitude of provincial governments.

"Let's consult them," he said. "I would like to know which provinces would be opposed."

Mr. Jodoin said consultation with the provinces is one of two reasons that the bill of rights should be dropped until next year to allow fuller consideration "decently and in order."

"At this stage of a session of Parliament the bill cannot receive the careful and thorough consideration it ought to receive," he said in a brief.

It was impossible for any individual or organization on a few days notice to present considered views on the government bill.

Justice Minister Fulton disagreed that the congress and other organizations had only a few days to consider preparation of briefs on the bill. The legislation was substantially the same as the bill introduced in Parliament in the 1958 session.

It wasn't fair criticism to state that the terms of the bill had caught anyone by surprise.

In another comment, Mr. Fulton said the congress had made some "pretty harsh criticisms of the legislation." He also disagreed that anyone in the government had said that the committee would not be given all the time it required to hear representations.

The Association of Civil Rights said the bill sponsored by Prime Minister Diefenbaker is inadequate and submitted a replacement. However, Mr. Fulton said the association's proposed bill did not provide any broader recognition of human rights and fundamental freedoms.

The Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, in a brief filed with the committee, proposed a change in the bill to make future parliamentary repeal of the statute less likely.

It proposed redrafting of Section Two to read that Parliament shall enact no law to abrogate, abridge or infringe various freedoms listed in the bill, including freedom of the press.

Three Veteran Sea Captains Have Different Reasons for Welcoming Arctic Sealift

MONTREAL (CP) — For different reasons, three veteran sea captains find a special significance in this summer's sealift of supplies to the Arctic.

Captain Charles Caron, skipper of the icebreaker d'Iberville, sees retirement approaching after this summer. He has been farther north than any other Canadian captain in his 33 years with the transport department's icebreaker fleet.

Captain J. A. Ouellet, master of the Arctic patrol ship C. D. Howe, is pleased at the prospect of returning to sea after six years in an office. In 30 seagoing years he has never been to the Arctic.

Captain F. A. Kaiser, chief officer of the freighter Canuk Trader, retired six months ago at 60 and thought, regretfully, that his life at sea had ended after 47 years.

"My wife was pretty pleased and she was just getting used to the idea of having me around when the opportunity came to join this new Canuk Line out of Montreal," he explained in a chat on the old Canuk Trader. "I guess the poor woman is still wondering what happened.

"But I can't help it. Once you get salt in your blood, you can't wash it out."

Capt. Kaiser is a Nova Scotia seaman from the salty port of Liverpool. Captains Caron and Ouellet make their home in Quebec City.

Capt. Caron, a daring skipper who has had some hair-raising battles with ice, the elements, and even a German submarine, knows the Arctic seaways almost as well as the St. Lawrence.

But he describes the Arctic as "too treacherous" to ever know really well.

During the Second World War he sighted an enemy submarine off the Newfoundland coast and immediately aimed his hard-nosed icebreaker, N. B. McLean, directly at it.

The U-boat promptly crash-dived. Either its skipper was well aware of who would come out second best in a collision with a thick-skulled icebreaker, or, said Capt. Caron, reminiscing, the U-boat might have mistaken the McLean's twin funnels and low silhouette for those of a destroyer.

Last winter, icebreaking on the Saguenay River, Capt. Caron was hurt in a fall aboard ship and was in hospital for three weeks. The accident prompted thoughts of retirement.

Capt. Ouellet, resplendent in a navy blue uniform, said he is immensely pleased at the prospect of returning to sea.

His vessel will be making its annual medical mission to coastal communities in the eastern Arctic. On board will be 36 doctors, dentists, nurses and scientists. Thirteen will spend a year at Arctic outposts. The others will dispense medical service at the various ports of call.

At Arctic Bay, the C. D. Howe will put ashore Kidlapik, an Eskimo returning home after medical treatment in Montreal.

Capt. Kaiser's vessel, though sound of hull, is rusty after three years at berth. A busy crew has been scraping and painting steadily in recent weeks getting the Trader ready for sea again.

The Canuk Line was formed with the purpose of running supplies to the Arctic during the summer season. The Trader may also be put into trans-Atlantic service shipping grain from the Lakehead.

ARCTIC SUPPLIERS — These two veteran mariners, Capt. Charles Caron (left) and Capt. J. A. Ouellet, both of Quebec City, will take part in this summer's sealift of supplies to the Arctic. For Capt. Caron, skipper of the icebreaker d'Iberville, it will be his last trip north before retiring next year: after 33 years in the icebreaker fleet. Capt. Ouellet, master of the patrol ship C. D. Howe, will be making his first Arctic voyage in 30 seagoing years. (CP Photo).

FUN AND SHOPPING — Nanaimo, in an experiment to stimulate downtown shopping, shut off its main streets for three days recently and substituted sidewalk cafes, merry-go-rounds and colorful decorations. Merchants in the Vancouver Island city said the shopping mall idea was a success and they plan to make it an annual event. At Victoria, however, ratepayers voted down a similar experiment to stimulate downtown business. (CP Photo).

Shopping Mall at Nanaimo For Three Days Said Success

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—There was an ancient fire truck at the north end of Commercial Street, an opening at the other.

The tops came off the parking meters and in their place went leafy branches.

For three days along the main street of this Vancouver Island city there were no cars—just shoppers. As the experiment ended with dancing in the streets and a promise by merchants to do it again next year, the city agreed it had been a success.

Less than a week later, Victoria ratepayers were given the chance to make a similar project permanent.

At a cost of $1,000,000—raised by increasing parking meter rates from five to 10 cents an hour—View Street was to become carless, a pedestrian shopping mall, with trees, lawns, and plenty of off - street parking nearby.

The bylaw was roundly defeated despite support from almost every organization in sight, including city council.

Nearly 38 per cent of the 18,000 eligible voters cast ballots: 4,537 against, 2,344 for.

Mayor Percy Scurrah, himself a downtown merchant, said the defeat probably came from an "unjustified fear of an increase in taxes."

"If the public doesn't want the mall and better parking, that's fine with me," said Mayor Scurrah. "We've settled it in a democratic way."

The bylaw was aimed at pumping new life into the city's heart —weakened by traffic congestion and the attractions of suburban shopping centres.

"The result means the loss of one of the greatest opportunities we are likely to have for civic revitalization," said city engineer James Garnett.

Anxious to duplicate Nanaimo's experimental success, Duncan, half-way between the two other centres, will set up a car-less street for three days in August.

Robert Sanderson, member of the Chamber of Commerce for 34 years, is opposed to a permanent plan because "a few selective businesses would benefit."

Duncan claims to have a shopping population of 22,000.

Nanaimo's three days of fun and solid selling was advertised in 30,000 widely distributed newspaper flyers. Most merchants had unusual gimmicks to attract their customers.

There were sidewalk cafes and an auction block; lots of free parking; rides and candy for the kids; pennants and flags on the utility poles; a Mr. Nanaimo Shopper who wandered through the crowd giving away $5 bills.

Free buses brought the shoppers from faraway places.

"Even with the bad weather, the project far exceeded anything we had hopes for," said one merchant.

"With good weather," said another, "we'll do much better."

Missile Hit Espionage Plane In Tail Section

LONDON (AP) — Izvestia reported today that Francis Gary Powers survived the downing of his U-2 spy plane because the missile that brought it down hit the plane in the tail section.

The government newspaper report said Powers was so stunned by the rocket explosion that he was unable to blow up the rest of the plane as instructed and commit suicide. It said he bailed out, his parachute opened at 49,000 feet and he then lost consciousness.

Moscow radio broadcast a report of "more details of the incident" which Izvestia said came from the rocket unit that brought down the American aircraft July 1.

Powers is to go on trial for espionage Aug. 17.

It was the first time the Russians had described the downing of the aircraft in any detail. There has been considerable doubt in the West of the Russian claim that a rocket brought the U-2 down because (1) the Russians recovered so much equipment from the plane, (2) the pilot was not killed and (3) the plane did not catch fire or disintegrate on crashing. The Izvestia report seemed an attempt to counter these doubts.

25 Sea Cadets To Take Cruise On U.S. Ship

TORONTO (CP)—A party of 25 Canadian sea cadets and one officer will leave New York Friday on a three-week training cruise to the Panama Canal zone and back aboard the United States Navy transport ship Randall.

The cruise is part of an exchange program between the Navy Leagues of Canada and the United States in co - operation with the Royal Canadian Navy and U.S. navy. It is the first time sea cadets of the two countries have joined in an ocean cruise.

Ontario cadets include:

L. C. MacDonald, 18, Sudbury; E. W. Marriott, 18, Stratford; L. Tait, 18, North Bay; W. Harrison, 17, Guelph; E. J. Charters, 17, Sault Ste. Marie; B. Fontaine, 17, Fort William; M. L. Snell, 17, Sarnia; L. Smith, 17, Ingersoll; E. A. Calder, 17, Caledonia and E. Cain, 17, St. Catharines.

'Bonus' Assessments Made In Eastview Inquiry Told

EASTVIEW, Ont. (CP) — The busy Eastview Hotel, independently assessed at $185,450, is assessed at only $50,000 by the town of Eastview.

This came out Tuesday as the provincial inquiry into the affairs of the town nestled within the boundaries of Ottawa was told of "bonus" assessments.

Joseph Emile Belanger, former assessment commissioner, said Ottawa Iron Works Limited was also given a special assessment of only $10,550 on property independently assessed at $190,390.

Paul Mantha, consultant from Ottawa, said he had made the higher assessments at the request of Eastview council. Mr. Belanger said he knowingly fixed the illegal lower assessments.

Under questioning, he said that the then owner of the hotel, Ronaldo Chenier, is a brother of town treasurer Mrs. Adrienne Laroche. Mr. Chenier sold the hotel to Montreal interests some months ago.

SAYS ILLEGAL

Commissioner Charles W. Yates, one of two men presiding over the Ontario government-ordered inquiry, said fixed assessment bylaws are illegal unless ratified by public vote. The Municipal Act states, he said, that no such bylaw may be issued for a hotel. There was no vote taken on the hotel and iron works assessments.

Evidence was also given that Fireman Lieut. Arthur Belair bought two town lots for $50 each and later traded them for a $1,200 automobile. Belair is a son of Councillor Victor Belair.

Mrs. Laurette Robert, wife of Reeve Marcel Robert, ordered to appear Tuesday with bank records, didn't show up. She was ordered to produce her and her husband's bank statements when she couldn't remember details of a 1953 property deal.

When her name was called Tuesday, an unidentified woman stood up and said Mrs. Robert couldn't make the hearing because she was at the bank getting the statements. She was expected to testify today.

ASKS RE FINES

In another phase of the inquiry, Eastview Police Sergeant Claude Dwyer was questioned about the destruction of all records of fines paid into the town's police station before 1959.

Monday town clerk Leopold LaBelle said the records were destroyed in the spring of 1959 to make more room for books in the town vault.

John Nelligan, counsel for the Eastview Citizens' League, which had requested the inquiry, asked the policeman whether in his 15 years of police work he had ever heard of destroying such records.

The sergeant answered that he had not, and stated emphatically that he would never destroy receipts of fines.

Remand Case Until End of Shipping Year

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Fred Francis, 31, keeper of Michipicoten lighthouse in Lake Superior about 80 miles north of here, was remanded Tuesday on assault charges to Christmas Day.

He is charged with assaulting James Collins, the assistant lighthousekeeper and his wife Evelyn.

Police Chief Harold Allard, of Tarentorus Township, testified that at 4 a.m. July 4 he received a phone call from Dan Davis, radio ham, of Denver, Colo. Davis relayed a message asking for immediate police help because fighting had broken out at the lighthouse.

Chief Allard sent an airplane to the lighthouse July 5 to bring Collins and his wife to Sault Ste. Marie. The couple charged they were assaulted in their apartment, and Mrs. Collins suffered a broken nose and shock.

Justice of the Peace J. W. McMeekin remanded Francis to Dec. 25 to allow him to complete the shipping season. Chief Allard said he will protest to the attorney - general's office about the length of the remand.

Fell Off Dam

MANOTICK, Ont. (CP)—Mildred Harney, 28, of Hull, Que., was drowned Tuesday when she fell off a cement dam into the Rideau River near this community about 10 miles south of Ottawa.

Police said she was walking on the dam with Keith Stanley, 36, of Ottawa when they both slipped and fell into the water. Both were non-swimmers but Stanley managed to make his way to shallow water.

House Divorce Committee Becomes Court to Hear Bill Said to Involve Perjury

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons private bills committee becomes a court today, prepared to weigh the sworn testimony in a divorce case and the affidavit of one of the parties that evidence of adultery given against him was faked.

The 50-member committee opens hearings with the chief subject on the agenda the divorce bill of Lise Desrosier Eccles who seeks a divorce from William Eccles, 42, Toronto writer-photographer, on the ground of adultery.

The Senate divorce committee, on the basis of sworn testimony, recommended dissolution of the marriage and the Senate passed the bill earlier this year. It was on the verge of going through the final stage in the Commons when Mr. Eccles asserted a claim of faked evidence.

He swore out an affidavit and in newspaper articles said he did not keep a rendezvous with a woman in a hotel room last July as two private detectives testified in the Senate divorce committee.

His newspaper story said the detectives, Ernest Gordon Etherridge, 45, and Gerard Daignault, 33, testified in the Senate divorce committee that on July 17, 1959, Mr. Eccles went to a hotel and was found by them with a girl in his room.

Mr. Eccles said he met one of the detectives by arrangement, registered at the hotel, turned the key over to the detective but did not go to the hotel room nor meet a girl. He said the detective wanted the room key so he could describe the hotel room to the Senate committee.

Since Mr. Eccles' allegations, Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena), a leader of a CCF campaign against divorce being handled by Parliament, said a Quebec resident has written him with a similar charge of fictitious evidence in another case now before Parliament.

Meanwhile, Senator Arthur Roebuck, chairman of the Senate divorce committee, reported that the committee set two records this session—heard 609 applications and recommended dissolution of 492 marriages.

He reaffirmed his confidence that the 455 divorce bills piled up behind a blockade established by Mr. Howard and Arnold Peters (CCF-Temiskaming) will be passed by Parliament before the session ends.

To date, 35 divorce bills have been passed by both houses and received royal assent. Two were withdrawn in the Commons, leaving the 455 backlog cut of 492 recommended by the Senate divorce committee.

American U-2 Flights Over Canada Cause Members to Talk at Cross-Purposes

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of American U-2 flights over Canada cropped up in the Commons Tuesday but confusion resulted because CCF House Leader Hazen Argue and External Affairs Minister Green turned out to be talking at cross-purposes.

Mr. Green, in a reply to Mr. Argue, said "there has been no change in that situation" since he spoke to the House on the matter May 11.

He recalled that on that occasion—at the time of the crisis over the shooting down of a United States U-2 plane on a spy mission over Russia—he had informed the Commons that "there were none of the U-2 type flights taking place from Canadian bases or over Canadian territory."

He also said at that time that another version of the U-2, used to take meteorological and radiological air samplings, had operated over Canada in a series of scientific flights confined to North America, after clearance by Canada.

Mr. Green showed some testiness in his replies Tuesday to Mr. Argue, who had initiated the exchange by asking whether U-2 flights are being conducted over Canadian territory and, if so, what control Canada exercises "to make sure they do not stray toward the Soviet Union."

Later, outside the Commons, Mr. Argue said he was referring to weather flights confined to North America. In a similar interview, Mr. Green said that in his House reply he had been referring to the spy flights and that Mr. Argue had not made clear he was thinking of weather conditions.

In the House, referring to spy missions, the minister said that Soviet Premier Khrushchev "admitted" to Canadian Ambassador David Johnson in Moscow last week that no U-2 flight had operated from a Canadian base or over Canadian territory.

Mr. Green became angry when Mr. Argue asked whether scientific data obtained by the U-2 flights over Canada has been made available to Canada.

"I do not know what kind of trouble the honorable member for Assiniboia (Mr. Argue) is trying to stir up not only in this House but also for Canada," Mr. Green said.

The "imputation" in Mr. Argue's question "can only do harm because it can only be misinterpreted in other parts of the world where they are only too anxious to make trouble for Canada," he said.

Mr. Argue said it was not the minister's business to impute motives or make insinuations.

Speaker Roland Michener said Mr. Green had "simply pointed out the dangers of the question."

Mr. Argue again put his question and Mr. Green snapped: "that is just another trouble-making question and I do not propose to answer it."

The Canadian Press reported earlier Tuesday that Mr. Green had indicated that Canada had asked the U.S. to discontinue weather flights over Canadian territory and the U.S. had complied.

This was based on what at first appeared to be a partial contradiction between Mr. Green's statements of Tuesday and May 11.

Subsequently, it became clear in the interviews with Mr. Green and Mr. Argue that they were talking about different kinds of U-2 flights.

Meanwhile, officials said Tuesday night that the United States has apparently quietly stopped making requests to Canada for U-2 weather flights over this country.

Britain, France Not Accepting Canada's View on Disarmament

OTTAWA (CP) — Every day that passes without the disarmament question being taken to the United Nations is a day lost to Soviet propagandists, in the opinion of authoritative sources here.

Informants said Tuesday that Canada, the United States and Italy are agreed that a new western disarmament plan should be taken to the UN disarmament commission as soon as possible but that Britain and France have not yet accepted this view.

The five Western disarmament negotiators are still trying to hammer out a single plan in reply to the new proposals put forward by Russia last month before it walked out of the Geneva conference.

External Affairs Minister Green is said to feel that Russia put itself squarely behind the eight-ball by scuttling the disarmament conference.

That is why he wanted the matter taken immediately to the UN where Russia could be taken to task for breaking off the negotiations and where the disarmament talks could be continued.

Consequently, the opinion here is that every day that goes by without the West asking for a meeting of the UN disarmament commission supplies grist to the Soviet propaganda mill.

This mill has turned out the story that the West isn't really interested in disarmament.

France has given higher priority than the other Western countries to the nuclear aspects of disarmament.

Canada would like to see implementation of balanced "package deals" even if minor.

Britain is reported to see little use in trying to take the disarmament question to the UN before the regular meeting of the General Assembly in September.

Canada wants disarmament kept separate from the General Assembly so it will not be tangled up with other UN issues.

Drops $20,000, Is Happy

Toronto Out as Fight Site

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — This city has been bounced as the site for the world light-heavyweight title bout between champion Archie Moore and Germany's Erich Schoeppner and one of the happiest persons in town is promoter Dave Rush. He's out—temporarily at least—only $20,000 or so.

"The fight for Toronto is definitely off," Rush told a press conference Tuesday. "It will be held, possibly in New York or Los Angeles, but not on the scheduled date of Aug. 8," he said.

FSI is expected to make a formal announcement about the site and date is New York today.

Thus has ended one of the weirdest, mixed-up fight promotions Canada has seen. It started early in June when Toronto Mayor Nathan Phillips jumped the gun on the promoters and innocently told reporters he had loaned his office for the signing ceremonies.

A champagne party was staged in a downtown hotel with all the principals in attendance, except the fighters.

But they disappeared overnight and up to that early June date only Schoeppner and his party have shown in Toronto. Moore finally announced he couldn't make the 175 - pound limit by July 18, the original fight date, and it was put back to Aug. 8.

Teleprompter, which had the closed-circuit television rights to the fight for a reported $200,000, pulled out. The promoters couldn't sell the rights to anybody else and the fight was doomed, but no one would say so until Tuesday.

Rush isn't worried about getting his money back. "I'll get all, or at least some of it back, when the Moore - Schoeppner fight is held," he said.

His meeting in New York was "very amicable" but Rush said he is "angry because I didn't have the opportunity to show that the light-heavyweight bout here would draw $150,000."

A KID'S DREAM

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (AP) — Joseph Nabozny, 12, of Amsterdam, pitched a no-hit baseball game Monday night and hit three home runs, two of them grand-slams. Pitching for the Slezaks against the Kiwanis team in the Wee Men's League, he struck out 13 men and walked 8. The Slezaks won, 18-3.

Paper Helps Kansas Club

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Star Tuesday bought 25,000 tickets to help keep the Athletics here.

The newspaper announced its contribution to a community drive to boost this season's attendance over the 850,000 mark.

The heirs of Athletics' majority owner, Arnold Johnson of Chicago, have said the club will be sold to the highest bidder. A Kansas City group is raising money to bid for the club but if attendance reaches 850,000 the purchaser will be bound by contract to keep the club here for another three years.

The Athletics were transferred here from Philadelphia in 1955. Despite consistently poor play—the team hasn't finished above sixth in the American League since the transfer — the As averaged more than 1,000,000 paid admissions each season through 1959.

This year they have drawn 422,327 fans for 45 home dates and will have to average 14,256 to reach the 850,000 goal. Tuesday night only 8,152 fans saw the As lose 9-3 to Baltimore Orioles.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty-eight pacers have been nominated for the third stakes event on Old Woodbine Park's 51-day harness race meeting, the $4,500 Grattan Royal Pace, which features tonight's program.

The unwieldy field has been divided into three divisions, which will constitute the fifth, seventh and eighth races. Ten pacers will start in the fifth race and nine in each of the other two.

Harold McKinley, the meeting's leading driver, will guide pacers in each division, including his own Border Scot in the third.

Mackay, Bartzen Enter Tennis Third Round

CHICAGO (AP) — Top-seeded Barry Mackay and Bernard (Tut) Bartzen have eased into the third round of the national clay courts tennis tournament.

Mackay, who is seeded No. 1, trimmed Jim Tattersall of Great Britain 6-4, 6-3. His U.S. Davis Cup teammate, second - seeded Bartzen, wore down Ronnie Fisher of Houston 6-0, 9-7. The 32-year-old Bartzen is seeking his third straight clay courts championship.

Rod Susman of St. Louis pulled off a second - round upset by knocking off Reginald Bennett of Great Britain, No. 7 in the foreign seed, 7-9, 6-3, 11-9.

The cinderella role of 17-year-old Justina Bricka of St. Louis abruptly ended. Miss Bricka, after her first round upset of top-ranked Darlene Hard Monday, was crushed Tuesday 7-5, 6-0 by Sue Hodgman of Kalamazoo, Mich. Sue, 20, is fresh from winning the western woman's crown at Indianapolis.

Rod Laver of the Australian Davis Cup team and No. 1 in the foreign seed, and his teammate, Bob Hewitt, gained the men's third round.

BUD GRANT RE-SIGNS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers ripped up Bud Grant's contract Tuesday—then presented their highly-successful football coach with a new four-year contract.

Grant had two years to go on his old three-year contract. Bombers president Gordon Lawson announced Tuesday that the "mutually-agreeable" new contract includes a salary increase but no figures were disclosed.

Grant joined the WIFU team as a player in 1953 and three times was an all-star. Appointed head coach in 1957, he led the Bombers to three Grey Cup finals and two Grey Cup victories.

Eight Head for 20

Daley Is Top Moundsman

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight big league pitchers are at least halfway home on the 20-game victory express. But some of them will have to reverse their recent rocky course to reach their destination.

Bud Daley of Kansas City is the majors' top winner with 12 although Ernie Broglio, a 10-game victor for St. Louis Cardinals, has been gathering the most momentum lately.

Others with a chance to win 20 are 11-game winners Vernon Law of Pittsburgh, Sam Jones of San Francisco and Larry Jackson of St. Louis and 10-game winners Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, Lew Burdette of Milwaukee and Jim Perry of Cleveland.

Broglio, who did not win his first game until the season was a month old, has won eight since June 11, including his last five. He has lost four. The 24-year-old righthander had a 7-12 record last season.

Daley, credited with 40 per cent of Kansas City's 30 triumphs, has lost five. The cagey lefthander may become the first Kansas City pitcher ever to win 20 and the first Athletic since Bobby Shantz did it in Philadelphia in 1952.

Law and Friend, the Pirates' aces, and Jones, the Giants' durable righthander, all have been slumping while Perry, despite his 10-4 record has gone the distance only four times in 17 starts.

Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, who has won 20 or more 10 times, has won nine this season.

Only four pitchers made the 20-victory grade in 1959. They were Spahn, Burdette and Jones in the National League and Chicago's Early Wynn in the American. The 40-year-old Wynn has a 5-7 record this year.

CANCELS FIGHT

LONDON (AP)—Dave Charnley, British and European lightweight champion, cancelled his fight with Johnny Van Rensburg of South Africa Tuesday. It was to take place a week later. Doctors said he was suffering from the after effects of a severe cold.

Lacrosse

BRAMPTON (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors moved into a first place tie in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series Tuesday night, defeating last-place Peterborough Mercurys 15-11.

Excelsiors had to come from behind a 4-1 first-period deficit to gain the win, but they tied it up early in the second frame and then were only threatened once when the Mercurys tied 6-6 midway through the second.

Main point getter for Brampton was Jack Madgett with three goals and two assists. Wayne Thompson scored two goals. Jim McLure and Bob Dobbie also got two. Singles were scored by Bill Castator, John Ford, Bert Russel, Jack Sibbald, Revis Bennett and Bruce Wanless.

For the losers, Bob Batley's two goals and three assists was the best Peterborough performance. Cy Coombs scored three. Larry Ferguson and Terry Davis notched a pair each. Art Batley and Ike Hildebrand scored singles.

The game put Brampton and Port Credit in a first-place tie with 18 points each.

St. Catharines has 13 points and Peterborough has nine.

AHL-NHL EXHIBITION

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, are to play an exhibition game against Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League at St. Thomas Elgin Memorial Community Centre Sept. 17. Dates for two other exhibition games between the Barons and two other NHL clubs will be released as soon as negotiations are completed, arena manager Harry MacLeod said.

Leafs Almost Out of Sight; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took 10 years, four games and two extra innings, but Jersey City has a winner again in the International League.

Jersey City Reds, who brought International League baseball back to Jersey last week when the franchise of Havana Sugar Kings was moved out of Cuba, took a home-town, 1-0 decision over Richmond Virginians in 11 innings Tuesday night.

A seven-hit pitching job by Howie Nunn and a single by Borrego Alvarez did it.

The victory, first for hometown fans since the Jersey City franchise folded after 1950, also tumbled Richmond back to third place.

Front-running Toronto Maple Leafs gained a 12½-game lead by beating Rochester Red Wings 11-1 while Buffalo Bisons moved into second place with a 7-2 decision over Montreal Royals. Miami Marlins defeated Columbus Jets 3-2.

TWO IN SIX

Nunn struck out six and walked two during his shutout of the Vees. He allowed just two hits over the last six innings.

Toronto tore into the Red Birds for eight runs in the second inning, then counted two more on Jim King's 16th home run in the fourth. Jackie Waters, 4-for-5, doubled in the big rally along with Steve Demeter. Winner Steve Ridzik (10-5) allowed eight hits but had a shutout until the sixth, when King lost Luke Easter's high fly in the lights and it fell for a RBI double. Willard Schmidt (5-2) lost.

Buffalo thumped four home runs, three in a five-run sixth inning. One homer was a two-run shot by winning pitcher Art Mahaffey, who won his 11th with a six-hitter. He struck out eight. Nels Chittum (3-3) lost.

Leo Burke drove in a first-inning run and then hammered a clinching sixth-inning homer for the Marlins. Wes Stock saved it for Jim Archer by fanning Bobby Sagers with two runs in, two out and the bases loaded in the seventh.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Horse-racing aficionados will tell you the thrill of a lifetime is the pounding of hoofs on a green velvet turf as the thoroughbreds come pounding down the stretch in a neck-and-neck battle for the wire.

Hockey fans will say the spine-thrill for them is the last-second blade-flashing sortie of a Richard or a Howe as he whips in close to score.

Baseball addicts claim the hair-raising episode is that bottom-of-the-ninth grand-slam homer with the home team down three runs and two men out.

But for the unlimited hydroplane racing, the seven sensations of the world rolled into one, is the hair-raising, breath-taking sight of titans of the nautical turf thundering before the surge of 2,000 mechanical horses towards the start-line of a Gold Cup, Diamond Award or a Harmsworth Cup classic.

Conversely speaking and from a point of sheer death-defying guts and courage that is the truth. The sight of these hell-drivers roaring at speeds from 140 miles per hour towards a mythical line when a wrong-way, split-second decision means defeat before the start, will barrage your breath in gasps and cause your innards to coil like a startled rattlesnake.

Some nine laps or 45 course-miles later the thrill could be repeated if the partly airborne thunderboats ride out mechanical and accident hazards, and like the thoroughbreds of the green turf come roaring to the finish line in bow-and-bow finishes.

These are the thrills supreme. During the 45-mile nine-lap battle of the waves, there could be a thousand and one throat-tightening episodes. The streaking boats like small beetles spearheading a white-laced fifty-foot "rooster-tail" arcing beautifully from their sterns rip along, inches atop the water, to the breath-taking sweep of the rounded ends of the course.

These are some of the sights of a lifetime in store for spectators at the world-famous Harmsworth Trophy races scheduled for the Bay of Quinte's beautiful Long Reach on August 19, 20 and possibly August 22.

On those dates the spotlight of world publicity will be thrown on Prince Edward County's pretty town of Picton.

On these dates Canada's proud world champion of the unlimited propeller-driven hydroplanes, "Miss Supertest III" will defend her hard-won Harmsworth Trophy against the threat of three American challengers.

Superbly driven by Bob Hayward, former chicken farmer from Embro, Ontario, "Miss Supertest III" wrenched the coveted trophy from its American defenders last August on the Detroit River. The Americans had retained it successfully for 38 years since Gar Wood, the famed "Silver Fox of Algomac" won it with "Miss America I" at Osborne Bay, England, at a speed of 61.51 mph, in 1920.

Hayward, hurling back the challenge of America's best, not only defeated the Yankee champion but established a Harmsworth record of 107.495 mph average speed over a 45-mile triangular course.

The American defender "Maverick," under tremendous pressure by the slower starting "Supertest," broke down and yielded the first heat. A heavy swell almost capsize "Supertest" in the second heat, and the near-accident cost her valuable ground and the American boat went on to win.

In the third heat Hayward took "Supertest" to a point well behind the start line and turned her for the long straight run for the start line.

Seconds passed. The roar of the boats crescendoed to thunderous proportions. The "rooster tails" became higher and higher. For sixty seconds it looked like Bill Smead, the American driver, would get the big break. With 30 seconds to go Hayward jammed his foot down. "Supertest" almost leaped out of the water as she bore down on the start line. She was streaking like a blasted-off rocket.

Like a white tornado Hayward flashed across the line in perfect timing, fully four seconds ahead of "Maverick". Yankee sports writers called it a "victory move." Canadians called it superb driving.

Hayward increased his lead to nearly half a lap turning in record times until by the twelfth lap "Maverick," making tremendous attempts to catch the daring Canadian challenger, broke down.

"Miss Supertest" reduced her speed and thundered on to victory—one that thrilled the nation and gave Canada her first taste as a world leader in international powerboat racing.

(ED. NOTE:—This is the first of a series on the Harmsworth Trophy Races by sports editor George H. Carver.)

Yankees Scalp Tribe In Hitting Spree

White Sox Blank Boston

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

The American League pennant race is a study in contrasts. While the New York Yankees bludgeon the opposition with home runs, flexing their muscles to make up for faulty pitching, the Chicago White Sox play it cute with speed and tight pitching.

The Yanks maintained their two-game lead over the second-place White Sox by scoring five in the ninth to top Cleveland 13-11 Tuesday night. Chicago cashed in on Billy Pierce's four-hit pitching and a three-run inside-the-park home run by speedy Luis Aparicio for a 6-0 triumph over Boston.

ONE-HITTER

Pedro Ramos pitched no-hit ball for seven innings and wound up with a one-hit shutout as Washington downed Detroit 5-0. The only hit was a leadoff single by Rocky Colavito in the eighth inning.

Baltimore came up with six runs in the 10th inning to top Kansas City 9-3 with Bud Daley's wild pitch permitting the tie-breaking run to score. In the last inning a fan rushed on the field and punched plate umpire Bob Stewart.

Bill Skowron was the big gun for the Yanks with two home runs and a three-run double during the five-run rally in the ninth.

Roger Maris hit his 30th homer and Yogi Berra connected for No. 10 in the wild game marked by a total of 32 hits, 16 for each side. Six pitchers worked for the Yanks, Ryne Duren finally getting the decision. Ted Bowsfield, fourth of five to toil for the Indians, was the loser. Jimmy Piersall hit his 10th homer for the Tribe.

Trailing 11-8 going to the ninth, the Yanks loaded the bases on a walk to Hector Lopez a single by Mickey Mantle and an error by Bowsfield. Berra's single scored one and Skowron's double drove in three more. Tony Kubek singled in the final run.

APARICIO WINS IT

Aparicio's dash around the bases on a ball that got past centrefielder Willie Tasby was the big story of Chicago's offence. Pierce won his eighth with Frank Sullivan his victim.

Ramos had not given Detroit anything close to a hit until Colavito's single. The Cuban walked four and hit one. Billy Gardner and Harmon Killebrew hit home runs for the Senators.

Baltimore held a 3-0 lead over the A's going to the last of the seventh when Pete Daley's three-run homer tied the score against Chuck Estrada. Hoyt Wilhelm came in to pitch 3 1-3 hitless innings of relief ball, winning his seventh, Bud Daley lost his sixth.

After Daley wild pitched the winning run home, the Orioles kept moving with Gene Woodling's two-run pinch single, Jim Gentile's pinch double and Marv Breeding's two-run single.

Braves Slice Pirate Margin

Giants' Rookie Has One-Hit Debut

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Juan Marichal, a 21-year-old rookie from the Dominican Republic, has become the first National League pitcher in modern days to pitch a one-hitter in his first big league start.

The righthander who was the strikeout king of the Pacific Coast League until he was recalled from Tacoma with an 11-5 record, had a perfect game for 6 1-3 innings Tuesday night for San Francisco. An error by Eddie Bressoud let the Phils' Tony Taylor reach base.

Marichal lost his no-hit bid when pinch hitter Clay Carlymple singled with two out in the eighth. That was the only Phil hit as they absorbed a 2-0 defeat. The newcomer struck out 12, only three short of the record that the Dodgers' Karl Spooner set in his first start in 1954.

FIRST THIS CENTURY

No other National League pitcher in modern days (since 1900) has thrown a one-hitter in his first start. Charles Jones of Cincinnati pitched a no-hitter in his major league debut in 1884. Two American Leaguers have broken in with one-hitters—Addie Joss of Cleveland and Mike Fornieles of Washington.

Milwaukee sliced Pittsburgh's league lead to 1½ games by winning its sixth straight on a 9-5 decision over St. Louis while Pittsburgh was losing to Los Angeles 5-4. Cincinnati whipped Chicago 4-1 behind Jim O'Toole in the other game.

Marichal's performance could be a tonic to the floundering Giants who have dropped into the second division. Mixing a change up with curves and fast balls, he mowed down the first 19 Phils. There was a roar from the crowd when the official scorer ruled an error when Bressoud raced in front of Taylor's grounder but bobbled the ball.

Dalrymple, batting for catcher Cal Neeman with two out in the eighth, hit Marichal's first pitch sharply to centre field. The rookie wasn't bothered. He got the next man to end the eighth and retired the side in order in the ninth.

LARKER BOOSTS AVERAGE

Norm Larker's two-run home run in the seventh gave Los Angeles a victory over the Pirates who had led 4-0 going into the last of the sixth. Larker also had two singles, boosting his league leading batting average to .359.

It was the 14th straight time Bob Friend failed to finish a game against the Dodgers. Fred Green, who relieved in the seventh, was the loser. The victory went to Larry Sherry who allowed only one run in five innings of relief work.

Milwaukee blew a three-run lead but took advantage of the shaky Cardinal defense to edge closer to the Pirates. Hank Aaron's 25th homer in the eighth was the clincher for relief man Ron Piche. Curt Flood, Stan Musial and Julian Javier homered for the Cards.

Frank Robinson hit two home runs in Cincinnati's victory over the Cubs. O'Toole had a two-hit shutout going to the seventh. Don Cardwell, nicked for both homers by Robinson, was the loser.

Fan Scores Singles on Umps, Ushers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A spectator at the Baltimore Orioles-Kansas City Athletics baseball game Tuesday night rushed on to the field and punched plate umpire Bob Stewart.

The melee occurred after the top of the 10th inning when the Orioles who won 9-3, scored six runs.

An usher who ran between Stewart and the fan was floored by a punch. Base umpires Hank Soar and Ed Hurley and players rushed to Stewart's aid. Soar executed a flying tackle to bring the enraged man to the ground.

Only Hurley suffered any ill effects. He was spiked on the right arm.

Police took the spectator, whose name could not be learned, away but said they had not booked him.

The umpires said the man apparently became angry when Stewart ruled a pitch by Bud Daley had nicked Walt Dropo of the Orioles. The A's had protested the pitch hit Dropo's bat.

Lumsdon, Park Second

Dutchman Wins Island Swim

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Herman Willemse, whose victory in the Absecon Island marathon swim was his first in a professional race, was $5,000 richer today and the bearer of new honors for his Dutch homeland.

The 26-year-old school teacher from Utrecht, Holland, climbed from the water smiling broadly Tuesday to the roar of 10,000 spectators and the strains of the Dutch national anthem.

He reached the Atlantic City Marina 10 hours, 30 minutes and 5.4 seconds after he had left it to swim the 25 miles around the island. His closest competitors—two Canadian veterans who finished second simultaneously — were 300 yards behind the crew-cut blonde.

The two were Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto and Tom Park, a native of Hamilton, now living in Bellflower, Calif. They both kicked across the finish line in the official clocking of 10 hours, 40 minutes and 7.8 seconds after swimming the last two miles stroke for stroke.

FIRST WOMAN

More laurels went to the Netherlands when Mary Kok, 20, of Hilversum, was the first woman to finish. The distinction brought her $800. She took eighth place in 11:31:24.

Both Willemse and Miss Kok swam in the Absecon Island competition for the first time. It was the seventh annual event here.

Willemse moved into a strong lead at the 14-mile mark after an Argentine — Jorge Messadra of Buenos Aires — had paced the field of 16 entrants. Mezzadra caught up again with eight miles left but the lanky Dutchman's steady kick spurted him back in front after four more miles.

FALLS BEHIND

Mezzadra then fell behind rapidly. He finished fifth, in 10:59:30.4, behind another early pace-setter—John Lacoursiere of Montreal at 10:57:19.6.

Lumsdon and Park both had been looked on as likely winners before the race. Lumsdon had won three times before and Park twice. They split the total of $2,000 for second-place and $900 for third. Each got $1,450.

Willemse's time was not a record, but he did finish almost 24 minutes faster than last year's star—Lumsdon, whose time in 1959 was 10 hours, 54 minutes.

Bantam Greg Bruyea Fashions No-Hitter

Behind the fine no-hit pitching of Greg Bruyea, the Dodgers defeated the Braves 17-1 in a bantam league baseball game last night.

Unbeaten Bruyea won his third start striking out ten and walking six, while his mates pounded three Braves hurlers for a cluster of hits.

Bruyea and his battery mate Peter Carver helped the winning causes with two singles each. Mitchell and Ethier also hit safely

Two errors and a walk spoiled the young hurler's bid for a shutout in the last inning when the Braves scored their lone run.

Lancaster, Boomhour and Boyle toiled on the mound for the losers, Boomhour making a second appearance in the last inning.

Braves 000 000 1—1 0 4
Dodgers 333 107 0—17 6 2

Batteries—Bruyea and Carver; Lancaster, Boomhour (3), Boyle (4), Boomhour (6) and McMillan.

Chuvalo No Match For Rademacher

TORONTO (CP)—Balding Pete Rademacher of Columbus, Ga., left-jabbed his way to a unanimous 10 - round decision over George Chuvalo of Toronto, the ring-rusty Canadian heavyweight champion, here Tuesday night.

There were no knockdowns in the rather one-sided battle before a small crowd of about 4,000 at Maple Leaf Baseball Stadium. The fight was scheduled for Monday night but was postponed because of rain.

Rademacher, spotting 23-year-old Chuvalo nine years and outweighed 217½ to 204½, had too much ring savvy for the hard-punching but slow-moving Toronto youngster.

"Chuvalo is a heck of a body puncher when you are dumb enough to stand there and let him hit you, which I didn't do," said Rademacher, the 1956 Olympic heavyweight champion.

TOO SLOW

Chuvalo, making his first ring appearance since knocking out Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., in a title defence here last Nov. 17, showed the effects of the eight-month layoff by constantly being beaten to the punch.

"I wasn't hurt," said Chuvalo, who absorbed his fourth loss in 18 pro bouts. "But my timing was off and I was up against a pretty shifty fighter."

Rademacher used his left jab and superior footwork with telling effect. His left was in Chuvalo's face most of the fight, keeping the bull-shouldered Canadian champion off balance.

Chuvalo, bleeding from the nose in the first round, was forced into a lunging body attack and he rarely got a good shot at the head of his faster - moving opponent.

GOOD EXCHANGE

Rademacher opened up with a two-fisted barrage in the seventh, caught George with a hard right to the head, and at the bell they were slamming away at each other in the best exchange of the bout.

Pete, unmarked at the finish, cemented the victory by scoring with several left-right combinations in the eighth and ninth and then held off the charging Chuvalo in the final round.

The bout was marked by occasional butting and hitting after the break.

The win was the seventh in 11 money fights for Rademacher, who made his pro debut three years ago and was knocked out by world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in the sixth round of a title match at Seattle.

Trenton Defeats Flyers 9-3 to Finish Sked

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Trenton Halloran's wound up their part of the Belleville and District softball league schedule with a 9-3 victory over RCAF Flyers at the Air Station last night grabbing a half share of first place.

Halloran's ended their 16 - game schedule with ten wins, five losses and a tie for 21 points. The Bobcats also have 21 points but have two games remaining.

The winners took advantage of poor RCAF fielding to take a 5-0 second - inning lead. The Flyers got their trio in the fourth before Trenton sewed it up in the last two frames.

Gord Maroney threw four-hit ball to chalk up the victory. He struck out four and walked five.

Ken Kibblewhite gave up 12 hits on the losers' mound. He nipped two on third strikes and also walked a pair.

Plate umpire McCurrie, of the air base, called three Trenton batters out for hitting the ball with a foot out of the batter's box. He got strong arguments from the VW's and ejected coach LeRoy Wannamaker from the park in the top of the fourth and second baseman Bob Burns from the game in the top of the eighth.

A walk and Defosse's hit got Trenton started in the second and a two - out error plated the first run. Burns' single got another and Drake lined a base hit to centre, plating two more.

Two free passes in the fourth, Smith's single, Crowell's ground out and McDonald's single made it 5-3.

Austin's homer led off the Trenton eighth while hits by Will Kennedy and Defosse and an error added another. Drake doubled, Alexander singled and Austin singled both home in the ninth.

Guy Austin with his fourth home run and two singles paced the victors. Roger Drake doubled and singled. Doug Alexander and Ralph Defosse had two singles each. Maroney, Burns and Will Kennedy had the others.

Don Beck, Ron Smith, 'Bugs' McDonald and Gil Girard hit safely for the Flyers while Defosse's great catch robbed Beck of a homer in the seventh.

Six in Ring Friday Night

There is no evidence at the moment that the Bravo Brothers, Ivan Kalmikoff and Fred Atkins are color-blind.

If they could make a temporary arrangement for Friday night, what a beak-bashing brawl Memorial Arena would witness.

For the word has it the Bravo Boys, and Atkins and Ivan are going to mix it in a tag team tilt, with two referees tossed in the ring for good measure.

It should be the biggest wrestling salad mixed here in a long while.

Friday night's rules say the entire kit and kaboodle of referees and wrestlers will be thrown in the ring and the divil take the hindmost.

Four slugging and two ducking should make for a good evening's entertainment. It could end up in a six-way slugfest. And it could end up with four wrestlers counting out two referees.

Anyway you look at it, there's going to be fireworks.

And what seems to be a fine appetizer is the bout between Frenchie Vignal and Jim LaRock. There's a pair of fine boys who are fast, agile and should put on fine mat entertainment.

Billy Stack and Karl Kulaski round out the card.

Guthrie's Direction of Pinafore Provides Festival With Sure Hit

By ROBERT TANNER

It is probably unfair for a critic to attend an opening night performance fully certain that he will enjoy it, but when he happens to be a lover of Gilbert and Sullivan and the direction is in the able and imaginative hands of Dr. Tyrone Guthrie, it is most unlikely that he will be disappointed. And so it proved. In its new production of H.M.S. Pinafore, the Stratford Festival has a very sure hit which, if other commitments allowed would be delighting audiences for many weeks to come: it is a very great pity that it must be limited to three weeks

Since for so many years performances of this delightful operetta have followed the traditional restrictions of the d'Oyly Carte direction, it was of absorbing interest to see how Dr. Guthrie's interpretation would differ. As it turned out, quite surprisingly there were almost more similarities than differences, in spite of the fact that Dr. Guthrie has reportedly never seen a d'Oyly Carte production of this work. This is in itself a striking tribute to the theatrical talents of W. S. Gilbert who directed the original presentations. It will also set at rest the minds of those traditionalists who view with the greatest alarm any change whatsoever in their old favorites.

FRESH AND VIGOROUS

As might be expected, freshness and vigor are the keynotes of the new production, combined with very able casting and excellent singing. With the restrictions of a very small stage (in the Avon Theatre), Guthrie performs his usual miracles of movement and even uses these very restrictions to draw unexpected humor from his crowded cast. Yet, with all its ingenuity and cleverness this is a very honest production, never trying to detract from the original genius of the work itself. In the same way, no liberties were taken with the score, which remained exactly as in the d'Oyly Carte presentations.

It is almost impossible to single out members of such an excellent cast for special mention; all of them from principal singers to chorus acted and sang with sureness and distinction. Romantic interest was ably supplied by Marion Studholme, as Josephine, and Andrew Downie, as Ralph Rackstraw; Miss Studholme has a lovely voice to match her appearance, and a pure unforced tone even at full volume, while Mr. Downie's flexible tenor showed to advantage many times during the evening. Harry Mossfield made a most dignified Captain Corcoran, and Eric House was in his sprightly element as Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B. "the ruler of the Queen's Navee". Perhaps the surprise of the evening was the performance of Douglas Campbell as the Boatswain; we have seen Mr. Campbell in many roles, from Oedipus to Falstaff, but never before in a musical one. Suffice it to say that in this new venture he was as superb as ever, occasionally dominating the stage, always decorating it. Irene Byatt, as Butheray, was as buxom a contralto as any one could wish for, in the best G. and S. traditions, the Sisters, Cousins, Aunts and Sailors completed a highly decorative and professional cast.

OVERCOME PROBLEMS

The small stage must have given Brian Jackson, the designer, a great number of headaches, all triumphantly overcome. Even the decision to dress the production in the style of 1878 must have presented a problem, with its fondness for bustles, ruffles and parasols; but all these features were kept within bounds, and the resulting costumes were extremely smart and colorful.

When all is said and done, in a Gilbert and Sullivan production, it is the words and music that make the show, and in Friday's performance both were given most excellent treatment. Gilbert's dialogue emerged fresh and shining, and Sullivan's music was as lilting, thrilling and witty as ever. One particular gem was the singing of the trio "The British Tar" by Ralph, the Boatswain and the Carpenter, which for delicacy, artistry and humor can seldom have been equalled.

An enthusiastic first night audience gave the production a very warm reception and there were several well-deserved encores. Outside the theatre after the show, snatches of whistling and humming mingled with such remarks as "I wish I could come again tomorrow night". Obviously the genius of G. and S. has combined most agreeably with that of Dr. G. in a presentation which could be sure of an equal success in New York, London, or in any centre where English is understood.

Prosperity May Wreck P.G.A.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Professional Golfers Association championship, a private and poverty-stricken affair only a few years ago, opens Thursday as a tournament so prosperous it may be headed for trouble.

The size of the field is the main reason.

A total of 197 players qualified in 13 categories this year and about 190 are expected to start Thursday over the 7,165 - yard, par-70 Firestone Country Club.

AT THE PARK — Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride in one of their funniest hits "Ma and Pa Kettle at Home", opening Thursday at the air conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program "Abbott and Costello Meet Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde". Also shown are the Three Stooges in "Quiz Whiz".

Jacques Plante Signs as Soccer Goalie

MONTREAL (CP)—Jacques Plante, colorful Montreal Canadiens' goaltender, announced Tuesday night that he has signed a contract to play nets for a Montreal soccer team.

Plante, 31, who holds the National Hockey League's top netminding awards, said in an interview that he has signed to play with Montreal Concordia, a highly-rated National Soccer League club.

Plante may play his first game for Concordia in a North Atlantic Cup match July 27 against a team from Rio de Janeiro.

The lanky 175 - pounder, famed for introducing the goaler's mask to regular NHL play and for his roving tactics, hinted that he may wear the mask with Concordia if soccer regulations permit.

He said however that he is not worried about injury.

What about the switch from skates to boots?

Fundamentally the same, he said.

Plante admitted that he has been signed primarily to attract interest in soccer, though he said he will have to prove he can make the team before he plays. He is confident he can.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CP) — Montreal - owned Dorval scored his first victory of the season Tuesday at the Fort Erie Jockey Club.

Dorval, ridden by Hugo Dittfach, defeated Royal Director by a half length in the feature race with Brown Panther third.

SHIFT SHORTSTOP

TORONTO (CP) — Shortstop Jack Kubiszyn has been shifted from Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League to Mobile, Ala. of the Southern Association. Cleveland Indians of the American League, with whom the Toronto baseball club has a working agreement, lost Woody Held with a fractured finger and called up Mike Delahoz, a former Leaf, from Mobile. Kubiszyn will replace him.

At the Belle

Jerry Lewis in Riotous New Fun Film, "The Bellboy".

The attraction at the Belle Theatre, starting Today, is the new Jerry Lewis comedy from Paramount, "The Bellboy," which not only stars Jerry, but which represents his first quadruple effort as producer, director, writer and actor.

"The Bellboy" was filmed in and around the fabulous Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach, Florida. It is based on the comedian's personal experience when in his youth he was a bellboy-busboy in many resort hotels in the Catskill Mountains. Jerry stored up his memories of the zany things that happened to him — and the unfortunate people he served — against the day when he would put them into the form of a movie script. The dream, has come the hilarious reality of "The Bellboy," which according to reports, is Jerry's funniest picture.

An entertaining array of Technicolor Featurettes, are announced for exhibition on the same program, starting today at the air conditioned Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Wayne Furney Has No-Hitter

Wayne Furney pitched no-hit ball last night as the Cardinals downed the Dodgers 13-4 to capture their Peewee playoff series two games to none.

Furney, who threw a one-hitter the last time out, set the Dodgers down without a hit over the seven-inning distance but ran into control trouble. He issued 14 walks, leading to the Dodger runs, while also striking out 14.

Parker gave up nine hits on the Dodger mound. He struck out 10 while walking seven.

D. Doyle sparked the Cardinal hitters with three one-baggers. T. Law had a double and single and P. Goodfellow two singles. Other base hits went to Furney and Michaud.

Despite Furney's pitching the Cards trailed in the game 2-1 until a six-run outburst in the fifth frame. Another five runs in the sixth wrapped it up.

Debbie Reynolds Will Star In Hour Special in Fall

Written for The Associated Press
By DEBBIE REYNOLDS

The daring young man on the flying trapeze had an easier time of it, I think, than a daring young woman who takes her first big plunge into television.

It's been exciting and exhilarating, rehearsing and putting together a full-hour special, as I'm doing for ABC-TV. This is the first of three for the network on a one-a-year basis.

Television is a new challenge and adventure for me.

Bill Colleran's the active producer - director for the hour's entertainment — we hope! The title of our show is A Date With Debbie, and we hit the air Thursday, Oct. 27.

The show is being forged under the colors of Harmond Productions, a company I incorporated last year to encompass all of my independent enterprises, which are chiefly motion pictures, television, and fashions for the gals.

SHOULD BE FUN

If will - to - do combined with enthusiasm is the criterion, the 60 minutes should be a real fun show. The zest shown by all concerned continually amazes me.

Take those youngsters Walter Brennan and Charlie Ruggles, for instance. Our writers, Carl Reiner and Joe Stein, wonderfully talented fellows, developed the idea of getting them to join me in a dance routine. The idea appealed to me since each played my grandfather in a movie.

Both old-timers went for the concept with glee, but they had previous commitments. It took some fantastic rearranging to get them together. But they even spent three days taking dancing lessons before our rehearsals started.

Thursday, July 21

General Tendencies — The morning finds you able to get rid of all kinds of confusion and muddied thinking in effect for most everyone, so try to double-check whatever you say or do for using to advantage before placing into active motion. But the PM finds a very ingenious influence in effect that brings all kinds of opportunities to really accomplish matters of importance. See your own sign following.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Morning excellent for handling any monetary affairs of importance. Then come to a real understanding with loved one. P.M. handle whatever house budget matters require immediate attention. Seek advice of close ties.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— Any records, legal papers, etc. can be handled far more efficiently if you get the assistance of a clever and fiery associate. Do this in the morning. The remainder of the day should then be spent in pursuits of a personal nature.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Perform your duties this morning so efficiently that you make a fine impression upon higher-ups. Then confer with good advisers and garner the information you require from friends or anyone in the know — be astute.

Moon Children (June 2 2to July 21)—A.M. should be spent making yourself more attractive or doing the things that bring you the greatest amount of pleasure. P.M. go to some charming social function and enthusiastically get into the spirit of things.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Attend to those duties which will put you in a more secure position and also do whatever the family requires of you. P.M. fine for getting in touch with powerful comrade who will give you the backing you need at this time.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Be sure during A.M. to get in touch with intimates for the data you require and then sit down and wire or write important letters. Then you can travel about with associates to work out corporate ventures successfully.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A fine opportunity is yours now to increase benefits via the auspices of some influential person. P.M. ideal for having a delightful evening with the one you love the most.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — During the morning you are able to get the advice and information that will permit you to get a new and fresh start toward your goal in life. P.M. it will be possible to have new associate understand your viewpoints. Be brief.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can now get a true analysis of your actual financial status. Then organize your affairs more wisely. Later, be sure you understand exactly what it is key people expect of you. State your views, also. Co-operate.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)— Confer with all associates and allies so that you can plan your joint efforts more wisely and thoroughly. P.M. go out together and have a great deal of fun and be sure you are amusing. Cultivate a happier personality.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Labor diligently and cleverly in A.M. so that you gain far more prestige than is currently yours. P.M. get surroundings in such fine order that they may be most practical and very pleasing to guests. Work.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You can be very happy this morning either conferring with charming people or doing the things that you most like to do. Study whatever is important to you. Evening also fine for relaxation and recreation as best suits you.

If your child is born today . . . there is every promise that life will be most successful here, inasmuch as your progeny has an almost uncanny knack of saying and doing the right thing at the right time. But you must break any habit of self-pity or indolence early. Fine chart for merchandising, law, the ministry, especially. Be a fine guide for this youngster who needs a good deal of understanding and love.

MY, WHAT A BEAUTY?

Drive up the Trent Road — about half way to Trenton — on the South Side of the road before you arrive at Bayside, you will see our sign on one of the most desirable bungalows you could dream of. It is painted a charming white — you will surely notice it — There is a matching garage. The owner is moving to Toronto — It could be yours for a down payment of only $3,000.

SOMETHING OLD

Preferably called "older type" than just plain "old." "Older type" because it has been there a mighty long time but up-to-date like for the sensible family — for the family that likes plenty of room that you just couldn't find in a new one unless you spend many many dollars. This has 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, good location, good heating system. Good price — $11,500. Good down payment — $2,000.

IT'S COTTAGE TIME

Half way to Trenton — just off the Highway — No. 2 — only about $1,000 down — 2 bedrooms, a big lot right on the Bay — completely equipped — even a brand new lawn mower. You can start your holidays right today and have your problems solved for years to come.

Fleming Leads Delegation to Economic Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians go abroad this week in an attempt to get a greater voice for this country in European economic decisions.

Finance Minister Fleming and about four senior officials from the federal government are expected to travel to Paris for a 20-nation meeting that could have important political as well as economic implications.

The meeting will seek ministerial sanction for a reconstitution of the Organization for European Economic Co - operation (OEEC). The revised body would be the Organization for Economic Co - operation and Development (OECD), with Canada and the United States brought into full partnership for the first time.

Since 1950 Canada and the U.S. have been associate members of OEEC—the 18-country group fostered by the post-war Marshall plan and which now has been split by the two regional trading blocs, the European Economic Community or Inner Six, and the Free-Trade Association comprising the Outer Seven.

EXPRESSED FEARS

Mr. Fleming returned from a January meeting that suggested formation of OECD expressing these Canadian fears:

"We feared lest the situation developing in Europe should lead to trade barriers against outside goods more restrictive than were necessary or indeed justifiable.

"We also feared that some new form of discrimination against Canadian goods, some new European preferential system from which we were excluded, might emerge to the detriment of our exporters."

Mr. Fleming then—and again in his March 31 budget speech to parliament—expressed the third Canadian fear that a trading split between the Inner Six and Outer Seven might also divide Canadian partners in NATO.

Concern for the future of Canadian exports markets in Europe is natural—about 40 per cent of Canada's trade now is with western Europe, including the United Kingdom.

Transplants Arteries to Supply Heart

KINGSTON — Experiments in transplanting arteries to the heart were begun this month by Dr. R. B. Lynn, associate professor of surgery, faculty of medicine, Queen's University, at research laboratories in Etherington Hall and the Physiology Building.

This research, which will study the revascularization of the heart, is supported by the Ontario Heart Foundation and a national health grant of $7,200.

With Canada's aging population, coronary thrombosis is becoming increasingly frequent, Dr. Lynn explained. The disease sometimes leaves the patient with a decreased blood supply to the heart, so that he cannot lead a normal life and is often disabled.

A number of methods of improving the circulation to the heart are being investigated. There are a number of medical methods of treating such coronary patients, but improvements of the blood supply to the heart surgically is still in its infancy so that such research is carried out initially on animals.

As knowledge is gained the techniques used in the experiments can be applied to patients as has been done in so many fields in the past, and in the study of coronary disease particularly by Dr. Arthur Vineburg of McGill University, Montreal, who has been a pioneer in this field.

Besides being an associate professor in Queen's Faculty of Medicine, Dr. Lynn is thoracic surgeon at Kingston General Hospital and Hotel Dieu Hospital, and surgeon in chief at Ongwanada Sanatorium, Kingston.

Since coming to Queen's University Dr. Lynn has performed several rare heart operations. One of these was the removal of a tumor the size of an orange from the right side of the heart of a Kingston area lumber worker. This was the first open-heart operation performed in Kingston and was only the seventh successful operation of its kind in the world. This man is now back to work on his farm and is living a normal outdoor life more than a year after surgery.

Canadian Caught By Congo Rebels And Later Freed

ENTEBBE, Uganda (Reuters) A Canadian veteran of the Battle of Britain was captured at rifle-point when he flew to a rebel stronghold in the Congo to bring out refugees, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Group Capt. F. O. Soden, 64, described his all-night captivity and escape when he arrived here in a private plane from Paulis in the eastern Congo.

Soden, born in Federicton, N.B., said he flew to Paulis airfield in his Cessna plane in response to appeals to help rescue refugees from mutineering Congolese troops.

But the mutineers found him as he slept in the plane on the airfield.

"They were very correct, but they came up in the middle of the night and marched me and another pilot off at rifle-point.

"They put us in a derelict hotel with a sentry outside the door."

"I told them I was there to pick up Canadians and showed them my Canadian passport. They seemed quite satisfied.

"When we woke up the next morning the sentry was gone and we went back to the airfield and took off for Uganda."

Soden, who brought a Belgian refugee family back with him on the flight, said he thought the Congolese had seized the airfield to prevent Belgian troops gaining control of Paulis.

Soden, who lives in retirement at Timau, Kenya, commanded a British Air Force station in England during the Battle of Britain 20 years ago.

TO PROBE GRAFT

MONTREAL (CP)—The civic executive committee Tuesday passed on to the municipal law department a resolution setting up a commission to inquire into graft at city hall which was unanimously passed by city council last week. What action the law department could take was not clear, except that it could decide whether the resolution was within the city's powers, and if so, what procedure should be followed.

Militia Men Learning How To Cook for A-War Survivors

CAMP NIAGARA, Ont. (CP)—A new kind of Canadian soldier is emerging from this camp at the mouth of the Niagara River—a man who can butcher a cow and prepare baby's formula.

Sixty young members of the militia from Ontario centres are learning how to feed and care for survivors of an atomic attack as they prepare for their role in the National Survival program.

With basic training in National Survival completed, they are being taught how to prepare food under difficult conditions by Warrant Officer Val Alcock of Kingston, Ont.

Although none has ever cooked before, their instructor reports they are learning fast and, while their training is in contrast to the normal tough training in the militia, are enthusiastic about the course.

BAKING PIES

They are learning the art of butchering meat, baking cakes and pies, preparing salads and deserts for the 800-odd militia men in the camp.

They are shown how to prepare a basic formula that would feed hundreds of infants, sterilizing makeshift containers for the lot and even adapting the fingers of a rubber glove to serve as nipples.

They have learned that certain basic foods can be prepared without water, that vegetables only lightly exposed to radioactive dust because they are underground can be eaten safely.

Animals can be slaughtered, butchered and the meat can be used if the hide is stripped. Similarly the flesh of fish can be eaten.

Each day the militia cooks make more than 2,400 meals. The weekly menu includes 18 different meats, turkey and chicken as well as frozen and fresh fish. The men choose the two meats at the noon or evening meal and pick the desserts and beverages.

Their teacher says he doesn't expect to turn out first - class chefs but when they're finished they will have gained a working knowledge of the basic principles of mass feeding.

Cuba Sells Sugar to USSR

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba's sugar stabilization board announced Monday the sale of 700,000 tons of sugar to the Soviet Union at 3.25 cents a pound for delivery this year.

The sale, which is in addition to the Kremlin's agreement to purchase 1,000,000 tons of sugar annually for five years, represents a fulfilment of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's offer to take the sugar which President Eisenhower cut off from Cuba's 1960 quota.

The announcement did not disclose the terms of payment or other details.

IT'S SAILING VESSEL

VICTORIA (CP)—A "mystery" wreck in Sidney Inlet has been identified as a sailing vessel built more than a century ago, the navy announced Monday. Efforts to identify the sunken ship have failed. Naval divers have inspected the wreck on two occasions in recent months and recovered about five tons of gear.

All Receipts For Fines Paid Are Destroyed

EASTVIEW, Ont. (CP) — All receipts for fines paid into the Eastview police court up to 1959 have been destroyed.

Town clerk Leopold A. Labelle told a public inquiry into the town's affairs Monday that he destroyed the receipts after "consulting" with Police Chief Richard Manion.

Chief Manion now is holidaying in Ireland.

Mr. Labelle told the Ontario government-ordered inquiry that he had taken the action on his own intiative to provide more room for other documents in the town hall vault.

The hearing was ordered after some of the 23,000 residents of this town within Ottawa signed a petition questioning municipal land sales.

New Private TV Body Organized

WINNIPEG (CP)—A new Canadian television body known as the Independent Television Organization was formed Monday.

The ITO is expected to form a private network in competition with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Closed meetings to form the group were held Sunday and Monday with stations from Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and Halifax represented.

A press release issued following Monday's meeting said that although formal aims of the group are being withheld pending formal communications with the Board of Broadcast Governors, "it is understood that the main purpose is (the foundation of) a mutual organization to assist in the production and distribution of Canadian television programs."

UN COUNCIL FACES CONGO SHOWDOWN

Army May Try Stretching Funds By Reducing Staff

Must Find More Money To Buy New Weapons

OTTAWA (CP) — The government may try to solve its cardinal defence problem — shrinking funds for new weapons—by reducing the size of the armed forces and defence department civilian staff.

Defence Minister Pearkes Wednesday told the 27th and last public meeting of the Commons defence committee that his department is looking into the possibility of manpower cuts to provide more funds for weapons and equipment.

He said he doesn't believe any substantial manpower cuts are possible without a reduction in the commitments of the armed forces.

There are some 119,000 personnel in the armed forces and 49,500 civilians in the defence department. It is understood the department is canvassing the effects of manpower cuts ranging from five to 20 per cent.

In recent years, personnel and maintenance costs in the defence department have been rising, thus reducing funds available for new weapons.

This year, for instance, the $1,596,000,000 defence budget includes $1,184,435,000 for personnel, operations and maintenance but only $296,984,000 for equipment, a reduction of more than $80,000,000 from the previous year's estimate.

Committee Chairman G. Ernest Halpenny (PC — London) ruled out of order a question by Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, about what defence commitments might be eliminated if the forces are cut.

(Reliable sources have said that the four CF-100 jet squadrons in Europe will be disbanded and that the nine CF-100 squadrons in Canada may also be dismantled. The infantry brigade in West Germany may be withdrawn in a year or two.

(The manpower problem is being made even more citical by a new job facing the department — manning of seven new heavy radar stations which will require some 250 personnel each.)

Mr. Pearkes said he agreed with the opinion of U.S. Defence Secretary Thomas Gat es that a Canada-U.S. agreement can be worked out governing conditions for supply of nuclear warheads for the two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases in this country.

Mr. Pearkes said conditions entirely satisfactory to Canada will be worked out.

Douglas Says Medical-Care Plan to Proceed

SASKATOON (CP) — Ground was broken Wednesday for a thorough study of two major resolutions facing delegates attending the CCF party's Saskatchewan convention.

The resolutions deal with a proposed provincial prepaid medical care plan and a new political party.

Premier Douglas told 500 delegates attending the first party convention since the June 8 election that he considers the election results a mandate to proceed with a medical-care plan "and this we shall proceed to do."

The proposed political party to be supported by the CCF and labor was brought to the attention of delegates by Hazen Argue CCF leader in the House of Commons.

Mr. Argue, considered a likely successor to national CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, said an effort is being made to divide the working people and the farmers regarding the new party by suggesting that it would be controlled by unions outside the country.

He criticized Prime Minister Diefenbaker for refusing to grant western farm representatives an interview regarding acreage payments and described the 47 Progressive Conservative members of Parliament from the prairie provinces as "the silent force in the House of Commons."

Mr. Argue is the only non-Conservative member from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

State Cashes Winning Tickets Of Dead Man

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York state has cashed a dead man's winning tickets on a horse race run more than five years ago.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt acted as a pari-mutuel clerk for the $1,620 payoff.

The mixup started when Samuel I. Brandt of New York bought three $100 tickets on Kitty Lightner in the eighth race at Belmont May 26, 1955. The horse won and paid $10.80 for $2.

Brandt suffered a fatal heart attack before he could cash the tickets, which later disappeared. Two funeral parlor employees subsequently were convicted for stealing them.

By the time Brandt's widow got the tickets back, they had expired.

Special legislation was passed by the state legislature to allow the comptroller to honor the tickets from money not collected by winners at race tracks.

Claims Canada Is Now Suffering 'Inevitable Hangover' After Boom

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian author and journalist Bruce Hutchison says Canada is suffering from the "inevitable hangover" following its post-war boom.

But he adds, in an article in the New York Herald-Tribune, that Canada has always lived in recurring peril and uncertainty and will react with "another lunge forward."

Mr. Hutchison, editor of the Victoria Times, says Canada's economy was distorted and its productive costs excessively raised by the post-war boom. He adds:

"The symptoms of distortion are on every front page: Pockets of high unemployment at a time of general prosperity, a goss national product that refuses to grow according to official predictions and is standing virtually still, a mounting foreign debt, a foreign exchange deficit proportionally at least 12 times as large as the American deficit which so deeply alarms our neighbors."

Canada, Hutchison says, is faced with at least five years of "painful readjustment." But "the most hopeful and healthy fact in Canada is the end of that complacency which thrived on the boom when easy times went to the usually sober Canadian head."

PORK TENDERS MAY CLEAR AWAY SURPLUS STOCK

Hog Population Greatly Decreased

OTTAWA (CP) — Tenders invited to clear away much of the remaining government pork stocks will be opened Monday.

If prices are right, government refrigerators will be cleaned out of ham, and stocks of canned pork luncheon meat will be reduced to 10,000,000 pounds compared with the stockpile of 113,000,000 pounds at the height of the pork surplus problem.

Tenders were asked on up to 40,000,000 pounds of the luncheon meat and up to 8,000,000 pounds of ham—in the case of the latter, more than the government had on hand July 2.

It also held 34,000,000 pounds of pork in cold storage at that date.

SEE HIGHER PRICES

Meanwhile, latest agriculture department figures show that livestock market prices for hogs are back under the influence of seasonal factors in contrast with stability imposed by the surplus prevailing earlier. Informants suggested the full impact of higher prices to housewives will be felt next summer.

Hog prices at both Winnipeg and Toronto have risen by $7 per 100 pounds since early March, said the department.

One reason is the sharp reduction in the hog population disclosed last week by the bureau of statistics which said an estimated 5,483,000 animals were on farms as of June 1 compared with 6,872,000 a year earlier—a cut of 20 per cent.

Another reason is seasonal. Late spring and summer marketings tail off because of the decline in farrowing in autumn. Coupled with the return to normal market influences is the government's switch from the outright-purchase system of price support to a deficiency payment operating as an incentive to reduced production.

Disposal of the big canned pork surplus has been achieved so far through international and domestic give-away programs. A substantial amount also was sold back to commercial packers for disposal on the regular retail market under commercial label.

Runaway Boy, 10 Travels by Train Without Ticket

SCHREIBER (CP) — Clifford McGuinness, 10, of Sudbury, missing since Monday was found Wednesday 500 miles from home in this Northern Ontario railroad community.

The boy travelled without a ticket on a CPR train by moving from coach to coach and pretending to be with parents in another part of the train.

Suspicious crew members questioned Clifford, who told them the truth. At Schreiber, 150 miles east of Port Arthur on Lake Superior's north shore, he was placed in the hands of the Children's Aid Society. His mother will take him home today.

Police in Southern Rhodesia Battle Negroes Second Day

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Police today arrested scores of Negroes in the second straight day of demonstrations and rioting here.

Demonstrators hurled stones and turned over automobiles in an effort to prevent Negroes going to work for their white employers.

About half of Salisbury's Negro labor force stayed home at the start of the strike Wednesday to protest the arrest of three nationalist leaders.

The sound of police riot guns and tear gas bombs was heard throughout this morning in suburban Harare Township where police had clashed with Negro demonstrators a few hours earlier.

Reserve army troops moved into the town during the morning to help police and other soldiers already there.

By noon, police had arrested about 100 Negroes.

LONDON (CP) — The British government was reported today to be irked and embarrassed by the arrest of Negro leaders in Southern Rhodesia.

In some official quarters here the Rhodesian government's action is being described as a calculated snub to the British cabinet.

The arrests led to demonstrations by Negroes in Salisbury, the Southern Rhodesian capital.

The men arrested are Michael Mawema, Sketchley Samkange and Leopold Takawike, leaders of the National Democratic party formed early this year to replace the outlawed African National Congress. These men are regarded here as moderates.

Colonial Secretary Ian Macleod has been following a policy of conciliation in efforts to maintain the delicate links between the Rhodesias and Nyasaland, where divergences in outlook over federation have become marked.

Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike World's First Woman PM

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)— A 44-year-old widow whose first name means Fortunate One was called today to become the modern world's first woman prime minister.

Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, who made tears a formidable campaign weapon, was summoned by Governor-General Sir Oliver Goonetilleke to form a new government after returns from the general election assured her Freedom Party a majority in Parliament.

After receiving Goonetilleke's call, Mrs. Bandaranaike asked astrologers to advise her of an "auspicious time" to accept.

But meanwhile she announced she would nationalize the island country's insurance companies and tea and rubber plantations, most of which are Western-owned. She also said she would name a commission to investigate newspapers that were vigorously hostile to her campaign.

In foreign affairs, she is militantly neutralist.

On the major issues plaguing Ceylon, she has had nothing to say so far. These include the stagnant economy and the explosive bitterness between the Sinhalese-speaking Buddhist majority and the Tamil-speaking Hindus which has caused much bloodshed in the past.

The election gave 75 of the 157 seats in the House of Representatives to Mrs. Bandaranaike's Freedom Party, a grouping of small landowners, schoolteachers physicians, lawyers and a few rich landowners which her husband, Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike, headed until his assassination last year.

The party was assured a majority of five votes because the government names six representatives of business interests and minorities who traditionally vote with the government.

Although she didn't need them, the woman leader can count on the support of 12 Trotskyite members, four Communists and three other socialist-minded members from other parties with whom she had a no-contest electoral pact.

The big loser in the election was the conservative United National party, which dropped to 30 seats from 50. It's leader, Prime Minister Dudley Senenayake, handed in his cabinet's resignation when the election results were announced.

Two Fatally Injured in Car Smash-Up

ORILLIA (CP) — Two men were fatally injured Wednesday night when the car in which they were travelling went out of control on a railway crossing and crashed.

Frank Readman, 35, an Orillia garage proprietor, died at the scene and George Spearo, 30, a tire salesman from Beaverton, died shortly afterwards in hospital.

Police said the car bounced off a rock wall after going out of control and then veered to the opposite side of the road. Spearo was thrown clear but Readman, the driver, was trapped in the car.

WORKS MINISTER MARKED MAN FOR LIBERAL MEMBERS

Temper Wears Thin As Attacks Made

OTTAWA (CP) — Works Minister Walker, a marked man for Liberal members of Parliament, spent a long day under Commons fire Wednesday.

The Toronto lawyer, who earned the Liberal opposition's dislike as Progressive Conservative "prosecutor" in the 1958 printing bureau investigation, was still determinedly affable Wednesday night at the end of a fourth study session on his department's $195,897,000 budget for the current fiscal year.

Criticism of housing policy, unemployment, election promises, and echoes of the printing bureau inquiry were brought to his attention in unflattering terms.

"You can't get me ruffled one bit," advised Mr. Walker at one point in a mood contrasting with his usual readiness to join battle at any point on the political compass. But at times his temper wore thin.

Today, the Commons was

Lumumba Plans Friday Flight To Present Case

U.S. Warns It Will Act To Block Soviet Forces

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The UN security council was faced today with the job of telling Belgium how soon she must get her troops out of the Congo.

Russia, which has been asked by the Congo to intervene, said at a special session of the council which lasted until early today that the Belgians should withdraw within three days.

The United States warned that it would do "whatever may be necessary" to stop Soviet forces going to the Congo.

Thomas Kanza, minister-delegate for the former Belgian colony, said in his first statement that the only way friendly relations could be restored would be by an end to "the aggressive actions of the Belgian troops in the Congo" and their immediate withdrawal.

MODIFIED LATER

Later, however, he asked that they leave "as soon as possible —I don't say immediately."

Pierre Wigny, the Belgian foreign minister, promised that when sufficient UN troops have arrived to restore public order, "we are prepared to withdraw."

He placed before the council a list of crimes, including rape, which he said had been committed by mutinous Congolese soldiers.

The Soviet Union submitted a draft resolution insisting "on the immediate cessation of armed intervention against the republic of the Congo and the withdrawal within three days of all the troops of the aggressor from her territory."

This resolution will be before the council when it resumes discussion this afternoon.

WORK ON MILDER ONE

Meanwhile, Ceylon, Tunisia and other members of the Afro-Asian group were reported to be still at work on another resolution milder in tone and given a better chance of passage than the Russian one.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the U.S. ambassador, said that "with other United Nations members, we will do whatever may be necessary to prevent the intrusion of any military forces not requested by the United Nations."

Foreign Minister Wigny said the Lumumba government was powerless to maintain order and that was the only reason Belgian troops were sent.

Reading from a Belgian inquiry commission's report, he cited the charges of a number of women who said they had been raped by Congolese soldiers.

One woman with a three-months-old baby was told the

HALT BRIDGE WORK

QUEBEC (CP)—Public Works Minister Rene Levesque said Wednesday work on two bridges to link the west end of the island of Montreal to the mainland has been stopped pending the drafting of new plans. Public tenders for construction of the two bridges would be called for when the new plans are ready.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (CP)—A UN spokesman said today Premier Patrice Lumumba has informed the UN mission he will fly to New York Friday to address the Security Council on the Congo crisis.

A meeting of the council scheduled for this afternoon may be postponed to await Lumumba's arrival, the spokesman said.

The tall, goateed government chief has threatened to call in Russian troops if Belgian soldiers do not leave Congolese territory immediately.

Belgian planes began airlifting Belgian parachute troops out of Leopoldville today in fulfillment of the United Nations plan to have this city under UN control by Saturday. The troops are returning to Belgian treaty bases within the Congo.

A contingent of Swedish troops for the UN Congo force arrived from the Middle East and began taking over guard duty from the Belgians at the Leopoldville airport, 15 miles out of town.

The headquartes staff of the Belgian air force here also was packing up. Files, cabinets and even refrigerators and washing machines were crated for shipment to the Belgian bases at Kitona and Kamina.

The UN command plans to replace Belgian troops at the airport and in certain European areas of the capital with the Swedes.

The first contingent consisted of 68 soldiers looking fit and tanned after three months' duty in Gaza with the UN emergency force.

Lumumba won the support of his cabinet Wednesday for his threat to call for Soviet intervention in the Congo but said he would await the outcome of Wednesday night's meeting of the United Nations Security Council before taking any action.

The Security Council adjourned until later today after the United States warned that it would "do whatever may be necessary" to prevent any troops entering the Congo outside the framework of the UN force trying to restore order in the strife-torn country.

Lumumba's ultimatum hung over UN officials here as the split widened between his central government and the administration of the mineral-rich province of Katanga, which has declared its independence from Lumumba's government.

ARREST BOMBOKO

Katanga officials arrested Justin Bomboko, the central government's foreign minister, on his arrival Wednesday night in Elisabethville, capital of Katanga. They said Bomboko, considered one of the most pro-Western members of Lumumba's government, would be expelled from the province.

Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe warned Wednesday that his hastily-assembled army will fight if UN troops try to move into the province.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, assistant secretary-general of the United Nations, said Wednesday that Lumumba had asked him to send UN troops to Katanga but he replied that he did not have planes to transport them.

Lumumba told reporters he would seek help from "the devil or anybody else" in his efforts to force Belgian troops out of their former African colony.

He said he was not concerned

U.S. West Aflame in Many Spots As Fires Burn Forest and Prairie

CHICAGO (AP) — The United Staes west was aflame in many places today.

In eastern Oregon, more than 250 fires burned range and timber land.

Scores of other blazes raged in Idaho and Washington whose governors have declared a state of emergency.

Flames spreading across a prairie threatened to engulf the northern Idaho town of Woodland.

In California, a 26,000-acre brush fire burned to within two miles of the north end of the famed estate containing the late William Randolph Hearst's castle at San Simeon.

A reporter at the scene said a wind change would bring the fire to the back door of the castle, now the centre of a 143-acre state park.

More than 34,000 acres north of Los Angeles have been blackened. Nineteen houses have been burned and 14 firemen injured among 2,500 battling flames in 105- to 112-degree temperatures.

Five big fires turned mile-high pine forests into a frontier of flames 15 to 35 miles north of downtown Los Angeles.

Convoys of trucks, buses and police cars evacuated 1,000 youths from summer camps in the Wrightwood area north of Los Angeles.

In the northwest, the biggest fire covered 30,000 acres along the Oregon-Idaho border near Marsing, Idaho.

The weather bureau said the fire fighters could expect little help from the weather. It said:

"Thunderstorms, mostly near the mountains, are forecast for today. In this tinder-dry region the activity is likely to set off more fires. . . ."

Mrs. D. Wilson Of This City Seriously Hurt

STRATFORD — A practically new car rolled over twice Tuesday afternoon and came to rest upside down on Highway 7 and 8, near New Hamburg, sending a Belleville woman to hospital here with severe injuries.

Mrs. Dorothy Wilson was taken to the Stratford General Hospital suffering a broken left leg as well as cuts and bruises. She was thrown from the car.

The driver, Miss Helen Lee, of Belleville, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. She and Mrs. Wilson were coming to Stratford to spend a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pigeon, 146 Water St. A sister of Miss Lee.

The accident happened about a quarter of a mile east of the CNR overpass this side of New Hamburg.

Ronald Mills, of London, who was driving behind the Lee car, described the mishap:

"She hit the shoulder, and the gravel made her roll a little. She came back on the highway, but there was a car coming towards her.

"I guess it scared her, and she swerved down into the ditch and started back out. Then it rolled over twice."

The car, a "compact" model had only 697 miles on its speedometer. It was extensively damaged on the roof and both sides. Front and rear windows were broken out.

Heavy truck and car traffic on the highway was backed up to the overpass and over 100 yards to the west, moving alternately past the car in the middle of the pavement.

The ambulance that took Mrs. Wilson to hospital was somewhat slowed in reaching the scene by the heavy traffc on the highway about 5 p.m.

Constable R. E. Schenk of the Sebringville OPP detachment investigated the accident.

Charge Russia Deliberately Boosts Tension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States charged Wednesday that the Soviet government is seeking "deliberately to increase tension" by a campaign of threats and propaganda.

The state department made this accusation in rejecting Russia's newest protest against alleged plans to turn over medium-range American ballistic missiles to the West German government.

In a strongly worded statement, the department denounced Soviet "professions of peace" at a time when Russian leaders are threatening smaller nations and seeking to block United Nations efforts to bring peace in the Congo.

Only One of Twenty Pigeons Flies Home From Winnipeg

Perhaps they wandered over Soviet territory and have been shot down as feathered spies.

However, only one pigeon of a flock of twenty that was released for a special 1,000 mile flight from Winnipeg to this district, has completed the journey.

The aerial fleet of pigeons was released in Winnipeg June 23. The Bowmanville bird arrived home July 17, returning on the 25th day.

Three Belleville pigeons were included in the group. Two were two-year-olds owned by Bob Button, the other a three-year-old owned by Tom Woodcock.

Both Button and Woodcock are hopeful their young fliers will return to the home cotes.

"They are young and lack long flight experience," Button said today. "Of course anything could have happened. On the day of release in Winnipeg, there was severe weather, high winds and rain, and this may have had something to do with their non-appearance."

"It is quite possible they are alive—and will show up sometime," he said.

Bowling Notes

Excellent bowling was witnessed last evening at the local greens when the club playoffs were held for the women's section to declare winners to play in the district playdowns scheduled for the Belleville greens on Friday. Mrs. Gordon Vince is the convener for the district. Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon, Mrs. Millie Smith with Mrs. Ann Watkin as skip, who have won a Provincial championship in trebles competition, defeated Mrs. Jessie Hunter, Mrs. Edna Jackman with Mrs. Myrtle Smith as skip 17-14, while Miss Marge Fairbairn and Miss Winnie Smith held a 14-12 edge over Mrs. Betty Vince and Mrs. Carm Mott in the doubles. There was no single competition but Mrs. Myrtle Smith will compete in this event for the home club.

Three clubs will be represented in the competition on Friday, Kingston, Belleville and Trenton. The playdowns are on the knockout system in this round but on a point basis after the first round. The zone playoffs will be held in Kingston.

• • •

On Monday two rinks from the women's section journeyed to Kingston to compete in a trebles tournament and a rink of Mrs. Jessie Hunter, Mrs. Edna Jackman with Mrs. Myrtle Smith as skip was second three-game high in the tourney while a rink of Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon, Mrs. Betty Vince with Mrs. Carm Mott as skip won two games but lost one and without sufficient score to get in the prize money. The girls report a fine afternoon of bowling but surprised that only two clubs, Kingston and Belleville were represented.

Two rinks of men's doubles were in Brighton on Wednesday afternoon and Ralph Tuck with Wally Lavergne won the one-game high score. Mr. W. Shepphard and partner of Colborne won the tournament, while Harold Freeman with partner of Peterborough was second three-game high. WHITE RIVER — A visiting angler landed two speckled trout with one cast here recently. As he retrieved his lure after a strike, his hooked "speck" dove under submerged brush and became entangled. Freeing the line, with the trout still hooked, he noticed as he reeled it towards his canoe that he had two fish, the other swimming alongside. Both were scooped up in the ready landing net. The pair averaged 1¾ pounds.

25 American Cadets Arrive At Trenton

TRENTON — Twenty-five Civil Air Cadets from the United States landed at RCAF Station Trenton yesterday.

On hand to welcome the cadets on behalf of the people of Trenton was Douglas Whitley, vice-president of the Ontario Provincial Committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada. Mayor James MacDonald was unable to tender the official welcome because of a death in his family.

Mr. Whitley also welcomed the cadets as president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and briefed them concerning their three-day stay in Trenton.

George Ross of Ottawa, general manager of the Air Cadet League, and Jim Smith, secretary-manager of the Ontario League, also welcomed the visitors.

The cadets were introduced to 25 Canadian cadets who left today for an exchange visit to the U.S.

The cadets and their escorting officers, Col Bottom and Capt. Wrang, were welcomed to Air Transport Command Headquarters by Air Commodore F. S. Carpenter and Group Capt. D. J. Williams, commanding officer of RCAF Station Trenton.

Part of their visit will be spent as guests of the RCAF here. They will also spend 24 hours as guests of several townspeople.

While at the station the cadets will participate in drills and recreational pursuits.

Thirteen-year-old Joan Virgilio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Virgilio, Carrying Place Road, Trenton, is still missing from her home. She has now been gone three weeks. It is thought that Joan left in the company of 16-year-old Gloria Lawes of Wooler. The Lawes girl had told friends that she was going to look for work in Kingston or Hamilton where she had friends. Joan is 5 feet, 6 inches tall and is well built with red, curly hair, brown eyes and freckles.

• • •

A letter from zone commander W. H. Donaldson informing the members that the time of the drumhead service at Bewdley July 31 had been changed from 2 p.m. to 1.30 p.m., was read. A full delegation from the Trenton branch is expected to attend. Cars for transportation will be at the Legion hall at noon.

CALL TENDERS

TRENTON — Tenders have been called for the construction of the pump house at the site of the Sidney Street well. Structural steel and pipes have been procured as well as the electrical equipment necessary for certain installations.

It is hoped that the building will be finished by the end of August.

Trenton Plane Flies Hurt Man To Hospital

TRENTON — An RCAF Dakota left here Wednesday and airlifted a civilian employee of the RCAF at North Bay to Toronto General Hospital.

W. Lamothe was reported suffering from a compound fracture of the spine. He could not be moved by ambulance because of the nature of his injury and the fact that a 30-mile strip of rough road lies between North Bay and Toronto.

Aboard the aircraft was Nursing Sister G. Rach, who was responsible for administering oxygen to the patient. Mr. Lamothe was in a traction splint.

Pilot of the plane, which landed at Malton airport at 5 p.m., was F/O R. G. Armstrong.

$850 Damage

TRENTON — Damage totalled $850 last night when a car driven by Charles Ward of Belleville struck cars owned by Gordon Bonter of Carrying Place, Archie Spence of Trenton and Edward John Pougnet of Oakville which were parked in front of the Weaver Funeral Home on Dundas St., West.

Police said Mr. Ward was arrested at Brighton and returned to Trenton where he was charged with leaving the scene of an accident. He was released on bail but, police said, other charges may be laid.

Doomsday Rehearsal

The Belgians, according to the London Economist, "have reaped as they sowed" in the Congo.

Is that surprising? Does that not always happen?

That the crop has been so bitter is as much a reflection on the Belgians as on the Congolese.

This is not to suggest that the Congolese are treating the Belgians as the Belgians treated the Congolese. But, as British newspapers and magazines join in pointing out, Belgium did nothing to prepare the Congolese to govern themselves. "Not a single African was put alongside a Belgian anywhere to learn a job," says the Conservative Sunday Times. "Belgium never lifted a little finger to help African self-advancement," says a writer in the Liberal News Chronicle.

The key to the prevailing chaos was the revolt of the rank and file of the Congolese Army against their white officers. Who could really expect the natives to continue taking orders from white men once they had won independence? Was there ever a mutinous army anywhere which was not guilty of rapine and pillage?

Answers to these questions ought to be considered by other governments in Africa, not to delay or prevent the granting of independence to additional territories but to prepare properly for it.

In all these lands, we can be sure that the whites will fare precisely as the Belgians have in the Congo—they will reap what they have sown. This crop can be respect and fair treatment, or it can be the opposite side of the coin of apartheid.

If it is not already too late for Afrikaaners to save their skins then it is certainly their last chance. The days between the present and the inevitable time when the Bantu will demand and obtain equal treatment are none too long for the monumental task of erasing the memories of past humiliations.

Like Nothing On Earth

The camera is the world's great liar.

That thought occurred on seeing a reproduction of a photograph of Montreal, released by the Province of Quebec Publicity Bureau.

Taken from Mount Royal it was, but any person who expects to view this scene, with the naked eye, by ascending Mount Royal is going to be bitterly disappointed. The tall buildings which loom so large and clear in the photograph will be hazy in the distance. Only a pair of powerful binoculars could duplicate the camera's view.

This, of course, is but one of a hundred instances in which pictures deceive. Even when there is not deliberate deception, (grafting one picture onto another for better effect, retouching to bring out details or to eliminate them), pictures rarely tell the truth.

One picture is indeed worth a thousand words—when the aim is to over-simplify, misinterpret or conceal.

He Is Frankly Puzzled

In a world where so many people know things which are not so, where almost everybody is prepared to offer a detailed explanation of almost everything, it is refreshing to meet a confession of ignorance and bewilderment.

"I simply do not understand what your purpose is today," wrote Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of the United Kingdom to Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union.

Mr. Macmillan ought not to be surprised if he is deluged with a flood of letters, pamphlets and books explain just what Khrushchev's purpose is.

We suspect, though, that he would trade all of these for a few brief sentences of explanation from Khrushchev. They might not be the true explanation of what Khrushchev's purpose is today, but the very fact that they were his explanation would be more informative than a dozen conflicting theories by men who, unlike Mr. Macmillan, have never met and talked with the Russian leader.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DOORS

Stanley Jones, the great modern preacher and writer, often speaks about the necessity of turning our denials into doors. By this he means that every time a door is shut against us, or every time we shut a door against something in life we very much desire, another door is opened — a door that will lead us into great satisfaction.

The young man or woman intent on leading a pure life shuts the door to uncleanliness of all kinds. It takes courage to do that, but every young person who shuts that door should realize that another door of far greater satisfaction will be opened. Every time we close the door on something low, God opens a door for us on something high. Every time we say No to our evil selves. God gives us strength to say Yes to our better selves.

How many people, disappointed and left in despair, have suddenly found that because of this circumstance God had placed their feet on highways which later lead to great service and happiness! It was a personal disappointment in his home life which made Hosea the great prophet of love. It was the blasting of earthly happiness for Savanarola which turned his thoughts to God and made him one of the great religious leaders of all times. It was the thorn in his flesh which made St. Paul seek more avidly for God's sustaining grace.

Historic Hastings

The Iroquois Confederacy

Part Two

By DEANNA HILL OF DESERONTO

(Article 126 in the series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society).

When Deganawidah went from the Bay of Quinte to the south shore of Lake Ontario in the sixteenth century, he found a number of tribes, somewhat related to one another by speech, living in what is now New York state and the valley of the St. Lawrence River. These tribes, much like the European nations of the past and present, were constantly engaged in inter-tribal warfare. It is hard to differentiate between fact and legend, but it would seem that about the year 1570, two great chiefs, Deganawidah and Hiawatha, both of whom were gifted with a genius for political organization, succeeded in forming five of these tribes into a confederacy. This confederacy had a central council fire and a governing council of fifty hereditary chiefs or sachems.

About the year 1715, the league was opened to admit the Tuscarora tribe, then resident in North Carolina, whose lands and hunting grounds had been taken by the English colonists. The Iroquois have since been known as the Six Nations.

You thus see that our league ante-dated your United Nations by several hundred years.

The league had for its object, mutual support in case of attack. Later, however, it became a powerful league of aggression Between the years 1600 and 1660 its members made themselves supreme over all the tribes from the upper reaches of Georgian Bay in Canada on the north, to the Tennessee River on the south and from the Hudson river on the east, to the Mississippi and the land of the Sioux tribes on the west.

In 1649 the Iroquois, fearful of losing their position as intermediaries in the rich fur trade, utterly destroyed the Huron Nation around Georgian Bay. The Neutrals fell in turn, and later the Eries and Conestogas.

The prosperity of New France was threatened and it needed only the action of Governor Denonville, who in 1687 treacherously seized at Kingston a number of Iroquois warriors who had come to a banquet given by him, to bring the frightful wrath of the Iroquois down on the French colony.

Fortunately, the succeeding governor, Frontenac, by a series of bold raids, was able to force the Iroquois to sue for peace; and it was not until almost half a century later when England and France declared war that the red hatchet was again dug up.

At this time our support was being courted by both French and English, as it was realized we held the balance of power. When we chose the side of the English, the French received a staggering blow.

Following the capture of Quebec the Indians' loyalty was soon put to the test for in 1763, Pontiac one of the greatest of all Indian chiefs, realizing that one European nation holding complete power in America spelled the doom of the Indians, conceived his plan of re-establishing the French. Had the Confederacy not stood firm or had it joined with him, the current of North American history would have changed. But the great council fire at Onondaga was burning low — the long series of wars had weakened the numerical strength of the confederacy and the tide of settlement was slwoly but surely flowing westward.

The Efficient Worker

New York Times

A morsel of philosophy and a comment about the American pace came out of Washington recently. The source was a visitor: the King of Thailand. "Happiness," the King told newsmen, "is the goal of every human being. So if you (Americans) go so fast, you don't have time to be happy." No one believes that a slow pace alone produces happiness If it did, that sublime gift would fall to some of the unlikeliest people. But that there s a relation between pace and happiness, few would deny. The man who lives and works at top speed is not likely, as the King of Thailand reminds us, to let happiness catch up with him. Here, as in so many problems, the answer seems to lie — as the cliche tells us — in the happy medium.

• • •

The way in which a man does his work is perhaps the most telltale thing about him. The ambitious fellow who moves about so hurriedly that he has to bank around corners is not, we know, the most efficient worker. In fact — since work, efficiency and effort are often mercurial and tricky things — he may be very inefficient. Then there is the fellow who grinds away at his work. He is, too, the picture of industry. He may also be just as inefficient as his colleague who rushes about. These two types are among the most unfortunate; they achieve neither efficiency nor happiness. Rather than actually getting work done, they are merely working at being at work.

• • •

Who, then, is our superworker — and how does he operate? This exemplary gentleman realizes, in the first place, something about the nature of work — or about problem-solving. He knows the technique of "looking away" from a problem. When a stint of direct application on a puzzling question has not produced the solving answer he may swing his attention to something else, something less taxing, or at least something different. He will leave the unsolved problem for a time to his unconscious mind, which often turns up an answer if given an informal assignment. This gentleman also is wary of making decisions when he is tired. Perhaps most important, he plans his lines of action thoroughly beforehand and then follows them resolutely, so there will be a strong measure of consistency in his work. As an observer of himself and of the phenomena within work itself, he may figure out some tricks that produce high results. Along the lines say, of H. G. Wells' maxim for getting over a hurdle or a dead spot when writing a book Wells would return to his desk at odd hours "to attack the book when it was least expecting it."

• • •

There is another fact about the truly excellent worker — a fact that takes any "gentleman-farmer tinge" away from him. That fact is that this gentleman can step up his pace, can assume a tremendous schedule when necessary. And he can go along under such pressure more serenely, more effectively, than the fellow who is a compulsive hurrier or grind. Our exemplary worker is, compared with these laboring models, like a car with overdrive —maintaining high speed without near the effort expended by others. This worker's secret is that he makes sure he gets a share of amusement or recreation or happiness even when under duress. These keep him of amiable mind, nourished with the spirits of life; he doesn't become wan, dried out or on edge. He may be going to a climactic meeting on which much hangs. That is no reason not to enjoy the five-minute walk to it. (The less-efficient fellow, on the other hand, doesn't walk to it but worries his way to it; and if early, paces the corridor furrow-browed.)

• • •

The truly efficient worker thus thinks about the nature of work so he can better approach it. He is competitive but not in silly ways. He is cognizant that "the reward of a thing well done is to have done it". But perhaps the central thing to remember about his well-regulated pace is that it is preservative of that sweet balance of mind in which happiness can grow.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a popular and always crowded lunch time restaurant there is invariably a line-up in the lobby at the height of noon, and the hostesses, keeping watch across the expanse of the dining room, select from the line-up those for table for two, table for four, and so on. Quite often, therefore, groups of four, some way back in the line-up, get a break over those who have been waiting longer.

From my table, which afforded a close view of the line-up, I saw the hostess call out "Table for four?" and promptly two of the young executive type stepped forward and, with backward glances as if to catch the attention of their party, followed the hostess to a table for four.

When she paused, as they sat down, looking for the other two, the easy-mannered young executives said:

"We're expecting the others any minute."

And there, at their ease, smoking their cigarets, sat the two charmers for a full fifteen minutes, keeping the table out of service and a waitress short of her precious time, before the expected others arrived and were also shown around past the line-up.

The hostess paused at my table.

"That is what you call getting on in the world," she remarked, drily. Copyright: Canada Wide..

Strictly Personal

Little Religion Is Dangerous Thing Today

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

The trouble with cleverness is that understanding a thing too soon often prevents one from understanding it thoroughly.

Aren't there any commentaries except "sad" ones?

Of two evils, when we tell ourselves we are choosing the lesser, we usually mean we are choosing the more comfortable.

The posturing of certain political figures in an election year reminds me of Rebecca West's terse comment on an English statesman of her day: "He is every other inch a gentleman."

We call the person who loses without complaining a "good sport," but there is no approving designation for that much nobler and rarer soul — the person who wins without gloating.

I don't think women were ever hit over the head and carried away by their hair, as the caveman cartoons depict primitive courtship; I think they just pretended to be captured, as they still do.

It's interesting how people with inferiority feelings always manage to put themselves into situations which aggravate such feelings, like a dental patient with a cavity who keeps probing with his tongue to see how much it still hurts.

A little religion is a more dangerous thing than a little learning; as Swift bitterly observed: "We have just enough religion to make us hate but not enough to make us love one another."

Gossip is anything that makes a man say, "I never would have believed it," and makes a woman say, "I suspected it all along." Men, on the whole, are cynical about the world but naive about individuals; while women are sanguine about the world, but clear-eyed about individuals.

Almost every child is a genius to the age of 6 — then the fear of overtaking his parents slows him down.

"Truth" is the object of philosophy, but "seeming to be right" is the object of philosophers.

It's astonishing how many older women cannot see the paradox that they look much younger when they accept their age, and look much older when they resist it.

We evaluate our friends with a Godlike justice, but we want them to evaluate us with a Godlike compassion.

Why is it never a "short cry" from this to that?

Those who marry mostly to escape an unhappy home soon find that they have just created another unhappy home.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molnet, M.D.

NOT EVEN ASPIRIN IS GOOD FOR EVERYTHING

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've read a lot about aspirin and how it helps nearly all ailments under the sun, even diabetes. I also have read that you have to be careful if you have stomach ulcers. Why? I have a gastric ulcer and take from two to six aspirins a day. — Mrs. R. L."

You didn't read the first part of that in this column. There is no drug that is "good for what ails you, regardless". When too many extravagant claims are made for a treatment or medicine, watch out!

Still, aspirin, after all these years, is one of the truly remarkable discoveries. It is an anti-inflammatory drug, and as such it is one of the best we have ever found for arthritis. It eases the pain of a toothache, headache or badly stubbed toe. In inflammatory conditions, it has no equal, perhaps, in combined safety and effectiveness.

But for diabetes? It doesn't do any good as regards diabetes itself, although in the many variations or complications which can occur, there may be some in which aspirin is of use. There may be aspects of many diseases in which aspirin has a helpful role.

As to gastric ulcers — well, in some people aspirin can prove to be irritating to the stomach. For some patients, it may cause stomach upsets even though ulcers are not present.

Medical care is a complicated art. That is why society demands that a man (or woman) who wants to be a doctor must spend many years learning how. A doctor-to-be must learn what things do — and then must learn a host of exceptions to all the rules. The human body is not a simple thing. It is extremely complicated. And no two people are exactly alike—even identical twins. Medical care requires watching every patient as an individual, to see whether, in some one respect, he is different from the average.

Thus even such a dependable drug as aspirin won't act with one person in the same way it acts with another. Or, for ordinary use, we virtually all can take aspirin for a headache. Yet when it comes to taking it continually, and in some quantity, we must watch out for the fact that some people will have stomach upsets. Some, not all.

If an ulcer is present in the stomach or duodenum, then there is that much more chance that the aspirin may irritate. And, of course, the big aim in treating ulcers is to prevent irritation.

There is no way to be sure in advance whether the aspirin is likely to irritate. The only thing we can do is proceed cautiously and watchfully.

All this is a good example of what we mean when we say that medications should be taken under your doctor's supervision.

People often wonder about this — they wonder why, if a certain drug is "good" for whatever the condition may be, they can't simply take the drug without a doctor's help.

It is the exception that is important, the patient who runs into trouble with the drug, whatever it is. The person who reacts other than in average fashion is the one who needs our closest attention. That's why medical treatment isn't as easy as it sometimes appears to be.

Dirt Roads Inviting

New York Herald Tribune

The sight of a dirt road leading away from black asphalt is an irresistible invitation to many drivers, and to many walkers too, if many there still be. What scene of hidden charm lies behind the leaf fringed curves winding away into the back country? The slow cruise of the car through the trees, the whisper of the bumper grazing the grasses of the tufted crown, the brush of overhanging branches, the crunch of pebbles — these are the sounds of peace and solitude. The prospect is unending, and there is the agreeable sensation of being lost, while knowing that you never really are.

The dirt road has survived better than the low slung automobile of today would suggest. Cars are no longer made for high crowns, but they can scrape along the sandy ruts, on tiptoe, just the same. In Vermont, for example, a whole day's driving can be had without touching tire to tar or concrete, something the state's publicists have wisely pointed out. But you do not have to go as far as Vermont to find a satisfactory dirt road.

Peace, solitude — and timelessness. If there are telephone poles they are unnoticeable. This is the real wayside once more, no barren shoulders, no ugly signs, no gas stations, none of the agitated boredom of the modern highway. The natural history books used to speak of "wayside" flowers and "wayside" birds. Well, here they are. And if you meet another traveller, perhaps a boy coming home from a country school, it is quite proper and natural to wave to him. He will wave back.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SMOOTH THINGS ALONG

Yes, we all have trouble enough, so don't tell us yours. Rather, do this — smooth things along!

I know of a person whose great stock in trade is to talk continually about misfortune. Nothing is ever going to be right — all things are wrong. Well, I would say to that person — what of it?

You never put a fire out by feeding it more fuel. Smooth things along, my friend, smooth things along.

Somehow or other, all things come out right if you will but get the proper viewpoint. But it can't be done if you persist in putting yourself in your own light. You have to get out of the way yourself while you let in the light and air and natural rightness of things that already exist in the world to make you right.

Smooth things along a while -- and see what happens!

Not very many folks quarrel with themselves. If they were put on a desert island all alone, they would have other things to think about. They would start right off to smooth things along for their own good, you may be very sure.

Never mind who is to blame. Most times, no one is. So do all you can to smooth things along.

The world will change for you very quickly if you do.

Trenton Rink Wins Playdowns At Peterborough

A Trenton rink, a doubles pair from Oshawa, a singles player from Richmond Hill and an entry from Tottenham in the Colts Triples competition will represent Zone 4 (Eastern Ontario) in the Ontario Lawn Bowling championships final series to be played in Toronto on Saturday, July 30th. These winners were declared in the Zone Playdowns conducted on the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club Greens during play held all day Wednesday, under the convenership of the official umpire for the zone playdowns, Ex-Mayor Gerald B. Hyde of Belleville.

Play in the Zone playdowns is conducted on a round-robin basis with the representative from each district in each of the four events meeting each of the other three winners on a pre-determined basis, decided by lot. In the scoring two points are awarded to a team which wins, one point for a tie and no points for a loss. In the event of a tie in points at the end of the round robin, the winner in each group is decided on the basis of the best net score earned on the day's play.

The winners of this zone will meet the winners of the other three zones in the finals in Toronto and the provincial champions will represent this province in the G. and W. Canadian championships which will be held in Edmonton, Alberta from August 22 to 24.

The greens were in excellent condition and much keen competiton resulted.

The results in each series are listed as follows.

SINGLES

Richmond Hill. Jim Granger, 2 pts. plus 5; Dick Adams: Whitby. 2 pts. minus 1; Harold Buck, Kingston, 2 pts. minus 4.

The fourth winner representing District 16 failed to appear.

DOUBLES

Oshawa: George Jackson, Jack Hunter, skip, 4 pts. plus 26; Tottenham: J. A. Boyd, W. E. Carlton, skip, 4 pts. minus 1; Trenton: Larry Chouinard, Clint Mitts, skip, 2 pts. minus 7; Ottawa: Bill May, Archie Atkinson, skip, 2 pts. minus 18.

Trenton: Steve Way, lead, Ken Peacock, second, Bob Hakker, vice, Bill Fuller, skip, 5 pts. plus 15; Oshawa: Frank Kellar, skip, 4 pts. plus 3; Agincourt: John Rutherford, skip, 3 pts. minus 1; Brockville: George Parish, skip, 0 pts. minus 17.

COLT TRIPLES

(Restricted to bowlers who have played for 5 years or less).

Tottenham: Albert Drury, lead, Ray Baxter, second, Oral McClain, skip, 5 pts. plus 29.

Rod Webb Highly Critical Of Management of Railways

Rod Webb, MP for Hastings-Frontenac, in a speech in the House of Commons on Monday, was highly critical of Canadian railways for what he termed their disregard for the public's "rights of convenience and necessity."

Following is the text of Mr. Webb's speech as it appeared in Hansard:

"I should like to make a very few remarks with reference to the alarming situation regarding the removal of train services. I think that we, as members of the government of Canada, should join in a common purpose, a common understanding and a common program to keep the railroad industry healthy and thriving, and to face those in the industry who seek to consolidate the nation's railroads into a few non-competitive systems under the guise of efficiency and economy.

SEEK DEFICITS?

"It seems that their objective is to get maximum profits even though it means denying the public its rights of convenience and necessity. I feel that the railroads are attempting in some cases to neglect their passenger and freight service so that it will show a deficit, and thus make it easier to apply for the removal of trains and trackage, thus having an adverse effect on the people and the small businessmen who have located on these lines.

"It is my honor, Mr. Chairman, to represent a riding the people of which through the years have had to depend largely on the railroad for their transportation and the delivery of their daily needs and commodities. Also in this riding is the town of Havelock, a railroad terminal centre, which for many years has depended on the railroad as its major source of income. Knowing intimately many of the railroad employees throughout the riding, may I say that these men believe in a bright future for the rail industry. They are ready to stand shoulder to shoulder with enlightened management and the government in order to assure that future.

"Surely anyone with the foresight and vision of the future shown by the Prime Minister would readily agree that within the next few years our population will be at least tripled. We should bear in mind the European countries, with their dense populations who depend almost entirely on rail commuter service to and from the metropolitan areas, and to the most distant suburban centres, as being a public service.

BLAMES MANAGEMENT

"It is my opinion that the management of our railroads must assume a good deal of the responsibility for the decline) to some extent, of passenger and freight loads. As an operator of a small business may I say that many times representatives of the transport trucking firms have called at our place of business soliciting business for their firms and inquiring if we had any complaints or any suggestions as to how we thought the service could be improved. Yet never once over many long years were we called upon by representatives of the railroads, and never did we have the courtesy of a letter thanking us for past business or soliciting new business. Is it not evident who is responsible for the decreasing traffic?

"However, at this point let me say that from my experience of the years during which I have travelled on the railroads I cannot too highly praise the train crews. They are most courteous and they have done, and still are doing all that is in their power to create good will between the railroad and the passenger who use it. Management could surely take a lesson from such men.

"I should like to see a study made of the number of employees who had been released by the railways in Canada during the past few years and the effect this has had on small businessmen and the economy of the communities concerned.

"In closing, may I predict that railroad passenger business will revive and grow, providing more jobs for railway workers, and that it will be far more efficient service for the public than ever before. This can be attained provided a high quality of dedicated leadership is shown. May I say, Mr. Chairman, to the minister through you, that I plead with him and his department to give this matter his very earnest consideration, because it is one of utmost importance which affects every Canadian and the country as a whole.

1,100 Pheasants Are Released In District

The pheasant propagation program for the Tweed District is now completed for this season with 1,100 birds being released.

The release consisted of 400 chicks, 400 poults, and 300 adults, the birds going to Prince Edward County, Napanee and Kingston areas.

In Prince Edward County, the Picton Fish and Game Club have been giving some extra care and feed to the birds. They state the hunting prospects for the fall hunt look good.

The Napanee Club took the pheasant release on as a project and members report the birds are doing well.

A number of stock birds were released on the penitentiary grounds at Collins Bay where inmates under their warden and his staff are hoping the birds will start a natural propagation, aided by supplementary foods placed at various places throughout the grounds. In this way they will supply the surrounding area with birds which will be available for shooting in the Fall.

The open season this year commences on October 8th at 8 a.m. and closes at 5 p.m. on October 29th.

Women Can Wear Coat Either Way

LONDON (Reuters) — Women will have the choice of wearing their coats back to front if manufacturers adopt an idea shown Wednesday by Charles Creed, one of Britain's leading couturiers.

The "back-to-front look" was featured by Creed in a collarless, unlined tweed coat.

The coat was shown first with the buttons at the back and the front falling straight and completely unadorned.

Then the model, helped by an assistant, flipped off the coat and put it on again the other way around to give a more conventional look.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

We can endure a wide variety of discomfort. We withstand privation and poverty and the perils of physical danger. Yet, life seems to run out into the depths if deep down within us there is a gnawing sense of loneliness.

As children we exhibit the fears of abandonment. We crave the light, shun the darkness. We are comforted when we are certain that a beloved is close at hand. No matter how old or gray we grow, we never outgrow the heart's craving for the understanding and the sympathy of someone who cares. We never move beyond the need for the wisdom of Genesis: "It is not good for man to be alone." Indeed, at the very heart of all human bereavement, are the aches and pains of loneliness, the forlorn feelings of having been utterly and finally abandoned.

Is there no answer, no therapy for our ills? Are there no ways in which we may fortify lives against that dark feeling of being adrift on a wide, wide sea, with no one to hold our hand?

First, we ought to understand what causes loneliness People are lonely because they run away from unpleasant reality. We wish to have limitless pleasure and often, are willing or unable to endure its absence. We cringe before the demands life make of us. We close our eyes to the sordid, the difficult and the tormenting. We see ourselves, too often, as at the centre of the universe. If we lack what we think we need, we run from life, seeking protective cover — and we often discover no one there to shelter us.

The tragedy of loneliness finds its effective answer in a single word: Love.

But what kind of love? Not the love which is given in order to receive. For if love is only given to be received, when we no longer receive it, we are left alone, profoundly troubled and unhappy, believing that we have been rejected. Love must be a free gift; it must be given as a supreme art of faith. What is more: It must reflect an affirmation of life. Real love says: In spite of my own hurt, I want to help things grow; I want to help the seed take root; I want to see life aspire and achieve. And it says one thing more: "I will labor that life may grow; I will work that it may be nourished and may develop."

This kind of love reflects our embrace of the fullness of life. It is the power some of us have to see the sun shining through the clouds. It is the strength some of us demonstrate in the midst of abject weakness .

He who has loved in this mature way can never really feel alone. For always the love he is will to give will bring him closer to the world which needs him. He may sometimes lose; he can never be defeated.

All who tried the examinations were successful.

Christmas Tree Effect Shown In One Gown

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters)— The fashionable woman of 1961 may have a Christmas tree look.

The coniferous silhouette was launched Wednesday by Cesare Guidi of Florence at the current Italian fashion show here, with a silk, sea-green taffetta evening dress.

The skirt was made of two large cowbell-shaped tunics, one on top of the other which, topped by the slim, strapless bodice, produced the Christmas tree effect.

This line ran through the whole of Guidi's collection.

Rifle Little Heavy for Girl Champ

OTTAWA (CP) — A German Annie Oakley recently tried some target shooting with the Canadian Army's FN rifle but found it a bit rough after her lightweight "shootin' iron."

The visit of a large circus to Soest, base of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Guards, resulted in a friendly shoot-off between the show's crack shot, 17-year-old Karin Prieto, and members of the Guards' champion small arms team.

The circus queen put on a sharp shooting display for the guards. Sgt. Alynn Laycox of Cochrane, Ont., was pitted against her and fared well until she started aiming with a rear view mirror.

JAMES — CAMPBELL

Tall standards of blue delphiniums; pink gladioli, and white Shasta daisies, banked with fern, formed a lovely setting in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 9, at 3.00 p.m. for a lovely summertime wedding when Elma Jean Campbell, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Campbell, was united in marriage to Mervyn Frank William James, of Belleville R. R. No. 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. William James. The Reverend C. W. Coleman, pastor of the church, officiated in the double-ring ceremony. Four large white satin bows, centred with white Shasta daisies, designated the guest pews.

Mr. Clifford Templer, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Arnold Dilts, who sang, "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her floor-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta fashioned with torso bodice having short sleeves and Sweetheart neckline appliqued with French lace. French lace also adorned the bouffant skirt. Her silk tulle illusion veil in finger-tip length was held by a tiara encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Yuletide red roses mingled with white stephanotis.

Her attendants were, Mrs. Charles Cantle, of Toronto, as matron of honor. Miss Mary Brenton, of Val Cartier, Quebec and little Miss Suzanne Campbell of Belleville, as bridesmaid and flower girl respectively. The matron of honor was gowned in a street-length gown of blue organza over blue taffeta with matching shoes and headdress, and the bridesmaid and flower girl, were adorable in white organza over blue taffeta with blue cummerbunds and sash and matching headdresses. All carried nosegays of blue and white baby 'mums encircling pink rose centres, with pink streamers.

Mr. William Benton, of Val Cartier, Quebec, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, while Mr. Paul Campbell of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Keith Hayward, also of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

The wedding reception was held on the spacious lawn at the home of the bride's parents, where tall standards of mixed summer flowers, and the bride's table, backed by tall evergreens, made a most charming picture.

Centering the hand-crochet lace covered table was the beautiful, three-tier pillared wedding cake—made and decorated by the bridegroom's mother—topped by Sweetheart roses and white gypsophelia, and misted about the base with white tulle.

The bride's mother, attired in a willow-green pure silk sheath with matching suede shoes, white hat and accessories, with corsage of pink Pinocchio roses, received the guests, assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who wore an attractive delphinium - blue sheath of pure silk, with white hat and accessories, and corsage of Carol Amling pink Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, Stratford and other points, the bride travelled in a toast-colored linen suit, with white accessories, and corsage of toast and white carnations. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. James will reside in Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at several miscellaneous showers; at the home of Mrs. W. H. Oliphant with Mrs. Frank Rayfield, as co-hostess; at the home of Mrs. A. R. Wyatt, with Mrs. Donald Ferguson as co-hostess; at a presentation by the choir of Holloway Street United Church, and Evening Mission Circle; at a presentation by the Income Tax Association ladies' department, and by the So-Ed group of the YMCA. The bride and bridegroom were also entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Homer Townsend, and by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ellis.

Guests were present from Toronto, Kingston, Valcartier, Quebec; Drummondville, Quebec; Rochester, Minnesoto and Newfoundland.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Francis G. Gerow are shown cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in Centenary United Church. Riley, Belleville.)

GEROW — MAY

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized recently in Centenary United Church, when the Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., united in marriage Donna Marian May, of Belleville, R. R. 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bern[illegible] May, to Larry Francis George Gerow, of Belleville son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gerow. Tall baskets of pink and white peonies mixed with orange blossoms, and banked with ferns formed a pretty setting for the ceremony. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Margaret Peters, of Belleville, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Georgina Halton, of Port Hope, who sang, before the ceremony, "Because," and "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of net, over satin enhanced with a petit point lace bodice having an appliqued semi-rounded neckline and tiny sleeves showered with sequins, complemented with elbow-length lily-pointed gauntlets. The fully bouffant skirt worn over many crinolines, featured an all-tiered bustle back of lace and pleated tulle. She wore circular scalloped crown of mathing lace edged with tiny seed pearls, caught to an appliqued finger-eip veil of silk tulle illusion and carried a white Bible crested with red Sweetheart roses and stephanotis with rose bud-knotted white satin streamers.

Miss June Scott, of Belleville, was maid of honor, wearing an orchid taffeta gown with white organza, having a fitted bodice with "V" neckline at the back and scooped in front. The bouffant skirt was accented by a matching cummerbund. A picture hat and gloves in matching shade and a semi-cascade of yellow roses and white carnations, completed her ensemble.

Her bridesmaids were Mrs. Georgina May, of Frankford, and Miss Katherine Gibson, of Ameliasburg. Both were attired in mint-green taffeta with white organza over bouffant skirts, with fitted bodices having "V" shaped necklines in the backs and scooped at the front; with cummerbunds and matching picture hats and gloves. They carried semi-cascades of red roses, mingled with white carnations.

The little flower girl Miss Luana May, sister of the bride, was demure and sweet in a pink taffeta and white organza frock with scalloped bouffant skirt, and collar, matching cummerbund and tiny pink hat, and gloves. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and white 'mums.

Mr. Keith Tompkins, of Frankford, was groomsman and Mr. Larry May, also of Frankford, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ronald Denyes of Halloway, ushered.

The reception was held in the church hall, which was prettily adorned with pink and white bells and streamers.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by the traditional all-white three-tier cake, clouded about the base with white tulle and scattered red peony buds. Tall pink candles in silver holders completed the bridal accent. Girl friends of the bride served.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing romance blue embroidered organza in sheath style, complemented by a matching cummerbund, and tiny bolero, with picture hat in white, matching white gloves and shoes, and corsage of red, Sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother, gowned a two-piece ensemble of teal-blue lace with white accessories, and corsage of red Sweetheart roses, assisted in the receiving line.

For the wedding trip to the Eastern United States, the bride wore a peacock blue sheath with matching three-quarter length duster, white accessories, and corsage of red roses.

Attending the wedding, guests were present from Winnipeg, Manitoba; Vancouver, B.C.; Port Hope; Richmond Hill; Toronto; Kingston; Picton; Brighton; Norham; Frankford; Halloway; Belleville; Oshawa; Consecon and Ameliasburg.

Miss June Scott and Mrs. Charles Scott honored the bride with a personal shower; Mrs. Hawley Melbourne with a surprise miscellaneous shower; and the accounting department of Belleville General Hospital of which the bride is an employee also honored her with a presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerow will reside at Belleville, R. R. 5.

Feeding Cottagers "Up North"

by Mary Moore

On July 1st, where Highway 401 joins Highway 400 in southern Ontario, I saw the cars turn north.

Canadians and Americans — with boats above or behind, trailers, motors, camping equipment, children, dogs — were wearing shorts, sun glasses and a harried, hurried look. The north woods are full of them and they have to be fed.

The shopping facilities in most summer resorts are pretty good. When I was in the little hamlet of Boulter near Bancroft, south of Algonquin Park, I was impressed with the new stock and the variety in the general store. The proprietress is Lizzie Levoy and she has two prides: her kennel of Chesapeake Retrievers and her capacity to produce anything the cottagers request. Occasionally when they leave there is one of her retriever puppies in somebody's lap in the back seat.

I examined the shelves in Lizzie's store and found all of the ingredients needed for the following recipes.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Barbecued Spareribs; Oven French Fries; Spinach; Celery and Carrot Strips; Ice Cream or Blanc Mange with Blueberries; Mallow Squares (see Tuesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY

Frying Pan Chicken (see Thursday); Mashed Potatoes; Cauliflower with Parsley Butter; Cabbage Salad with Cooked Green Peas and Dill Weed French Dressing; Fresh Fruit Cup: Sweet Cherries, Bananas, Green Grapes, Variety of Icebox Cookies; Tea.

FRYING PAN CHICKEN:

(No oven required).

One 2 or 2 1-2-lb. canned chicken (or 2 lbs. fresh or fresh frozen chicken breasts or legs), 1-4 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 1-4 teaspoon poultry seasoning (optional), 1 small clove garlic minced (optional), 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, I can condensed cream chicken soup, 1-2 cup canned or raw tomatoes. Dredge chicken with mixture of flour, salt and pepper by shaking in a paper bag. In frying pan brown chicken, onion, poultry seasoning and garlic in butter or margarine. Add remaining ingredients. Cover. Cook over very low heat 45 minutes.

SALMON LOAF:

Two cups canned (one 1-lb. can salmon, 2 cups soft breadcrumbs, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 3-4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon finely minced onion, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 eggs. Flake salmon, crush soft bones and add oil from fish. Add soft breadcrumbs, salt and pepper and mix lightly. Add well beaten eggs, milk, lemon juice and onion. Mix well. Pour into greased loaf pan, dot with butter and bake at 350 deg. F. about 45 minutes or until firm.

NOTE:

Two cups of any cooked, flaked fish, which your husband has caught, may be substituted for salmon.

CORNED BEEF HASH SUPPER:

Open both ends of 2 cans of corned beef hash and push contents out whole, Slice each into 3 thick slices Fry slowly in small amount of butter until crisp and brown. Turn with pancake turner and arrange at one side of pan. Add drained contents of one can of green beans to other side of pan; season with butter, salt and pepper. Cook over low heat until beans are hot.

NOTE ON PACKAGED SCALLOPED POTATOES:

I tried a package of oven-ready scalloped potatoes and they were fine. All you have to do is to add 1 cup milk, 1 1-2 tablespoons butter and 2 cups boiling water to the contents of the package in a casserole. Give them a gentle stir and bake uncovered at 400 deg. F. for 50 minutes. One package serves six and it is a slick way of getting out of peeling and slicing potatoes for a crowd.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

Question: When a dinner is given by a large church organization at a hotel or some smaller dining place, how are tips handled? Are they included in the price of the ticket or are they given individually on a plate passed around the tables?

Answer: By all means include a small amount on each ticket which in total will cover tips to those serving. Passing a plate around would certainly be an awkward and unpleasant way to handle it.

Question: I am always worried about when to stand and when to stay seated. I am 16-years-old and had an embarrassing thing happen the other afternoon. I was at my girl friend's house and we were sitting talking when her 80-year old grandfather came into the room. Of course I spoke to him but later my girl friend criticized me for not standing when he came into the room. What should I have done?

Answer: You should have stood when you greeted him. This is showing deference to age. Even an adult woman should rise upon such an occasion, unless she is very elderly too. At your age, it is right for you to rise when the mother of your girl friend enters the room. Even though, when you get older, you will not stand when a man enters, unless he is very elderly, it is a nice gesture now to rise when you greet the fathers of your friends.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jerry F. — Jean overrules my punishments.

Jean F. — Jerry is too hard on the boy.

• • •

Jerry F. — My wife and I are having a big feud over the bringing up of our oldest boy.

Mike is 10 and has just gotten to the stage where he likes to throw his weight around. He has been downright fresh recently. When he is told something he turns right around and does the opposite.

I feel that Jean has been encouraging this behavior by being too soft with him. Even worse, she overrules me when I punish him. Aside from the fact that this encourages the kid to think he can get away with anything, it makes me a cruel monster to my son.

• • •

Jean F. — I really think Jerry is too hard on Mike. The kid is far from the potential juvenile delinquent his father sees. He just gets overenthusiastic about certain things and then he forgets his responsibilities.

Recently, for example, we bought him a bike. He was told that he must always keep it in the garage when it wasn't in use. But one day a couple of his friends came by and he got involved and left the bike in front of the house.

As punishment Jerry forbade him to go to a picnic he had been looking forward to. When the day came I felt so sorry for him I let him go.

• • •

The Council: One or two incidents do not create indelible patterns in a child's mind and they don't make a monster of a basically devoted father. Children are very sensitive to the underlying meaning of the behavior of others toward them. Although Mike may at times be resentful of punishment, he knows that both rules and punishment are set for his own good and are proof of his parents' love.

We agree, however, that on the whole it is important for the parents to present a united front — not only because the opposite could show one parent in an unfavorable light but because children thrive best when there is harmony and consistency in their home. They are torn apart by serious dissension.

On the other hand, we don't advocate a rigid set of regulations that allows no room for appeal.

We think, for example, that Jerry's punishment for the bike incident wasn't particularly good. Psychologists and educators agree that "the punishment should fit the crime" if the child is to benefit from it. A far better punishment would have been to deprive Mike of the use of his bike for a week. He would better have assimilated the lesson. He would have learned that his parents didn't consider him ready for the responsibility of a bike. When he got it back he would appreciate the privilege and respect it.

To a child, an entirely unrelated punishment is apt to seem very unfair. Mike saw no relationship between bike and picnic. The picnic punishment may have come some time after the bike incident had been pushed out of Mike's mind and he would naturally feel hurt while learning little. We think, therefore, that punishments should be more carefully talked over by both parents before the decree is issued.

Receives Many Gifts

RAWDON — Last Saturday evening, Miss Jean Grills, and her mother, Mrs. Ernest Grills, were hostesses for a miscellaneous shower at their home, Carmel, in honor of Miss Irmi Visser, a bride-to-be.

Over 30 ladies were in attendance and all enjoyed a program of music and readings with Mrs. Russel Hubel as mistress of ceremonies.

Miss Sandra Hagerman read an appropriate address and Irmi was presented with a large assortment of wrapped parcels.

A canopy of balloons, filled with confetti, popped as the gifts were opened.

Irmi voiced a gracious thank-you for all the lovely gifts.

The hostesses served dainty refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Khrushchev warned last week that the Soviet Union would consider "decisive measures" if "Western aggression" in the Congo was not ended.

United Nations troops continued to arrive here today and Bunche said he hoped to have the UN force built up to 10,000 men by the weekend. There now are about 3,500 soldiers here under UN command.

Belgian troops, meanwhile, continued to withdraw to their bases from the Leopoldville area under an agreement with the UN calling for their complete pullout from the capital by Saturday.

Kanza and the Soviet delegate, deputy foreign minister Vasily Kuznetsov, criticized the secessionist movement in Katanga province.

Kuznetsov charged that Belgium was using Moise Tshombe, the provincial premier, as a "stooge" to "strangle and dismember" the rest of the Congo.

Wednesday Tshombe declared that UN troops would be resisted by force if they tried to enter Katanga.

UN Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold, who reported to the security council at the outset of the session, said the UN force "is entitled to access to all parts of the territory."

EXPORTS HIGHER — During the last 10 years Canada has regularly exported more goods to Western Europe than it has imported. John E. Lancaster, a Canadian trade department official, says prosperity and trade liberalization in Western Europe will mean increased short-term markets for Canadian exporters. Graph shows total exports and imports between Canada and Western Europe for 1950-59 inclusive. In 1959 exports totalled $460,000,000 compared with imports of $378,000,000. (CP Newsmap)

Europe's New Prosperity, Easing Trade Restrictions Increase Canadian Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—Europe's newfound prosperity and the easing of some trade restrictions offer Canadian exporters increased prospects of trade with Western European countries, a trade department official says.

However, John E. Lancaster of the trade department's international trade relations branch says in an article in the department's publication, Foreign Trade, formation of regional European trading blocs could result in new types of tariff discrimination against Canadian goods.

Canadian sales to Western Europe in the first four months of the year rose about 18 per cent to $152,000,000 from $129,000,000 last year.

"The substantial increase in Canadian exports to Europe in the early months of the year indicates that Canadians are reaping the benefit of Europe's prosperity and trade liberalization," he says. "The short-term outlook suggests a continuation of this favorable trend."

STIFFER COMPETITION

But a number of uncertainties should not be overlooked. Restrictive trade practices were being continued, particularly in the field of agricultural products. Europe's ability to compete was spreading to a wider range of manufactured goods as well as some industrial materials of the type produced in Canada.

"Tariff discrimination expected to arise in the European Economic Community and the European Free Trade Association could affect our trade prospects."

However, at the same time domestic consumption in Europe was increasing, living standards were rising and industrial capacity and production were expanding. These factors all pointed toward the creation of new market opportunities for Canadians.

Mr. Lancaster said Canada stands to gain and to lose much through the creation of the trading blocs. It was in Canada's interests that the "exclusive trade features of these groups should not result in an extension of commercial rivalry and discrimination."

CAPSULE PICTURE

Mr. Lancaster outlined in capsule form Canadian trade prospects with 16 Western European countries:

Austria—The Austrian economy is healthy and discrimination against dollar imports has been largely eliminated. Wheat and grains were placed under state trading arrangements but this is not expected to affect future Canadian trade adversely. While Canadian wheat sales declined in the first quarter of 1960 raw material exports rose.

Belgium-Luxembourg — Canadian sales to Belgium declined substantially in 1959 from 1958, largely because 1958 exports were inflated by sales of military aircraft. Figures for 1960 point to a sales recovery.

Denmark — Purchases from Canada rose slightly in 1959 and will be maintained or even expanded in 1960.

Finland—Opportunities for certain Canadian exports have been enhanced, especially for steel, outboard motors, spark plugs, medicinal preparations, fresh apples and forage crop seeds.

France — Prospects for Canadian exports have improved due to new liberalization measures. Exports in the first three months of 1960 were up substantially over a year ago.

Greece—A slight decline in Canadian sales in 1959 continued during the first three months of this year.

Ireland—Although Canada enjoys a preferred position in the Irish market, sales fell slightly in 1959 and sharply in the first four months of 1960.

Italy—New trade liberalization measures should increase Canadian exports this year.

Netherlands—Canadian exports fell in 1959 largely because of a drop in wheat sales. However, there has been an improvement in sales of wheat and industrial raw materials.

Norway—Because the bulk of Canadian exports consist of industrial raw materials, sales should be sustained and probably increased this year by the rapid growth of the European economy.

Portugal—Canadian exports increased in 1958 and 1959 and are expected to continue rising this year.

Spain — Prospects for larger sales are promising in 1960.

Sweden—Exports rose in 1959 and in the first three months of 1960. Because exports consist mainly of agricultural products and industrial materials they should not be affected by Sweden's membership in EFTA.

Switzerland — Imports from Canada declined in 1959 but are on the rise this year.

West Germany — Exports fell substantially in 1959 largely because 1958 sales of aircraft were not repeated. Recent statistics disclose a significant recovery.

Yugoslavia—A shortage of foreign exchange and Yugoslav interest in bilateral trading arrangements made the country a restricted market for Canadian exports.

EXPORTS DOWN

During 1959 Canadian exports to Europe reached $460,000,000. In 1958 they totalled $556,000,000, including military aircraft valued at $82,000,000.

European sales to Canada last year were valued at $375,000,000, up from $316,000,000 in 1958. Major factor in the rise was automobiles. Value of shipments of cars rose to $39,000,000 from $27,800,000 with West Germany, France and Italy the chief suppliers.

Major Canadian exports to Europe, Mr. Lancaster says, continue to be non-ferrous metals, wheat, flaxseed, rapeseed, rye, barley, asbestos fibres, wood pulp and pulpwood, newsprint, hides and skins, outboard motors, synthetic rubber and other raw and semi-fabricated commodities.

During the last 10 years Canada has regularly exported more to Western Europe than she has bought there. In 1950, for example, exports were worth $197,100,000 and imports $94,200,000. In 1957 exports were valued at $527,200,000 and imports $303,700,000.

Toronto Freelance Writer Says He Did Not Enter Hotel Room, Detective Says He Did

OTTAWA (CP)—Eight hours of detailed, often contradictory testimony Wednesday left the Commons private bills committee still seeking answers to the two main questions posed by its re-examination of the Eccles divorce case: Was there collusion? Was there adultery?

Another committee hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. EDT today for closing arguments by counsel for William Eccles, 45-year-old Toronto freelance writer and photographer, and his wife Lise, 33. former concert pianist.

Also to be solved by the committee is the question of whether to seek further evidence in the light of the committee's lack of authority to subpoena witnesses in a case between two private parties.

The Senate, where Parliament originates its examination of Quebec and Newfoundland divorce petitions, already had approved of Mrs. Eccles' petition when her husband contended last week that the case was founded on fictitious adultery. At the time, the petition was close to approval by the Commons.

As the case was re-opened Wednesday, Mrs. Eccles gave an emphatic "No" when asked whether she had arranged with her husband to take the divorce action. Asked by his counsel, Peter Newcombe of Ottawa, whether he had ever agreed to give his wife a divorce, Mr. Eccles replied "I did so."

Two other key witnesses were Montreal private detectives Ernest Etheridge, 45, and Gerard Daignault, 33. They testified that on the night of July 17, 1959, they followed Mr. Eccles and a woman to the Taft Hotel in Montreal.

Both said they found Mr. Eccles and the woman later in a room in the hotel. They said Mr. Eccles answered their knock at the door by appearing clad only in shorts, and that the woman was in bed, covered to the armpits with a bedsheet.

In three hours on the stand, Mr. Eccles, grey-haired former boxer, said the sequence leading to the hotel incident began in a corridor of a Montreal courthouse where he appeared last year on a charge of non-support for his wife and their son Eric, 9.

Mr. Eccles said his wife had petitioned the court for $240 a month for her and their child, born in September, 1950. During a recess in the case he said he was approached by a lawyer who asked him a question — he couldn't repeat the question to the Commons committee because of rules against hearsay evidence, but said he gave the lawyer this reply:

"I said 'yes, I'll agree to give her $10 a week for the child. She can go ahead with the divorce.' "

"Within a few days," Mr. Eccles continued, Detective Gerard Daignault—whom he identi- Mr. Eccles said he drove with fied as the same man who gave evidence to the committee Wednesday—phoned him to arrange a meeting the same night. Mr. Daignault to the Taft Hotel, where the detective gave him $10 and told him to enter the hotel, register, pay the bill and return the key to Mr. Daignault. Mr. Eccles said he complied, and did not enter the hotel room.

Grant Campbell (PC — Stormont) asked whether Mr. Eccles felt it was preferable to commit collusion rather than adultery to obtain a divorce.

"It is impossible to commit adultery with someone who doesn't exist," Mr. Eccles replied, referring to the co-respondent named in his wife's divorce petition to Parliament.

Kenneth More (PC — Regina) suggested that Mr. Eccles had shown "no compunction" against breaking the federal law against collusion in divorce because he had not appeared before the Senate divorce committee when his wife's petition was heard earlier this year.

Mr. Eccles replied that at the time of the Senate committee hearing, there still was hope that he would be able to see his son as provided under a 1958 legal separation order granting Mrs. Eccles custody of Eric.

He said he went last week to Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax), chairman of the Commons committee, only after he felt that his hopes of seeing the boy regularly had vanished.

"The love of my son was greater than my respect for the senate divorce laws," he testified.

Harold E. Monteith (PC—Montreal Verdun), noting that Mr. Eccles now admitted collusion in the hope of being able to see his son, asked whether there was collusion also in Mr. Eccles' first divorce in 1947 which didn't involve children.

"Yes," replied the witness.

Mr. Eccles' testimony as to difficulty in seeing Eric following their 1958 separation was contradicted by Mrs. Eccles and her mother, Mrs. Margaret DeRosiers, who said they never refused to let him see the boy.

Mrs. Eccles, pale and composed, wearing a dark blue dress and white cloche hat, testified at length before the committee on the difficult relations that followed their marriage in Liverpool, England, in 1949.

Following the birth of their son, she said, her husband went out nights with increasing frequency, leaving her alone. She said that soon after their 1958 separation, Mr. Eccles wanted her to "make a divorce against him." She said she refused.

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Eccles said that before the separation she had found things such as lipstick on her husband's shirt and lipstick - smeared cigaret butts—not hers—in his car.

Plain Talk by Macmillan May Have Desired Effect

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Can Prime Minister Macmillan do it again?

Seventeen months ago in Moscow the British leader figuratively stood toe to toe with Nikita Khrushchev and slugged out East-West differences.

Nobody had ever spoken to Khrushchev that way. It had an electric effect. Mr. M. sulked for a while—remember that famous toothache? — but plain speaking made its mark. The Kremlin began talking with a new reasonableness, and "diplomacy by dialogue" was born.

Now Macmillan is trying again. His personal letter to Khrushchev, unusual among diplomatic documents for its cool, let's-get-down-to-cases tone, represents another determined attempt to put East-West relations ahead of everything.

BRITISH GAMBIT

As before, the new gambit is—or is represented as — a purely British initiative. Britain informed other Western powers but did not consult them.

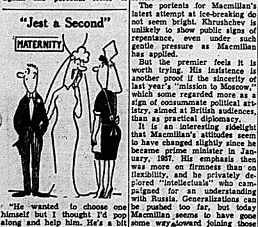
The record indicates that the cold war is the prime minister's No. 1 concern. He is understood to have spent nearly a week personally drafting the 1,200 - word letter.

The portents for Macmillan's latest attempt at ice-breaking do not seem bright. Khrushchev is unlikely to show public signs of repentance, even under such gentle pressure as Macmillan has applied.

But the premier feels it is worth trying. His insistence is another proof if the sincerity of last year's "mission to Moscow," which some regarded more as a sign of consummate political artistry, aimed at British audiences, than as practical diplomacy.

It is an interesting sidelight that Macmillan's attitudes seem to have changed slightly since he became prime minister in January, 1957. His emphasis then was more on firmness than on flexibility, and he privately deplored "intellectuals" who campaigned for an understanding with Russia. Generalizations can be pushed too far, but today Macmillan seems to have gone some way toward joining those he once derided.

"Jest a Second"



"He wanted to choose one himself but I thought I'd pop along and help him. He's a bit on the dumb side."

RESCUE — His face mirroring agony, Eberhart Siebel, 31, awaits rescue at Toronto on Wednesday after a cave-in pinned him against the foundation of a house he was waterproofing. Firemen with power saws had to cut through a tree stump and roots to save him. His only apparent injuries were cuts and bruises. (CP Wirephoto).

Nixon Taking Hand in Drafting Party Platform

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon is taking a hand in drafting the Republican platform on which he expects to run as the party's presidential nominee.

The Republican convention starts here Monday and one of Nixon's toughest campaign tasks, if he gets the top nomination Wednesday as expected, will be to try to win the mid-western farm-belt states back to the fold.

With this in mind, Nixon passed along to platform committee members his ideas for a plank designed to convince the farmers better days are ahead if they vote Republican.

Representative Melvin R. Laird, vice-chairman of the platform committee, indicated the plank is likely to pledge a continuation of federal farm price supports without setting any specific level.

Laird predicted the plank will express views differing from those of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson. Benson wants the government to get out of pricing matters and control of production.

In their farm plank, the Democrats promised 90 per cent of parity price supports for major crops. They also pledged expansion of foreign distribution of agricultural products.

NEGRO VOTE SOUGHT

Nixon's interest in the platform extended also to efforts to draft a civil rights plank satisfactory to Negroes.

Charles H. Percy, platform chairman, suggested in a visit to the civil rights sub-committee's session Wednesday that if Negroes were guaranteed voting rights and employers were encouraged to end job discrimination, this might be the answer to the rights problem.

While the platform work ground ahead, some quiet efforts were being made to get Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York to change his mind and take the vice-presidential nomination. He has said he would not accept it "under any circumstances."

Robichaud Will Probe Sales of Mining Stock

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Premier Louis J. Robichaud said Wednesday night he has ordered an investigation into the sale of mining stock by several New Brunswick companies because "It appears . . . that the public has been defrauded of as much as $7,000,009 in operations conducted within this province."

Mr. Robichaud, in a press statement issued in his capacity as attorney-general, said that information available when he assumed office made it "immediately obvious" that drastic changes must be made to protect the reputation of the province and to safeguard the interests of investors.

Irregularities of the kind he was satisifed "existed on a huge scale" could only undermine the future of mineral development in the province. It was also necessary to protect the reputation of responsible brokers.

69 Refugees, Some of Them Suffering From Tuberculosis, Land in Canada for New Life

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Obviously happy and a little awed, 69 refugees landed in Canada Wednesday to take up a new life.

For many it will be a healthier life as some members of the group suffer from tuberculosis. These patients were taken to hospitals Wednesday night while the various families were cared for by service groups and the immigration department.

The flight is the vanguard of an estimated 112 tubercular refugees coming to Canada under a federal government plan during World Refugee Year. Normally immigrants suffering from tuberculosis are not admitted to Canada.

Of the 347 refugees brought here in the first movement of this type, 100 were tubercular. This time, 208 refugees are coming, 112 of them tuberculosis sufferers.

Wednesday's flight deposited refugees from the camps of Italy, Germany and Austria in Halifax, Saint John, N.B., Quebec City, and Toronto. However, many will fan out from these cities.

WILL GIVE JOBS

Jobs will be provided by the immigration department and, if the bread winner is a tuberculosis sufferer, the department will look after his family.

When the Canadian Pacific DC-6 touched down at Halifax Wednesday after its long flight, 26 refugees debarked, most of them smiling, to meet officials and some relatives.

"I am so grateful, so happy to come at last to freedom," said 30-year-old Svetomir Radar, a Yugoslav who spent two years in an Italian refugee camp.

His sentiments were echoed in Quebec City by Antonio Fatoric, 30, a Yugoslavian farm worker. "I'm happy to be here and I am looking forward to working here," he said.

"I had heard about Canada," said Ivan Veres, a Hungarian farmer with three years in refugee camps who landed in Toronto. "It is a wonderful land and I was anxious to come.

The total of refugees included three babies who travelled on their parents' laps rather than in separate plane seats.

The group started Tuesday from Rome, Vienna and Bohn. Fog delayed them in the Maritimes and they arrived six hours late at Quebec City, seven hours late at Toronto.

The federal government paid cost of transportation for this flight and will pay for two more. The provinces are splitting hospital costs with the federal government.

W. Germany Won't Be Market For Uranium for Many Years

OTTAWA (CP)— Dr. Siegfried Balke, West Germany's minister of nuclear energy, indicated Wednesday that his country won't be a potential market for large quantities of Canadian uranium for many years.

He told a press conference that present Geman technology is based on the use of natural uranium as a fuel for atomic power reactors and heavy water for cooling. The potential market for atomic-generated electricity was not as large as scientists had forecast a few years ago.

Germany had designed three medium - sized atomic power plants but more interested in research and development programs to cut the costs of nuclear power.

Dr. Balke said that even if Germany goes ahead with its plan to build three medium-sized plants they would use only 140 tons of uranium annually. They would not be built for several years and there were no plans for additional plants.

Germany so far had bought 25 tons of Canadian uranium and was negotiating for purchase of another five tons, "not very much uranium."

Research on methods to use uranium as an alloy to strenthen steel and other metals also would affect Germany's future demand for Canadian uranium.

Dr. Balke said Germany has a keen interest in a large-scale atomic power station Canada is building in Southern Ontario. It was similar in design to a station planned in Germany.

Germany also was interested in another Canadian proposal to enrich natural uranium fuel with plutonium.

Dr. Balke will go to Chalk River today to visit Canada's atomic energy establishment there.

Pickersgill Gets Point Across by Changing Words

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal opposition members referred frequently Wednesday in the Commons to a well-thumbed small red book from which they read newspaper reports of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's election campaign promises in 1957 and 1958.

At one point Liberal Leader Pearson read what he called promise No. 113B—covering a Georgian Bay dock at Cutler, Ont.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) raised a storm among government supporters later when he was challenged to identify the red book he was using to pinpoint a Diefenbaker speech mentioning the Chignecto Canal in the Maritimes.

It's a historical work compiled by the National Liberal Federation, Mr. Pickersgill replied. It was designed to bring together a record of the man who "bought" his way to power with promises.

Trade Minister Churchill asked for a withdrawal of the remark.

"I am in error," agreed Mr. Pickersgill. He thought too much of the Canadian people to stand by that statement. What he had meant to say was that the book was a record of the prime minister who "talked his way into office because the Canadian people wrongly believed what he said."

Cargo Traffic Through Canals Shows Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Cargo traffic through the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Welland Canal increased in June over shipments a year ago, the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority announced today.

Preliminary traffic figures for June, second full month of seaway operation this year, show a 28.7-per-cent increase in upbound shipments through the new seaway to the Great Lakes and a 7.9-per-cent increase in traffic moving eastwards out of the lakes.

In the Welland Canal, upbound traffic jumped 36.5 per cent while downbound traffic was 12.3 per cent higher than a year ago.

A trend toward fewer ships carrying more cargo also emerged in the June figures, a trend that means greater seaway use by larger, more efficient vessels.

Through the Montreal-Lake Ontario section, the seaway handled 1,451,444 tons of westbound cargo in June, compared with 1,127,799 tons a year ago. Eastbound cargo through the seaway amounted to 1,629,560 tons, compared with 1,510,744 tons in June last year.

The Welland Canal handled 1,452,273 tons of upbound cargo in June, compared with 1,064,008 tons a year ago. Downbound cargo amounted to 2,873,676 tons, compared with 2,558,813 tons a year ago.

The reports shows that general cargo has fallen off this year, while bulk cargo has increased substantially.

Dealers Cannot Use Name of Kelso Roberts

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice W. F. Spence upheld Wednesday a Metropolitan Toronto Licensing Commission order for used-car dealers Kelso Blunden and Joseph Roberts to stop doing business under the name of Kelso-Roberts Auto Sales.

The Toronto dealers had appealed the commission's order. They claimed it had no jurisdiction to revoke their licence and that the name was not adverse to the public interest.

Mr. Justice Spence of the Supreme Court of Ontario said the two men were using "half of one name and half of the other" to make it appear as if Ontario Attorney-General Kelso Roberts was peddling used cars.

Premier Lesage Ready to Meet Ottawa Officials

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Lesage and his lieutenants will go to Ottawa next week with the idea of settling matters that have kept Quebec province and the federal government at odds.

Besides taking part in the federal-provincial conference on fiscal matters—on which a rift has long been evident between Quebec and Ottawa — the premier probably will discuss hospital insurance and a Trans - Canada Highway cost sharing plan with federal officials.

Mr. Lesage announced Wednesday that he and Dr. Alphonse Couturier, health minister in Quebec's recently - elected Liberal government wil lmeet with federal Health Minister Monteith. Roads Minister Bernard Pinard would discuss Quebec participation in the highway scheme with Hon. David Walker, federal public works minister.

Quebec is the only province taking part in neither the cost-sharing national hospital insurance plan nor the highway proj-intend to deviate from provincial ect.

But Premier Lesage does not autonomy principles in his negotiations. Although he wants hospital insurance in Quebec by Jan. 1, 1961, he said last week his government will take into account the constitutional rights of the province.

WANTS BIGGER SLICE

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Duff Roblin leads a strong Manitoba delegation to Ottawa next week, determined to win for the province a larger share of federal tax revenue. The Progressive Conservative premier has indicated he is approaching the federal-provincial financial conference, opening Monday, with the attitude that the provinces are entitled to a bigger slice of the tax pie as a constitutional right.

New Code of Ethics for Liquor Advertising for Newspapers Announced to Start Sept. 1

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liquor Control Board Wednesday announced dates for a progressive application of the province's new code of ethics for liquor advertising.

Liquor Commissioner William Collings said the code will be applied Aug. 1 to radio and television advertising in the province. His announcement did not, however, give details of how the code will apply to Canadian manufacturers advertising over United States border stations.

The regulations were introduced primarily to control advertising from outside the province.

"We are still working on the Buffalo radio and TV situation," Mr. Collings said. "I hope to make an announcement concerning Buffalo stations at a later date—before Aug. 1 if possible."

The code takes effect Sept. 1 for daily and weekly newspapers and Nov. 1 for magazines and periodicals, and public transport advertising.

Mr. Collings recalled that when Premier Frost announced the provisional code May 31 he warned that companies violating it might have their products blacklisted by the LCBO.

He added, however, that with the co-operation the board has received from the industry he was sure sanctions asd penalties would never have to be imposed.

"While (the code) may not have the approval of all concerned I'm happy to see the way it has been accepted," he said.

The code as announced Wednesday contains only minor changes from the original draft announced by the premier.

Designed to control an estimated $40,000,000 of liquor advertising previously placed outside the province, the code has been suggested as a model for a national code. It has been recommended by the Canadian Association of Liquor Commissioners to the other provinces for application within the framework of their laws.

Mr. Collings said the code is not expected to reduce the amount of advertising in Ontario, but to spread it more evenly among all media. All advertisements for liquor, beer and wine must now be submitted to the LCBO for approval before their use.

LCBO officials expect that 90 per cent of Ontario's weekly newspapers will accept liquor advertising.

The code includes provisions to allow brand advertising but bans drinking scenes or pictures of bottles or glasses of alcoholic beverages.

Mr. Collings said the code requires that all advertisements of alcoholic beverages be submitted to the liquor control board for approval before their use.

The code permits:

Brand or product advertising "within the limits of good taste." The advertisements shall not contain family scenes, drinking scenes, bottles or glasses, and must be confined to the use of body labels, trade marks, established slogans or recipes.

Public service advertisements—the only form of advertisements publishable in Ontario up to this time—which confine the advertisers to the use of his corporate name.

A maximum of 1,000 lines an advertisement and a maximum of 1,500 lines by any one company in a calendar week's issue of a daily and weekly newspaper.

Up to two advertisements for each company in any magazine or periodical in a calendar month.

The code also permits television and radio advertisements, provided no company sponsors more than 1½ hours of programming on any station in any calendar week. The time limitation may be extended in the case of cultural or sporting events to cover the entire broadcast or telecast of such event.

Eastview Municipal Offices Run Without Cash Register

EASTVIEW, Ont. (CP) — This town's municipal offices serving a population of 23,000 haven't even a cash register.

This came out at a provincial inquiry into the town's affairs Wednesday as chartered accountant Lucien Masse described town treasurer Mrs. Adrienne Laroche as "not competent."

"Conditions in the office are terrible," he testified at the government - ordered hearing conducted by Commissioners Charles W. Yates and F. G. Blake.

Commissioner Blake said he had not even seen a cash register while on tour of the offices. "It's remarkable," he said.

The inquiry, begun last Monday after citizens of this town within the boundaries of Ottawa signed a petition asking for a check of its finances, has heard 10 of the some 50 witnesses to appear.

Commissioners indicated Wednesday that the hearings will run at least two weeks. Sittings will be held this Saturday morning and night sessions may be called to speed things up.

PRESENTS COPY

Mr. Masse, whose firm has audited Eastview's books for the last 10 years, presented a copy of his latest report to the mayor and council.

In it breaches of the Ontario Municipal Act were pointed out and it was recommended that the town hire a competent accountant to replace Mrs. Laroche. A number of faults, he said, were found in the town's books.

The Citizen's League of Eastview, which sparked the inquiry, asked the commissioners to appoint a provincial "watchdog" accountant.

Mr. Yates said that the move would not be considered until after the inquiry had proceeded further.

Mr. Masse said that the town's books were never kept up to date. Errors of over $1,000 were commonplace.

Hackles Raised After Remark By Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Walker, treading on hazardous ground, described Wednesday how government architects licked the "awful smell" of cooking fish.

He'd experienced it when the works department "unfortunately" shared quarters with the fisheries department before both recently moved into a new building, he told the Commons.

His remark raised hackles among fish-conscious Maritimes members.

How much had it cost the government to protect Mr. Walker from the smell, J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate) wanted to know.

Mr. Walker said it didn't cost anything extra. He hastened to add that he likes the smell of fish over the campfire as well as the next man.

Accept Contract

ORILLIA (CP) — Workers at the Otaco Limited plant voted Wednesday night to accept a new contract and to end their 50-day strike.

The two-year contract provides an across - the - board wage increase of six cents an hour for the first year and a four - cent raise the second year. Pieceworkers will receive a three-per cent increase in pay.

No Canadian Combat Troops Will Be Sent

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering sending some army supply and communications personnel to the Congo to assist the gathering United Nations force there, reliable sources said Wednesday night.

The Canadian Army has special experience in these two fields, having done most of the administrative work in connection with establishment of the UN Emergency Force in Egypt in late 1956.

It is understood that the UN has asked Canadian help because the Asian and African nations sending troops to the Congo are not particularly well equipped to handle supply and communications problems.

It is also understood that no Canadian combat troops will be sent to the Congo.

In the Commons, External Affairs Minister Green said he was not in a position to make any statement on the matter at this time.

Als, Lions Play 29-29 Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes' summer safari into the West has indicated they pulled a big plum in off-season football trading. But the trip may also cause plenty of grief.

The Als, trampled 38-0 by Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union in their first exhibition game of 1960 last Friday, tied British Columbia Lions 29-29 Wednesday night in their second outing.

The plum is wrapped up in the 190-pound frame of import halfback Don Clark, obtained recently from Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Clark, who lined up last year with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four, drove the Lions crazy with his sensational play.

He scored two touchdowns, gained 133 yards rushing, almost half the Montreal ground-gaining, and travelled 100 yards on three passes.

But the trouble could come from Hal Patterson, Alouettes' great end. He suffered a possible fracture of the cheekbone on the third play of the game.

In another exhibition game Wednesday night the Eskimos, so successful against Montreal, were belted 17-4 by Calgary Stampeders.

Halfback Dick Cohee turned in a great game for the Alouettes before 24,392 customers at Vancouver's Empire Stadium. He gained 77 yards in four carries, including a 36-yard gallop late in the final quarter which set up his tying touchdown seconds later.

Veteran halfback Bill Bewley scored the other Montreal touchdown on a 41-yard pass-and-run play in the second quarter. Bewley was also good on two of four convert attempts. Charlie Baillie kicked a field goal to round out the Montreal scoring.

AERIAL ATTACK

Quarterback Randy Duncan was sharp with his aerial attack for Lions. He completed 10 of 14 pass attempts for 111 yards and a touchdown by By Bailey in the third quarter.

Willie Fleming ran 95 yards on a kickoff return for a touchdown. Don Vicic, plunged over centre from the Montreal 12-yard line for a touchdown and fullback Don Horn bulled over from the Als' one-yard line for the other.

About 9,000 fans watched at Calgary's Mewata Stadium.

Ernie Warlick and Ronnie Morris scored touchdowns for the Stampeders. Doug Brown kicked a field goal the first time Calgary handled the ball in the opening quarter, then converted both touchdowns.

A field goal by Cowboy Woodruff and a single by Vic Chapman were the only replies from Eskimos.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Al Kelleher, president of the Belleville Umpires Association, and a stickler for spit and polish in the mask-and-pad clan, may have to change his entire system.

The president of a California Umpires' Association, dubbed in the smog state, the "White Cane Brigade," has come up with the suggestion his minions wear shorts, instead of the conventional long trews.

If such a thing should come to pass, we do not know how the Kelleher Klan will react to the new change in umpirical habiliment.

Al has brought his judge and jury panel almost to the point of sartorial perfection. Any or all of them could star in any television commercial depicting "What the Well-Dressed Umpire of the Future Should Wear."

They could principal any movie film clip featuring the "Thinking Man", although that one could cause argument, "It's Up Front What Counts." That could be a Bawden specialty. Shud Ethier would look good in a "No Help from the Audience" excerpt, and so on down the line.

But wearing shorts? Horrors!

Imagine what some of those exposed shinbones would look like, pale ghosts in the evening sunlight resembling a couple of cricket stumps in some cases.

However, Prexy Kelleher, being the stickler for decorum that he is, could readily adapt himself to the situation.

He could order various types and colors of shorts to suit the situation and at the same time pay silent if colorful tribute to the competing teams.

For instance when the Deseronto Braves play here he could garb his minions in Mohawk breech-clouts, complete with tomahawks for back-talking batters.

He could honor the Bobcats by dressing his strike-calling hired help in leopard-skin leotards. The possible trouble with this, it might cause pitchers to see spots in front of their eyes.

When the Scottish Dawes and Campbells of the Cobourg clan are the honored guests he could encase the hips of his laddies in tartan kilts and Glengarries. Peever could help by playing the "Lament of the Dodgers" on his private bagpipes.

Kelleher could honor the Trenton Hallorans by supplying his base umpires with Volkswagens (no charge for the plug). It wouldn't matter if they wore shorts or not.

Too bad the CNR diesels of fond memory haven't a team in the loop. Al could doll them up in railroad garb, tall caps, smocks, etc., with abbreviated breeks to resemble shorts. Of course only the engineers on the ball-and-strike staff would be permitted to play. The firemen would be benched.

But what's going to happen if the reported exhibition game between the Bobcats and the Toronto Mermaids comes off? What will Kelleher do then. We can't picture Bawden, Thomas, Ethier, Hurst, et all, operating in bikinis. But at that, we cannot for the moment think of a better drawing card.

But if the worst comes to the worst, and the National Baseball Umpires' Association adopts the shorts idea, a quick-thinking man like Kelleher could dig up some new ideas or improvements on those already used.

Remember when Gussie Moran, American tennis star, startled, then shocked staid Wimbledon's monocle-and-mink set when she appeared for a championship game wearing lace-embroidered panties?

Gad, varlets, that was one for the tomes. M'lud and m'lady sputtered in their tea-cups. The Wimbledon Committee cancelled its weekend grouse-shooting at Heatherdew-on-the-Rocks in Scotland. London's Chollie Knickerbockers turned apoplectic.

Now there's an idea. We do not believe the cigar-and-cigaret set in the CNRA bleachers would toss any fits if the Kelleher Klan appeared in similar garb. For decency sake they could make them knee-length with the frills dropping over the knee-caps. This should do the trick providing they do not bend over to pick up a straying softball.

THIRD TRY

ERIE, Pa. (CP)—Mary Hafey of Erie plans to make her third attempt to swim across Lake Erie sometime this weekend. The 25-year-old student of Ville Marie College in Erie said she probably will enter the water either near Erie and head for Long Point or start at Long Point and aim for Erie. Long Point is about 40 mile south of Brantford.

MANAGER SET DOWN

MONTREAL (CP) — Al Vincent, Miami manager, was set down for two days and fined $50 by International League president Frank Shaughnessy. Shaughnessy said the Marlin pilot after being ejected from the game for protesting a called third strike July 17, had used offensive language that could be heard in the stands.

Tribe Stops Yanks; Chisox Eye Top Slot

Bombers Lead Cut To Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Chicago White Sox, written off for dead after losing four straight at home to the New York Yankees in mid-June, are very much alive today, breathing on the necks of those self same Yankees.

Al Lopez, the White Sox manager, had the foresight to clip some of the obituary notices typed by Yankee newsmen, quoting various members of the New York club on the demise of the 1959 league champs. Lopez pinned them to the bulletin board in the White Sox clubhouse. Apparently the Sox got the message.

It is Lopez' turn to smile now with his White Sox only one game behind the Yanks as they move into Yankee Stadium Friday to open a vital four-game series.

FIFTH STRAIGHT

Chicago won its fifth straight and its 17th in the last 24 games Wednesday night with the aid of home runs by Roy Sievers and Al Smith. Although the combined pitching of Russ Kemmerer and Frank Baumann yielded 13 Boston hits, Chicago won 7-1.

At the same time, the Yanks were having pitching trouble in Cleveland where the Indians salvaged the finale of their three-game series with an 8-6 decision despite Roger Maris' 31st home run and Mickey Mantle's 23rd. Jimmy Piersall hit a two-run homer for the Indians and Harvey Kuenn homered and slammed a two-run double.

Another late Yankee threat died when, with two men on in the ninth, Johnny Temple made a leaping catch of Hector Lopez' line drive ending the game. It was Gary Bell's victory and a seventh defeat for Art Ditmar.

Washington moved into fifth place, all even at the .500 mark with a 41-41 record by thumping Detroit 8-6. Faye Throneberry, an occasional starter in the Washington lineup, drove in five runs with a double with the bases loaded and two singles.

SKIRTS DISASTER

Kansas City's Ray Herbert skirted disaster in the ninth inning while pitching the A's to a 4-3 victory over Baltimore. Marv Throneberry hit a towering 400-foot homer and Andy Carey came through with a triple and a double in defeating Milt Pappas.

The only game today has Washington at Detroit.

Chicago has now beaten Boston 11 times in 15 starts including nine straight at Comiskey Park. Baumann finished up with five shutout innings although nicked for seven hits.

Casey Stengel used four Yank pitchers while the Indians used three. The Yanks couldn't stop Vic Power from running his consecutive game hitting streak to 20, and Ken Aspromonte from running his string to 18 games.

The Senators really are red hot although they had to overcome the handicap of some shaky pitching by Hal Woodeshick and winner on Lee before Ray Moore finally calmed the Tigers. Eddie Yost and Charlie Maxwell hit homers for Detroit.

'Slump Behind Us'

Sox Pulled up, Says Lopez

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Al Lopez is confident his Chicago White Sox will repeat as American League champions because "every club has a slump and ours is behind us."

Far from pleased over his club's efforts in the first half of the season, the patient Spaniard is happy that "we're still in striking distance." The Sox second, two games behind New York.

Lopez believes "the club is just beginning to jell."

Before the season began, the Sox pointed to the deals they made in effort to add power to their pitty-pat attack. They acquired outfielder Minnie Minoso, third baseman Gene Freese and first baseman Roy Sievers.

Minoso has been a consistent .300 hitter all year, Freese has been hot and cold and Sievers had a 21-game hitting streak which ended Tuesday night. The trio has hit 32 of the team's 57 home runs.

However, the key men in last year's pennant drive have not been doing too well and Lopez feels once they begis producing the Sox will have little to worry about.

"I'm looking for Jim Landis, Nellie Fox and Sherm Lollar to hit much better in the second half of the season," said Lopez. "And don't forget we haven't had too much help from the two guys who did our best pitching last year, Bob Shaw and Early Wynn."

Dodgers Rookie Homers Win

'Bums' Bug Bucs, Braves Clip Cards'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Maybe Chick Dressen had the right dope on Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette. Instead of wearing out his two Milwaukee aces in the spring he has them ready for the second half pennant drive.

Spahn ran his won-lost record to 10-6 Wednesday night by pitching his 49th shutout, beating the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0. The 39-year-old left-hander has pitched only 142 innings this year and made 17 starts as compared to 167 innings and 21 starts at this stage last season.

Burdette, boasting a 10-4 record, had worked only 137 innings and started 16. A year ago he already had pitched 170 innings and started 22 times.

Dressen's Braves clipped Pittsburgh's National League lead to one-half game when Los Angeles knocked off the Pirates 7-5 in 11 innings. Rookie Tom Davis' two-run homer in the 11th did the trick for the Dodgers despite two home runs by Pittsburgh's Hal Smith.

PITCHES TWO-HITTER

Glen Hobbie of the Chicago Cubs pitched seven perfect innings against Cincinnati before Wally Post opened the eighth with a single. Hobbie finished up with a two-hitter for a 4-0 victory in the opener of a doubleheader. Cincinnati eked out a 4-3 verdict in the second game behind Don Newcombe who had lost five straight.

Errors by Dave Philley and Orlando Cepeda put Sam Jones in a hole in the ninth inning of San Francisco's game with the Phillies before Johnny Antonelli got the third man out to nail down Jones' 12th victory 3-1.

Spahn scattered seven hits and didn't allow a runner to advance past second base while Joe Adcock and Hank Aaron did the slugging with a pair of tape measure jobs against Ernie Broglio. Adcock hit a 450-foot drive into the bleachers for his 15th homer and Aaron slammed No. 26 into the same sector, extending his batting streak to 15 straight games.

The Dodgers, who have won 18 of their last 23, made it two in a row over the Pirates when Wally Moon opened the 11th with a single off loser Elroy Face (5-5) and moved to second on Gil Hodges' sacrifice before Davis put his second major league homer into the Coliseum seats.

HOMER IN NINTH TIED IT

Both clubs loaded the bases in the 10th, but scored just once after Hal Smith's second home run of the game had tied it 4-4 in the ninth for the Pirates. His first homer came with two on in the fourth inning. Duke Snider hit his 11th home run for the Dodgers.

Jones had a shutout until the ninth when the Phils scored on the errors by Philley and Cepeda. Sad Sam gave up only three hits—a double and two singles in beating rookie Chris Short.

After Hobbie gave up the single to Post in the eighth, he was nicked for a second single by Vada Pinson in the ninth. It was Chicago righthander's second two-hitter of the year. Newk broke his losing streak in the second game with the relief help of Jim Brosnan. Post got him off to a fast start with a three-run homer in the first off Jim Brewer, a rookie making his first start.

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Twelve of the best two-year old pacers compete in tonight's Empire Mile for a purse of $125,243. All are survivors of an elimination series and seven of the dozen are related to the great Adios of yesteryear. Adios Don is the 8-5 favorite.

Open Season On No-Hit Ball Games

NEW YORK (AP) — Three potential no-hit games in baseball's major leagues were spoiled in a span of less than 24 hours—all in the eighth inning.

Glen Hobbie of Chicago Cubs was pitching a perfect game Wednesday night in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader against Cincinnati when the Redlegs' Wally Post singled to lead off the eighth inning. Hobbie wound up with a two-hitter and a 4-0 triumph.

The cycle began Tuesday night with Pedro Ramos of Washington Senators hurling hitless ball for seven innings against Detroit Tigers. Rocky Colavito spoiled the no-hitter by starting the eighth frame with an infield single, the lone hit Ramos allowed as Washington won 5-0.

Juan Marichal, making his first major league appearance for San Francisco Giants Tuesday night, held Philadelphia hitless through the first 7 2-3 innings. Pinch-hitter Clay Dalrymple of the Phillies singled with two out in the eighth, the only hit Marichal gave up in the 2-0 Giants' victory.

Japs Discover New Way to Win Ball Game

The setting: eighth inning, two are out, the bases are loaded, the count on slugger Kazuhiro Yamauchi is 3-2, the Daimai Orions are trailing 1-3.

The pitcher delivers. Yamauchi swings and misses. The Toei Flyers trot off the field not noticing that their catcher has dropped the ball. Yamauchi races for first and the catcher fires the ball toward the bag. It lands in right field. Both the first baseman and the right fielder are in the dugout. Yamauchi and his three teammates circle the bags and win 5-3.

Colorful Spill At Fort Erie

FORT ERIE (CP)—One of the most spectacular spills of the Canadian racing season was witnessed by a crowd of 8,280 at Fort Erie Wednesday as Bye Bye Bunty bolted on the stretch turn of the grass course during the feature race. The filly jumped a small privet hedge that forms the outer boundary on the grass course. Then she attempted to jump the permanent fence on the main track.

She hit the permanent railing and tumbled head over heels onto the dirt track. Jockey Alfonso Coy was dimped hard on his head. He escaped with a severe shaking.

Chic Miss won the race, defeating Naughty Flirt by one length. Jesrubel was third.

Moxon Clouts Grand-Slammer In Juniors Win

By PETER CARVER

Behind Bill Latchford's hurling the Belleville Juniors defeated Foxboro 11-0 in a SHBL tilt here last night.

Bill Moxon hit his second grand-slammer of the season as the juniors scored five runs in the fourth inning. They scored pairs in the second and third and plated singles in the first and seventh.

Latchford allowed only three hits, whiffed eleven and passed five over the eight innings route.

"Soup" Campbell started for Foxboro and took the loss, allowing five runs before Sinfield came on in the third. Gerry Mann came on in the fifth inning and held the Juniors to one run over the remaining two innings. They walked eight and struck out seven.

Two walks and Goyer's single drove across the first run in the initial frame. Two errors, Elliott's single, a walk and a fielder's choice upped the Belleville lead to three in the second. A walk, Moxon's single and a hit batter loaded the sacks. Latchford promptly drove across two more with a double in the third.

A walk, a single and an error loaded the sacks. Mavety drove in one run on an error. Moxon came up and homered to drive in four runs in the Belleville fourth. A walk, an error and Soden's single finished the Junior scoring in the seventh.

Moxon with his homer and a single, Soden with two singles, and Latchford with a double led the winners at the plate.

M'sieu Cleroux Rated 7-5 Underdog

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Ponderous-fisted Bob Cleroux, virtually unknown outside Quebec province, is aiming for international recognition in his heavyweight 10-round boxing match with backwoods boy Roy Harris of Cut and Shoot, Tex., here July 27.

For Harris, 27, a scrapper in the division's top 10, the bout is strictly a money shot. He gets 25 per cent of the gate with a reported guarantee of $7,500. A win over the 22-year-old French-speaking Montrealer would add little lustre to the Texan's fistic stature.

But should Cleroux upset Harris and he's a 7-5 underdog, he is almost certain to inherit Roy's international listings: ninth by the National Boxing Association and 10th by Ring Magazine.

Promoter Eddie Quinn is staging the fight outdoors at the 22,000-seat east - end Delorimier Baseball Park with tickets scaled from $2.50 to $7.50. There is no radio or television coverage. Cleroux's share is 20 per cent of the gate.

A successful wrestling promoter, Quinn lost on his last two ring ventures, the Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle shows. He dropped $20,000 on the second card when Moore flattened the Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. fisherman in three rounds last August.

In Cleroux, however, Quinn sees a potentially big gate attraction for regular shows should he get by Harris.

Harris will climb into the ring with a record of 32 bouts behind him. He won all but two. Heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson stopped him in 12 blood-soaked rounds three years ago and he was knocked out in one round recently by Sonny Liston of Philadelphia.

TWO REAL FIGHTS

Cleroux, who speaks English falteringly, has a 19-1-1 record with a list of 17 knockout victories. Only two were true tests.

In the ring Bob is a brawler, clumsy and overeager. There is little doubt, though, about his ability to punch or his stamina. Cleroux has a serious attitude to his work.

A few months ago he told his manager, Al Bachman, he was thinking about getting married early this summer.

"Gee, that's too bad," said Al. "I was planning to move you into the big time this summer. We'll have to hold up a while."

Bob is still single.

Old Home Week At Gananoque

GANANOQUE (CP) — Bunter Vic, owned by Ivan Merkley of Chesterville, won the old home week mile feature harness race here Wednesday.

The four-year-old pacer captured the Adams Stake Trophy with the fastest time of 2:11.2.

Little Brown Derby, owned by Ted Lockart of Cardinal, won the second heat in slower time.

Dr. Tom Goodison's Brockville rink edged Rev. J. Pereyma's Oshawa foursome in an extra-end playoff in the third day's competition at the old home week midsummer bonspiel here.

Both rinks tied with two wins at 24 points. One-game winner was Monty Kemp of Peterborough.

Bobcats Clinch League Flag

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Bobcats sewed up their first Belleville and District softball league pennant in the history of the club and Bert Faulkner took a strangle hold on the loop batting championship as Temple's Tabbies blanked Deseronto 7-0 in the village last night.

Nosed out last year in the final game by Point Anne, the Bobcats wrapped the championship up with their 11th win in 15 games. They have tied one and lost three and have one remaining game, a postponed affair against RCAF. They will meet the fourth place finishers in the first round of the playoffs.

Meanwhile Faulkner continued his torrid batting pace with a perfect four-for-four performance that lifted his average to .426. He dropped a perfect bunt in the first, lined a single in the second, singled in the fifth, walked in the seventh and tripled in the ninth. It brought his total to nine hits in the last two games.

Bobby Hunter pitched five-hit ball for his sixth straight victory as the 'Cats potted three in the first, two in the seventh and singletons in the second and ninth. Hunter struck out ten and walked four.

Pat Maracle gave up ten hits on the Deseronto rubber, nipping six on third strikes while passing five.

A base-on-balls, a hit batter, Faulkner's single, Hayden's fly and Little's two-run single opened up an early 3-0 lead. Coach Bob Temple, who played errorless ball at third base, drew his first of two walks and scored on Brown's double in the second.

Faulkner walked and rode home on Hayden's two-bagger in the seventh while Hunter's fly ball and a throwing error made it 6-0. Faulkner's triple and another long fly by Hayden wound it up in the ninth.

Hunter had a no-hitter going for him until the fifth when Brant singled and Hill beat out an infield hit.

Hunter helped his own cause at the plate with a brace of doubles while Gary Little banged a pair of singles. "Wiener" Brown and Denny Hayden added two-baggers.

Reg Garrison hit a long triple and a single to pace the Athletics with the hickory. Gerald Hill collected two singles and Randy Brant one.

Tip to Umps, Don't Raise Your Mask

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "I went out there and tapped the ump on the shoulder and said, "what's the matter, Blind Anthony?" "

Then, said husky Boyd Owens, umpire Bob Stewart, working behind the plate in Tuesday night's Kansas City Athletics - Baltimore Oriole game, raised his mask and called "me a s.o.b."

"That's when I hit him," related Owens as he appeared in municipal court Wednesday on charges of creating a public disturbance, resisting arrest and disturbing a lawful assembly. He was fined $100 and sentenced to 90 days in jail on each of the charges but the judge recommended parole.

"I was wrong, sir," Owens told the judge.

Bayer, known as the mightiest hitter of pro golf, sent his first drive down the middle of the fairway 307 yards, two feet. His other two missed the fairway and didn't count. The feat earned him $100.

Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., took second and $75 with a drive of 301 yards 2½ feet.

'An Arnold Palmer Benefit'

By FRITZ HOWELL

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—They're calling this 42nd PGA championship an Arnold Palmer benefit.

And the big belter from Ligonier, Pa., has al the weapons to make the forecast come true in the 72-hole dawn-to-dusk medal play test beginning today over Firestone Country Club's awesome acres.

But the year's big money winner, Masters and Open champion, facts a potent par and a fast field as he goes after his seventh tournament conquest of the year.

The best pre-tourney guess was that 284 or 285, against a par of 280, would grab the $9,000-plus top prize. Par is 70.

The fairways are unusually slim and are dotted with drive-snaring traps and bordered by heavy rough and dank woods.

HUGE GRENS

The greens are big — some could require 100-foot putts—and they are guarded by ponds, streams, or yawning bunkers.

The pros figure "whoever is putting will win", But one long hitter said the big question is getting to the green to start putting.

"They've put those fairways traps so they'll catch a normal drive. If you over-compensate to stay away from the traps you are liable to land in the rough, and then you're really in trouble," he said.

Of the starting field of 186 only 54 are "touring professionals," and most of the $60,000 - plus melon is expected to be carved up by them late Sunday.

SIX-BIRDIE ROUND

Dow Finsterwald, the 1958 winner, fashioned a six-birdie practice round Wednesday—and was forced to use a wood for his second shot on 10 of the 18 holes due to the extreme length.

"That's more birdies than I'll get the rest of the week," he said.

Palmer, playing with Finsterwald, was two over par on his final practice round, and on the 18th hole sliced his tee shot 30 yards off the fairway into a grove of trees.

Golden Boy Of Golfdom Eyes Rainbow

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "I'm ready," said Arnold Palmer. "This is the kind of course I like. I'm playing well, at least I think I am. I'm going out and just try to play like hell."

That was golf's golden boy talking after preparations for today's start of the Professional Golfers' Association championship.

He's won the Masters and U.S. Open and has pocketed $66,603 in PGA earnings and $2,500 for finishing second in the British Open.

Everybody likes him. Everybody fears him. He's the man to beat in every tournament he enters. The golfing world hasn't had such a dominant figure since the Ben Hogan of a decade ago.

"No, I don't think there's any more pressure now than before I won the Masters and Open," Palmer said while he sipped a drink from a paper cup.

"I know I have to play well to win. There are fellows capable of beating me—Dow Finsterwald's playing well, and then there's Ken Venturi, Mike Souchak, and that fellow over there," he said, pointing to where the 48-year-old Hogan sat a chip shot away.

"But I honestly think I'm playing better than I was when I won the National Open."

Texas May Get Third Big Bout

NEW YORK (CP)—Bill Fugazy of Feature Sports Incorporated said Wednesday the promotional company's board of directors will meet to consider an outright guarantee of $750,000 by a group of Dallas-Fort Worth businessmen to stage the third Patterson-Johansson fight in Texas.

Fugazy has just returned from a tour during which he inspected facilities in various cities seeking the bout.

Latta unleashed a 21 - hit attack to whip Shannonville 18-2 in a five - inning SHBL tilt played at Latta last night.

The win kept Latta in second place, right behind the Belleville Juniors, followed by Cannifton, Read, Shannonville and Foxboro in that order.

Latta scored eight runs in each of the third and fourth frames last night and added a pair in the fifth. Shannonville scored in the third and fifth frames.

Cam Buskard pitched a four-hitter on the Latta mound, blowing third strikes past seven while walking three.

Barberstock and George Reid were the victims of the 21-hit attack. They struck out seven and walked three.

Wayne Gow hit three doubles for Latta while Buskard had a home run and two singles, Howard Meeks a double and two singles, Ross Parks and Don Harris three singles apiece. Frank Ray and John Hassard had two hits each, Lorne Cronkwright a double and Doug Rollins a single.

Billy Hill, George Reid, E. Green and R. Green collected one-baggers for Shannonville.

Millar Golf Tourney

Westerner Tops Big Field

TORONTO (CP)—A westerner set the pace to lead 32 professionals into match play today in the $5,500 Millar golf tournament.

Bill Thompson of Vancouver, who was eliminated in the final round last year, topped the 101-player field in medal play Wednesday as he breezed through the par 36-36—72 Cedar Brae course with a qualifying total of 69-72—141.

George Knudson of Toronto followed closely in a bid for first prize of $1,000 with 71-72—143.

Competitors from Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and Nova Scotia who failed to qualify met in medal play today for a $150 consolation purse.

CUTOFF 153

The cutoff was 153, nine over par, but only 31 men were able to match or beat that figure. Four others were tied at 154, so a sudden - death playoff was staged to determine who would get the final spot for match play. Art Hill of Peterborough took it on the first hole.

Wilf Patterson of Pickering had a 151 total and was helped by a hole-in-one. He canned his tee shot on the 221-yard 13th hole using a No. 4 iron.

Two entrants, Pete Hildrop of Brantford and Bill Mawhinney of Toronto, hit par 14 on the nose. Hildrop had a 73-71 and Mawhinney, 1957 Millar winner, 74-70.

Al Balding of Toronto, winner in 1952, 1954 and 1958, just managed to get in with a 152. Murray Tucker of Toronto, 1955 winner, and defending champion Bob Cunningham Jr. of Toronto also qualified. Tucker had 145, Cunningham 148.

Johnny Henrick of London, Ont., Tucker and Moe Norman of Toronto and formerly of Kitchener, shared fifth place at 145.

Golfers in a four-way tie at 147 included Bill Kozak of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Actors Receive Slave Wages In Britain Says Blonde Beauty

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For the first time, a trade paper reports, London has made more films in the last 12 months than Hollywood. British actress Mary Ure can tell you why.

"Actors receive slave wages—horribly low in England," says the blonde beauty. "Even American companies who shoot there pay far below what they pay in America."

Miss Ure, wife of British playwright John Osborne, says she is ashamed to disclose what she got for making Sons and Lovers, Jerry Wald's production of the D. H. Lawrence novel.

"I negotiated my own contract, so I guess I have no one to blame but myself. Even Trevor Howard, one of the finest actors in the world, got far below his American price in London where the movie was made."

SEEKS MIDDLE GROUND

Miss Ure believes American stars demand ridiculously high salaries.

"It's absurd to think an actress is worth $1,000,000 a picture," she says. "It's equally absurd for an actress to work for what we make in England. There should be a happy middle ground."

Sons and Lovers opened recently to rave reviews in London, especially for Miss Ure. It looks like a $2,500,000 movie.

"Actually," she discloses, "it cost only $650,000 to make. See what I mean about low wages?"

Miss Ure, one of the most brilliant young British actresses in years, is here on a stage tour with Vivien Leigh in Duel of Angels.

American movie audiences also saw her as the beaten wife of Richard Burton in Look Back in Anger. She had created the same role in Broadway in the play written by her husband.

Unknown Upsets Tennis Star

CHICAGO (AP) — Miguel Olvera, a diminutive Ecuadorian, upset Earl Buchholz Jr. of the United States Wednesday in the national clay courts tennis championships 6-2, 6-4 to gain the quarter-finals.

Buchholz, No. 3 seed and a member of the U.S. Davis Cup team, couldn't cope with the five-foot, five-inch South America.

Playing for the first time in the 50th annual tournament, Olvera broke Buchholz' service in the sixth game of the first set in gaining his surprising victory.

Two other U.S. Davis Cup team members, defending-champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen and Charles McKinley moved into the quarter-finals with ease.

No Nationals On Soccer Team

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian soccer team to tour Russia early in September is unlikely to include any National League players, Bill Simpson, Ontario representative on the Canadian Soccer Association, indicated Wednesday night. Most clubs declined to let their players go on the month-long tour because of a tight league schedule.

Simpson's announcement indicates the Canadian team will be composed entirely of players from the west coast, mainly Vancouver.

AT THE McCARTHY — A gala performance for charity benefit is being presented, and for this evening Melina will go into the cage with the lions who are to be fully drugged. However, carrying their revenge to its fullest, Martin and Angela realize the lions — at least the fiercest — will not be "tranquilized". A scene from the thrill-packed hit in color, "Circus of Horrors" opening tonight at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-In Theatres. 2nd action hit is "Noose For A Gunman", featuring Jim Davis and Barton MacLane.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, July 22

General tendencies: This is your day to wind up whatever you have begun but which was unfinished, but it is necessary that you do so in a tactful and diplomatic manner, or you can find that you have quite a difficult time facing you. Be sure that you do be very respectful to your elders or superiors, or you can have quite an impasse in dealing with them.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — This morning is a good time to clear up any differences with family ties. Strive for greater harmony in the future. P.M. entertain lightly at home, inviting the most inspiring people you know. Make life interesting, good.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A day for writing letters or going off on little trips which are important. Evening, however, should be spent with a good friend who is amusing and full of gay spirit. All work and no play is not good — have fun!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Now you are able to hit on an idea that will bring you far greater income and ease. Also make any repairs to property that are needed. P. M. set up a better bookkeeping system that will help you to save more.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be sure you concentrate on what is most desired in life now. Then go directly to those who can be of assistance in helping you to advance in life. Tonight is very good for sociability and warm-hearted camaraderie.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)— Get into long conversation privately with the persons you want to become part of your life in the future. You can get ahead much faster with them. P. M. be sure you go out to some nice supper club with the most worthy. Show gratitude.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Persons of excellent character now give fine suggestions for your future advancement. Then be sure to entertain them nicely. P. M. join some good and kind friends for laughter and relaxation. Be amusing, gay.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Career matters can be handled very efficiently now if you are enthusiastic and have a will to accomplish. Get credit higher too. Let higher - ups be favorably impressed.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you are more broadminded now, you will be able to take advantage of several fine opportunities to advance that come your way. Be sure you meet interesting and influential people who are well - informed. Be alert.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It would be a good idea to quietly think over any projects you may have in conjunction with others. Then jot down salient points for discussion and later confer with them. Reach a complete and friendly understanding.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It would be wise to know what your exact position is now with every associate you may have. Understand what has caused some misunderstanding and rectify it. Think harmoniously and reach a perfect accord.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day for completing many of the chores you enjoy doing and also to get the assistance of others in whatever is tiresome. Then work together happily. Tonight is fine for any health treatments. Tone up your system.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you stop feeling sorry for yourself or at odds with the world, this can be a most happy and profitable day for you. Dress very nicely, then out to the amusements that most please. Be charming and kind—impress others.

If your child is born today … he, or she, will be one of those rare persons who is able to solve almost any problem as neatly as putting a puzzle together. A very fine chart for the big business man or woman, especially where great quantities of merchandise is concerned. However, be very understanding during early childhood since your progeny will be most sensitive and will require more care and guidance than most.

Stomach Upset, Felt All Rundown - Always Tired

Had indigestion, sour acidity. Limbs, joints sore, painful. Tells of grand relief by taking Syntona.

"I just want to let you know what fine results I got by taking Syntona Herbal Compound", said Mr. William G. Arnold, 112 Thornton Avenue, London, Ont., in a recent report.

Felt Draggy, Tired Out

"For a long while I suffered with indigestion after my meals. I'd get awful gas, sour acid risings and have a full, heavy bloated feeling which nothing seemed to relieve. Constipation was a daily worry to me and my limbs, joints and muscles were sore and painful. Many days I felt draggy and tired out from the time I got up in the morning.

"But Syntona has been just wonderful for me. I got relief from the gas, indigestion and sourness and now I enjoy my meals. Now I am regular every day and the pains and soreness in my joints, shoulder and limbs are relieved. Also I sleep better and am not tired on rising as I used to be.

Thousands of men and women have had similar experiences in relieving troubles such as those described by Mr. Arnold. Why not let this great Herbal medicine help you, too?

WORKS MINISTER

scheduled to continue studying public works estimates, which Mr. Walker is guiding through the House for the first time.

CALLS HOUSING A FLOP

J. R. Garland, Liberal housing critic, set the day's tone by ripping into the government's 1960 housing policy and describing it as a complete flop.

Government inaction and restrictions on home building contributed to unemployment on one hand and disruption in the building industry on the other, said the MP for Nipissing.

It will mean higher costs, added Mr. Garland, whose attack drew no reply from the minister. The Monday announcement that the income limits under which people can apply for government housing loans would be eased was an admission of the "failure" of past policy.

Accusing Mr. Walker of using the announcement as a "sedative," he suggested the easing is aimed at cutting down unemployment "in the hope they (the public) will forget the painful sobering up period after the two-year housing binge engaged in by the government."

"However, no juggling of figures can absolve the government from the responsibility for causing unnecessary hardships in the house building industry and among our unemployed citizens year."

TURNED OFF TAP

After pouring millions in government funds into housing after the economy started to sag in 1957, the government had deliberately turned off the tap this year, cut its lending by half and imposed the limitation that only persons with income of $5,000 or less could get a government housing loan.

No one would argue against the action to bolster the economy but the deliberate imposition of restrictions this year occurred at a time when other mortgage lenders had curtailed their loans.

"Surely, this year was the time when government lending for house building should have been advanced to a degree that would cushion the hardships created by the curtailment of lending . . . by the normal supplies of mortgage funds."

The government had hoped non - housing construction would take up the slack but that had not happened and housing construction set records of reduction. This was a contributing factor in the greatest number of construction company failures in the first quarter of the year than in any comparable period.

Mr. Garland said government inaction and the decision to restrict building "kept Canadian labor unemployed" as the government tried to save money for a special boost to the economy in the future.

SEES HIGHER COSTS

The instability resulting from its attitude "can only mean increased costs for new housing and in turn higher prices for those purchasing older homes."

Mr. Walker said he saw "a lot of merit" in the suggestion of Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) that a St. Lawrence Seaway Authority expert join a team of officials from the works and transport departments studying development of St. Lawrence Seaway ports.

Mr. Walker said a contract for repairs to a wharf at Malartic, Que., now under RCMP investigation, was authorized after an inspection in April last year indicated the wharf was a hazard. But he declined to say who approved or requested the repairs, or the river dredging in northwestern Quebec in which allegations of payroll padding were raised Monday by Armasd Dumas (L—Villeneuve).

Mr. Walker's role in the printing bureau inquiry was reflected in other exchanges.

ISSUES CHALLENGE

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate, recalling statements of Mr. Walker during the inquiry, challenged him to live up to them.

He quoted Mr. Walker as having said during the printing bureau investigation("You would be making a horrible mess of things" if large projects were done under more than one contract and if contracts were let before complete plans were drawn up and the department had estimated the full cost.

Backing up his challenge, Mr. Pickersgill asked for the location, estimated cost, contract price, and extras above contract price on every public building costing more than $100,000 that has been built since the Conservatives took office in 1957.

OVERLAND HAUL — A tractor hauls a river tug over a 23-mile portage around four sets of rapids near Fort Smith, NWT, before the boat continues its way down the Mackenzie River system with cargo and supplies for northern outposts. The rapids are the only obstacle in a 1,600-mile water link between Waterways in northeastern Alberta and the Arctic Ocean. When tugs and barges are not hauled over the land portage, cargoes are trans-shipped by truck. Fort Smith is on the border between Alberta and the Northwest Territories. (CP Photo).

Men Racing Against Weather In Bid to Transport Cargo Across Canada's Far North

By JIM WHELLY
Canadian Press Correspondent

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—Transportation in Canada's far north is again under way, moving at the frenzied pace which marks the annual race between men and weather.

Movements of cargo and supplies of all types to outposts in the Northwest Territories and on the Arctic Ocean shore is always a race against time because the shipments through here come north on the mighty Mackenzie River.

Nowhere is the pace more evident than in this town on the border between Alberta and the Northwest Territories. It is here that cargoes are transhipped from Mackenzie River boats and barges. North of here four sets of rapids form the only obstacle to 1,600 miles of continuous river navigation between Waterways, Alta., and the Mackenzie delta.

23-ILE GAP

The rapids—Cassette, Pelican, Mountain and Rapids of the Drowned—mean a 23-mile transhipment for the men, tugs and barges of the crown - owned Northern Transportation Company Limited, between Fort Fitzgerald, Alta., and the calm water at Bell Rock, across the 60th parallel of latitude in the Northwest Territories.

The freight is hauled from "Fitz" to Bell Rock over a $1,000,000 highway, built and maintained by the federal government, by eight tandem diesel trucks.

The first NTCL tug bucked its way through the melting ice of Great Slave Lake June 13 to mark the official opening of the transportation season. The short summer and often sudden arrival of winter make it a short season. The crews will get all of July and August and probably most of September to work in, but no one makes bets after that.

Joe Burghardt, Fort Smith agent for NTCL, said 5,000 tons of freight were waiting at Bell Rock when the season opened and another 1,300 tons of petroleum products had been pumped aboard tanker barges for the trip north.

The Bell Rock camp of the company was not idle before the season opened. The six tugs and dozens of steel-hulled barges underwent refitting after the camp opened April 20.

The first barges from the south arrived at Fort Fitzgerald a full month before the transportation season opened and kept coming at the rate of two a day.

Mr. Burghardt said freight tonnage through Bell Rock so far is "about the same this year as last, despite a great increase in freight carried to Fort Smith, Hay River and Yellowknife by truck during the past winter."

Last year 25,000 tons of freight moved through Bell Rock during the navigable season.

The four rapids which block the waterway are looked upon rather fondly by some of the residents in this area. They are the reason Fort Smith was founded and the transhipment now is the settlement's main business.

Tugs and barges are frequently hauled the 23 miles over the portage route.

The barges used range in length from 15 to 150 feet and in tonnage from 130 to 620 tons. One of the tugs, carrying a crew of 14, can push an eight-barge load. Others have four and six barge capacities, but the limit for all in crossing the Great Slave Lake is four loaded or six empty barges.

The NTCL was formed in 1947 as a subsidiary of Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, which supervised Canada's first uranium mine at Port Uranium. The mine now is closed down.

SETS EXAMPLE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Civil Service Commission, which supervises personnel recruitment for the public service of Canada, is trying to set an example to other employers in engaging older workers. In its 1959 report tabled Tuesday in the Commons, the commission pledges that no new age limits will be set on civil service jobs "without the most compelling reasons." Age limits at present were very few.

CALLS TENDERS

QUEBEC (CP)—Roads Minister Bernard Pinard Tuesday night opened public tenders called by his department last week for asphalt paving on the south approach to the Quebec Bridge. It was the first time in 16 years that public tenders were called by the provincial government for public works.

Security Council Repeats Demand Belgians Get Out

Russia Withdraws Move Insisting on Time Limit

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The United Nations Security Council acted unanimously today in asking Belgium for the second time in nine days to remove her troops from the Congo without delay and let the new UN military force take over to avoid another explosion of violence.

At the last minute, Russia's insistence on a time limit for the withdrawal crumbled.

Vasily Kuznetsov, the Soviet deputy foreign minister, and the Polish ambassador produced a ripple of laughter when they raised their hands with the other nine delegates to support a resolution proposed by Tunisia and Ceylon which contained no deadline.

After that, Kuznetsov said Russia would not press a vote on its resolution, which sought to brand Belgium an aggressor and set a three-day time limit for the military evacuation.

TWO FAVORED MEASURE

Only the Soviet Union and Poland favored the measure. Tunisia, Ceylon, Britain, France, the United States, Ecuador, Argentina, Nationalist China and Italy were opposed.

Thomas Kanza, the 27-year-old minister-delegate of the Congo, thanked the council for its action. The Congo and Belgium took part in the debate although they are not members and could not vote.

The resolution backed up the council resolution of July 14 sending the UN force to the chaotic central African nation and calling for the Belgian withdrawal.

The Security Council session, which ended at 1 a. m. today, began Wednesday night under the threat of Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba to seek Russian help if the UN could not guarantee the removal of Belgian forces.

The United States declared early Thursday that it would do "whatever may be necessary" to stop Soviet forces going to the Congo.

U.S. MISTAKEN

Kuznetsov said Thursday night the US was "vastly mistaken", in thinking it could stop Russia

Delhi Child's Heart Repaired At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—"Hello, Daddy. I'll be coming home soon."

This was the $30 message 10-year-old Kamal Anand relayed to her father in Delhi, India, by telephone after undergoing delicate open heart surgery at the Montreal Children's Hospital.

Her father said he "couldn't believe she could be talking to him so soon after major surgery." The girl underwent the four-hour operation only 24 hours before the phone call.

Dr. David Murphy said the operation consisted of repairing a "venticular septal defect" or a hole in the heart.

President Calls For Resumption Of Arms Talks

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower's call for resumption of disarmament talks to reduce risk of war was reported today to be part of U.S. strategy aimed at putting Russia on the defensive.

The president announced Thursday night that the U.S. wants an early meeting of representatives of the full 82-country United Nations disarmament commission for urgent discussion of a way out of the arms race.

In a statement issued at the summer White House, Eisenhower said he had instructed Henry Cabot Lodge, chief of the U.S. delegation to the UN, to petition today for speedy revival of disarmament negotiations. Lodge arranged to do so.

Eisenhower recalled the Soviet delegates had walked out of the 10-nation disarmament negotiations at Geneva last month. At the time the U.S. was about to outline new proposals.

"Our efforts to get the Soviet Union to return to the conference table through normal diplomatic channels have not met with success," Eisenhower said.

"The need for disarmament in the present world situation is too important to set aside at the present time when deliberate efforts are being made to increase tensions."

This was an obvious allusion to the many-sided anti-American campaign the Soviet Union has been carrying on since the Paris summit conference failed last May.

UN diplomats expressed belief that the U.S. request for an early meeting would be approved.

However, many delegates—including some western allies—were extremely cool toward the idea.

These delegates expressed belief there appears to be little prospect for disarmament progress while the tension in East-West relations is mounting.

Russia Makes Sharp Shift on Congo Stand, Is Now Providing Help Requested by UN

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet government told the Russian people today it is joining the United Nations in providing help to restore order in the troubled Congo, a sharp shift from its earlier threats of armed interference.

Moscow radio in a home service broadcast said:

"The UN security council adopted a decision to send military units from several UN member states to the Congo. The UN secretary-general has asked the Soviet government to supply transport vehicles for the armed forces sent to the Congo republic. "The Soviet government has agreed to this request."

The radio added that 100 Soviet trucks with sets of spare parts and a mobile repair workshop are being supplied, along with a group of technical instructors. The equipment will be delivered on a Soviet ship at the Congolese port of Matadi.

NO LIMIT PLACED ON LOAN MONEY FOR 3 MONTHS

Hope to Stimulate Home Building

OTTAWA (CP)—The sky's the limit for a three-month period this fall on the total amount of federal government mortgage loans to builders with purchase agreements signed by home buyers and to low- and middle-income wage earners who want homes built this winter.

Works Minister Walker told the Commons Thursday night that the federal governmest is willing to lend as much money between Sept. 1 and Nov. 30 as is required by these merchant builders and prospective home owners earning less than $7,600 a year.

The result of this program to stimulate winter employment in the construction and related fields will be that the federal government will lend considerably more than the $150,000,000 it

Russia to Charge Before UN U.S. Planes Violated Borders

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Russia goes before the United Nations security council today with charges that the United States deliberately violated Soviet borders with spy planes.

The United States, which will reply Monday and President Eisenhower has instructed U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge to hit back hard in accordance with Washington's tough new line toward Soviet threats and accusations.

One of the Kremlin's senior diplomats, deputy foreign minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, will deliver a detailed, all-afternoon speech that Soviet sources said will conclude with a demand for condemnation of the U.S. as an aggressor.

Russia's complaint to the council is titled "new aggressive acts by the air force of the United States against the Soviet Union, creating a threat to universal peace."

The complaint grew out of the shooting down of a U.S. RB-47 reconnaissance plane over the Barents Sea by a Soviet jet fighter July 1. The Soviet Union charged that the aircraft was over Soviet waters on an espionage mission.

The Russians are holding two of the plane's six crew members and are expected to try them as spies. The Russians recovered the body of the plane's pilot. The other three men are missing.

The U.S. claims the plane was surveying magnetic lines of force in Arctic waters for mapping and was shot down over international waters. The state department said it was never closer than 30 miles to the Soviet shores.

The present case is the fourth in which the Soviet Union has attacked the U.S. in the security council since the collapse of the summit conference two months ago.

The first was the U-2 spy plane case. Earlier this week the Soviet Union backed Cuba's charges of economic aggrgession by the U.S. and in the Congo debate the Russians charged the U.S. had illegally sent military personnel to the chaotic African nation.

In bringing the RB-47 incident to the council, the Soviet Union charged that "the actions of the United States government clearly constitute a premeditated violation of the universally accepted rules of international law, a policy of deliberate provocation designed to exaggerate the situation and to intensify the threat of war."

The Russians also are erpected to bring up charges they made last week that U.S. military planes persistently make dangerous low-level passes over Soviet ships on the high seas.

Military Encirclement of Russia Fails to Promote Internal Collapse

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was like drawing a circle around a frog and telling him not to jump out of it. This is what the United States did with Russia. And it worked, too, until the frog jumped.

In 1947, when George F. Kennan was head of the state department's policy planning staff, he outlined an American plan followed ever since.

The idea was to ring Russia—then infinitely weaker than the U.S.—with military bases and alliances to keep her from pushing or overrunning her neighbors.

At that time, 13 years ago, Russia had no hydrogen bomb, no missiles, and Communist China didn't exist. The mainland was still being run by Chang Kai-shek, the American ally. But Kennan was doing some wishful thinking:

1. That this containment policy—military encirclement — would would not only keep the Russians behind their own frontiers but would put internal pressure on the Soviet government.

2. That the pressure might hasten Soviet collapse internally or at least force a change of direction or intent because, Kennan felt and wrote, Russia contained within itself the seeds of its own destruction.

Up till now the containment policy has kept the Russians from bull-dozing their immediate neighbors. But, contrary to Kennan's hopes, instead of collapse the Soviets' internal development has been phenomenal.

Now, 13 years later, they have the hydrogen bomb, missles probably capable of hitting America, an industrial production second only to that of the United States, and a population apparently content and loyal.

Russian strength has increased so tremendously that only this week New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller said the balance of power has shifted to the Soviet Union. The Russians have been acting as if they believed that, too.

They still can't, without risking war, push directly against the American circle drawn around them. So they have done the obvious and next-best thing for them: They have leapfrogged out of the circle.

They have done it not only by the usual propaganda and intrigue but by promises of both economic and even military help to countries on the American side of the circle. This is the most glaring example:

The economic deals with Fidel Castro's Cuba and a warning to the U.S. to keep hands off. Thus the Russians, without resorting to war to smash the circle, have hopped over and are trying to set up shop in America's backyard. Other attempts will follow in Latin America and Africa.

Premier Lumumba Will Visit Canada to Seek Congo Aid

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (CP) — Premier Patrice Lumumba announced today that he will visit Canada and "other countries" soon to seek technical assistance for the Congo.

He also disclosed that he already had signed an agreement with an American company for financial and technical help.

At a press conference shortly before his departure for conferences at the United Nations in New York, Lumumba expressed profound thanks to the UN for its quick action in the Congo and said there is no longer any need for Soviet military aid.

He was commenting specifically on adoption of a security council resolution urgng Belgum to speed up withdrawal of its troops from the Congo.

Lumumba has been insisting that unless Belgian troops quit the country he would ask that Soviet troops be sent in.

Today, in an abrupt change from his mood of recent days, the premier offered a hand of friendship to Belgium, asserting it was the Belgians who built this country.

At the same time, he demanded immediate withdrawal of Belgian Ambassador Jean Van den Bosch, saying his actions and reports had resulted in the sending of Belgian troops into the country.

BOARD DENIES ADULTERY CLAIM OF MRS. ECCLES

Will Recommend Divorce Be Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons private bills committee ended its rehearing of Mrs. William Eccles' divorce petition Thursday by deciding that her claim of adultery by her husband was "not proven."

The decision was announced following an hour-long private meeting of the committee, which heard 10 hours of testimony and summation—much of it contradictory—Thursday and Wednesday. The case was reopened after Mr. Eccles claimed last week that adultery evidence was faked.

Mrs. Eccles, 36, of Montreal, a former concert pianist, denied emphatically before the committee that she had arranged with her husband to carry out the divorce action. Mr. Eccles, 45, freelance writer and photographer now living in Toronto, testified that he had agreed to give his wife a divorce.

WILL PRESENT

Deputy committee chairman Nicholas Mandziuk (PC — Marquette) said Thursday that he intended to present the following report to the Commons today:

"Your committee has reconsidered Bill SD 479, an act for the relief of Lise DesRosiers Eccles, and has heard witnesses and finds that the preamble is not proven, and having regard to the conflict of evidence as to collusion and connivance and as to possible perjury that it is desirable that a further inquiry be made and therefore that the matter be referred to the minister of justice for further investigation and for such action as he may deem requisite."

Mr. Mandziuk said the decision means that Mrs. Eccles divorce petition is rejected.

The petition, one of a record

Support Price For Ont. Wheat $1.39 a Bushel

OTTAWA (CP) — Support price for Ontario wheat in the crop year which began July 1 will be $1.39 a bushel, Agriculture Minister Harkness announced today in the Commons.

Support price for Ontario oats will be 57 cents a bushel and for Ontario barley 79 cents a bushel.

All prices are on the basis of No. 2 Eastern or better grade on track at shipping points.

The wheat support price is the same as in the crop year which ended June 30.

The support price for wheat will be 82 per cent of the 10-year base price, for oats and barley 80 per cent.

Paul Martin L-Essex East said Ontario wheat producers had asked a price of $1.60 a bushel.

Young Dutch Immigrant Rebuilds Life Shattered by Diving Mishap

VANCOUVER (CP)—A diving accident two years ago almost shattered the hopes and dreams of Hank Oudman, a young Dutch immigrant.

But with the help of his childhood sweetheart, a Vancouver minister and another minister in his native Dutch village, a civic rehabilitation centre and the Canadian immigration department, a new life has unfolded for Oudman.

He and his sweetheart, Jane Mollema, were to be married today, a happy ending to a year of struggle and the start of a new life of independence.

Oudman emigrated to Canada in April of 1958 and found employment as a commercial pilot. He saved his money to provide transportation here for Jane.

The plans suffered an almost fatal jolt when Oudman struck a log and broke his neck while diving at a nearby beach. For two weeks his life hung in the balance.

Rev. Hendrikous van Andel of the Christian Reform Church visited Oudman in hospital and asked whether there was anyone he would like to see.

Hank, asked for Jane. But there was money enough to bring her only part way to Vancouver. A village doctor in Holland heard of the couple's plight, and raised the money needed.

Jane arrived in time to see Hank through his crisis.

In three months he was sitting in a wheelchair. But confinement to a wheelchair presented another problem—employment, essential in view of Oudman's status as an immigrant.

On compassionate grounds the immigration department allowed Jane to remain and Hank to undergo treatment in the G. F. Strong rehabilitation centre.

The couple got another break when Hank was hired as an electronic repairman for plane parts.

Two weeks later Oudman bought a car with hand controls and is able to go to work on his own.

Mutineers Roam Country Areas Burning Homes

Belgian Paratroopers Prepare to Attack Camp

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — A fresh wave of violence was reported sweeping the eastern Congo today as Congolese mutineers roamed the countryside burning Belgian homes and attacking the occupants.

Belgian paratroopers were reported to be preparing to attack a Congolese army stronghold at Lakondu, where seven Europeans were being held as hostages by the mutineers.

Belgian refugees were streaming into the neighboring Belgian trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi.

Belgian authorities in Leopoldville said they had no information about preparations by paratroopers for an attack on Lakondu or about the hostages.

But Reuters correspondent Vincent Buist reported from Usumbura in Ruanda-Urundi that white refugees flocking in there said seven men—two missionaries and five former officers of the Congolese security Force Publique—were dragged inside the army camp at Lakondu following a Congolese mutiny last Sunday.

SOLDIERS INVOLVED

One of the refugees said at least 1,500 Congolese soldiers were involved in the uprising at Lakondu, some 200 miles northwest of Usumbura.

The Belgian air force was reported to be maintaining constant flights of rocket-firing planes over Lakondu in an attempt to weaken the rebels' morale and prepare the way for paratroopers.

The Congolese uprising was reported to have spread through the countryside and white settlers were fleeing desperately for the Ruanda-Urundi border.

As the wave of violence swept eastward across the Congo, Belgian authorities prepared the final stage of the complete evacuation of Stanleyville.

FLY OUT EUROPEANS

Four hundred Europeans, mostly Belgians, were flown out Wednesday and three United States military transport planes airlifted a further 300 from Stanleyville Thursday.

A UN force of Moroccan infantry took over control of the strategic port of Matadi from Congolese in a bloodless ceremony.

United Nations officials at Stanleyville airport said a number of Belgian men had been beaten up by armed Congolese soldiers.

Ethiopian troops flown into Stanleyville under the United Nations flag were reported in charge of the airport. But the town was still in the hands of Congolese soldiers.

United Nations troops were

Forest Fire Extinguished With Melons

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — Forest Ranger Richard Heninger went into action on Thursday when he saw an over-turned truck-trailer catch fire.

As the fire spread to weeds, Heninger hailed a passing truck laden with watermelons.

By squashing melons on the flames, Heninger soon put out the fire. No one was hurt and damage was confined to the truck, a few weeds and lots of melons.

Sitting Time Of Parliament Is Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition objected strenuously but vainly Thursday to an increase in the sitting time of the Commons to 55 hours a week from 45, including seven hours on Saturdays.

The Progressive Conservative majority pulverized the Liberals and CCF by a vote of 147 to 40 to uphold the motion of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Arnold Peters (CCF - Timiskaming) suggested that members of the Commons and its staff form a trade union which would refuse to work more than 48 hours a week.

Opposition Leader Pearson said the prime minister's motion "shows complete disrespect, almost contempt, of Parliament."

He maintained the purpose was to rush through important work so that Mr. Diefenbaker "can get rid of Parliament at the earliest possible date."

As a result of government "ineptness, confusion, delay, fumbling and bumbling" in organization of Commons business, a situation had been reached which meant "legislation through confusion by exhaustion."

Under the new schedule, sittings of 8 to 11 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday are added, effective this week.

The Commons' decision to sit six days a week came in the 129th day of the session, which opened Jan. 14. The 1959 session lasted from Jan. 15 to July 18.

Uneasy Calm But Police Ready To Crush Riots

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—An uneasy calm settled here today but armed police stood ready to crush any fresh rioting in Salisbury's Negro townships.

Order was restored Thursday night after two days of sporadic fighting around this city — 500 miles from the troubled Congo— led to the arrest of 180 Negroes.

Police have used nightstick charges and tear gas to counter the stone-throwing hit-and-run tactics of the natives. Several injuries have been reported but no deaths.

The negroes, including a woman and her baby, were admitted to a hospital Thursday in Harare township with gunshot wounds.

No incidents occurred this morning as striking Negroes straggled back to work.

The trouble followed the arrest of three nationalist leader. Three top men of the National Democratic Party were picked up on charges of breaking an unlawful organization act and police also raided party offices.

Belleville Firm Doing Big Roofing Business in Bermuda

A bicycle ride and a chance meeting with a man with problems led to several contracts on Bermuda for Quinte Roofing Limited of Belleville.

The company now has men on Bermuda supervising roofing contracts on large buildings being erected at Hamilton, Southampton, St. Georges and Tuckerstown. A contract for roofing a new hotel at Boston, Mass., is pending.

A few winters ago, while vacationing on Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Bev Quincey, owners of Quinte Roofing, set out by bicycle on a sight-seeing tour of the island. They promptly became lost. A stranger who directed them back onto the beaten path turned out to be in the construction business. And he had problems, putting lasting roofs on many of his projects. The island's climatic conditions, apparently, are hard on roofs.

Mr. Quincey said he believed the problem could be solved if the man sprayed a vinyl plastic compound on his roofs. The man took him at his word and gave him a contract. Now business has snowballed on the island vacation paradise.

The plastic compound is similar to a preparation used in coating airplane engines for storage and for mothballing ships. It is durable and almost impregnable to weathering.

Quinte Roofing also is experimenting with the compound on an oil company's piers and storage tanks in the southern U.S. The oil company, located by the sea, has been troubled with rusting of its piers and tanks. Mr. Quincey said the compound is not affected by salt spray and will reduce maintenance costs for the oil firm.

He will discuss building problems in Bermuda at next week's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

Curb Cruisers To Be Checked

The city police department is going to crack down on weekend curb cruisers who make a nuisance of themselves by squealing their tires in jack-rabbit stops at street intersections and in turn-arounds at either end of Front Street.

He said the campaign would be directed primarily against Saturday and Sunday night car cruisers who make a nuisance of themselves by squealing tires in rapid starts.

Wife Identifies Body of Man As Husband

TRURO N.S. (CP)—Mrs. Mary Costello of Toronto Thursday identified the body of a man who shot himself in a rooming house here early Tuesday as that of her husband, William Costello, a 46-year-old iron-worker.

RCMP said Mrs. Costello's positive identification and the absence of an abdominal scar disproved a possibility that the man was a William Edward Costello, missing from Chapleau, Ont., since 1958.

An inquest into Costello's death was adjourned Tuesday night until Aug. 1. The body will be taken to Toronto for burial.

RCMP making a routine check after Costello was reported to have acted suspiciously, heard a shot after knocking on the door of his room. They entered and found him shot through the head.

IN MEMORIAM

SWEET. — In loving memory of our mother, Julia Anne Sweet, who passed away July 22nd, 1954.

We mourn for her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep;
But many a silent tear is shed,
While others are asleep.

—Ever remembered by Leonard, Jean and family.

SCHAMERHORN. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph H. Schamerhorn, who passed away July 22nd, 1955.

Resting where no shadows fall,
In perfect peace he awaits us all;
And God will link the broken chain,
As one by one we'll meet again.
When fadeth the day and dark shadows draw nigh,
With Christ close at hand it's not death to die;
He'll wipe every tear, roll away every care.
We'll say goodnight here, but good morning up there.

—Always remembered by wife and family.

CAMPBELL. — In loving memory of my mother, Mary, who passed away July 19, 1947.

True was her heart, her actions kind,
Her life was a pattern to those left behind,
God knows best for reasons divine,
But memories last for all time.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There's not a day, dear mother,
I do not think of you.

—Lovingly remembered by son, Leonard Hamilton. Jy16-6t

Queen's Proctor Will Sit in on Divorce Action

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Roberts said Thursday he has appointed a Queen's proctor to sit in on any future divorce proceedings involving Joan Johnson—the 27 - year - old Toronto model who told a CBC television audience she was a professional divorce co-respondent.

E. R. Pepper, assistant director of public prosecutions, will attend the divorce hearings as a special officer of the court. Miss Johnson, also known as Joan Abiscott, has been granted a decree nisi, but no application has been made for a final decree.

"This will satisfy us there is nothing irregular in the proceedings," Mr. Roberts said. "I'm not suggesting there is anything wrong, but in the light of what has happened we will look into it."

Miss Johnson commented: "This seems like personal persecution. They should be looking into what's wrong with our archaic divorce laws—not delving into my life."

Provincial police reports and other information concerning the falsification of divorce evidence in other cases is being studied by the attorney - general's department.

COULD GO TO CABINET

Mr. Roberts said if evidence warranted it, recommendations could be forwarded to the cabinet for discussion.

This is Miss Johnson's second divorce. The present action began in October, 1959, about four months after her marriage.

The dark-haired model was interviewed on the CBC May 26 close-up program at which time she said she acted as a paid co-respondent in 120 divorce cases. Later she said her story was a hoax.

The attorney-general would not confirm or deny a report that an Ontario royal commission may be established to investigate divorces.

"That is one of the many angles you hear discussed . . . there has been no decision yet. We are only trying to determine the real facts in view of all the conflicting evidence," he said.

Leonard J. Ede Sentenced To 15 Months for Shipping Body of Woman in Trunk

TORONTO (CP)—Leonard J. Ede, 39, today, was sentenced to 15 months in reformatory for committing an indignity to the body of Mrs. Marjorie E. Scott, 36, found cramped in a trunk last month at Argentia, Nfld.

A charge of causing a public mischief was dropped. Two weeks ago the Crown also withdrew a change of murder against Ede, who had been married to Mrs. Scott.

Ede was arrested in Cleveland June 17. Dropping of the murder charge followed an autopsy report from Dr. W. J. Deadman of the attorney-general's laboratory, who said there were no marks of violence.

Crown counsel Arthur O. Klein, asking withdrawal of the murder chairge, said police had no evidence the woman was slain. It is believed she died of asphyxia in a drunken stupor.

Magistrate Thomas Elmore in passing sentence today said he was satisfied it was not Ede's intention to cause indignities to her body, though such was the case. It appeared Ede wished to avoid any connection with her death and consequent trouble with the police.

Fourteen Flee Apartment Block

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Fourteen persons left an apartment block here Thursday night when fire threatened to engulf a paint store on the first floor of the three-storey building.

The fire caused an explosion which blew out the show windows of the store, Reid's Paint Service, shortly before midnight.

Choking smoke filled the apartments but firemen brought the main floor blaze under control before it spread to the store's main paint supply. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Mrs. Dorothy Yeates, returning home to find the building beneath her apartment on fire, collapsed from shock. She was revived by firemen and taken to hospital. Her condition is described as satisfactory.

OSD Speech Specialist Teaches With a Chuckle

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Helen Keeler is helping to shatter with laughter the silent world of children once doomed to speechlessness.

The greying, former physical training instructor who came here 20 years ago to teach rhythm now shows the mute how to talk, the deaf to "hear" through their eyes.

Miss Keeler, perky middle-aged speech specialist who has a chuckle with every instruction for her pupils, is among the first group of teachers apprehensive newcomers meet at the Ontario School for the Deaf in Belleville.

She teaches five and six-year-olds, who have never heard a word spoken, to speak simple words.

LEARNING TRADES

The children stay at the 80-acre school near here until they are in their late teens, learning to read, write, talk and lip read. The 500 pupils, now taking courses that follow as closely as possible the standards of ordinary schools, will leave with trades enabling them to live in the world of sound.

They will be able to speak enough to get by and read and write as well as any other school graduate. The school, for example, has its own newspaper put out by the students.

The boys are taught trades such as woodworking, printing, mechanics and linotype operating. Girls become typists, filing clerks and learn how to keep house. They also learn sewing and home economics.

Some go on to the college for the deaf in Washington.

Little different from any other residential school, the pupils—from 5 to 19—live there throughout the school term. They have Scout and Girl Guide troops, basketball and hockey teams and track and field meets. Some of the teams have won local championships.

LEARN LIP READING

Unable to hear each other, the children often talk among themselves with their hands, but the teachers insist they talk out loud to them. Miss Keeler has refused to learn sign language so that the children won't be tempted to take the easy way in communicating with her. As a result, they learn to say words they will never hear and to read the same words on the lips of others.

After six months they have a vocabulary of some 70 verbs and all common objects.

"The sign language, although useful among the deaf, used alone would cut them off from the rest of the world", Miss Keeler says. "They must be equipped to meet the adult world, the business world." The sign language is part of "an idea that they are a people apart and have no way of communicating with others."

SUCCESSFUL GRAD

The school has disproved this, placing hundreds of graduates in jobs throughout the country.

"One of our graduates returned to the school recently driving a bigger and better car than the teacher who had taught him", said the native of Trenton, 10 miles from here.

"It's rewarding work", she said as she patted the head of a good-looking blonde boy of six who had just recently learned how to say his name.

Liberal M.P. Ill

OTTAWA (CP) — Mervyn Hardie, 41-year-old Liberal Commons member for the northern riding of Mackenzie River, is "resting comfortably" after suffering a serious heart attack Thursday night, Civic Hospital officials said today.

Mr. Hardie was taken ill in the parliamentary restaurant at dinner.

Time Ottawa Ended Pleading Inability to Pay - - Bennett

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bennett of British Columbia thinks it's time for the federal government to stop pleading inability to pay and to begin chipping in more money to provincial coffers.

He is likely to take this stand Monday when a British Columbia delegation presents a brief at the start of a federal - provincial meeting in Ottawa.

"I consider this to be the most important federal-provincial conference held since the end of the war," Mr. Bennett told a press conference.

"Canada is in a period where it must prove it can operate successfully in a peacetime economy, with full employment. At this conference, B.C. will bring policies to meet this challenging new period.

"National governments which do not meet this challenge will not long survive."

The premier, who is also finance minister, would not reveal the main points of the B.C. submission. But from government statements in the past this pattern of demands has emerged:

1. That B.C. receive as its share from tax-rental payments an amount approaching in percentage, what it would receive if it were still collecting its own income tax as it did before the Second World War. This year B.C. will receive about $70,000,000 from Ottawa, while contributing about $250,000,000. B.C. would like its income from this source boosted to about $90,000,000.

2. That the federal government contribute more toward such highways as the Trans-Canada and such resources roads as the Cassiar-Stewart in northern B.C. and bigger payments towards railway construction.

3. That Ottawa begin sharing the expense of such services as fighting forest fires.

4. An end to what Mr. Bennett calls the "federal tight-money policy."

Zeller's Building New Store on Dundas St. W., Trenton

TRENTON — Councillor C. V. Graham announced yesterday that Toronto interests had purchased the building on Dundas Street West, known as "The Graham Building," and presently occupied by the firm of Garrett and Lundy, and a strip of land between this building and the Woolworth store. A Zeller's department store will be erected on this site. Work on the project started today, and is expected to be completed by Nov. 1.

Town Plan Will Develop Yacht Club Into Paradise

TRENTON — The Trenton Yacht Club, which has been formed, dissolved, re-formed, re-dissolved, burned out and generally kicked around over a period of years, has been given a shot in the arm by a number of boat-minded citizens and is well on the way to becoming a potent recreational facility in the community.

Members of the yacht club met last night in the board room of the municipal office to discuss the election of a new slate of officers, and a long-range plan convert the parcel of land and strip of waterfront, allocated to the club in the town's official plans, into a veritable paradise for yachtsmen and small boat owners.

Chairman for the meeting was O. W. Larry, town clerk-treasurer. Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, chairman of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board, addressed the meeting. Boat owners present were Roly Whitley, commodore of the Trenton Yacht Club; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cory, Elmer Young, Group Capt. D. J. Williams, Joe Dale, Jack Vanalstine, Paul Tripp, Douglas Hyde and Darrell McLaughlin.

The official plan of the town calls for the construction of a marina on the strip of waterfront just west of the Trenton Machine Tool Company's premises. The yacht basin will be located on the waterfront south of the Community Gardens. Members of the group emphasized that the yacht club area should be given prime consideration over the marina.

Commodore Whitley said he thought a new executive should be elected. He said he had been club commodore for the past seven years because no one else would volunteer for the job. He thought a more qualified man now should take over. He said government grants are available for projects such as had been tentatively planned by the yacht club and that he thought development should start.

AROUSE INTEREST

Mr. Larry said he had called the meeting to get various bodies interested in the over-all beautification plan for the waterfront as outlined by the official plan. He said that any project would need the endorsement programs; the redevelopseveral provincial and municipal projects might tie in with the plans of any organization. The community planning branch of the provincial government will contribute $50,000 or some portion thereof for parks improvement programs; the erdevelopment program under consideration by the town could very well apply to the yacht club area; there may be government funds available in connection with the Trent Valley Conservation Authority, also under discussion.

He suggested that the yacht club members appoint a committee to look over the site allocated by the official plan, take soundings, and plan their initial developments. Any buildings erected on the site must conform with the surroundings.

Members of the club agreed that a yacht club and marina would add to the town in a material way. Mr. Vanalstine said that many out-of-town boat owners would keep their boats in the Bay of Quinte if services were available.

Group Capt. Williams said that the formation of a yacht club and marina might pose navigational problems with reference to the river traffic and the town swing bridge. He suggested that plan might be worked out whereby a number of boats could wait at the entrance to the river and be passed through the bridge at the same time.

Six members will visit the site of the proposed yacht club Monday night and assess the situation.

Officer Tells About RCAF's New Aircraft

TRENTON — "Versatile and Ready," the motto of Air Transport Command will be strikingly illustrated by the end of next summer when three new transport planes — the CC-106, the C-130B Hercules and the CC-109 Cosmopolitan — become operational.

"At the present time the airlift capability of the RCAF is inadequate," F/L Robert Hush of RCAF Station Trenton told the Kiwanis Club last night.

F/ Hush said the government realized that airlift capability must keep pace with present conditions throughout the world and that the RCAF must be prepared to airlift armed forces to any part of the world at a moment's notice. The giant CC-106 is being produced at Canadair Limited, Montreal. Present plans call for the construction of 12 planes, 10 of which will be based at 426 Squadron, Trenton and two at Ottawa.

The C130B is being produced by Lockheed in Georgia. Four have been ordered for the RCAF. The first one rolled off the assembly line recently.

The CC-109, built by Canadair, will be used as a passenger carrier but also will be capable of hauling cargo.

New British Labor Boss

As everybody knows, the president takes the bows, the secretary does the work - - - frequently if not always.

Sometimes, though, there are compensations. In some organizations the man who does the work wields the power. For most of Stalin's rule, the only official post he held was that of secretary of the Communist Party.

Although it is an entirely different type of organization, run on completely different principles, the Trades Union Congress in Britain also places great power in the hands of its general secretary, its chief administrative officer. Not only is the TUC the central union body but it also plays a leading, if not the dominant, role in determining the policies of the British Labor Party.

The TUC has just elected a new secretary, George Woodcock. He is a former mill hand and an Oxford graduate. Such a combination of practical experience and theoretical knowledge would be much more difficult to find in Britain than on this side of the Atlantic. It is also interesting to note that he had been head of the TUC research department since 1936. The tendency of labor organizations to employ research directors, and to hire for these positions men of outstanding academic achievements, is a comparatively recent development of growing importance. Mr. Woodcock obtained a degree with honors in philosophy, politics and economics. No matter what his adversaries may think of him, they can hardly expect support for any claim that the TUC is being run by an ignoramus.

Trent Road Old In History

In the flurry of renaming streets (we have never been able to fathom any necessity for most of this except to confuse people), there has been some debate locally over changing the name of the Trent Road. For some reason this historic public road has been the object of serious discussion as to what it should be known. Comment has even been made questioning the legality of the usage or existence of Trent Road as a proper name for that stretch of road which everyone will recognize by use of the name.

Recent council opinion, in the face of considerable opposition and advice to the contrary, has seen fit to call it Dundas West. This seems to be substituting a rather colorless name for a more meaningful one. There is little to commend the new name for continuity or logic, either. There is no physical connection between it and its East Hill counterpart and at Highland Avenue it comes to what normally would be termed an end.

Surely it could end here, Dundas Street West that is, and history might be allowed to take its course in the form of the Trent Road. It is of interest that city directories of 1936 and 1918 give the Albert College location as Trent Road and, of course, way back in the time of the stage-coaches reference is made in historical annals to the Trent Road.

Useful Program — Wrong Method

The United States plans eleven small underground nuclear explosions in the next two years. These tests will be used to investigate the improvement of present methods of detecting such tests, as well as to explore the possibility of using underground nuclear explosions for peaceful purposes.

Discovery of reliable methods of detecting underground nuclear explosions is necessary if there is to be a properly policed ban on the use of such explosions for the development of weapons of war.

Development of methods of using such explosions for peaceful purposes could be invaluable providing it can be proven that they do not produce dangerous radioactivity.

The U.S. program, therefore, is constructive and the manner in which prior notice has been given of the intention to carry it out is encouraging.

There is, though, one thing wrong with it. It constitutes unilateral action in a field in which prior international agreement is highly desirable.

Ideally, arrangements for this program should have been made through the United Nations and the program should be under its supervision.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE MATCHLESS MOSES

Before me sits a replica of Michelangelo's Moses. Some months ago I looked upon the original in a church in Rome. It shows the great law-giver holding the Tablet of the Commandments in his right hand. He is seated, but his left foot is drawn back preparatory to his rising. That foot is the most eloquent feature of the statue. It represents the response of Moses to God's command: "Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward."

Few people realize that the greatest human being that ever lived was this matchless Moses (we, of course, do not include Jesus whom we regard as an incarnate divine being). But among straight-out human beings, nobody has ever influenced the human race as has Moses. He is the head of one religion (Judaism). He is the honored figure in two other religions (Christianity and Mohammedanism). He was — under God — the author of the Ten Commandments. His words are at the basis of all laws from traffic regulations to national and international codes.

The world has produced a host of great men but none whose greatness compared with the greatness of Moses. From the time we arise in the morning until we retire at night the influence of this man conditions almost every act of our living. We can well believe that in the divine Hall of Fame he occupies first place among all mortals.

St. Paul's 250 Years Old

BBC London Letter

St. Paul's Cathedral in London was completed 250 years ago last June, and in a BBC General Overseas Service broadcast making the anniversary, Australian broadcaster Colin Wills discussed Sir Christopher Wren's masterpiece with Sir John Summerson, an outstanding British architect, with the Venerable O. H. Gibbs-Smith, Archdeacon of London and Canon of St. Paul's, and Sir William Holford, who has been chiefly responsible for replanning the site round St. Paul's since the war.

For more than a thousand years before the completion of St. Paul's, Wills said, there was always a cathedral standing on Ludgate Hill, a symbol of Britain's Christian heritage. "Wren's was the fifth great church to be built on the same site. The fourth, the famous medieval cathedral celebrated as 'Old St. Paul's' was ruined in the Great Fire of London in 1666. It was a curious stroke of fate that this provided a unique opportunity for a great work of architecture at the very moment when Britain's greatest architect was at hand to set about it."

Wren had in fact been thinking about St. Paul's architecturally from 1661, Sir John Summerson pointed out, for he had been called in to plan the restoration of the old building which had fallen into grave disrepair. Wren's pre-fire design, which was still in existence, showed plans for taking down the old tower, remodelling the central space and building a dome over it. When, after the fire, it became apparent that a completely new cathedral would have to be built, Wren had developed several designs. Not everyone concerned had been in favor of a dome. In the end, Wren had produced a design fairly close to the traditional cathedral plan — a Latin cross. On top of that in the centre he had placed a not very conspicuous dome, topped with something rather like a Gothic spire. "A very odd design," Sir John commented, but the one that was chosen. How Wren managed to keep within his instructions and yet to alter the cathedral radically from the warrant design was something of a mystery. Later generations had rejoiced, said Wills, over his victory in building a cathedral so revolutionary in design, so totally different from the traditional Gothic and English cruciform churches known before his day.

The Venerable O.H. Gibbs-Smith spoke of the striking effect of the dome seen from the inside, which integrated in one whole the nave, transepts and choir. The inner dome, he pointed out, was separate from the outer dome. Two were necessary, because the outer, the dominating feature of the exterior, was so high above the body of the cathedral that it could not, seen from the inside, have given the effect of uniting the interior. Wren had been supremely lucky in the gathering of artists who had made his choir the glory of the cathedral, and the baldachino erected in 1958 as a memorial to Commonwealth forces who gave their lives in the war was an astonishingly successful example of modern craftsmanship in the Wren manner.

The tradition of St Paul's as a national shrine probably began with the burial of Nelson there in 1806, followed half a century later by his old comrade Wellington. All great occasions of national rejoicing are celebrated by special services in the cathedral. The Venerable Gibbs-Smith said that when war in Europe ended in 1945, it had been filled nine times over in successive services, by a total of probably not less than 30,000 people. Among more formal occasions was the Thanksgiving Service always attended by the Sovereign a week after the Coronation in the Abbey. He recalled, too, the great service in 1951 when General Eisenhower presented to the Dean and Chapter a roll of honor inscribed with the names of more than 28,000 American servicemen who gave their lives in the European war while based in Britain.

The devastating bombing of 1940 swept away most of the dense mass of buildings that formerly surrounded St. Paul's; destroyed the High Altar of the cathedral itself and shattered most of the stained glass windows (which have now been replaced by clear glass as intended by Wren). In repairing the ravages, Sir William Holford said, he and his colleagues had aimed at giving people a much better opportunity to see the il dginnthe middle of the City hub in the middle of the City hubbub — its wonderful sculptural walls, its western towers, its dome — and to feel that it belonged to them as a sort of parish church. At the same time, they had kept a little of the intricacy of the surroundings — the narrow roads and sudden views — and had not attempted to "open it all out on a great flat plate" like St. Peter's in Rome.

Strictly Personal

Vanity Is Fine, But Certainly Not in Photos

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My sense of vanity is as robust as the next man's, but there is one form of vanity I have never understood — the desire to be pictured as younger or handsomer than you really are.

Many newspapers throughout the country run photographs or drawings of me that resemble King Tut with the wrappings off. When readers of these papers meet me, they are invariably surprised that I look younger and considerably less decayed than my potraits.

Most people, it is true, prefer pictures of themselves that are grossly flattering — and some, indeed, use photos that were taken 20 years ago. Even so eminent and ancient a figure as T. S. Eliot still splatters his book jackets with a studio portrait showing him as a Harvard student.

I take the opposite view. My vanity is more tickled when readers meet me in the flesh (such as it is) and exclaim, "Why, you look much nicer than that horrible picture of you in the Daily Blabber!" I glow with appreciation and self-esteem and sometimes am even polite to them in return.

But consider the opposite. Suppose, from my picture, they expected some lithe Apollo, flashing of eye and firm of chin — and they came upon this sagging mound of middle-aged futility. They would sneer and snicker and mutter to themselves, "Why, the old fraud; he's as vain as a chorus girl. I'll bet he dyes his hair, too, and wears a corset."

I think that my own form of vanity is much more realistic — which is why I refuse to heed the advice of well-meaning readers and put a better picture of myself in the papers. The shock of recognition is more gratifying to me this way.

Pictures don't lie, but people do — and nowhere do they lie more blatantly than in the pictures they choose for public exhibit. This is pardonable, perhaps, in a show business personality, who is always on parade; but ordinary citizens do themselves a profound disservice by circulating photographs of themselves that invite ludicrous comparisons when you come face to face with them.

I have used the same ugly drawing of myself in my home town paper for nearly 20 years now; and, in a kind of Dorian Grayish way, I have begun to resemble it. This is fine with me, except that in a few years I shall have to ask the artist to uglify it some more — for I want it always to be slightly more hideous than the grim reality I see while shaving every morning.

The Mikel Cup will be raced for off Victoria Park on Sunday afternoon as a handicap challenge sailing race, sponsored by the Belleville Yacht Club.

She's known today as "Iron-Man Betsy," and we mean the petite pitcher for Zellers—Betsy Adams who pitched and won her second game in as many nights when the Big-Z nine beat the Vikings 15 to 13, as the winners rallied offensively and defensively in the last two frames last night. The game was marked with some lusty clouting, notably Norma Maker's two circuit blows, and Helen Garrow's mighty homer. However the orchids go to Miss Adams for her yeoman work on the Zeller hilltop, after she pitched and won over the Metros the night before.

'Grr-umph' Said Codfish

Montreal Financial Times

From England comes another of the all too familiar stories about the ways governments waste money.

According to The Inside's Newsletter, one of the members of the House of Commons took exception to an outlay for the study of the conversational habits of the codfish . . . more particularly the study concerned itself with what the gentleman codfish had to say to the lady codfish during the mating season and that sort of thing.

The Member of Parliament was properly enraged. He emphatically denounced the study as a great extravagance and an unwarranted intrusion into the private lives of the codfish. He demanded an investigation, of course.

This meant the Minister of Codfish and other fish would be called to testify. The Minister was summoned and hastily threw together all the material he had on the propect. Armed with scientific data, he rambled on interminably about how delicate scientific instruments were being used to record sounds made by the codfish in the hopes of finding out vital facts about its life.

Finally, the budget conscious Member of Parliament, unimpressed by the scientific details, rose to interrupt and demand a summary of the results of the study. Then, after some hemming and hawing, the Minister of Codfish and other fish brought his report to a close. "So far," he said, "we have learned that the fish can say something like 'grr-umph'."

To Your Good Health

DECIDE WHAT YOU WANT FOR HAPPY RETIREMENT — AND GO AFTER IT

"Dear Dr. Molner: I would appreciate information on trailer life in retirement. I am a retired policeman. — Capt. J. S."

The way I feel about things, I don't think I ought to try to pose as an expert if a topic is something I don't know much about. This applies to trailer living, because I just don't know too much about it.

to trailer living, because I just don't know too much about it.

So I'll talk about the things I do know. For example, you should find one (or more than one) place where you have suitable facilities — safe water, safe electrical connections, adequate and safe sewage disposal, good drainage so that after a rainy day you don't have to wallow through mud.

Adequate basic facilities of this sort have been something of a problem in connection with trailer camps in the past. The well-run trailer camp now is a lot more than just a field.

Good facilities cannot be provided for nothing. They require an investment on the part of the camp owner. And he has to pay taxes, which must come from what he collects from you, so by buying a trailer you do not suddenly become a totally carefree individual, immune to paying your share to keep our country going.

The advantages of trailer living are that you can move with the seasons, south in winter, north in summer, and visit interesting parts of the country that you haven't seen. But trailers (like ships) need ports at which to dock. You can't expect to take off over the open road and settle down wherever fancy dictates.

If you are going to move quite a bit from place to place, find out the names and locations of good trailer parks in advance. Find out from others where there are good and interesting places to go. Don't assume that you can just drive along the road and decide to park at an attractive beach or fishing spot.

If you enjoy planting flowers and garden work, or if you like to play cards with congenial friends, or take part in other activities that require some organization, then figure on settling in one spot long enough to achieve what you want.

Trailers, unlike houses, can move from place to place. When you move, you open the opportunity to meet new people — but you necessarily must sacrifice contact with some of the old friends you have known.

Trailer living has its advantages, else it would not be so popular. But as with anything else, gains in one direction require a sacrifice in others. Nobody can have everything! Happy life, in retirement or otherwise, depends on deciding what you want, and going after it, intelligently, on the basis of all the information you can collect from others.

I'm rather surprised that somebody hasn't, by this time, written books, or produced a magazine, or in some other form provided a means of distributing information about the problems and advantages of trailer living. Maybe somebody has. If readers know of such a publications, I trust they'll let me know.

Diet Habits Hard to Alter

Ancient customs and habits die slowly.

In Japan, the people are being told to eat more butter, cheese and meat to grow tall and strong. However, they are slow to give up their traditional rice and fish dishes.

But the message is getting across to the younger people and children are growing taller than their parents.

Still, Japanese who now eat Western dishes feel their hunger is not satisfied until they eat a bowl of rice.

It's the same as telling the people over here to cut out hamburgs. What a reaction there would be!

TAKE PICTURES

Nothing is so fascinating at vacation time as to take pictures all the way. You learn and have fun! With your camera you never experience a dull day. Art is just around the corner if you have your faithful camera friend with you all the time. Camera Pal is what you can call that magic invention. Again and again your happy vacation will return to you, all because you had your Camera friend with you time and again to call attention to some interesting picture worth preserving.

You need never be ashamed of your smallest picture. It will be a part of you and your hobby. You can trace your years and happy spots if you bless that Camera of yours, and you will bless the day that you started keeping a record of your many happy days.

The modern Cameras are magic instruments, and no toy. There is one Camera store in New York City that takes up an entire block — and you will never see a busier, happier lot of people shopping for cameras and supplies. It is astounding! Picture taking is a good hobby for these troubled times.

Happy vacation and happy picture!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In summer, women's purses take on the general size and character of waste baskets. In winter, a woman carries a reasonably small handbag or purse. It is usually of leather, and more formal than the summer bag. It is less capacious, and therefore in a more or less organized condition as far as its contents are concerned. In winter, a woman takes only perhaps ten or at most twenty seconds to grope around in her handbag for what she wants.

But in summer, the fashion is for handbags of cloth, raffia, straw, canvas or plastic. Cheaper than leather and less formal, they can therefore be of size. I would say the average one is about the same cubic contents as a waste basket or small kitchen trash can.

This enables the ladies to really load 'em up. I am told that in summer there is more to carry about, such as sun glasses, a tiny compact rain hat, a wide variety of lotions, a couple of paper back novels, the belt off a raincoat that fell off last month, gum, a bundle of letters to show Elsie the next time, two samples of curtain material, and that sort of thing.

Thus when a lady, ahead of you in the bus queue, starts looking for a bus ticket, do not flip your wig. Remember, it is summer. Copyright: Canada Wide sending assistance if it had been asked.

SECURITY COUNCIL

Harold Beeley, Britain's minister to the UN, said the Soviet Union was not seriously trying to advance the interests of either the Congo or the UN.

Nine of the 11 Security Council members were agreed "that the threat of anarchy facing the Congo is a grave misfortune" although Russia did not appear to think so.

Armand Berard, the French ambassador, asked: "Are we to be taken for feeble-minded persons" in believing the "ridiculous accusations of aggression by Belgium?"

Russia, Berard said, wouldn't fail to protect its own citizens, as Belgium had done, in a similar situation.

"PAINFULLY WOUNDED"

Soviet charges of "imperialist conspiracies and plots (show) that the Soviet Union does not hesitate to create new complications. . . ."

Pierre Wigny, Belgium's foreign minister, said his country had been "painfully wounded by those who without reality of logic accused us of aggression."

"Wisely, all but the two Communist members of the Security Council chave condemned this slander."

whe repeated earlier assurances that the troops, sent only to protect Belgian lives, would be withdrawn as soon as possible.

TOOK NO ACTION

The council took no action on Katanga, the copper - rich province which is seceding from the rest of the Congo. Some delegates said it was purely an internal matter.

The council vote ended a debate that ground on from mid-afternoon until past midnight for two days. The debate began with areport from Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold that he was moving the UN force into the Congo rapidly and that Belgian troops would all be out of Leopoldville by Saturday night.

As the council adjourned, there still was no final word on whether Congolese Premier Lumumba would come to UN headquarters.

The Congolese representatives at the UN said they understood Lumumba wanted to confer with UN officials on technical aid for the Congo and would probably come to New York at a later date.

BOARD DENIES

609 divorce applications to the Senate divorce committee at the current session, was approved by that committee last month. It was passed by the Senate and was close to passage in the Commons when Mr. Eccles made last week's claim of fictitious adultery.

On Wednesday, Senate divorce committee chairman Senator Arthur Roebuck reported that of the record 609 divorce applications this year, 492 were recommended for approval, seven were rejected, 15 were withdrawn and 95 were not proceeded with.

Thirty-five divorce bills have passed both Senate and Commons and received royal assent. Two have been withdrawn in the Commons, leaving a backlog of 455 divorce bills piled up behind a CCF party blockade in the Commons against Parliament handling divorces.

Parliament handles divorce petitions from Quebec and Newfoundland, which do not have their own divorce courts.

In his closing argument before the committee Thursday, Peter Newcombe of Ottawa, counsel for Mr. Eccles, said that if the committee found there was adultery "it is connived adultery, followed by a collusive divorce."

"A FANTASY"

Mr. Newcombe said the story of adultery being committed by Mr. Eccles in a Montreal hotel room last summer was "a fantasy from beginning to end."

He referred to testimony by Mr. Eccles that, at a Montreal court hearing last July when he was being sued for non - support, solicitors for Mr. and Mrs. Eccles had held a corridor conversation to discuss divorce while the husband and wife stood on either side of the hall.

Robert McCleave (PC — Halifax), who stepped down from the committee chairmanship during this case, asked Mr. Newcombe whether he was claiming that Mrs. Eccles had any direct part in collusion.

Mr. Newcombe replied: "The inference should be drawn, when she says she was present across the h[illegible] that she must have known [illegible] was going on."

[illegible] Champagne, counsel for Mrs. Eccles, said Mr. Eccles didn't contest the divorce action before the Senate Committee last month "because he wanted to wait and try to make a storm."

Referring to the Senate divorce committee's hearing, Mr. Champagne added:

"If this fantastic story of a frame-up was true, and if it had been revealed . . . no one would have dared to show up and present the evidence presented by the petitioner (Mrs. Eccles)."

continuing to arrive here today and Ralph Bunche, assistant UN secretary-general, hoped to have the force built up to 10,000 by the weekend.

The first of four RCAF planes carrying food arrived here Thursday night.

RUSSIANS ARRIVE

Soviet planes arrived here Thursday with Ghanaian troops and sugar supplies—and a surprise group of blue-suited Russian diplomats.

The Soviet delegation immediately went to see Congolest Premier Patrice Lumumba but a spokesman for the premier said he received the Russians only for a few minutes to thank them for the Russian contribution of supplies.

Swedish troops prepared today to take over the Leopoldville airport from Belgian paratroopers under an agreement calling for the withdrawal of all Belgian troops from the Leopoldville area by Saturday.

Meanwhile, Belgian and Katanga officials denied reports that the Congolese foreign minister, Justin Bomboko, had been arrested by police of breakaway Katanga province in Elisabethville.

The plight of the Congo continued to take the spotlight in many world capitals.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France told the Senate in Paris that if the Russians intervened in the Congo it would result in a world crisis "as grave if the U.S.S.R. intervened in Berlin."

Neither the French government nor its Westen allies could remain passive in such an event, Couve de Murville said, but he didn't think the Soviet Union was ready to take "excessive and total" risks.

In Washington, State Secretary Christian Herter criticized Soviet threats to send troops to the Congo. He felt it was a bluff calculated to stir up trouble.

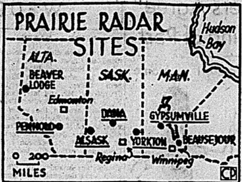
PLAN TO REBUILD

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans to mend the shattered federal ranks of the Social Credit party were outlined Thursday by national leader Solon Low, now an Alberta high school teacher. Stage one of a national convention will be a two-day meeting starting next Thursday to elect a new executive, Mr. Low said in a statement from his old political stamping grounds here. Stage two would be a leadership convention at a date to be selected.



FILL RADAR GAP — Sites have been selected for five new heavy radars in the Prairie Provinces aimed at filling a gap in the Pinetree radar line between Beausejour, Man., and Beaver Lodge, Alta., both now having radar stations.

Each radar, costing $8,000,000, will be manned by 250 RCAF personnel. The Pinetree line, with 34 operational radar stations across Canada, controls the operations of jet interceptors.

Map locates the five new sites (underlined): Penhold, Alta.; Alsask, Dana and Yorkton in Saskatchewan, and Gypsumville, Man. (CP Newsmap.)

NO LIMIT PLACED

had planned to lend during 1960, he said.

However, he declined under questioning from J. R. Garland (L—Nipissing), opposition housing critic, to estimate just how much federal mortgage money will be committed.

WON'T SAY NUMBER

He also declined to estimate the total number of homes that will be started this year except to say it will be more than the 125,000 he estimated some time ago.

Mr. Walker remained avowedly mild and unprovocative as the Commons neared the end of a grilling that began three days ago with study of his department's 1960 - 61 spending program.

He practically turned the other cheek when M. Galand sugtgsted that not much is being gained if the government intends to shift normal summer construction into the winter months through easing of income limitations on loans to prospective home owners and granting loans to merchant builders.

"If the government is genuinely concerned, as I am sure it is, to create more jobs in the winter, it seems to me it should offer some form of concession which would encourage construction in this field in the winter time," Mr. Garland said.

Mr. Walker replied that even without the three-month easing of restrictions on direct federal loans the government would be lending the $150,000,000 it had planned on. Between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000 had been applied for by last week and $36,800,000 had actually been loaned.

TURNS QUESTIONS ASIDE

Mr. Garland persisted with puestions aimed at getting an tstimate of total lending by the government and total numbers of houses started but Mr. Walker politely turned them aside, remarking at one point that Mr. Garland is nothing if not goodcatured and persistent, and at another that he would have to take Mr. Garland as a law partner.

As a step to help northern and rural construction, Mr. Garland suggested moving up the Sept. 1 start of the employment-stimulation program to Aug. 1. Mr. wwalker replied this had been considered but Sept. 1 was sufficiently early to give builders time to get the foundation dug and the framework up.

Mr. Walker also turned down Mr. Garland's suggestion that the government help in purchases of older homes for conversion into low-rental dwelling units. It would requie an amendment to the Housing Act, the minister said, and all the government's housing money was going into new construction.

Correspondence included a letter re: The School for Leaders, Whitby, August 15-19. Registration, August 5. It is hoped that someone will go from this group

Mrs. Dorland gave the latest mite box total, $85.50, Mrs. Taylor has books waiting to be read. Mrs. Nash gave a splendid report on stewardship, "The viewpoint of the Master is the most important thing in life." The special Dollar Day collection was $19.00.

Mrs. C. Hicks was in charge of the program. Her devotional theme, "Appreciation of other races." Mrs. Marvin read the Scripture. Mrs. Hicks read, "The Madonna Window," a most touching story, the blackness is internal instead of external. This whole congregation had a change of heart because the Madonna's face in the new window was black. When touched by the sun's rays both the face of the Mother and the Babe shone with a radiant light, so bright, they were white instead of black.

Miss Gladys Pettingill told of two recent instances this year in Winnipeg. She showed the paper with the picture of Lindly Abdulah, a colored student, who is the new president-elect of the Manitoba Students' Union. Second picture was of Dr. Tom Casey, American Negro, brilliant student, star of the Blue Bombers, 1955 Manitoba's student of the year. He is now a medical doctor finishing a two-year scholarship in London. He wants to practise in Winnipeg. He wonders if they want him. Letters in the paper say they do.

Mrs. Hicks thanked all who helped. The Hebrew benediction closed the meeting.

The members of group III served light refreshments. All enjoyed the social half-hour.

British Teen-agers Agree Love Letters Thing of Past

LONDON (CP) — British teenagers appear to have decided that in the middle of the 20th Century, love letters are something they can do without.

They're apt to adopt this form: "Dear Fishface,"

"See you Friday, as usual—Bill."

The youth of 1960 seldom, if ever, uses a greeting as mushy as "My Darling" to start his letter.

Instead, says a survey by The Daily Mirror, terms of endearment may run to such as Dear Big - head, Dear Stiletto Heel, Dear Wiggle Ears, Dear Droop.

Says Jane, an 18 - year - old grocer's cashier, "It's all so unromantic.

"LOVE" SCARES BOYS

"From my experience and from what other girls have told me, boys seem to be frightened of writing words like love or darling."

Ruth, a 17-year-old secretarial student in London, agrees.

"If a boy wrote, for instance, 'Love, John,' it wouldn't implicate him. That's what most boys seem to be afraid of—committing themselves."

The boys disagree.

"It's not a matter of being committed," said Paul, an 18-year-old office worker.

"Love letters are sloppy. I don't know any boy who writes them."

The quickened pace of life and the telephone are probably the major causes of the decline of the missive of endearment.

"There's always time to make a quick, goofy call on the phone," says Joe, 17, a student accountant.

LOVE-SICK TRIPE

"I think the girls like this. They don't want to hear all that love-sick tripe."

George, 19, a trainee-salesman, felt that "to write pet names like 'Shock Head' or 'Turnip Nose' to a girl are terms of affection meant only for two people to share."

"Love in words lies bleeding." The Mirror sadly observes. "Kicked squarely in the teeth."

Yes, sir, the 20th century seems to have developed into the missile and not the missive age.

Bayview School Holds Pet Show

A pet show took place at Bayview School on Wednesday afternoon.

Among the entries were Irish Setters, Collies, Wiener Dogs, Pussies, Turtles, French Poodles and Lady Bugs. This particular Lady Bug was called "Lady McGoo". Her close friend, aunt Flora, (Ant) was also entered, but unfortunately she was lost in the confusion created by the enthusiastic children.

The entries were judged by Alan Barkley, and aided, quite capably by the participants who did not have pets.

Chatterton W.I. To Display Antiques

The July meeting of the Chatterton W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Barlow with 16 members and one guest in attendance.

Mrs. Gardner, president, opened the meeting.

It was decided to have a display of antiques at the Belleville Fair, and Mrs. Gardner will set up the display. Members are requested to bring their items to the next meeting at Mrs. Gardner's.

A card of thanks was read from Mrs. Follwell for the remembrance sent on the occasion of the death of Mr. Follwell's brother.

It was decided to invite Stirling, River Valley and Pine Grove to the social evening in September when Mrs. Wallis will be presenting her slides and talk of wild life in the Quinte area.

Mrs. Gardner turned the meeting over to Mr. Barlow who was the guest speaker. On their trip to Florida last winter, Mr. and Mrs. Barlow took some lovely slides which Mr. Barlow showed to the gathering explaning the location and occasion of each. Many were surprised to learn that Florida is the second largest cattle raising State in the U.S. There were pictures of the orange groves and the parks, of the famous Sea Aquarium, the race tracks with their beautiful gardens and buildings, and of the famous Florida Keys.

Mrs. Berson Mitts tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Barlow for a most interesting and enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Irvine and Mrs. Gardner served sumptuous refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

WEDDINGS

BEEBY — DARCY

A lovely wedding was solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 25, at 2.00 p.m. when Evelyn Elizabeth Darcy, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hugh Darcy, of Smiths Falls, Ontario, became the bride of Graham Leslie Beeby, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Arthur Beeby. The rector of the church, Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, officiated before a background of white lilies, gladioli and snapdragons. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the choir of six boys in the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in her bridal gown of white silk organza over taffeta, fashioned in floor - length princess style with fitted lace bodice having a Sabrina neckline and long, sheath-like sleeves with scalloped cuffs. The graceful skirt was accented by a lace insert, forming a chapel train flowing from the waistline back bow. She wore a fingertip veil appliqued with scattered lace roses, held by a tiara style headdress, and carried a semi-cascade of yellow roses mingled with white snowdrop 'mums and entwined with ivy.

Miss Ruth Arliss, of Montreal, was the maid of honor, gowned in turquoise blue silk organza over taffeta, featuring princess lines with Sweetheart neckline, bow headdress with veil of organza, matching shoes and white gloves.

Miss Nancy Darcy, of Smiths Falls, sister of the bride, and Miss Sherril Beeby, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids, gowned in yellow organza over taffeta fashioned on similar lines to that of the maid of honor. Miss Arliss carried yellow Shasta daisies, while Miss Darcy and Miss Beeby carried white Shasta daisies in crescent shape.

Flying Officer, Eric V. Beeby, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Robert W. Owen, of Belleville, and Fred G. Beeby, of Montreal, cousins of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Mr. Arthur Beeby, cousin of the bridegroom, served Holy Communion.

The reception was held at Christ Church parish hall where the bride's mother received the guests, attired in a champagne embroidered eyelet costume, with mocha-toned accessories, and corsage of bronze 'mums touched with gold. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, wearing pale-blue embroidered organza in sheath style, with navy accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by three white wedding bells, and flanked by silver candelabra bearing yellow candles. The bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

For her wedding trip by motor to Washington, D.C., and Cape Cod, the bride wore a white linen sheath dress, with shell-shaped collar hand-embroidered in pearl gray. White shoes, and purse, pale pink hat covered with pink nylon roses, pink gloves, and corsage of dark pink roses completed her costume.

Showers honoring the bride, prior to her marriage, were held by Miss Ruth Arliss of Montreal, when a bridge table with chairs and accessories were presented by Mrs. A. Fewtrell. of Belleville, a kitchen shower; the Girls' Auxiliary of Christ Church held a dinner party and presentation. Debutantes Here to Stay Opinion of Lord Mancroft

TORONTO (CP) — Debutantes are here to stay, even if they are no longer being presented to the Queen, says Lord Mancroft.

The peer, interviewed while in Toronto to address the International Congress of Outdoor Advertising, said the London social season teaches the girls how to behave.

"Debutantes learn not to giggle and not to blush in public. It's a lesson in manners."

Lord Mancroft said the fact that the custom of presenting debutantes to the Queen was discontinued two years ago does not mean they are launched without fanfare.

BUSY ROUND

He cited the example of his 17-year-old step-daughter, Venetia Quarry, brought out this year with an afternoon garden party given by Lord Mancroft's mother.

"Venetia has been going to four parties a day for what seems like a thousand years."

One party was held in the London zoo where the guests danced between the cages. Another took place in an airline terminal. And one foresighted hostess thoughtfully provided a change in evening dress for her gentlemen guests when she gave a party beside an outdoor swimming pool.

But teas and cocktail parties are beginning to replace the expensive private dances and often two or three girls will combine to give a party. Lord Mancroft thinks this is a good idea though "it's still murder on the pocketbook."

Perhaps his major objection to the debutante season is that he can never get a telephone call through to his own home. In addition to Venetia there is Miranda Quarry, 12, and Lord Mancroft's two daughters, Victoria, 8, and Jessica, 6. Benjamin, 3, is too young for phoning. And in this house full of debs and prospective debs, Benjamin is described by his father as a "nice change."

MODERN MANNERS

"DELUXE BABY SITTERS" IN OPERATION

Many industrious teenagers have been trying to obtain part-time positions during their summer vacations. As a result of this urge to make "pin money" for themselves, an interesting little business has sprung up in the small community where I live. "Deluxe Baby Sitters" is the name of this rapidly growing concern.

The bosses of the outfit are a very attractive young lady and a young man, both 16. Yes, strange as it may seem, a number of young men are learning how to "baby sit," and they make good sitters too! Think of the lucky young lady who someday marries one of these well-trained young men.

"Deluxe Baby Sitters" is run on a very businesslike basis. A definite fee has been set for various occasions. Advertisements appear in the local paper giving the price lists. All sitters are required to pass a test to prove their ability before they are considered ready to go out on assignment. How to handle emergencies is part of the briefing.

A definite code of manners has been adopted and woe betide the sitter for any infractions. A reprimand greets the first complaint. Dismissal results from the second. Naturally, I was interested to know just what this code of manners is. The following is a brief outline of what is expected of a reliable sitter.

To avoid misunderstandings later, an agreement is reached between the sitter and the employer with regard to hours and the fee. Only sickness is considered an excuse for not showing up at the appointed hour. A sitter must be on time and not arrive late.

A flip, "I know it all" attitude is severely frowned upon. Ask for, and listen to, instructions about Junior's care. Don't trust your memory. Write the instructions down and follow them.

Use the radio or TV only with permission, and then keep it low. Raiding the icebox is definitely out. No personal calls should be made on the phone unless told you may do so. If permission is granted don't spend the whole evening glued to the phone.

Entertaining one's best beau or girl friend means immediate discharge. Sleeping on the job is another irregularity for which there is no excuse.

No sitter is allowed jo forget for a moment that the job is a very responsible one demanding dependability, a gracious approach to the employer and an eagle eye on Junior.

More power to "Deluxe Baby Sitters". Long may they prosper! And from the comments of grateful parents, they cannot help but do so!

W.I. Enjoys Visit to Moira Lake

IVANHOE — Ivanhoe W. I. met at the home of Mr. P. M. Wood, Moira Lake, on July 13th. At noon a delicious pot-luck dinner was served.

There were 16 members and visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Barton Haggerty, presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

A short program followed: a talk; "Safety in the Home" was given by Miss Margaret Wright; reading, "How Long Do You Want to Live"? Mrs. Milton Shaw.

A report on the Historical Society meeting was given by Mrs. Hugh MacMillan, who told of a visit to the Indian reservation and to some of the homes there. Mrs. MacMillan saw the Communion Service presented by Queen Anne and also several old relics. The chief told some interesting historical facts.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Arthur Leavesley, was introduced by Miss Jayne Gay. Mrs. Leavesley compared the way of life in England to this country and also showed English coins.

Some of the members enjoyed swimming, but a storm prevented a boat trip planned by Mr. Wood.

This annual visit to Moira Lake is enjoyed by the ladies and thanks and appreciation were expressed to the host for his hospitality.

Readers' Friday Column

As told to Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I would like very much to find a recipe for "Chess Cake". My Mother baked this and all I can remember of it is she said it was richer than biscuit dough and had a caramel icing-like filling. It was made in about 6 layers. Would you have such a recipe? . . . I noticed you have compiled a number of recipes for wedding receptions. Please may I have these? . . . Mrs. V B.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you the wedding releases. As for "Chess Cake" I am frustrated. Chess Pie and Chess tartlets I have made but not a Chess Cake. I think though that the recipe for the filling for Chess Pie (below) would be a reasonable facsimile of the "caramel-like filling" you mention. It could be that your mother was an experimenting cook and made 6 single flaky layers of pastry and put them together with the filling (below).

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Salmon Loaf (see Thursday); Crumbed Broiled Tomato Halves; Corn on the Cob; Cucumbers in Sour Cream; Fresh Raspberry Pie (see Wednesday); Tea.

CHESS PIE:

Pastry for 9" single crust, 1 cup butter or margarine, room temperature, 2 cups granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1-2 cup all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 egg yolks beaten, 1 cup evaporated milk.

Make pastry and line 9" pie pan; crimp with fork, leaving edge flat. Cream butter, gradually add sugar and cream well. Stir in vanilla, then flour and salt, and beat until well blended. Stir in egg yolks, then the milk gradually. Turn into pastry-lined pan. Bake 10 minutes at 450 deg. Fahr. then reduce heat to moderately slow (325 deg. Fahr.) and bake 25 to 30 minutes longer. Custard firms as it cools. Fortunately this pie is just as delicious chilled as it is lukewarm.

REQUEST:

If any of our readers recognize the "Chess Cake" to which Mrs. V. B. refers I would be grateful to receive their recipes so I could pass them on to her.

QUESTION:

. . . Thank you for the Chicken Salad recipe you sent me . . . I have a problem. Could you send me some menus for noon lunches for my husband? He will be going on holiday soon and I am at my wits' end to know what to serve. When he is working he takes a lunch pail, so I am all right then. There are so many things he doesn't like that would be just perfect for a lunch. I have no trouble with dessert, just the main course. Here is a list of what he doesn't like: Bacon, eggs, cheese, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, soup, jellied salads, shrimp, tuna fish and cooked tomatoes — he likes them raw . . . Mrs. A. B.

ANSWER:

Your letter made me chuckle. If those you listed are the only foods he does not like there are thousands of choices. Keep cold meat on hand to slice such as roast beef, pork, ham, chicken, headcheese, salmon loaf. Serve these with various salads and toast or hot biscuits or muffins. Serve him pancakes with maple syrup and sausages. Make common hamburgs and serve them in buns with or without all the trimmings. Do the same with hot dogs. Make Chili con Carne and serve it with cole slaw and toasted rye bread. Make creamed fresh or salt cod fish and serve it on quartered hot boiled potatoes. Serve creamed on toast or in salads, lobster, crab, chicken. Always serve a salad of some kind. Since he likes tomatoes raw, stuff them with meaty salads such as chicken or lobster or shrimp and serve with a hearty sandwich. Okay?

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jill B. — Ann complains too much.

Ann R. — She's too complacent.

• • •

Jill B. — My friend Ann and I are both single girls in our mid-20's. We get along very well and have enjoyed double-dating and going on short vacations together.

Ann, however, has one habit which annoys me and I've been trying to get her to correct it before we go on our summer vacation. She is pleasant enough when we go someplace or are active, but she is constantly complaining when there is nothing to do. I can just loaf in the sun or read a book, but she bites her nails and keeps saying we should do something about picking up and going elsewhere.

She also is very critical of everyone we meet and keeps saying we aren't in the right crowd. I feel you have to take your chances.

• • •

Ann R. — Jill takes it very seriously when I complain to her, but I've tried to explain that it's not so important as all that. I find that at times I have to let off a little steam.

I do feel Jill and I aren't doing very well socially. We don't seem to be attracting the better type men and all too often get involved with jerks and wolves. Ann just shrugs her shoulders and says "better luck next time," but I can't be like that. It makes me sore to see much less attractive girls walk off with all the best guys. Both Jill and I dress well, are good dancers, go in for all sports — yet we don't seem to be getting anywhere.

I guess I just want to needle Jill a little because she is much too complacent.

• • •

The Council: We'll agree that it is better for a discontented person to let off steam in complaints than bottle his miseries. But this behavior isn't fair to others and it accomplishes litle.

The chronic complainer has found that he can make himself feel a little better by letting off steam. Then he settles back in satisfaction for a while — until his discontent begins seething within him again. He would do far better to save his steam to change things.

Ann, for example, could use her energy to far better advantage by studying her problem and doing something to improve her lot. Instead of envying the girls who "walk off with the best guys," she might try to find out where and how they met and what assets the other girls had, aside from appearance, that might have attracted the better men.

Ann has attached herself to Jill and acts as if all depends upon arousing her friend from her complacence. But Jill may have good reason for her attitude. Perhaps she feels the men she meets are not so very undesirable and has good reason to expect to find a husband among them.

Possibly Ann is more ambitious or simply has different tastes. If that is the case, she is foolish to limit her social activities to those which satisfy her friend. She is a free agent and should do something to find the social element she prefers.

Gideons' Work Told at St. Andrew's

IVANHOE — At the regular Sunday morning service of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mr. Gene Hitchon, of the Belleville Camp of the Gideons, displayed Bibles and books distributed by this group of Christian businessmen.

Following the reading of the defeat of the Midianites by Gideon and three hundred brave men, Mr. Hitchon told of the beginning of this organization in 1874. Their largest project is to distribute God's word — Bibles have been placed in hotels, hospitals, jails, schools and also were presented to the armed forces during the war.

While most of the expense is met by the Gideons, an appeal was made to carry on this worthwhile work.

The Rev. K. Rooney, who conducted the service, spoke briefly from the text "O Magnify the Lord With Me and Praise His Name Forever."

Mr. Rooney gave five reasons for attending church. To worship; to be instructed; to be comforted; to get fresh energy, and to help maintain the church.

"God's church is the greatest agency for the saving of souls, and extension of Christ's Kingdom.

"While we may worship God in other places, we worship most and best in His house. Let us be regular church attendants, until we reach the Father's house where we will go out no more, forever".

Sunday School Lesson

A Grudge Against the Times

By ROY L. SMITH

The story of Hosea, the Old Testament prophet who preached about the year 710 B.C., is the story of a man who held a grudge against the times.

SOPHISTICATED PEOPLE

Although the word had not yet been invented, the generation in the midst of which Hosea lived was highly sophisticated. And no generation is ever in such danger as that one is which thinks it knows all the answers.

Due to a peculiar political situation, in which the two great empires of antiquity — Assyria and Egypt — were playing for power and world mastery, the small nations that lay between the two were enjoying a period of unprecedented prosperity.

An enormous trade was going on between the East and the West, as Assyria built up her war potential in anticipation of the day she expected to strike at Egypt. And little Israel was collecting millions in customs duties. It looked as though the gravy train might run forever.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 24: "GOD DESIRES STEADFAST LOVE," Hosea 1:1 through 4:3; 5:15 through 6:6.

And with the merchants and traders from Asia and Africa there came the licentiousness of the idolatry practised by the two great powers. There was not a wmoan in all Israel who was immune to the gayety, the drama, and the seductions of the strangers who came with money in their tunics and lust in their hearts.

The worst aspect of the situation appeared in the fact that everyone except Hosea seemed to think the times were good because business was good.

EVIL RESPECTABLE

The sinister circumstance of the generation lay in the fact that the foulest evils claimed the sanction of respectability.

Among the pagans sex was associated with divinity because it was associated with the creation of life. Attached to all the heathen shrines were "holy women" whose earnings supported the priests and the cult.

The seductions of the sex-saturated paganism were especially attractive to the adolescent. Hebrew women who were flattered by the prospect of fine clothes and lush livngs. And among those who surrendered to the blandishments of the stranger-traders was the wife of Hosea, the prophet.

It is a dark day for any generation when license, lust and loose living lays claim to the sanction of "science" or to "broadmindedness."

Everywhere in Israel the moral standards of the people were sagging. There was a spirit of liberalism in the air that was equivalent to looseness.

A generation that seeks entertainment in nudity, excitement in sex extravagance, and pleasure in the lowering of moral restraints is writing its own obituary.

NO HOME IMMUNE

The prophet Hosea discovered that no man's home is immune to the seductions of sex and paganism. When his wife deserted her home and her little one for the excitment and the glamor of the life of a "holy woman," it was but typical of the moral collapse of the entire nation.

There are a few facts every man ought to face, if he is prepared to tolerate sex extravagances which masquerade under the guise of art.

1. Some family has contributed a daughter for public consumption, every time a girl is put on the stage to exhbit herself.
2. Those who traffic in sex depend upon the public for their profits.
3. There will come a time when that one who has paid the admission price will be required to stand before a chaste God and accept judgment.
4. No nation can traffic in its daughters and remain strong.
5. No exhibitionist is alone to blame; the times must accept their share of the responsibility.

Commons Debate Woefully Weak Declares Times

LONDON (CP) — The Times of London has taken a close look at the operation of the Canadian House of Commons and concludes there is room for much improvement.

"By and large," says the newspaper's Ottawa correspondent, "the standard of debate in the Commons in recent years has been woefully weak, and in this current session has reached new depths.

"One rarely catches a glimmer of brilliance in any of the speeches from either side of the House, and back benchers are given little opportunity to do anything but shout support of their respective leaders. . . .

"A member will call another a liar and while no one wants any 'nice Nellyism' in the cut and thrust of debate, many observers would prefer, for a change, to hear the sheer malicious rudeness of some members—some of whom can hardly express themselves in English—replaced with what the Ottawa Journal calls 'the language of passionate conviction spoken with conviction.' "

The paper notes that some members read their speeches and questions, "many of which are all prepared." One of the problems of question time is the tendency of members to quote press reports and then ask the minister concerned for their comments on them.

Generally, adds the correspondent, there are no adequate supplementary questions.

The Times attributes this partly to lack of an adequate research and intelligence organization at the disposal of the opposition.

"Another criticism levelled against both sides of the House is the constant use of newspaper clippings to justify arguments and policies and to condemn opponents out of their own mouths.

"Both the prime minister, Mr. Diefenbaker, and Mr. Pearson (the opposition leader) are very adept at this time — consuming practice which does not get them far and which bores and wastes the time of the House.

"Many, too, would like some day to see a minister resign on a point of principle."

What to Do If Car Drops Into Water

TORONTO — Every year, some motorists are trapped in automobiles plunging into the water. Needless panic often results when car doors refuse to open because of the pressure of the water outside.

"Instead, the rider must do an unnatural thing —calmly let the car fill with water. When the pressure inside equals the pressure outside, the door will open easily", is the advice issued by the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

"The rider need not drown while the car fills. If the car lands upright a pocket of air remains inside, more than enough to last the ten or 15 minutes it takes the car to fill. As it fills, he simply keeps his head in the air pocket, usually in the top portion of the car. The water stops rising, the pressure inside is about equal to the outside pressure. He then takes a deep breath, opens the door, pushes out and up to the surface. The air pocket remains after the door is open; no need to hurry; take time and don't panic.

"Here's what to do:

"1. If a car submerges with windows open, upright position - - - Same air pocket only water rushing through open windows, brace yourself against force of incoming water, keeping head against roof out of water. The car will fill faster — not so long to wait — then open door the same way as described above and rise to the surface.

"2. When car overturns and rests on its top — The same procedure is required, head against floor board until pressure equalizes so door can open.

"3. Car lands on side, window open, water rushing in — Keep head against door below window opening until car fills. Door would almost float open or smaller person could float out the window opening to rise to surface.

Alberta Tax Stand Unchanged

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta will maintain its old stand when it goes to the federal-provincial conference on taxation in Ottawa July 25-27.

"In the main our attitude will be about the same as it has been," Provincial Treasurer E. W. Hinman said Wednesday.

The provincial and federal governments should first agree "on those fields of taxation which might properly be shared on some acceptable formula basis," Mr. Hinman said.

"Having reached this agreement, each level of government must take responsibility for any increased taxation which may be necessary to look after the legitimate need of the parties to the ageement. . . .

"Tha Bank of Canada ought to become a vehicle for essential loans to municipalities and provinces so that the interest rate could be uniform and as low as possible."

Now is Time To Prune Those Yule Trees

PEMBROKE — Now is the time to prune Scotch pine Christmas trees — even though it's months until the yuletide season — C. R. Groves, of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests here, suggests.

"Pruning or trimming is a necessary part of growing Christmas trees", he says, "and in this district late June and on into July is the best time to do it.

"Scotch pine usually needs pruning about the second or third year after planting, after they have become established and have begun to put on more growth than is desired for a compact, symmetrical tree. Each year thereafter, until the tree is big enough to be harvested, pruning is necessary, trimming off not only excessive growth but also singling out double leaders and removing the undersirable one. Insect injury and other problems may be detected during pruning.

"The Christmas tree trade has become highly selective; the demand is for top quality trees".

Swamp Rabbits Are Plentiful

PEMBROKE — This part of Ontario's south central region appears to be about to witness the peak of the varying hare (swamp or snowshoe rabbit) population cycle that has been building up fo several years. A high hare population often reflects the number of predators seen for, where food is available, mobile predators such as hawks and owls appear in greater numbers than usual. Snowy owls moved south for food last winter because of the shortage of lemmings in the far north.

Animal fluctuations remain a mystery. Tularemia, most common disease of rodents, may be the limiting factor, so humans are warned to wear rubber gloves when cleaning rabbits since the disease can be transmitted.

The hare population has become so great that during spring tree planting one member of the Lands and Forests Department's crew had to patrol about 20 planted acres to "discourage" rodents nipping tender new tree growth; 87 rabbits were destroyed on this 20-acre plot alone.

Possibility Growers Will Not Plant Sugar Beets Next Year Due Uncertainty of Industry

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's multi-million dollar sugar - beet industry is under a cloud of uncertainty because of the St. Lawrence Seaway and a vast glut in world sugar production.

The industry, confined to the southwest corner of Ontario, is finding it almost impossible to compete with foreign growers of more cheaply produced cane sugar.

The future of Ontario growers hinges on a current study by federal and provincial governments. The recommendations from this study will decide whether growers plant beets again next year.

First established in 1902, the industry has had its ups and downs over the years. But the seaway extended low-cost shipping to the heart of the province.

REFINERY HIT BEETS

The future for beets became more sombre when Canada and Dominion Sugar Company Limited built a huge cane refinery here. Sinking prices of raw sugar, plus lower shipping costs make it attractive for the company to supply its market with cane sugar.

In addition, the company says its beet operations have lost money for the past seven years.

Growers and the company, only refiner in the province, agree on one point: Only increased government support can save the industry.

Over the years farm value of beets ranged between $2,205,000 in 1956 and $6,076,000 in 1958. A record 505,300 tons were grown last year—the record low was 145,000 tons in 1956.

Beets came under the government's agricultural price support program in 1957 and in 1958 when the price of raw sugar dropped sharply, Ottawa paid out $2,500,000 or more than $400 to each grower. Results of last year's crop have not yet been announced.

ON 10-YEAR AVERAGE

Previously the support was based on 93 per cent of the average price of the previous 10 years. This year it was raised to 100 per cent of the 10-year average.

Growers slashed acreage this year to 18,300 contracted to the company compared with 34,000 acres planted in 1959. This year's production will be processed at the company's Chatham plant.

Sugar beets are also grown in Alberta, Manitoba and Quebec. Canadian sugar beet acreage in recent years has totalled about 100,000, and the beets supply 18 to 20 per cent of sugar consumed in Canada.

Acreage in Quebec is small and western growers and insulated against cane sugar competition by high freight costs.

Want Change In Section of Traffic Act

TORONTO (CP)—The Metropolitan Toronto Police Commission Thursday urged that the Ontario government change a section of the Highway Traffic Act requiring police to identify a driver before charging him.

Metro Chairman Fred Gardiner said police have little chance of charging offenders since the motorist has to be stopped for positive identification.

The resolution asks that cities of more than 100,000 be exempt from the section of the act.

Mr. Gardiner said he believed the increasing traffic death and injury toll was the result of reduced enforcement of traffic regulations.

"The situation is completely out of hand under the present system," he said.

There were about 2,500 more accidents in the first six months of this year than in the same period last year in Metro Toronto. There were 17 more deaths and about 700 more persons injured in traffic accidents than in the first six months of 1959.

Road Report

TORONTO (CP)—The department of highways says repair work on a number of Ontario roads and bridges is expected to cause slight delays to motorists travelling during the weekend.

The department lists detours in the following areas:

Highway 6, Caledonia to Hagersville; Highway 6, south limits of Mount Forest; Highway 10, Camilla to Primrose; Highway 41, Denbigh, southerly for eight miles; Highway 45, Cobourg to Baltimore; Highway 54 at Onondaga; Highway 54 at Cayuga; Highway 97 at Plattsville; Highway 124, two miles west of Sundridge.

REDS HALT U.S. SHIP

NEW YORK (AP)—An armed Soviet patrol vessel stopped an American freighter, the Ocean va, on the high seas July 7, it was disclosed Thursday. United States admiralty lawyers said the incident was a violation of international maritime law. The ship, after being stopped in the North Pacific about 350 miles from the Soviet Kurile Islands, was allowed to proceed.

Missionary Evacuees Tell Of Strife-Torn Congo Horrors

WASHINGTON (CP)—"I was a little afraid," said the slim Toronto mother clutching a whimpering child in her arms. "But we will go back, some day."

Her green cotton dress rumpled and her eyes slightly glazed, Mrs. Prissie Rumohr was one of [illegible] evacuees from the strife-[illegible]n Congo flown here in two United States Globemaster aircraft.

Quiet accounts of rape and violence by Congo soldiers — warm praise for the Congolese people—thankfulness to be home —a desire to return and serve a tormented new African nation formed the pattern of mixed reactions in the first large group of evacuees to reach North America from the Congo.

Most of the 133 were Baptist missionaries and their families.

They were greeted at Andrews Air Force Base, in nearby Maryland, by government and Red Cross officials.

The possessions of many consisted only of the clothes they were wearing.

Mother of three young children and wife of a Baptist missionary, Mrs. Rumohr was at her village mission when she heard of a rebellion among native troops in the Congo which was recently granted independence by Belgium. She, her husband and their children packed and made their way out by car, truck and helicopter to Brazzaville, in the former French Congo colony, where two U.S. Globemaster planes awaited them.

"The natives were friendly. They didn't bother us," she said in an interview here as she stepped from the plane. "But the native troops got out of control. I wasn't molested."

Mrs. Rumohr was silent for a moment, her lips pursed. There was a general reluctance on the part of all evacuees to give details of their plight. Then suddenly she blurted out:

"They (the troops) beat some of the missionaries. They raped two women in our area—a married woman and a single woman. They almost got at a third woman. But they stopped. She had a two-week-old baby in her arms."

Others told of having heard "too much to tell here"; of having been beaten; of their sorrow in leaving the natives. All were missionaries and the children of missionaries. They were relieved to be on American soil; they longed to go back to the Congo when the Congolese turmoil had ended.

District Court Cannot Remove Union Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Court of Appeals Thursday refused to bar a hearing to determine whether Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa mishandled union funds. But it also ruled the district court may not remove union officials.

Hoffa partisans in the big, scandal-plagued union claimed a victory over those seeking to throw Hoffa out of office. A union official said the ruling on removal of officers means Hoffa cannot be ousted except by the members themselves.

But this view, expressed by union lawyer Raymond W. Bergan, was challenged by counsel for the Teamster Union monitors. Lawyer Herbert J. Miller Jr. contended the court actually had left the removal question to be decided if there were a Hoffa appeal from the hearing, and Hoffa can't claim a victory when "this hearing is the very thing Hoffa doesn't want to happen."

union funds were made by court-

Contentions of mishandling union funds were made by court-appointed monitors supervising the union.

The ruling means that the hearing might go on late this fall. It concerns the sale to members of lots in a Teamster real estate promotion at Sun Valley, Fla.

Hoffa also had asked the court to order that a Teamster convention be called by the court so that the members could decide for themselves who they want as their officers.

The court refused to do this. However, it did say the time has come to prepare the way for a convention and election.

Bank of Canada Interest Rate Shows Decline

OTTAWA (CP)—After a steady six-week climb, the Bank of Canada interest rate declined to 3.44 per cent Thursday from 3.49 last week with the sale of $95,000,000 in 91-day government treasury bills.

The rate, an indicator of conditions in the short-term money market, still is more than half of one percentage point above the previous low of 2.90 per cent June 9.

The rate, minimum charge by the central bank on its infrequent loans to chartered banks, is set at one-quarter of one per cent bove the average yield on the weekly sale of 91-day treasury bills.

The bank announced Thursday that $95,000,000 of the bills were sold by tender at an average price of $99.210 for an average yield of 3.19 per cent. Highest yield was 3.21, lowest 3.16.

Thursday's bank rate compares with the record high, 6.41 per cent last Aug. 13, and the record low, 1.12 per cent July 31, 1958.

U.S. Stiffening Attitude Against Russian Threats

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States is acting with extreme confidence in its stiffening attitude against the Russian threat to send troops into the Congo turmoil.

State Secretary Christian Herter has virtually challenged Soviet Premier Khrushchev to make good his threat by suggestisg the Communist boss is merely bluffing and that all Khrushchev really wants to do is stir up more trouble, more confusion in the African state, newly-independent from Belgium.

From the role of personal diplomacy as played by President Eisenhower, the U.S. now has turned back to a supporting role at the United Nations. And as long as it goes with the will of the majority at the UN, the confidence the U.S. exudes will be solidly based.

Thus it may seem fair to assume, as Herter apparently does that while Khrushchev might engage in extreme actions if he is sure that he can separate the U.S. from its Allies, it is doubtful he would do so knowing the U.S. is solidly backed by the UN.

That doesn't mean he'll back away from the Congo crisis altogether. As long as there is unrest in the Congo, the threat of Communist infiltration and exploitation remains.

There is a definite lack of good government in the Congo.

So, for some time, the UN may have to provide the controlling force in the new state, and as long as the UN remains there it is doubtful the Russians would foment the crisis to a point where it could possibly lead to a third world war.

Operating within the UN, the U.S. finds it can speak strongly to Russia without offending neutral nations. Russia has charged the U.S. with having armed troops in the Congo and Herter has rejected the charge, saying there are only a few non-combat troops operating there for the UN airlift.

Herter argued that Russia is trying to hurt the UN, something which the smaller nations would abhor.

"The U.S. government regards the Soviet government's demand as a deliberate, unilateral attempt to obstruct the UN efforts in the Congo," he told the Russians and added:

"The U.S. will continue to make its fullest contribution to this important UN effort and will not be deterred by Soviet attempts to misrepresent its actions."

Stupid, Strange, Surprising Banking System by Eastview Treasurer Says Commissioner

EASTVIEW, Ont. (CP) — The banking system of this town's treasurer was described Thursday as "stupid, strange and surprising."

The definition came from F. G. Blake, one of the two commissioners on a provincial inquiry board investigating the town's financial affairs.

William Bolton, supervisor of auditing and accounting in the Ontario municipal affairs department, said parking meter revenues were deposited only four times in 1959.

There had been only two deposits made this year and the first one of $1,861 was made only on May 17, four months after the year had begun.

Mr. Bolton said when he discussed this with treasurer Mrs. Adrienne Laroche "she explained that she did not think coins could be deposited in the bank."

HELD IN OFFICE

He said she sent the coins to the bank and received paper money in return. "This cash would then be placed in envelopes and retained in the office for various periods of time."

"Do you think there was any ulterior motive?" Commissioner Blake asked of the witness.

Mr. Bolton said he thought not, but he could hardly believe it when he discovered such a system was being followed.

He described the procedure of handling cash in the office as haphazard. Amounts left in unlocked drawers, he said, often exceeded $2,000.

TO MAKE CHANGE

He asked Mrs. Laroche why she kept so much cash on hand and quoted her as saying she thought the cash was necessary to "make change" when ratepayers came in to pay tax and other bills.

Mr. Bolton also made these allegations:

Councillor Edward T. Wilson in 1957-59 was paid $5.25 monthly for servicing municipal typewriters. He could be disqualified from holding office, Mr. Bolton said, for engaging in personal business with the municipality.

Cash premiums, he said, were paid out on municipal insurance policies when the policies themselves could not be found. Premiums of $4,000 were paid one man in April when they were not due until December.

BORROWED TO PAY

The town was "borrowing money at six per cent from the bank to pay the premium which was not yet due," remarked Commissioner Blake in amazement.

Mr. Bolton also said the town failed to call for tenders in awarding the annual street-oiling contract which ran anywhere from $5,633 to $12,723 annually in the last nine years and was always awarded to the same man. There were no detailed invoices indicating whether the streets were actually oiled or not.

Ex-President Of Chrysler Will Return Profits

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Chrysler Corporation president Thursday agreed to pay the company nearly $500,000 following an investigation of his official activities.

William C. Newberg, who resigned a little more than two weeks ago, offered to make the settlement and Chrysler directors approved it at a special meeting.

In a cryptic statement the corporation said it had "entered into a settlement agreement under which Chrysler will receive from Mr. Newberg profits in excess of $450,000 made by him from interests in vendor companies."

A spokesman for the company said "vendor companies" meant companies which sell supplies to Chrysler.

Newberg himself said "I entered into the questioned relationships with the vendor companies after advice of counsel and in the belief that they were in the interest of the corporation, and that no question of illegality or impropriety was involved."

Newberg's counsel John Hupper said Newberg had no further comment.

Neither Chrysler nor Newberg would give any specific details on his relationships with other companies.

At the annual stockholders meeting of Chrysler in April one stockholder, Sol Dann, charged he had heard reports of kickbacks to Chrysler Corporation officials from suppliers. He characterized this as "corporate payola."

Says War Only Way for Cuban Liberation

MONTREAL — (CP) — Luis Manuel Martinez, spokesman for Cuba's anti-Communist Liberation Movement, said Thursday that in the 18 months in power Premier Fidel Castro has become "a traitor and a sadistic instrument for the expansionistic plans of Moscow and Red China".

Mr. Martinez said headquarters for his movement are in Miami and that he is in Canada to tell of his country's plight because of "the increasing importance of Canada in the common destiny of the American countries."

After his visit here he plans to go to Mexico.

"Castro is not a subject for discussion by United Nations and the Organization for American States", said Mr. Martinez in an interview.

"That is a Red tactic to gain time. War, cruel and bloody war —but absolutely necessary — is the way to Cuba liberation.

"About 15,000 former soldiers, marines and policemen and many civilians are ready to begin the anti-Communist struggle on all fronts. There are 2,000 anti-Castro exiles anxious to take up arms and fight until death or until victory.

Japanese, German Exporters Outselling UK Counterparts In Most Major World Markets

LONDON (AP) — A British government report published today says Japanese and German exporters are outselling their United Kingdom counterparts in most major world markets.

The study, published as a supplement to the official Board of Trade Journal concludes cludes that expansion of British overseas trade during the 15 months ending March 31, 1960 was far smaller than the average achieved by other manufacturing countries.

The report shows that this was true in both Canada and the United States — two countries where Britain has been doing well. Both German and Japanese salesmen were doing better than the British.

"In the overseas sterling area, United Kingdom exports fell further while Germany's exports were maintained at the previous year's level and Japan's exports more than regained the ground lost in 1958.

"These two countries supplied over 20 per cent of all manufacturing countries' exports to the serling area, compared with nearly 50 per cent by the U.K."

Generally, the report indicates, Britain did "reasonably well" in the Western hemisphere, when compared with other countries.

U.K. exports did less well in European markets, largely because of the marked expansion in trade among the six members of the Common Market.

The common Market was launched in 1958 by Germany, France, Italy and the Benelux countries.

The British performance in world markets is the major reason for the "it's fun to export" drive launched earlier this week by Prime Minister Macmillan.

Dealing with area trends, the board of trade says that exports to the U.S. from other manufacturing countries shot up by one-third compared with 1957. This year is said to provide a better comparison than 1958, which was a year of recession.

All countries shared in this expansion. British exports were up by almost 50 per cent compared with the 1957 figure, but those of Common Market countries as a group rose by more than half and Japanese sales soared by more than 70 per cent.

Although U.K. exports to Canada more than regained the ground lost in 1958, the increase compared to 1957 was much less than that for any country other than Belgium, Luxembourg and the U.S.

"As in the United States," says the review, "the largest increase (in sales to Canada) was in Japan's exports.

Free Education From First Grade to College Graduation Aim of Que. Youth Minister

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Youth Minister Paul Gerin - Lajoie's long-term ambition is to establish free education from the first grade to university graduation.

Most pressing at present is free education at the primary and secondary levels, he said Thursday in an interview.

At the university level, for the moment, more scholarships would be given.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, 40, said he is appalled that 50 per cent of the pupils in Quebec province leave school at the age of 15. During the election campaign his Liberal party said the province of Quebec has the lowest rate of school attendance in Canada.

A recent study showed, he said, that 76 per cent of the young unemployed do not go beyond the eighth grade and therefore face the prospect of being periodically unemployed all their lives.

At the high school level most institutions are run by the clergy or religious congregations and it has been claimed they çannot operate without charging students.

An immediate job is to train teachers, especially for high schools, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said.

Five hundred new high school teachers for male students are needed each year, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said earlier this week. There was an increase of 10,000 boys a year in high school enrollment.

A total of 400 qualified students had been turned away from normal schools for training male teachers in Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Sherbrooke last year because of lack of space. Two new male normal schools, one in Trois-Rivieres and one in Sherbrooke, were to be built and in operation by Sept. 1, 1961.

More normal schools are being planned for other cities, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said.

"The government has decided to take all necessary financial measures to ensure a gigantic scope for education," he said.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie dreams of a vast big-city-to-grass roots program to make education for all more than a scholastic education.

Besides building necessary schools, small cultural centres would be established to "gravitate" around high schools.

The centres would include school and public libraries, guidance services and all sports facilities. Eventually each rural municipality would have its cultural centre.

Included in the project is the seeking out of talent and convincing of the talented to accept being pushed. This would be done through the guidance services.

Quebec's Attorney-General Well Qualified for Position

QUEBEC (CP) — Georges Lapalme, the man Premier Jean Lesage has picked to clean up and revamp law enforcement, penal institutions and liquor commission operations, looks more like a bookish scholar than a tough crime buster.

Actually, few men are as well qualified for their jobs as Mr. Lapalme is for his post of attorney-general. Observers talk of the mailed fist in the velvet glove.

"Our first job is provincial police reorganization," says Mr. Lapalme.

Mr. Lapalme is one of the two cabinet ministers who will accompany Premier Lesage to the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa next Monday. It is believed he will consult with Justice Minister Fulton over the possibility of RCMP assistance in his plans for police reorganization.

The Quebec Provincial Police now is without a director since the resignation request of Hilaire Beauregard, 57-year-old head of the force, was accepted.

"Our main field of operation will be Montreal. Forty per cent of all our courts business originates there, 50 per cent of the business handled by the attorney-general's department relates to Montreal," Mr. Lapalme says.

The 53-year-old lawyer had little to say for publication on his department's drive to break up crime in Montreal.

"We've appointed a new assistant deputy attorney - general for Montreal. Until now there was no direct representative of the attorney-general on the spot. Now we will have Yves Leduc".

Mr. Leduc, a Verdun, Que., lawyer, was appointed this week.

Mr. Leduc's powers will be considerable. As a direct representative of Mr. Lapalme in Montreal he will move with the full authority and backing of the attorney-general himself.

Mr. Lapalme says he has not had time to grapple with the problems of penal institutions. As for the Quebec liquor commission the task there of effecting reforms has been placed in the hands of Lucien Dugas, a Joliette, Que., lawyer.

Mr. Lapalme, like Mr. Lesage, entered political life in the federal field. He was elected in 1945 in the constituency of Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm and left the federal scene in 1950 to take over the Quebec Liberal party leadership at a time when Liberals had only eight members in the 91-seat Quebec House. During the next eight years he did battle with the mighty Union Nationale party, leading his group in two provincial elections.

The Doc Says

Kaline Just Plain Tired

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers believe they finally have found the reason for Al Kaline's season - long batting slump.

A physical examination has disclosed the once-feared slugger is suffering from fatigue. Kaline admitted Thursday night that he has been feeling rundown for "quite a while." He said he did not want to say anything about it because "I didn't want it to sound like I was making excuses for a lousy year."

Dr. Russell Wright, the Tigers' team physician, said Kaline has low blood pressure and is "generally fatigued." He said the 25-year-old outfielder, who won the American League batting title in 1955 with a .340 mark, will be put on a high-potassium diet to build him up.

Kaline is batting only .238, with nine home runs and 38 runs-batted-in. At this stage of the 1959 campaign, he was hitting .340 with 16 home runs and 57 RBIs. He finished with a .327 mark, second only to Harvey Kuenn for the league batting crown.

"I feel tired all the time," Kaline admitted. "It's been this way for quite a while but I'm not using it as an alibi. I'm just having a bad year, that's all.

The Tigers are accustomed to slow starts by Kaline. But by this time of the year he usually is hitting well.

Manager Jimmie Dykes called it "just one of those years."

"He's pressing so hard, trying to snap out of it, that he's not himself at the plate," said Dykes.

Thursday, Kaline was moved up to the No. 2 spot in the batting order for the first time in his seven-year career in the major leagues.

He had one single in three official trips but was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. Dykes said he made the move because Kaline, who is 10 pounds underweight, was "simply beat."

Three Cuppers In Tennis Semi-Finals

CHICAGO (AP) — Darkhorse Jon Douglas, first-string Stanford football quarterback in 1957, and three Davis Cup players Thursday swept into the semi-finals of the national clay courts tennis tournament.

The unseeded Douglas, winner of the Califonia state title last April and the Caracas International last year, steadily overpowered United States Davis-Cupper Chuck McKinley 7-5, 6-4, 6-1. He faces top-seeded Barry MacKay today.

Bernard Bartzen, seeking his third straight clay courts title, faces Australia's No. 1 foreign seed, Rod Laver, is the other semi-final Saturday and the winners meet for the championship Sunday.

MacKay and second - ranked Bartzen are mainstays of the United States Davis Cup team. Laver currently heads the travelling Aussie Davis Cup squad.

Laver, 22, Australian singles and doubles champion, moved through the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Miquel Olvera of Ecuador. Bartzen trimmed sixth-seeded Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., 6-0, 6-1, 6-1. MacKay beat Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Favor Match Between Ingy, Sonny Liston

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Tony Maceroni, president of the National Boxing Association, said Thursday a majority of the NBA's executive committee favors a contenders' match between Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, and Sonny Liston of Philadelphia to determine a rightful challenger to heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson of New York.

The NBA will not try to prevent a third title match between Patterson and Johansson, Maceroni said. "But I feel that, for the good of boxing, Johansson first should meet Liston and prove his right to another bout with Patterson."

Liston is the NBA's top contender, Johansson No. 2.

Negotiations now are under way for a third Patterson-Johansson match. Maceroni said that should this bout be held in defiance of the NBA's stand, he will present all of the facts at the NBA's 41st annual convention at Mexico City in September and determine what action would be taken in the heavyweight division.

Port Credit led 11-1 at the end of the first 20 minutes and 14-3 in the second period. The defeat was Mercury's worst for almost a decade.

Florrie Tomchischen scored five Port Credit goals, George Kapasky four, Pete Russ three, and Larry Ruse two. Larry Ferguson and Terry Davis got two each for Peterborough.

SIGN CANADIANS

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City Athletics Thursday announced the signing of two Canadian players for 1961 assignment to Sanford of the Florida State Baseball League. They are first baseman Rene Ouzilleau of Levis Que., and outfielder Joseph Setlakwe, Thetford Mines, Que. Both are 19 and right-handed throwers and hitters.

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal Patterson, Montreal Alouettes end injured in a game against B.C. Lions in Vancouver Wednesday night, is expected to be lost for six weeks. A spokesman said Thursday physicians had not yet checked X-rays but it appears Patterson fractured his right cheekbone.

TRAINER DIES

FORT ERIE (CP)—Carl Lawson, 48, public stable trainer on Ontario and Florida race tracks, died Thursday. One of his most successful horses was Unity Courier which ran in his wife's name and was tied with Nearctic in 1958 with nine wins—most registered that year by a Canadian horse.

Things Are Never Dull in This League

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — American Association baseball records serve as proof of the horsehide theory of relativity:

The theory, basically, states that mercury and tempers have an inverse ratio—that is, when the temperature rises, tempers become shorter.

Association President Ed Doherty has seen many temper displays in his 40-odd years in baseball. But this summer in the association tops them all.

"It's the first time I ever saw a manager tear up an umpire's lineup card.

"It's the first time I ever heard a manager order a pitcher to throw at the plate umpire while the catcher stayed on his haunches.

"And it's the first time I ever saw a player wear a hangman's noose to indicate he thought the umpire choked up on a decision."

All three violators were fined along with various pugilists of the diamond who indicated their displeasure with the way things were going by popping somebody on the snout.

Sports Cars 'Howl' in Practice Runs

JARVIS, Ont. (CP)—A record 140 cars howled through practice at nearby Harewood Acres today in preparation for Canada's sports car relay racing championship Saturday.

The race, only one of its kind in North America, is a gruelling four - hour endurance test of drivers and cars over the tortuous 1.9-mile track. Officials of the sponsoring Grand Valley Car Club of Galt said 28 teams had been entered in the championship event.

The relay race, a popular form of motor sport in Britain, is run on a handicap system. It allows the smallest family sedan to compete on even terms with sports and pure racing machines.

Jim Fergusson of Toronto will be trying to repeat his last year's victory with a two-car entry of Austin 850s.

A three-car Austin-Healey team with experienced pilots Grant Clark of Georgetown, Milt Wright of Orillia and Brian Rowntree of Scarborough are the favorites. Dave Bowman of Oshawa in a Cad-Allard will be another strong contender.

OLYMPIC GREAT — Percy Williams became an overnight sensation in 1928 when he won gold medals in the 100 and 200-metre sprints at the Olympics. Now 52 and an insurance salesman in Vancouver, he has cut all his ties with the sport that made him famous. He is shown (left) in a Toronto track meet in 1930 when he equalled the world record of 10.3 seconds for the 100 metres. In 1953 (right) he turned the sod for the start of construction of Vancouver's 34,000-seat Empire Stadium. (CP Photo)

Fleet Percy Williams Was Canada's Brightest Moment

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — It has been 32 years since Percy Williams, an obscure Canadian runner, astounded the sport world with stunning upset victories in the 1928 Olympic Games 100- and 200-metre sprints.

It was Canada's brightest moment in the Olympics and her prime athletic contribution to the Roaring Twenties.

Today Williams is an insurance salesman, greying slightly, a bit paunchy. He enjoys golf, a game he took up after a friend gave him a set of clubs in the 1930s, and has a creditable five handicap. But he has little interest in the sport that made him famous.

DISLIKED RUNNING

"I never did like running," he said in an interview. "Anything I accomplished I did because of the determination of Bob Granger, my track coach."

A bachelor, he lives with his widowed mother in a comfortable home in the university district of Vancouver.

Explaining why he didn't make coaching a career after his retirement from active running following the 132 Olympics, he said:

"A runner needs two coaches, one to get him in shape and keep him there and another to teach him to run. I wasn't qualified to do either. When asked to help after the 1932 Olympics I tried, but officials and athletes didn't, or wouldn't, accept the theories I put forward."

INDOOR MEETS NEEDED

Though he hasn't taken an active interest in the sport in recent years, he has some views on what Canada needs.

"Canada has two problems in developing track men. There is a woeful lack of good coaches and our seasons are too short. I've always believed that Canada must turn to indoor meets to give runners a chance to run all year long and take part in more competitions. . . .

"After the 1932 Games I helped arrange an indoor meet at Victoria. It was a success for both athletes and fans. But no one followed up the start and another was never held. Since it appeared they didn't want my advice I pulled out of the picture."

He has remained aloof, refusing invitations to appear on radio and television shows and at sports dinners.

"I'm out of touch with the sport now and not qualified to speak on track today. I never attend sports dinners because few people want to see a lot of old men, in their day world beaters, but now just a memory.

"I never looked the part of an athlete. I'm 52 and look even less the part now. But I'm happy. I have many friends, live comfortably and who can ask for more?"

Williams began running in high school in 1924. It was a compulsory part of the school's program. That year he contracted rheumatic fever and doctors said he would never run again because his heart had been damaged.

When he entered the Olympics in 1928, the experts said he was too slight at five-foot-six and 125 pounds. He had had no international experience and little love for the sport.

But on July 30 he won the 100 metres and two days later the 200 metres. He came home to the cheers of thousands.

In 1929 he made a brilliant invasion of U.S. indoor track meets and won 14 of 15 starts. On Aug. 9, 1930, at Toronto he equalled the world record of 10.3 seconds for the 100 metres, his fastest ever.

Canada began to eye more Olympic crowns. But 14 days later in the British Empire Games 100-yard final at Hamilton, Williams caught a chill while waiting for the start, delayed nine minutes by a medal presentation.

Thirty-five yards from the tape he pulled a thigh muscle in his left leg. He staggered to the finish first in 9.9 but crumpled at the tape. The injury never mended and when he failed to qualify for the finals in his specialties at the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles he retired.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sports fans haven't had much to enthuse about since last February when Ottawa's Anne Heggtveit became the first Canadian to win an Olympic ski gold medal. Last week-end, the sports buffs rarely had it so good.

In a space of about 72 hours, three athletes from British Columbia—a teen-ager and two veterans—flashed form in three different countries that made the week-end one of the most memorable for Canadians in years.

Harry Jerome, 19-year-old sprint sensation from Vancouver, started things off when he sped to a world record for the 100 metres in the Canadian Olympic track and field trials at Saskatoon. The five-foot-10-inch Negro was clocked in 10 seconds flat, three-tenths second faster than the recognized world record.

Excitement over this feat was still generating when the old-timers entered the picture.

TOP MARKSMAN

Gunnar Westling, 52-year-old former sergeant from New Westminster, B.C., won the Queen's Prize, highest award of the Bisley rifle shoot in England. A field of 1,800 marksmen was entered in the Commonwealth classic.

A day later, on Sunday, 45-year-old Stan Leonard of Vancouver won the $30,000 Western open golf title at Detroit, beating the big-time pros. It was the first time a Canadian had won this event.

Just a week earlier, in the Canadian open at Toronto, Leonard had finished in a tie for 31st, won $130 and said he was "very disappointed" with his play and thought he would go home to polish up his game.

Instead, he went on to Detroit, started the final round of the 72-hole tournament six strokes behind leader Art Wall, Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., caught up to him with a four-under-par 68 and beat the American on the first hole of sudden-death play. Wall had been the Canadian Open winner.

Jerome's sensational sprint, which earned him a berth on Canada's Olympic team to Rome next month, wasn't entirely unexpected. Three times earlier this year he was clocked in 9.4 seconds in the 100-yard dash, just one-tenth second off the world record.

Now, he must be considered as a possible medal winner in the Aug. 25-Sept. 11 Olympics.

Westling became the eighth Canadian to win the Queen's Prize. The first was Pte. T. H. Heyhurst of Hamilton, Ont., who captured the honor in 1895.

Westling drilled shot after shot into the bullseye, at distances up to 1,000 feet, to chalk up a score of 280 of a possible 300.

Icing was added to the cake when two other Canadians finished high up at Bisley.

Capt. E. L. Warner of Lennoxville, Que., finished third in the Queen's Prize with a 276, and Mrs. Eileen Learoyd, a Victoria, B.C. newspaper woman who entered privately, was the highest woman scorer in the field. She finished 56th with 264.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Six live ingredients tossed in a salad bowl of wrestling—that's the grunt-and-groan fare for fandom tonight in Memorial Arena.

The creaking Madam of Market Street which has lost twenty years through the magic of a paint-brush face-lift, (even her steel-stayed corsets have been redecorated) should be the scene of uproarious action.

This outside-the-ring skullduggery of playing hangman, stepping on hands, sly bellypunches, hairpulls and toe tweaks will be eliminated.

They're going to heave four husky "rasslers" into the ring at one time in a potpourri of pachydermy.

And they're going to garnish this four-way fricassee with two gentlemen-in-white. Not the institution type, but those endowed with authority, two eyes each (vision allegedly unimpaired), and a Bill of Rights entitling them to clobber each, any or all of the contestants should he or they commit a breach of the Wrestling Constitution.

Which means, in short, that at any time, a six man revolution can break out which could result in the Aging Madam suffering girdar fractions, paint lacerations, frost-pipe dislocations or a ring rash.

Two Roman gladiators, the handsome Bravo Brothers, who are the darlings of the city's Italian community, will be tossed to the figurative "lions," impersonated by one Fred Atkins, the Australian hardrock and another, Ivan Kalmikoff, who like brother Karol, never has to pose the query "Howya fixed for blades?"

The identity of the two-man judge and jury is unknown at this time of writing. It could be Hizzoner "Bunny" Dunlop, a buxom buckaroo, who believes in "It's out front what counts," and Joe Gollab, a likeable young veteran of the count-downers, who is not averse to massaging a stubborn wrestler's eyeballs with a rock-like fist.

With these two Marines of the Mat in charge, the situation should be under control. But you never can tell. Last week, through some quirk of fate or feet, Brother Kalmikoff lost some blood. Now nobody blood-lets a Kalmikoff—and gets away with it. Besides the hospitals need it.

So the tough tovariche could be curious as to what flows in the veins of the Dino-Dominic duo. And with "Doc" Atkins hovering in the background this curiosity might lead to some interesting medical research.

So all-in-all it looks like a mighty interesting evening.

HODGE PODGE

Pat O'Meara and Micky Moreau are going around these days humming "I Like Maris in the Swingtime" . . . The publicity drums are thumping loudly down Montreal way over the upcoming Bob Cleroux-Pete Harris slugfest set for July 27. It's doubtful if the youthful Canadian has the experience to whittle down the Cut-n-Shooter . . . A special bench for Canada's governor-general has been erected in the Hull arena . . . Eastern pro hockey opens on October 7 . . . No further word, yet, on the Kitchener Dutchmen situation.

If Ole Casey wins the American League bunting, give the Bucs' manager, Joe Brown, an assist. Last winter the Bucs and A's had a seven-player deal all packaged. Brown shook hands on it with negotiations to be finalized the next morning. The "A's" agreed to give Roger Maris, Joe DeMaestri and Hal Brown for Dick Groat, Ronnie Kline, Bill Virdon and Danny Kravitz. The next day Brown suddenly decided he wouldn't go through with it. Well, if the deal had gone through the Yanks would never have got Maris and without the Roger where would they be? And without Groat where would the Pirates be? So all's well that ends well . . .

Harry Lumley is spending the summer driving his own harness trotters . . . Dick Burrowes has a fine picnic grounds and karting facilities at his new Shannonville Speedway Parkland, ten miles east of the city. Fine spot to take the family on a Sunday. There's karts for the kids and pop, too. The spot is becoming very popular . . . Scouts are eyeing John Weetenkamp, 13, of Baltimore. The youngster has a 4-0 pitching record, has whiffed 82 of the 90 batters to face him, has two no-hitters, two one-hitters and "horrors" a three-hitter . . . As far as that goes, Belleville has some pretty fair "no-hit" youngsters, too. Young Bobby Hallam, we understand, has three to his credit already.

Palmer Shoots a Neat 67

AKRON, Ohio (CP) — Arnold Palmer shot a three-under-par 67 Thursday for the first-round lead in the 42nd United States Professional Golfers Association championship over the tough Firestone course.

Veteran Sam Snead was one stroke behind. Tied for third place at 69 over the 7,165-yard, par-70 course were Paul Harney and Fred Haas.

Bill Ezinicki, former National Hockey League star playing out of North Reading, Mass., and Mike Parco of Fort Erie were far down the list in the 72-hole tournament. Ezinicki shot a 38-38—76, Parco a 39-42—81.

Ben Hogan, two-time PGA champion, had a 74 to tie with defending-champion Bob Rosburg, Gene Littler and a flock of others. Dow Finsterwald, Billy Casper, Mike Souchak and Cary Middlecoff were in a big group of 73 shooters.

TAKES PRECAUTION

MONTREAL (CP)—Promoter Eddie Quinn said there will be a medical examination today of the principals in next Wednesday's heavyweight fight—Roy Harris of Cut 'n' Shoot, Tex., and Bob Cleroux of Montreal. Quinn said he said he doesn't want to experience the situation that arose in Toronto earlier this summer when Nino Valdez of Cuba was found suffering an eye ailment on the day of the scheduled fight with George Chuvalo.

Dodgers Run Afoul Of Law; Braves Lose

Phils Blank Giants 3-0

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Hal Smith is the Babe Ruth of the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The Pittsburgh catcher hit two more over the left-field screen Thursday night in Pittsburgh's 4-1 victory over the Dodgers. The pair ran his season total to nine. Six of them have been hit at the Coliseum, four in the last two days.

As a result of Smith's home runs and a five-hit pitching job by Vern Law, who won his 12th, the Pirates again lead Milwaukee by 1½ games.

St. Louis gave the Bucs a helping hand in an afternoon game at Milwaukee where they broke the Braves' seven-game winning streak 9-4. A six-run rally in the sixth inning helped Larry Jackson win his 12th.

ONE-HITTER FOR ROBERTS

Philadelphia's Robin Roberts threw a one-hitter, blanking San Francisco 3-0. The only hit was an infield single by Felipe Alou with two out in the fifth.

Manager Gene Mauch disputed the official scorer's call on the single that robbed Roberts of his first no-hitter. Roberts took the ruling by scorer Jim McGee philosophically.

"You don't know, you don't know," said Roberts, shaking his head. "If they didn't give the boy a hit on that one they might have gotten another. The man made the decision and that was it."

The single came on a ball hit at third baseman Joe Morgan. Stepping back to field the bouncer, Morgan stabbed the ball but fell to the ground. It was scored a base hit.

CUBS BEAT REDS

Bob Anderson pitched the last place Chicago Cubs to an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati in the other National League game.

Pittsburgh scored two in the third at Los Angeles on Roberto Clemente's single with the bases loaded. Smith hit No. 8 in the fourth and No. 9 in the seventh, both of Johnny Podres.

Another big crowd of 51,193 saw the series finale. A total of 153,932 fans saw the three games, boosting the Dodgers' attendance to 1,433,729 for 48 home dates.

It was Law's third victory over the Dodgers and his third complete game against them in three starts. The righthander had gone the route six straight times at the Coliseum since he was knocked out May 1, 1958.

BUCS HAVE SEASON EDGE

By salvaging the final game, after losing the first two, Pittsburgh won its sixth in 15 starts against the Dodgers, the only team to hold a season edge over the leaders.

The Cardinals, blanked Wednesday night by Warren Spahn, were held to one hit in the first five innings but they rose up and chased Carl Willey in the big sixth. Bill White's two-run double with the bases loaded opened the gates. Jackson needed help from Lindy McDaniel when the Braves threatened in the seventh.

Only 9,561, the smallest turnout ever at Candlestick Park, paid to latch Roberts' neatly pitched game. It was his second shutout of the year and his 35th in a career running back to 1948. All three Phil runs off Jack Sanford were scored in the third.

Chicago scored six runs in the seventh inning, to knock out Bob Purkey while Anderson rolled along to a seven-hitter.

Would Pay $4,500,000 For Kansas A's

NEW YORK (AP)—An offer of $4,500,000 has been made for Kansas City Athletics of the American League, a spokesman for the syndicate making the bid said Thursday.

"We believe it will be accepted," said Jerry Deutch, vice-president of Realty Equities Company, one of the group. "You might say it has not been rejected."

Deutch said Morris Karp, president of the Realty Firm, and Saul Finkelstein, a sportsman and realtor from New Rochelle, N.Y., met with Milton Cooper, co-executor for the estate of the late Arnold Johnson, and submitted the offer.

The controlling interest in the club is owned by Johnson's widow, now Mrs. Carmen Hume. Johnson had purchased the franchise from the late Connie Mack in November, 1954, and moved the club from Philadelphia to Kansas City.

The first showdown series of the year in the American League opens tonight at Yankee Stadium where New York Yankees, nursing a one-game lead, take on the second place Chicago White Sox in the first of four games.

It will be White Sox speed and sound pitching against the Yanks home run power and wobbly pitching in the series that overshadows other doings in the league. They will play one game tonight, one Saturday afternoon and two Sunday. The Yanks hold a 7-4 season edge and have won the last seven from the Sox.

Most of the league spent Thursday on the road but Detroit managed to climb into a fifth-place tie with Washington by beating the Senators 9-5 in the only game played. Frank Lary, helped by Dave Sisler, managed to hold enough of an early 7-0 lead to offset Washington's late home run power.

Jim Lemon hit his 22nd and 23rd and Harmon Killebrew his eighth for the Senators. Rocky Colavito's 20th homer with two on in the fifth inning helped build up Lary's lead.

For the opener at Yankee Stadium, manager Casey Stengel has Bob Turley (6-1) ready to oppose 40-year-old Early Wynn (5-7).

White Sox starters have gone the route in four of their last nive games and the club has won 17 of its last 24.

Only three of the last 14 yankee starters have been there at the finish. The relief corps has not been able to hold the lead when the starter fades.

Roger Maris continues to stay ahead of Babe Ruth's record home run pace of 1927 when he hit 60 home runs. Maris has hit 31 putting him 11 games ahead of Ruth. Mickey Mantle is running ahead of last year with 23 to his credit and Moose Skowron has 16 homers and 64 runs batted in. Maris, of course, tops the league with 76 RBIs.

Al Smith (.321), Minnie Minoso (.320) and Roy Sievers (.301) have been the most consistent White Sox hitters. The Sox have hit only 60 home runs as compared to the Yanks' 118.

Millar Golf Tournament

2 Champions Victims Of 1st Round

TORONTO (CP)— First-round play in the $5,500 Millar Trophy golf tournament Thursday produced two shocks—the eliminations of defending champion Bob Cunningham Jr. and Ontario Open champion George Knudson.

Sixteen players were left in today's second round of the Canadian professional match play tournament, which has a first prize of $1,000.

Knudson, 23, assistant professional from Toronto Oakdale, was defeated 4 and 2 by Dick Borthwick, 49, Hamilton pro who won the tournament in 1939 when Knudson was only a year old.

Toronto's Cunningham, former Ottawa Roughriders football player, went down one up to upstart Alf Hill of Peterborough, who had to play an extra hole Wednesday to qualify for Thursday's match play. He was one of four to shoot 154 in the medal-play qualifying round.

Knudson, one of the favorites, was always behind the bespectacled Borthwick, who clinched the match with a birdie on the par-three 16th. The Torontonian was two down after nine and three down on the 12th.

Al Balding of Toronto, champion in 1952, 1954 and 1958, easily defeated Dave Govan, Toronto De Haviland, 6 and 5. Moe Norman, also from Toronto, whipped Al Burns, Toronto, 7 and 6.

In a close fight with Alvin Thompson, Toronto Northwood assistant, Bill Thompson of Vancouver won one up.

Bob Gray of Toronto, winner in 1940, 1942, 1943 and 1949, downed Irv Lightstone, Toronto, 2 and 1. Former Vancouver player Bill Mawhinney of Toronto, winner in 1957, ousted Wilson Paterson of Pickering 2 and 1. Murray Tucker, 1955 champion from Toronto, beat Ian Turner, Bowmanville, 2 and 1.

Frank Whibley of Kitchener Westmount knocked out Harry McIlree, Hamilton, 6 and 4. Pete Hildrop of Brantford beat Ken Girard of Orchard Beach 2 up and Bill Kozak of Niagara Falls ousted Bill Breen of Markham 4 and 3.

Today's two rounds will weed out four semi-finalists for Saturday.

Leafs Snatch Overtime Win; Royals Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester rookie Bob Sadowski shut out Toronto Maple Leafs on two hits over nine innings Thursday night only to lose a 10-inning four-hitter against the International League leaders.

Steve Demeter, who had one of the Leafs' two safeties over the first nine frames, slugged a three-run homer in the 10th for the 3-2 victory at Rochester. The Red Wings battled back with home runs by Ben Nateosky and Luke Easter, but couldn't bar the Leafs from their seventh straight success.

While Sadowski walked one and struck out seven but lost his second decision in three this season. Al Cicotte wrapped up a 10-5 record with a 10-hitter and relief help from Pat Scantlebury and Russ Heman.

Buffalo, 13 games back of the Leafs, moved a full game ahead of Richmond in their scrap for second place. The Bisons rapped Montreal 4-3 on Don Landrum's tie breaking home run and 3 1-3 innings of one-hit, shutout relief by Max Surkont. Richmond was walloped 13-4 at Jersey City.

PUT TWO OUT

Last place Miami dropped Columbus 1-0 on the six-hit pitching of Herb Moford and the defensive play of centre fielder Barry Shetrone who twice threw out runners at the plate.

Landrum's 13th home run, third in as many nights, gave Buffalo the edge with two out in the seventh inning and tagged Babe Birrer with his 11th loss. Surkont, now 3-1, struck out Mike Goliat with two on and two out when he relieved Al Neiger in the sixth inning and then allowed only a single by Joe Altobelli the rest of the way.

Felix Torres, who hit a homer and drove in five runs, and Larry Novak each had four hits as Jersey City swung for 19 safeties against loser Gary Blaylock (6-9) and Bob Wiesler. Bob Moorhead (4-6) was the winner with Orlando Pena's relief help after giving up home runs by Jess Gonder and Deron Johnson.

Bennie Daniels of Columbus pitched six perfect innings at Miami before Angelo Dagres beat out a bouncer down the first base line leading off the seventh. Dagres went to second on a passed ball, reached third on Shetrone's sacrifice and came in on Dick Brown's one-out single for Daniels' first defeat in five decisions. Moford (5-7) allowed six hits.

City Commercial Softball Results

Jones Motors, scoring a single run in the fifth and three in the seventh, blanked Joyce Real Estate 4-0 in a Commercial softball [illegible] last night.

The winners bagged their first marker on a walk, single and error while the final trio scored on a walk, three singles and another miscue.

Jerry Genereaux toed the rubber for Jones Motors and fired a neat four-hitter. He struck out four and passed three.

Frankie Donovan and Genereaux sparked the victors' attack with two singles each. Jacky Gilby, Harry Wardhaugh and Russ Vandervoort had the others.

Moore, Schoeppner Fight

'Alas, They Know Not Where'

NEW YORK (CP)—The light-heavyweight title fight between Archie Moore and Erich Schoeppner originally scheduled for Toronto July 18 will be held in late September or early October, Feature Sports Inc. announced Thursday.

Toronto has all but been ruled out as a site for the bout, a spokesman for the promotion firm said. It has not been decided where it will be held but this should be known "some time next week," he added.

Toronto businessman Dave Rush, co-promoter of the fight that never was, will take no part in the promotion of the rescheduled fight, Feature Sports announced. But he will be reimbursed for cash spent on the original promotion.

The firm said the fight may be coupled with a heavyweight bout. A "couple of deals" are being worked out.

The announcement was made after a meeting of the board of directors of Feature Sports.

President William Fugazy denied Feature Sports did not cooperate fully with Rush in the bout's promotion. He said he was "startled to read that the $30,000 expended on the scheduled promotion came from the pocket of Dave Rush" and added Feature Sports itself had spent $20,000 on the fight.

Of this sum, Moore was paid $13,500 and Schoeppner's representatives were given $3,500 for travelling and personal expenses.

In Toronto, Rush said he has severed all connections with Feature Sports. He said he has written FSI saying he is not interested in helping promote the fight anywhere but Toronto.

He also told the New York group he lost $20,000 on the abortive attempts to stage the bout here and wants reimbursement.

Schoeppner's manager, Walter Englert, said in New York he is considering legal action against FSI.

Birds Release Bobby Thomson

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore Orioles today recalled Wes Stock, a right - handed pitcher with Miami Marlins of the International League, and released Bobby Thomson, who thrilled the baseball world in 1951 with one hit.

Thomson hit a home run in the ninth inning, scoring two New York Giants ahead of him, in a game against the old Brooklyn Dodgers for the National League pennant. The Giants traded him to Milwaukee Braves in 1954 and the Braves traded him back in 1957. He later played for Chicago Cubs and Boston Red Sox. The Orioles signed him as a free agent July 2.

Robin Robbed Of No-Hitter Says Manager

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Manager Gene Mauch of Philadelphia Phillies said Thursday an infield single that robbed pitcher Robin Roberts of a no-hit game against San Francisco Giants should have been ruled an error.

"The rules say the first hit of a game has got to be legitimate and it was not," Mauch said. "That was as legitimate a no-hitter as has ever been pitched."

The play came with two men out in the fifth inning of Philadelphia's 3-0 National League victory. Felipe Alou hit a bouncer towards third base. Stepping back, third baseman Joe Morgan stabbed the ball but fell and it was ruled a single by official scorer James K. McGee.

Morgan said he should have been charged with an error but Roberts took the ruling philosophically.

"You don't know, you don't know", Roberts said. "If they didn't give the boy a hit on that one they might have gotten another. I'm very happy to pitch like I did and win."

In a career that started in 1946 with the Phils, Roberts has had three one - hitters but never a no-hit performance.

Giant Manager Tom Sheehan said: "I don't see how they could call it anything but a hit. I just wished we'd gotten more of them."

Patterson Gets Gem-Studded Gold Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—The world heavyweight boxing king was crowned Thursday night.

Floyd Patterson, who regained the championship by knocking out Ingemar Johansson of Sweden in five rounds here June 20, received a gem-studded gold crown valued at $35,000 at a banquet.

The glittering headgear was a gift from his manager, Cus D'Amato, and was presented in the presence of political and ring luminaries, including former boxing champions Jack Dempsey, Rocky Marciano, Jersey Joe Walcott and Barney Ross. Proceeds of the dinner went to Wiltwyck School for Boys where Patterson once was a pupil.

D'Amato said Patterson will fly to Europe Aug. 8 for exhibition fights in Sweden and a visit to London, Paris and Rome.

Adios Pacers Grab Money In Rich Race

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Adios Don, owned by Fiesta Farm of Garden City, N.Y., Thursday night captured the $121,243 Empire Pace for two-year-olds at Yonkers Raceway by two lengths.

Henry T. Adios was second, a length in front of Adios and in the field of 12.

Driver Robert Camper took Adios Don to the top past the three-eighths pole and never was headed. Adios Don paced the mile in 2:02 3-5, setting a track record for two-year-old colts. The former mark of 2:03 was set in 1953 by Adios Boy.

Adios Don, which earned his owner $66,684, returned $3.80, $2.80, and $2.50.

Second place was worth $24,248, third place $14,549.

They Won't Admit to Inventing This

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Dirty play sparked a riot in Moscow's giant Luzhniki Soccer Stadium where "hooligans" stopped a game by rushing on to the field and mobbing players, the government newspaper Izvestia reported Thursday.

It said the clash came during the second half of a key Second Division game Tuesday between Kiev Dynamos and the Moscow Army team, when the score was 1-1.

The fans got worked up about dirty play by the army team, Izvestia said. It criticized authorities and police for displaying an "indifferent attitude" toward drinking at the stadium.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — It was "long-shot day" at Fort Erie Thursday as Brenilyn won the third race at odds of better than 36-to-1.

Two 50-to-1 risks — Drifting Smoke and Electress — finished second in the third and fourth races, respectively.

Brenilyn, owned by Jerry C. Meyer of Kitchener and ridden by Jim Parnell, paid $75.10, $21.40 and $9.40 in the third. Second-place Drifting Smoke paid $46.60 to place and $15.20 to show.

Lovely Susy paid $20.60, $9.40 and $6.90 in the fourth and Electress gave her supporters a payoff of $35.20 to place and $14.30 to show.

TORONTO (CP)—Vera's Pick, owned by Mrs. Vera May Johnston of Peterborough and driven by Jimmy McIntyre won the second race at Old Woodbine and returned the best price of Thursday evening's pacing card.

The $51.10 payoff helped create a $275.50 daily double, coupled with Doctor Burien, owned by Ross Holmes of Milton and driven by Jimmy Holmes.

Cobourg Shades RCAF Flyers In Mound Duel

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Jim "Sleepy" Dawe outduelled Big Bob Butterfield in a pitching battle at the air station last night as Cobourg Merchants scored a tight 1-0 victory over the RCAF Flyers in B. and D. softball action.

The two right-handers battled almost pitch for pitch with the Merchants breaking through for the game's lone run in the sixth frame.

Claude Carr paved the way to the winning run when he led off with a bunt single. A low pitch got away from the RCAF catcher and Carr raced for second. Smith retrieved the ball and fired toward second base but no one was covering the bag and Carr continued to third. Jackie Elliott delivered a solid single to snap the scoreless tie.

Dawe was superb throughout, hurling five-hit ball. Only one man got past second base, Girard in the third when he singled, took second on Cobourg's lone error and reached third on Duff's base hit. Dawe struck out eight while walking one.

Butterfield was touched for seven hits in accepting a tough loss. He whiffed four and issued one free pass.

While Elliott and Carr had the game's two key blows, Gary Goyer and Dawe topped the winners at the plate with two singles apiece. Bill Webber had the other Cobourg single.

Gord "Duffy" Duff was the only RCAF player to solve Dawe's slants with any regularity. The shortstop rapped out three singles while John Hughes and Gil Girard had the other safeties.

The game, played in one hour and eight minutes, was the fastest of the season in league play.

HABS HELP BARONS

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens Thursday announced the loan of defenceman Maurice (Moe) Mantha to Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

The six-foot-two 190 - pounder goes to the Barons for one year under terms of the recent agreement between the National League champions and Cleveland.

Mantha, 26, a native of North Bay, played the last three seasons with Montreal Royals. In the 1959-60 Eastern Professional League campaign he scored 10 goals and had 29 assists in 57 games. The Royals won the EPHL playoff title.

National League Rejects

Garden Offer for New York Franchise

NEW YORK (AP)—The Continental League is pushing ahead, determined to gain recognition as a third major baseball league, and the National League has turned down a bid by Madison Square Garden for a New York franchise.

These two developments Thursday could have far-reaching influence in the fast-changing field of baseball expansion.

The Continental announced it had agreed on a formula for paying indemnities to invaded minor league cities, its most troublesome immediate problem.

Branch Rickey, Continental League president, has agreed to meet with the expansion committees of the American and National leagues Aug. 2 at Chicago. Rickey thinks favorable action would permit admission of his league into organized baseball within 30 days.

Rickey announced a formula to pay five invaded American Association clubs on the basis of 40 cents for each admission in the year in which major league status is granted. He said Ed Doherty, American Association president, had agreed to consider the plan. The five American Association franchises involved are Dallas - Ft. Worth, Denver, Houston, St. Paul and Minneapolis. The Continental would operate Minneapolis - St. Paul as one franchise.

TORONTO, BUFFALO

A similar proposal has been made to the International League from which the Continental expects to take Buffalo and Toronto. The same deal probably will be offered the Southern Association for Atlanta. The eighth member of the Continental is New York, ruled an "open city" by commissioner Ford Frick.

Rickey said his league had drafted a formal application that will show full compliance with all the rules (10 points) set down by organized baseball.

The Garden offer for a National League franchise came as a surprise.

Admiral John F. Bergen, chairman of the Graham-Paige Corp. which owns the Garden, wired president Warren Giles of the National League that formal application will be made for a franchise. He said "Preliminary investigation indicates that we can conclude satisfactory arrangements for leasing of playing facilities at Yankee Stadium or the proposed new City Stadium."

The Continental expects to operate in the proposed new $15,000,000 City Stadium in suburban Queens for which the New York City board of estimate has approved an expenditure of $450,000 for final plans.

Giles quickly threw cold water on the Garden's plans. "I told him (Adm. Bergen) I appreciate their interest in the National League," said Giles. "But we are not in a position to discuss with anyone at this time any application for a franchise in the National League."

SUMMER SALES

It is generally considered that real estate sales are fewer during the warm weather when everyone is on vacation and many local residents are motoring to other centres, staying at their summer homes, etc.

This year, probably more than any other year, we did not expect to enjoy a large volume of sales during this time of year since the new home construction is down at least 60% due directly to the shortage for N.H.A. mortgage financing. With all the newspaper coverage of our recent municipal financing chaos, judicial inquiries, increased taxes and special levies, we were sorry to hear even our own Belleville residents "talking down" our fair city. This adverse publicity has not hampered the sale of property in the city one bit. We find sound thinking people more eager to own their own home this year than ever before!

Belleville has so much to offer to the homeowner, taxes are not higher than cities of equal size in this growing area.

Yes, sales are at an all time high! Belleville is one of the finest places in the country to live, and bring up a family with the finest education facilities to be found anywhere.

For the largest selection of homes, new or resales, drop in and talk to the representatives at the Quinte Districts leading realtor.

COOLER WEATHER — Generally below-normal temperatures are predicted in Canada east of Saskatchewan and along the west coast from mid-July to mid-August, according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau.

Maps detail predicted temperatures and precipitation across the country for the period. Tables give normal readings for various centres.

Stew Granger's Dream Ranch In Arizona Is up for Sale

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stewart Granger is putting a dream up for sale.

In a few weeks, when he finishes Go North with John Wayne, he's selling his 10,000-acre ranch in Nogales, Ariz. — the ranch that Granger and Jean Simmons, a couple of soon-to-be-divorced Britons, had developed into an American dream.

"Now that Jean and Tracy (their three-year-old daughter) are no longer there," says Granger sadly, "I couldn't live in the place. Almost everything is named after the baby. It would be too depressing."

Granger will sell the big spread and go to Europe for a series of pictures.

"I guess I'll make my residence in Switzerland now," he says, . . . "But I'll miss my home in Arizona."

HUGE ESTATE

Home in Arizona is 10,000 acres of rolling hills, five miles of the acreage on the Mexican border, a six-bedroom house, two-bedroom guest house, two-bedroom servants' quarters, television in every room, a 10-acre lake feeding a five-acre lake stocked with trout.

"I've been 25 years in the movie business," says Granger, "but the greatest thrill of my life was as a Britisher running an American ranch, winning blue ribbons for my French cattle."

Granger's ranch has 500 head of Charolais beef cattle.

"Jean and I . . . in about three years . . .had both planned to settle down in Arizona for good —and never make another picture. I guess now I'd die an actor instead of a cattleman."

Two Men Jailed For Fracas on Trent River

CAMPBELLFORD — Convictions on charges of assault and improper operation of a motor boat cost two district men a month in the county jail and a fine of $25. and costs when they appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court here on Thursday.

William Smoke, 19 of Roseneath and George Gray, 20 of R. R. 2 Cobourg were charged on July 17 following an episode at Newell's beach, just west of Hastings on the Trent River.

Complainant in the case was Robert L. Bradley of 8 Sedgwick Cres., Toronto, who was fishing from his boat, a sea-flea near the beach. He said Smoke and Gray came alongside his boat in an aluminum boat powered by an outboard motor. They wanted Bradley to race. He said both appeared to have been drinking and he explained that he did not want to race, that he just wanted to fish.

At this point, the two men in the aluminum boat drew away and began calling him obscene names. Suddenly the other boat came alongside and Smoke jumped into the seaflea and began to fight with Bradley, tearing Bradley's shirt and opening cuts on his face. Bradley suffered a blow that loosened several teeth.

TRIED TO UPSET BOAT

While Smoke continued to beat up Bradley, Gray is alleged to have circled the sea-flea, bumping into it at intervals, apparently in attempt to upset the smaller vessel.

Finally, two cottage owners, who were in a boat fishing in the area came to Bradley's rescue and the two attackers left. The cottager owners were Nelson Spicer and Walt Brammer, both of Toronto. Both men testified for the crown at the trial here on Thursday.

Smoke and Gray were arrested later by OPP Constable Ross Bovay of the Campbellford detachment, who charged them with assault causing actual bodily harm, and improper operation of a motor boat under the Canada Small Vessels Regulations. Magistrate Baxter, in sentencing the two to a month in jail on the assault charge, and fine of $25. each on the charge of dangerous operation of a motor boat, said he would seek an order to prohibit both men from operating a boat for a period of one year.

The two men are now lodged in Cobourg county jail.

Trim, Beautiful Schooner Co-operative Leading Lady

By GARDNER McKAY

No one could ask for a more co-operative leading lady than we have in Adventures in Paradise.

She's beautiful, trim, durable and easy to handle. She is a bit broad in the beam, but what can you expect of an 85 - foot schooner?

I'm speaking, of course, of the Tiki, whose white sails and nice lines brighten ABC - TV every Monday night.

Some critics have suggested, rather scathingly, that I'm more at home behind the wheel of the Tiki than in front of a camera. But this is no time to debate that issue. It's summer—the warm, relaxing time when people gaze vacantly out of their office windows, dreaming of their vacations.

ON BLUE WATERS

For me there's no more fulfilling escape than to get out of sight of land on the blue waters with a clean wind billowing the sails. The sea is always a challenge, and you're too busy enjoying the fierce combat it offers to mull over the problems you left astern.

I've always loved the sea and ships. Some of it is heritage, for my great - great - grandfather, Donald McKay of Boston, built such famous 19th century Clipper ships as the Flying Cloud and Sovereign of the Seas. But most of it is environment.

As a boy I learned to sail on the Long Island Sound and will never forget the time I managed a trip alone in an open boat from Connecticut to Maine.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, July 23

General tendencies: This can be one of your most confusing days if you allow it to be. Fortunately, however, it is a Saturday and one of those days when considerable rest and relaxation is necessary. Use much care on the highway or in motion and steer clear of a decided temptation to go off the deep end where romance or some expenditure is concerned.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — While you are thinking solely of enjoying yourself today, be sure you listen to the good advice of higher - ups. Do those things which are truly necessary and important. Then you can have fun without spending very much. Be wise.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Although you are not entirely satisfied with the way things are going at home, it is no time to become angry and lose your temper. Go out with some good adviser and talk things over secretly. Find the best solution to problems.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Although you may have many duties before you, be sure you go out to do your shopping and make important calls. However, be very wise with your money. Also, particular care must be taken while out driving or walking.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Surroundings require a good deal of money and time to have them as you want them, so for the time being simply see that all is spic and span. Tonight be wise and don't spend too much money to have a good time.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure you go out early to do any shopping or make the calls that are important today. You also have a good opportunity to get your appearance at its best, to take any health treatments you need and to be with people who are fun.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Take care you do not get into almost a mental state over all the duties that await you and the problems you may have. There is nothing that right action will not solve ideally. Get busy, be determined and win out.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— Don't be persuaded by cold and calculating people today, but listen to the good and kind advice of loyal and helpful friends. P. M. go out, but be sure it costs you very little.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be sure you act wisely this morning, or you can lose out where prestige and popularity is concerned. Get your appearance improved through proper dress and treatments, then be happy with the ones you like.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Morning just fine for looking into new avenues of expression or new methods to advance in present setup. Get out in the afternoon for sports or visits. Sit down in P.M. and make your plans for coming week's activities.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — While you are able to converse with that individual impossible to reach during busy week, be sure you don't have a chip on your shoulder. A cooperative spirit will accomplish far more for you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You are apt to act impulsive in A. M. and thereby lose prestige. This could only lead to loss of credit, too. Act wisely. P. M. fine for keeping that appointment with one who truly admires and respects you.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It would certainly be wise to get abode in better condition now, but don't neglect to first read your paper or other periodicals that will give you the information you need at this time. P. M. go out for recreation. Meet your friends.

If your child is born today ... there is a very interesting future ahead for your progeny. There is a tremendous desire and ability to do great things, plus the knowledge that one must be secretive about one's plans in order to accomplish what one has started to do. So be sure to give the finest education and spiritual training you can so that the full promise in this chart may come to fruition. Take pains to teach to be very careful with minute details.
